MAY HALT VIOLENCE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Slogans painted on Nicosia walls Monday led to speculation the EOKA terrorist organization may stop violence in order bring about the return of Archbishop Makarios. Suspension of violence is the condition laid down by Governor Sir Hugh Foot for the return of the Greek Orthodox churchman and leader of the movement to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Mr. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"Well, don't slow up! RUN TO FIRST!"

RCAF PILOT

He said he found the Russian plane "a little bit heavier on the controls" than the Comet. It also appeared to be a little unstable on landing approaches, which apparently accounted for its higher landing speed than the Comet's —about 160-170 miles an hour as compared to 110-120.

The heavier controls he attributed to less hydraulic assistance equipment on the TU-104 than on the Comet. He said the greater ease of flying was a main reason he preferred the Comet.

HAS FOUR ENGINES

But another reason was that the Comet, although smaller and slower, has four jet engines to the TU-104's two.

"If you lose one, you've lost half your power," he said.

The TU-104 engines have an estimated power of 18,000 to 20,000 pounds thrust each, he said, compared to about 10,000 pounds thrust in each of the Comet engines. In other words, the Comet engine has about the same power at six four Comet engines.

But the Russian jetliner uses more fuel than the Comet—about 1,700 to 1,800 gallons an hour compared to about 1,000—and has a shorter range. The TU-104 can fly non-stop a maximum of 1,900 to 2,000 miles; the Comet 2,600 to 2,800.

The TU-104, however, carries 70 passengers to 36 for the Comet and cruises at about 520 miles an hour compared to about 460 for the Comet. The Russian plane is considered ideal as a short-range aircraft.

CANADA'S

The West German Embassy had, but the four guards there had little effect on the crowd of 1,500 which hurled sticks, stones and ink at the building for two hours. Police reinforcements finally dispersed the demonstrators after they broke all windows in the building.

West German Ambassador Hans Kroll said he believed the "strongest possible protest" to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister A. V. Zakharov. He asked an apology, damages and a guarantee that the attack would not be repeated.

The West German government had expressed its regret "as promptly as the attack on the Soviet Embassy in Bonn and promised to repair the damage.

SOVIET REPORT BRIEF

Soviet morning newspapers gave relatively short accounts of the incident Monday, terming it a "peaceful" visit by demonstrators demanding an explanation from the German ambassador of the attack on the embassy in Bonn. The account said the demonstrators departed after leaving placards with slogans and made no mention of the damage to the embassy.

The continuing wave of recriminations in the wake of the Bonn outrage was prompted by a charge by Pravda that the United States and Britain were helping up as "hysterical bullabaloo" to renew the cold war and sabotage a summit conference.

Nagy, installed as premier by the Hungarian rebels, had taken refuge in Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest after Soviet troops moved in to crush the revolt. The Russians arrested him when he left the embassy on a safe-conduct given by his successor, Janos Kadar.

In Duesseldorf, Germany Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he would like to see more of the West German industrialists now in Russia to "return at once."

The chancellor said the Moscow demonstration on Monday was obviously the answer to a demonstration by Hungarian students in front of the Soviet Embassy in Bonn last Friday.

"There is your Moscow for you," Adenauer said, "Moscow which is so keen on good relations."

Claim New Defence Budget Will Not Go As Far As the One Announced Last Year

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — "Priority" now is the key word in the defence department. It likely will be for many years to come.

The one word sums up this problem.

Defence expenditures are fixed by a government which also has to look after a host of high-cost civilian ventures, such as public works, hospital insurance and veteran's pensions . . .

Obviously, the armed forces can't obtain all the money they would like for all the tasks they want to do. The rub is that all defence costs — for equipment, personnel and maintenance—are going up all the time.

Thus a defence budget of $1,-67,000,000 this year won't go as far as one of the same size a few years ago or even last year.

Of course, there are many officials in Ottawa who argue—privately — that Canada can and should spend more for defence even though this country's effort is limited by a small population. Proportionately, Canada is spending much less for defence than the United States or Britain.

But both the former Liberal government and the present Progressive Conservative administration decided that barring a serious weakening of the world situation, defence expenditures should be limited to some $1,687,600,000 a year. This amount now is some 33 per cent of all federal spending.

Consequently, the armed forces are operating under a financial ceiling as well as a manpower ceiling of 120,000 personnel.

The defence department constantly must ask itself: With the money we have, what shall we do first? What defence project must rate top priority?

Daily, the answers to these questions are becoming more difficult. They depend in large measure on intelligence assessments of what Russia is up to.

The decisions are harder because miscalculation can be costly. Not only can millions be spent wastefully on some project, but it might turn out that Canada could be left artificially defenceless in some field if low priority had been ascribed to some project which actually merited top priority.

This, then is the dilemma of the defence department. It is not so much a question of how much can be done but what should be done now and what can be left to later years.

Top priority has been given to North American air defence. In this year's defence appropriations, the trend of defence priorities in the next few years becomes fairly obvious.

Top priority has been given to North American air defence. In this year's defence appropriations, for instance, is an amount of $175,000,000 for further development of the Arrow, a supersonic jet interceptor.

Air defence is not suddenly a new top priority. But it is significant that an even larger proportion of the defence budget is being devoted to it than ever before.

The navy and army appropriations were cut sharply at the expense of a higher allotment for the RCAF. This is not because the government "favors" the air force as such but that it simply sees air defence as the foremost defence problem.

This situation is likely to last for another five to 10 years.

Airmen say the air defence system must be made almost entirely automatic and there will be a requirement for anti - aircraft missiles as well as interceptors.

Canadian defence scientists have been working for nearly three years on research connected with finding a defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile. This research probably will require another six or seven years at least.

But more and more officials say they are becoming convinced that the greatest threat to North America may lie not in the air but in the sea.

This conviction is already apparent to some extent in defence appropriations this year. Expenditures are increasing on means to hunt and destroy missile-launching submarines.

It is therefore possible that top priority may eventually swing from air defence to defence against submarines.

Where this leaves the army is difficult to judge at this time.

It would appear the army has no major role to play in the defence of North America, except perhaps in the anti-aircraft missile field.

Army projects now have low defence priority, comparatively speaking, and it appears now that this situation will continue for sometime.

It is known that the navy and RCAF would like to siphon off some of the army's manpower for what they say are their increasing commitments. The army may have a harder and harder time to resist this pressure.

Neighbors Kept Awake by Music

GODERICH (CP) — Recorded music played during the night may boost the egg production of 30,000 chickens housed in an old factory, but it's also keeping nearby residents awake.

A delegation of residents told council Saturday the chickens would soon cause Goderich, 42 miles northwest of Stratford, to be called the smelliest instead of the prettiest of towns. Council asked the medical officer of health for Huron County to investigate.

New York River Sea Of Flame After Collision

Three Persons Missing, Manhattan Bridge Afire

NEW YORK (AP) — A Swedish freighter rammed an oil tanker in post-midnight darkness of the East River today. The resulting explosion turned the river into an inferno and sent flames leaping so high they set the Manhattan Bridge afire. The tanker sank.

Three persons were reported missing—two from the tanker, one from the freighter. Fifteen seven others were taken to hospitals. Eleven escaped without serious injury.

Many plunged into the water immediately after the blast and through burning oil slicks to rescue boats.

An urgent warning against smoking in the area was issued. The U.S. Coast Guard closed off the river to shipping from Hell Gate Station to the Brooklyn Bridge to guard against an explosion.

RUSH IN FOAM

Chemical foam was rushed to the area to fight a possible new conflagration. The area was drifting volatile gasoline. Much of it was trapped in waters of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Many of those rescued were saved from death that darkened the manoeuvred alongside the flaming wreckage, so that crewmen could leap aboard.

Individual acts of heroism accompanied the rescues.

The inferno occurred about 12:30 a.m. (EDT) midstream in Manhattan Bridge, more than 120 feet above, connects Manhattan and Brooklyn. Subway, LR carries subway lines as well as an auto roadway.

"I heard a muffled explosion," said James Watson, 41, who works nearby.

SAW MASS OF FIRE

"I saw a mass of flames that looked about half a mile high and 100 yards wide. . . .

"I could hear men in the water, being rescued or drowning, pleading for help. The flames were also blown north with the wind and tide and appeared to stretch about half a mile along the river," he said.

. . . I could see the superstructure of the freighter on fire and the side of the freighter blistered. The men aboard were yelling for help."

CAUSES PORT

The other ship, the Nebraska, was burned and battered but able to make port under its own power. A 5,200-tonner, she is owned by the Swedish Transatlantic Line.

Soon Captured

PETROLIA (CP) — An unmasked bandit held up two employees of the Imperial Oil Company at gunpoint Tuesday night and escaped with $800 in a canvas bag.

Fifteen minutes later, after a 90-minute-hour chase on a gravel road, police arrested Norman Hooper, 19, no fixed address, in Brooke Township 12 miles east of here. He was to appear in court today on an armed robbery charge.

Police said he had been released Monday from Guelph reformatory. The car he was driving was reported stolen from an Aurora car lot Monday night.

LABOR LEADERS, MINISTERS CLASH OVER JOBLESS

Large Delegation Waits on Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor leaders and cabinet ministers disagreed on effectiveness of government action against unemployment as a delegation of unemployed called on the government Tuesday.

The 100-Quebec delegation, including top officers of the 1,600,000-member Canadian Labor Congress and the 75,000-member United Automobile Workers, met with a group of ministers in the railway committee room of the parliament buildings.

Bill Dodge, CLC executive vice president, said unemployment is "getting out with "in the proper sense of urgency." He added: "It is time that a man in Algeria or Lebanon will not be necessary for Canadian prosperity."

Trade Minister Churchill replied: "We're not waiting for a man to come from Lebanon in this country."

George Burt, Canadian chief of the auto workers said during the winter federal election campaign all parties favored unemployment "the most important problem facing Canada. The problem is yours as a government," he added.

MINISTER'S ANSWER

Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough, acting for absent Labor Minister Starr, answered: "Your aim of full employment is the policy that of the government. We have taken action and we have never stopped considering it." She said bringing the unemployed personally to the attention of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Bill Mahoney, president of the UAW local at Ford's Windsor plant, said Labor Minister Fleming has been given jobs away "by allowing auto parts to be brought in through the duties."

Revenue Minister Nowlan replied: "We haven't changed the situation that at least 60 per cent of the content of Canadian automobiles must be Canadian manufacture. We are putting pressure on constantly in every way possible to increase this content."

Stanley Knowles, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said that prosperity CCF leader, suggested Mrs. Fairclough read to the cabinet one of the speeches by Government men while in opposition. When Mrs. Fairclough said it was serious as now, she had called on the government the day for urgent action, he said.

Mrs. Fairclough, Canada's first woman cabinet minister, snapped back: "I haven't forgotten my speeches. I don't need any reminder."

The meeting followed release of government figures indicating unemployment dropped between April and May and that employment went up in the same time. The figures also showed that unemployment was 4.7 per cent, a little lower.

TOLEDO, Ohio (CP)—Cyril the runaway sea lion was spotted Tuesday night in Lake Portage River, 35 miles east of here, but escaped before a rope - tossing sheriff reached the scene.

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — The boys got bored just playing with toys so they hit upon something bigger.

George Jones, 7, ran to a window and with the cry "I'm supersman," leaped two stories, landing in moist soil, without a bruise or scratch.

"Now here I come," yelled Nathaniel Manigo, 8. He too made the 18-foot jump unharmed.

Five-year-old Russell Toombs put on one of George's shirts around his neck, and imitating the others, flapped his arms, growled pital.

triumphantly and dropped into space. His ankle twisted as he landed.

George's sister, Jennifer, 12, broke the news to their mother, Mrs. Mary Jones, taking a new Mrs. Jones hustled over to the neighboring Toombs house. Mrs. Toombs was calling the police.

A police rescue car, on the way to find out what happened, collided with a private automobile, and one of the policemen was slightly hurt.

Gay, Sparkling Comedy Greets Stratford Crowd

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP) — With a gay, sparkling production Much Ado About Nothing, Stratford Tuesday night unveiled a sure-fire winner for its sixth annual Shakespearean Festival.

A near-capacity theatre was held spell — bound by a cast moulded by director Michael Langham, who for three tender, effervescent hours unfolded the trap wherein Beatrice and Benedick and Claudio his Hero.

The standing ovation accorded the superbly - presented Shakespearean romantic comedy was in marked contrast to the formal applause aroused by opening night's presentation of Henry IV, Part One.

Critics, divided in appreciation of Stratford's Henry, closed unanimously in approval of its Much Ado.

There was virtually no reservation in their unstinted praise of the production's acting, directing, music and direction. Writers who regretfully panned Michael Langham's Henry production Monday rejoiced that in Much Ado he had "recaptured" much of its pre-eminence in Shakespearean comedy.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS, TOO

The three - act third play, The Winter's Tale, reaches the celebrated open stage Thursday, July 31. Meanwhile there is a wealth of other fare—musical, cinematographic and literary—to attract the festival visitor.

Coroner's Jury Asks to See Water Tests of RCMP Boat

PEFFERLAW, Ont. (CP) — A five-man jury is expected to begin deliberations today in an inquest into the death of an RCMP corporal who was drowned with four other officers when a 14-foot boat capsized during a night patrol on Lake Simcoe.

A series of water-tests of the death boat were scheduled today at the request of the jury, which has heard two days of testimony from 40 witnesses.

The inquest is being held specifically into the death of Cpl. Herbert Smart, 34, of Toronto, whose body was found Sunday, June 8, the day after the tragic night spent on the over-whipped lake.

Missing are the bodies of RCMP Const. Glen Farough, 31, of Brandon, Man., skipper of the boat, Const. Morris Melnychuk, 21, of Foam Lake, Sask., Const. George Hayes, 24, of Cornwall, Sask., and Const. David Terry, 21, of Vancouver.

At the inquest Tuesday, newspaper headlines referring to the boating classifications of Const. Farough were criticized.

Headlines from the Toronto Globe and Mail and Toronto Star were cited by Toronto lawyer Joseph Sedgwick, holding a watching brief for Justice Minister Fulton.

He said a Globe heading, Reserve Novice at Helm, assigned the cause of the tragedy through its strong inferences before the inquest was finished. Two Star headlines Sailor said: Boat Training — Mounte and Green Skipper in RCMP Boat Superior Says.

The Canadian Press also used the word novice in their coverage of the inquest proceedings.

Mr. Sedgwick said all that could be said was that regardless it was the first time the man at the wheel had been out on a night patrol.

Dr. Harold Waldon of Orillia, detachment testified Monday that Const. Farough had never been out on such a night operation before.

On Tuesday, after Mr. Sedgwick's statements, Const. J. P. R. Lefevre, a qualified diesel engineer, said Const. Farough had been on one previous night patrol. He had been with him and had discussed navigation lights.

MOSCOW (AP) — A crowd of more than 1,000 Russians, some carrying shaking their fists and shouting the Russian equivalent of "dirty s.o.b." demonstrated today at the United States Embassy.

About 150 Soviet policemen kept the noisy crowd under control and no rocks or ink bottles were thrown.

The crowd included some youths in Red Army uniforms. The Russians converged on the building almost simultaneously from three directions in what obviously was a well-planned demonstration.

The embassy had prepared for a call at 1 p.m. against demonstrations by Hungarian refugees last weekend in the United Nations offices in New York. Embassy windows were boarded, the U.S. flag was taken down and Russian employees had been given the day off.

Several men standing in two big trucks led the first group of demonstrators that reached the embassy in downtown Moscow. They shouted, screamed and jeered.

Placards carried by the shouting demonstrators read "down with provocateurs" and "Yanks go, home" in English and Russian.

About 25 Soviet policemen held the crowd back when it first surged across the sidewalk toward the embassy entrance building. The number of police was quickly increased to 150.

Similar reports of attacks on Soviet embassies in Copenhagen and Bonn immediately preceded stone-throwing assaults on the Danish and West German embassies in Moscow.

Greece Refuses To Work With Turks in NATO

ATHENS (AP) — Greece has called for a reorganization of NATO's southeastern Europe defence command to bring it more into line with Turkey over the British island of Cyprus.

Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff told parliament debating the Cyprus agreement in London Turkish violence on the island that Greece will not co-operate with Turkey any more within the framework of NATO.

This could pull the cornerstone out of NATO's Mediterranean defences.

Some observers read Averoff's statement as meaning that NATO Greece will not co-operate with Turkish commanders—one incorporating Greece; the other, Turkey.

Greece has pulled about 250 officers out of the supposedly joint quarters at Izmir in Turkey. When the move was made its NATO chief warned that it was done for a "serious" reason, but did not elaborate.

NATO's permanent council in Paris has been working to try to resolve the dispute between Greeks and Turks on Cyprus.

The 400,000 Greeks want independence as a prelude to union with Greece. The 90,000 Turks insist the island be partitioned in order to preserve their communities.

RECORD TOTAL

LONDON (Reuters) — British exported a record 47,832 cars last month, the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders reported Tuesday. The value of the cars was set at £18,019,000 ($50,453,000)—also a record.

HOUSE CONSIDERS AMENDMENT TO DELINQUENTS ACT

Bill Would Keep File Records Secret

OTTAWA (CP) — What should be done to save an erring youngster from being haunted by a court record the rest of his life?

The Commons considered this problem Tuesday without coming to any final conclusions. But there was general agreement that a person should not be branded for life because of some wrong act committed in youth.

Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound-Muskoka), a former Ontario juvenile and family court judge, said many of the incidents that he heard dealt with first court "are things that all of us have done but we have not all been caught."

He spoke in debate on a bill amending the Juvenile Delinquents Act which would amend provisions of the act to maintain "absolute secrecy" for the files, reports and records of juvenile trials. It would have such record destroyed five years after the trial.

The bill won support from other Progressive Conservative members, but was not completed before the hour set aside for private members' business expired. A vote, it may come up for discussion again later this session.

HAS NO RIGHT

Mr. Dorion, a Quebec senior Crown prosecutor, said "Society has no right to give a child a criminal record. Publicity and still less to make him carry a police record which affects him like a stone around his neck."

Mr. Dorion said he has seen "how unscrupulous" some organizations, such as finance investigators, could be in using juvenile delinquency records.

"Even in the army it does happen that an old record of a former juvenile delinquent is a handicap to his promotion in spite of the fact that his present conduct and qualifications are excellent."

Mr. Aiken said it is possible in some cases for a person to carry through life a juvenile court record for "nothing more serious than riding a bicycle on a sidewalk."

Mr. Dorion said his bill would deny access to existing records only to persons engaged in the administration of justice or rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents.

Five years after a juvenile's trial, the records would be destroyed to give the person "the right to a fresh beginning and existence in society, rather than being considered some sort of untouchable."

"IMPROPERLY USED"

"Quite often," said Mr. Aiken, "I have found that these juvenile court records are being improperly used by police magistrates and other court officials outside the administration of justice."

In the budget debate, Mr. D. McMillan (Wellland) said the budget's fruits were green and bitter. He said the budget proposes it was a billion-dollar deficit. Finance Minister Fleming broadcast at $48,000,000 deficit.

Mr. McMillan said he has no confidence in the Diefenbaker budget unemployed back to work. But it proposes to do Nixzen area situation was worsening.

ESCAPES INJURY

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP)—American Ambassador Robert McClintock escaped injury Tuesday when a bomb exploded in Beirut's Khoury Street 30 feet from his embassy limousine. Mr. McClintock nor the driver was injured. An embassy official said the bomb exploded in a latrine just as the ambassador's car was passing. He described it as "sheer coincidence, and no attempt on the ambassador's life."

Shelled By Syria, Lebanese Ask UN To Send Troops

Rebel Chieftain Bars UN Border Observers

BEIRUT (AP) — Heavy firing broke out in Lebanon late today shortly after the government announced it had asked for an armed United Nations emergency force to seal off the frontier.

President Camille Chamoun said he expected a rebel push against his government at any time, but it was clear by today whether this was it.

The heaviest firing was heard in Chandak Chamlia, on the outskirts of the Basta section of Beirut where rebel forces under Lebanese premier Saeb Salam are entrenched inside barricades.

GENUINE AX WOUNDS

Shooting broke out in the post office area at about the same time and firing erupted and bombs were exploded in Ashrafiah, the Christian quarter in the eastern part of the capital.

The fighting broke a long day of unusual calm in Beirut.

Lebanese President Camille Chamoun said his forces were shelled by Syrian forces in the mountains near the Syrian border and said the activities of the United Arab Republic forces of Egypt and Syria had made the rebellion against his own regime a threat affecting the peace of the entire Middle East and his government would not have expected to hear the bombs alone.

Lebanese Premier Sami Solh who called for the UN emergency force said UN observers alone cannot solve the problem of infiltration from the UAR.

The observers, numbering less than 100 were assigned by the UN Security Council to look into Lebanese charges of UAR aid for rebels. They have been trying since May 10 to overthrow Chamoun's pro-Western government. Reliable sports estimate it would take 5,000 men to seal the 190-mile mountainous frontier with Syria.

REBELS HAMPER OBSERVERS

Rebel opposition already is hampering the observers' efforts to check border traffic. One of the most powerful rebel leaders in the mountains has barred the observers from territory he controls.

"Our rebellion is a purely internal affair in which the United Nations has no business," Kamal Jumblatt said Tuesday.

The pro-rebel leader of the Druze sect of mountaineers was interviewed at his village stronghold 15 miles southeast of Beirut. He is one of 17 leaders charged by the government with inciting terrorism and rebellion. Other rebel chiefs also have defied the UN group.

CHAMOUN, DAG CONFER

Chamoun conferred Tuesday for 40 minutes with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold who was to fly back to New York today. He arrived in the Middle East last Thursday for talks with officials of Lebanon, the United Arab Republic and the UN observation group sent to Lebanon two weeks ago by the Security Council to look for intervention from the neighboring Syrian province of the UAR.

Chamoun charged that NAR aid to the rebels has increased lately. If Lebanon is unable to cope with the crisis, he said, he will ask the Security Council for a police force.

The request for a special UN force was handed directly to Hammarskjold who is winding up his Lebanese tour.

Girl With Heart Open Awakened To Demonstrate Value of Hypnotism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A teen-aged girl with her heart exposed awakened on the operating table to demonstrate the value of hypnosis in surgery, a Beverly Hills doctor reported today.

While the heart was out of commission and her blood was being pumped by a machine, the 14-year-old girl opened her eyes and responded repeatedly to the doctor's instructions, he said.

She then was put to sleep again by suggestion and came through the operation in good shape. Twenty days later she left hospital.

An account of the operation was given in a paper before the American Medical Association by Dr. Ira Rosenthal, who handled the anaesthesia and did the hypnotizing.

A return to consciousness while under open heart surgery is a rare thing because it allows the doctors to check on whether patient's brain is being damaged while the machine in taking over the job of the heart, he said.

The hypnosis, a smaller amount of anaesthetic also were needed to put the patient to sleep and it enabled the doctor to restore her to slumber after once awakening her.

Cyprus Governor Flies to London For Conferences

LONDON (Reuters) — Governor Sir Hugh Foot of Cyprus began a round of high-level conferences on the future of the troubled island today as its issue stirred trouble within the Atlantic Alliance.

Foot, who flew here Tuesday from the Mediterranean colony, conferred with Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd and later was to see both Prime Minister Macmillan on Thursday before the House of Commons debates the future of the new plan.

In Athens, the Greek government was awaiting the debate as a key to British thinking about Cyprus.

Golden Retriever Winner at Three Shows

"Bellfield's Golden Donna" a female Golden Retriever, wheeled the property of Harry Raby's Bellfield Kennels, Picton, made her debut in the Show ring at the age of 18 months. Her first show was the Progressive Kennel Club at Scarboro Arena, Toronto on the 24th, 25th & 26th May. At this show she gained one point and the following Ribbons: Winners Bitch, Best of Breed, Canadian Bred, 1st Open Female, Best of Breed and Best Canadian Bred.

Again on the 19th June she was entered at Ajax along with 5 other Gold retrievers in the Canadian Save-the-Children Fund held on the Campus of Armstrong Collect. Brockcliffe Park, Ottawa. Through the the generosity of another Breeder, Mr. Hobart S. Arnold, of Woodbridge, Virginia, U.S.A., who, the previous day, with one of his Adult females, gained his final point for her championship, Mr. Arnold did not hesitate to scratch his adult female, thus enabling "Donna" to gain another point. She gained the honors: Winners Female, Best of Opposite Sex, Canadian Bred, 1st Open Female, Best Canadian Bred.

On the 21st of June she again went into the ring at Kingston, Ontario, against some formidable competition that was at the Ottawa show. Here again Mr. Arnold, who had flown in from Virginia, was unmoney, scratched her, thus enabling "Donna" to gain 2 points and 4 ribbons: 1st Canadian Bred, 1st Open Female, Best of Winners and Best Canadian Bred.

Although Mr. Arnold's Adult Female was scratched he left his young females in competition, but due to their age "Donna" was again privileged. Mr. Raby is very grateful to Mr. Hobart S. Arnold for his display of courtesy and sportsmanship. To play sport you have to be one and here is a sport in the true sense of the word.

It is expected that "Donna" will be a starter at the Belleville Kennel All Breed Dog Show, being held in Peterborough on the 12th of July.

New Farmers' Service Started By Institute

Can a blind farmer do the same type of work that a farmer with good vision can do?

According to Stewart Hayter, farm counsellor in a new division of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, "A totally blind farmer would have to hire someone to help him with some of the work, but he could do all the management and most of the chores."

Mr. Hayter has been in the Quinte district for the past two days making a survey of blind farmers in Hastings County. There are only a few blind farmers in the county, but, as many walks of life there are about 135 sightless people here who are registered with the CNIB.

The farm counsel division was inaugurated in Ontario last January. Mr. Hayter joined the Institute in Toronto at that time after taking a special course at the farmers' school in Cincinnati, Ohio.

"This is a new service which started in 1957 and is still in its experimental stage, but in the not-too-distant future, I believe it will become a real asset to the CNIB", Mr. Hayter said yesterday while in the office of Ontario Intelligencer.

The farm counsel division is working closely with the provincial Department of Agriculture. Mr. Hayter is attached to the Guelph and with agricultural representatives in the counties.

"We hope eventually to assist our registered rural members in many ways — through information, advice and possibly, loans," he said.

Mr. Hayter hopes to have appointed the Ontario rural survey by the end of August. Until about a year ago he worked on a farmer.

"I feel we can help quite a lot through this method. Our rural members have received me warmly and seem interested in what we are trying to do," Mr. Hayter added.

A blindness farmer operate a motor vehicle!

COULD DRIVE TRACTOR

Jim Tummins, district field secretary for the Quinte-St. Lawrence district of the CNIB accompanied Mr. Hayter, said: "With 10 percent of his sight a farmer could drive a tractor in his field, but he could not operate a car on a highway. Province of Canada and the United States recognize a blind man has the use of his full peripheral acuity. Of course, it would be impossible for a totally blind farmer to drive a tractor, but he could still do a lot of chores."

The CNIB representatives called the case of a totally blind farmer elsewhere in Ontario who does all the management in connection with maintaining his herd of prize Holstein cattle, 280 acres of land and a number of chores.

There are a few farmers in Ontario who are totally blind are totally or partially blind, operate successful orchards or market gardens.

In company with Mr. Hayter are Mr. Tummins and Mrs. Ferguson, assistant field secretary of the Quinte-St Lawrence district. The district includes the area between Hastings and Greenville.

The men reported that there are approximately 400 blind people in the district who are registered with the CNIB in Toronto. Both Mr. Tummins and Mrs. Ferguson work out of an office in Kingston, while Mr. Hayter operates from Toronto.

Mr. Hayter will appear as guest speaker at a breakfast to be aired over CJBQ on July 20.

Will Seek Seat

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Lawyer John W. Foote announced Monday night he has resigned as secretary of the Smiths Falls Progressive Conservative Association to seek the party nomination for the Ontario legislature's Lanark riding. The riding became vacant with the May 26 death of Dr. J. Arthur McCue, also a Conservative.

A Liberal spokesman said the Liberals will contest the byelection. No date has been set for a byelection or for party nominating conventions.

Police Blotter

Only minor damage resulted Wednesday afternoon in a two-car mishap on the east end of Dundas St. Sidney caused when Mrs. Velma Chard, R. R. 5 Belleville checked her baby as she drove out a driveway and failed to see an approaching car.

Provincial police said that Maurice Bird, R. R. 2 Frankford, skidded his car for 80 feet in an attempt to avoid the accident when he saw the other car.

In Belleville two young men were apprehended and charged with the theft of gasoline from the farm of Bernard May, 2nd concession Sidney township. The pair men were turned over to provincial police who allowed them to go with orders to appear in court July 3rd.

A Highland Ave. resident reported his car ransacked Tuesday night and $40 worth of fishing reels and other tackle stolen.

And a Sidney Street woman complained that a stone had been thrown through the plate glass window in the front of her house.

Planner Tells Kiwanians That More Homes Needed by '80 to Satisfy Increased Population

"The houses and subdivisions we build now will be with us at 2000 A.D. and beyond," said R. W. Dempsey, regional supervisor of the Ontario Division of the Community Planning Association of Canada, told local Kiwanians yesterday in urging citizens to plan ahead for future generations.

"There is a great need for more housing in view of the increasing population increase expected in Canada within the next 20 to 25 years," Mr. Dempsey said.

The speaker, in outlining the problems and possible solutions communities will have to deal with, informed his audience an increase of three million families and a total increase of 10 million people is anticipated by 1980.

He said approximately 75,000 new Canada yearly, and almost half this number of immigrants settle in Ontario. To further compact cities and smaller communities, families are leaving farms in Canada at the rate of 10,000 years.

To attract people to communities, laws and civic bodies provide adequate employment and this can be done through industrial expansion.

"Providing employment is vitally important," Mr. Dempsey stated. In noting the increasing rate of industrial expansion now going on, he informed Kiwanians this expansion resulted in over one million job openings last year.

CONSIDER THESE

Community planning boards should consider such questions as whether enough facilities are being created to attract a fair share of this industrial expansion; whether the community's transportation system is well regulated to serve the community's needs; and whether adequate housing is being provided to serve the specific needs of the local population, he said.

DOUBLED OVER YEAR

Mr. Dempsey, in informing the group housing development in Ontario has doubled over the past year, said subdivisions should be planned in terms of future population.

When planning housing developments, he said, consideration of a percentage of rental housing and percentage of housing for old people, should be taken into consideration, he stated.

Local municipalities should make more use of such aids as a Housing Market Inventory (under Planning Boards in the United States), which could be set up in conjunction with CMHC; and a Census Tract, supplied by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

"Although the Census Tract is used by large cities, it could be just as useful to smaller city councils and planning boards," Mr. Dempsey said.

The speaker also urged the protection of open spaces (such as small parks and recreation areas), within developed areas, which have been acquired either by dedication or purchase.

He also suggested the Federal government should pay the full cost of clearance and acquisition, instead of the present 50 per cent grant; that private developers should be given long - term leases and that provinces should contribute to municipal planning boards.

NEW MEDAL FOR CANADIAN UNEF

Canadian servicemen who have served and are serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East are to be issued with this medal, Soldiers at present serving in Egypt will receive four medals from Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander, UNEF, during a ceremony on Dominion day, July 1. The outward face of the medal approximates the present UNEF armlet insignia, with a round globe in the centre representing the world surrounded by laurel leaves denoting peace. At the top are the four letters UNEF. The reverse side carries the simple words "In the Service of Peace." Main color of the medal ribbon is sand — the sand of the Sinai Desert.

"Most planning boards are not able to function as they should because of insufficient funds," he said.

Suggestions offered by Mr. Dempsey to regulate and improve the flow of traffic within a community include "controlled access and collector roads." Controlled access roads are those which have only one or two side streets leading into them, and collector roads are those along which no buildings have been permitted, he explained.

NO LUNCHEON ON JULY 1

The speaker also suggested communities could make more use of the "federal-provincial partnership" for financing a "trunk road" between developed areas separated by an open space. This would help to speed up development of the undeveloped areas, he explained.

Mr. Dempsey was introduced by Bill Wills and thanked by Neville Reid. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by president Chas. Lowe.

Prior to the address, president Lowe voiced the club's regret at losing one of its most popular members, Captain Cal Ivany, who has been appointed to the Ottawa Parkdale Citadel.

Hospital Plan Abuse Could Create Havoc

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Abuse of the federal and provincial government's hospital insurance plan "could create havoc." Ontario reform institutions minister Dismond said Tuesday night.

Addressing the annual dinner meeting of the Northumberland-Durham Tuberculosis Association he said "much of the success of the plan will depend on the medical profession."

"Abuse or neglect will reflect on the profession. On the hospital administrators will be set tremendous responsibility for the good and efficient operation of the services which they render."

"The people of Ontario must remember that the plan for hospital care must be free from abuse. The hospital must never be made into a boarding place in which to escape for a few weeks at a time.

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)—A three-day search of Georgian Bay has failed to turn up a trace of a 96,000 cubic cruiser stolen from the marine docks here during the weekend.

The 37-foot craft, capable of sailing anywhere on the Great Lakes, had been moored here by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mason, who returned to his home for a few days.

Festival Has Brilliant Opening

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD — Opening night of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival is always a brilliant social event, and Monday night the presence of the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, the Hon. J. Keiller Mackay, lent an added air of pageantry. Monday night is the night when a number of young people in the audience of all ages: from ten years old onwards it gave promise of becoming a family event as well. All in all, and with only one exception, it was a most pleasant evening.

Continued success particularly in the field of theatrical ventures, it is a talkmaster, and each year Stratford theatre goers have expected and have been given, something more and more exciting than the year before: Monday night the inevitable happened, and the festival presented a production which did not quite live up to the admittedly high standard which it has achieved. Henry IV (Part 1) is by no means Shakespeare's best play, being historical verity, lacking in the great poetry and excitement of Henry V, and with too bare a plot to support a play of this length. Yet the director, Michael Langham, could have concocted these faults with skillful cutting and production less frequently on dramatic pauses to heighten the tension, pauses which in fact did little else than make the play drag.

Knowledge of Mr. Langham's technique of working on a play continually during its run suggests that playgoers late in the season may see a much tauter (and shorter) version of Henry IV.

ACCENTS ONLY FLAW

Again, except in one particular, the actors all contrived to make the most of their materials. Lovely honors go equally to Douglas Rain as the playboy Prince Hal, in whom his countenance and his father's mistranslines produce a complete change of heart, and also to Douglas Campbell as a rollicking, boastful, cowardly Falstaff. Jason Robards Jr. the cast's only major importation, gave a vivid and quite convincing portrayal of the headstrong Harry Hotspur, married only by a strong yankee drawl which falls to harmonize with the "standard English" enunciation which has become such a pleasant feature of the Stratford productions. In fact, accents in general formed the exception to top performance mentioned above. In a country as virtually accentless as Canada, it is perhaps natural to appreciate the importance of this factor in English drama; in any event, the Scottish and Cockney accents of Douglas and Mistress Quickly respectively proved unconvincing.

REGAL KING HENRY

Max Helpmann gave us a very regal King Henry, and William Hutt's portrayal of Hotspur's wily uncle Worcester was a small cameo of expert acting such as we have always come to expect from the first line play-writer. Christopher Plummer, one felt, gravely wasted as Harshbugle with only a few lines, and a somewhat greater number of facial expressions, but it was a superb character sketch in miniature. Powys Thomas was a sympathetic Owen Glendower to whom the years had failed to quell, and his exchanges in Welsh with his daughter were a triumph of fluency on both sides, in a part which contained no English. Diana Maddox displayed a winsome charm which made her marriage to Lord Mortimer (who spoke no Welsh) readily believable. Lady Percy, played by Charmion King, obviously had her hands full with her impetuous husband, but also showed that when the occasion demanded she could handle him as she pleased.

BRISK COMPETENCY

The smaller parts were undertaken with the brisk competency which has come to be expected from the Stratford Company, and the mechanics of the play flowed smoothly and without the hitches and mishaps that so often beset a first night. Altogether the performance was a very interesting one, and, given a certain amount of reworking, may yet take its place among the great productions which the Stratford Festival has generated.

Father of Four Killed Assisting Another Motorist

TRENTON — Lloyd Kenneth Reddom, 48, of R.R. 5, Brighton, and father of four children was instantly last night about midnight on No. 2 Highway when he was hit by a car while trying to help another motorist get his vehicle out of the ditch, about 1½ miles from Trenton.

According to police reports, William Murray of Selford, Ontario, was proceeding west on Highway 2 (towards Brighton from Trenton) when his car slid off the right shoulder of the road near the Lafferty Transport garage.

Mr. Reddom was also proceeding west on the highway and was on his way from work on the night shift of the Canadian Creosoting Plan in Trenton, driving a light delivery truck. He pulled over and off the highway on the left hand side to give what assistance he could to the vehicle in trouble.

Shortly after Mr. Reddom had an east-bound truck, which was heavily loaded with machinery parts and was talking to the driver when he was struck by a car driven by George Lawson Edward Bugg of 164 Henry St., in Trenton.

Const. Lyle and Constable Jack Martin of the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, arrived and investigated the fatality.

Weaver's Funeral Home was called and the late Mr. Reddom was taken to the funeral home where the body was viewed by the coroner, Dr. W. O. Elliott and by Mr. Bugg, Mr. S. Bailey of Trenton.

The body now is removed to Snider's Funeral Home in Brighton.

H. B. Deyman, Q.C., crown prosecutor for Northumberland, has ordered an inquest into the death.

Plead Guilty To Car Theft

TRENTON — Four Trenton youths were remanded for sentencing by Magistrate T. Y. Wills yesterday when they appeared before him on charges of car theft. It is expected they will be sentenced on Thursday of next week although they will appear in Magistrate's court in Belleville on Monday.

The four youths are: Harold Dunkley, 18; Keith Dunkley, 18; Reginald Hutchinson, 17; Wilfred Vardy, 19.

After a short talk with their parents the boys all entered a plea of guilty and elected to be tried by magistrate.

Inspector R. Rutherford of the Trenton Police Force gave evidence for the crown and told of the theft and subsequent arrests. The inspector told the court that on June 11 at 8 a.m. C. Stammis of R.R. 4 reported his car had been stolen He valued it at $500.

On this the inspector said he had received a phone call from Constable Scott of the OPP in Picton. Falls saying the car had been recovered on a farm and that two cars had been overturned and wrecked. The licence plate had been removed from it identification was made through the serial number on the car.

Later the inspector said Lawson was brought to the Provincial police Station for questioning and as a result of this questioning the others were caught.

In reconstructing the night of the theft Inspector told the court the four men had been in town and had decided to go back some of their cars. Two of them had gone into a parking lot and later the two others had then later picked the other two up. They then proceeded to Elmhurst Park where they spent the night. Just before noon the next day night June 12. From there they came back to Trenton via Falls and had wrecked the car.

A further check will be made on the cars and the youths have and it was stated in court that the boys had not deserted the army some time ago. He had been brought to Trenton by a detachment of the Provost Corps of Camp Borden on Sunday.

John Pringle acted for the crown.

Mrs. W. Ireland Dies Following Lengthy Illness

TRENTON — Mrs. Mabel Ray Ireland, 36 Marmora Street, died at her home on Tuesday following an illness which began shortly after Christmas last year. She was in her 73rd year.

Mrs. Ireland, the former Mabel Ray Adam, was the wife of William H. Ireland, former member of the provincial parliament for Hastings South for about 23 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ireland were to have observed their golden wedding anniversary next Wednesday.

They were married in a Methodist Church in Niagara Falls, N.Y., on July 2, 1908.

Mr. Ireland credited his wife with much of his political success in the Progressive Conservative party. Mrs. Ireland was always ready and eager to assist in any way her husband's campaign for election.

Born in Trenton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Adam, Mrs. Ireland received most of her education in Niagara Falls, N.Y., but returned to some of it in Trenton. She lived most of her life in Trenton where she acquired a large circle of friends and took an active part in the organization of King Street United Church. She was a member of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church and was noted for her artistic talents displayed at the tables for the W.A. functions. Mrs. Ireland was interested in art, having hand-painted a fine screen by herself and a number of pictures, which she bequeathed.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Ireland leaves one daughter, Mrs. William (Eleanor) Navan of Ottawa, and two sons, William and Ross, both of Trenton and partners in Ireland's Drug Store here. She had no brothers or sisters.

Peter Valyear Gets Six Months For Car Theft

TRENTON — Peter Valyear was sentenced to six months definite and six months indefinite for car theft when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills yesterday afternoon. He was also sentenced to three months to run concurrently with the other sentence on a charge of breach of recognizance.

A week before he had been sentenced to one year suspended sentence on a theft of cigarets from a Trenton hotel.

Valyear had previously pleaded not guilty, but yesterday he changed his plea to guilty and elected trial by magistrate.

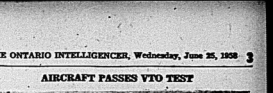
Chief Jack Taylor gave evidence for the Crown, telling of the investigation as well as the chase the accused had led on the night of the theft, June 17.

Also appearing in court yesterday was Waller G. Pender, of Coleman Street, Trenton, who pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop at the scene of an accident. He was fined $50 and costs.

The accused told the court he had stopped when he hit the car on that night, but there was no one around and he left. He said he knew it was stupidity on his part for not reporting it to the police and he had realized it later.

Crown Prosecutor John Pringle told the magistrate the accused had no previous criminal record or had faced any charges under the Highway Traffic Act.

A week before he said he could understand him (the accused) being nervous, but he should have reported it to the police and the charge would never have been laid. He said he felt that anyone should know that an accident has to be reported.



AIRCRAFT PASSES VTO TEST

The Bell X-14 jet-powered vertical take-off airplane, shown in flight above, has successfully completed a full transitional cycle in flight. The X-14, in a test at Niagara Falls, N.Y., rose vertically from the ground, accelerated into forward flight, and returned to hover over the starting point. The craft then landed vertically while in the conventional horizontal position.

Child Injured After Running In Front of Car

TRENTON — Patsy Desrochers, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Desrocher of 148 Bay Street, was slightly injured about the legs, arms and head yesterday when she ran in front of a car.

The driver of the car was Mr. Harold Turner, 74, of 201 McLellan Street.

According to reports the child was playing on one side of the street when she decided to run across to the other side to join her friends, who were watching the town tractor working at the edge of the road.

The driver of the car told police he was going east on Bay Street and was travelling about 18 miles per hour because of the working tractor. He said the child ran out from the side-walk without looking and although he had applied the brakes and was almost stopped, the child came in contact with the side of the left front fender and was thrown to the ground.

Dr. J. W. Farley was called and the child was put to bed at her home. Her injuries consisted of bruises and abrasions to the leg and her elbows and forehead were bruised and skinned.

Sgt. Gordon Steenburg of the Trenton police force investigated.

As a result of the mishap the Elmer Safety Pennant was taken down this morning at the College Street school where the child is a pupil. It will remain down for 30 days, which is the normal time for this penalty.

It was the third school in Trenton this school year to have the Elmer Pennant taken down due to an accident. The first was the North Trenton school when kindergarten student was hit and fore a mishap. The second was during the early spring when a kindergarten student of the Elizabeth school ran in front of a vehicle.

But despite the three mishaps officials feel it is an enviable record considering there are six schools and nearly 2,000 students.

CBC DOCUMENTARIES ARE TOPS

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is to be complimented on its interesting and educational production about Newfoundland on the program Close Up last Sunday night. Certainly television viewers who previously understood little of the characteristics of Canada's tenth province and its inhabitants came away with a much clearer perception of the light in which the average Newfoundlander sees confederation.

Prior to Sunday night's program, we, like many other Canadians, could not appreciate to any intelligent degree the problems which Newfoundlanders thought they would inherit with confederation. Residents of Ontario and the other provinces, with the exception of Newfoundland, have become acclimatized to confederation over years of living with it. However, it was only in 1949 that Newfoundland joined Canada and threw its chips on the table with ours. Because that island is yet only a young province, it is still experiencing growing pains, or, which is more likely, confederation pains.

Premier Joseph Smallwood, described as the province's most trusted but best loved man, appeared on the show and impressed his audience as a sincere politician who is trying gallantly to improve the lot of his people. Granted, as he himself stated, he has made many blundering mistakes. But he has done much good for the province, too. If it were not for Premier Smallwood, Newfoundland might still be a British crown colony.

The CBC's able presentation of such an interesting subject will be remembered for some time. It only cemented our beliefs that CBC documentaries outshine, by far, those produced by any other television company, either at home or abroad.

WE ARE JUSTLY PROUD

Occasionally we wonder if people living adjacent to a large expanse of water appreciate their environment. Because we have grown accustomed to the beauty of Quinte's shoreline, sometimes we tend to take that good fortune for granted.

Although health officials condemn some areas of the Bay of Quinte for bathing, at least we have a beautiful body of water that takes a back seat to no other. The grandeur of the Quinte district is magnified by the bay of Quinte. Its "back country" scenery coupled with the picturesque drives along the bay brings tourists to this locale. What a pity that the bay is not improved to provide good beaches and slipways for launching pleasure crafts. Perhaps, though, it is not the bay that needs improving. It is more likely to be the communities adjacent to it that should "live modern" and install sewage treatment units. But that is another, more serious subject. We are interested here only in the appeal to the eye of the Bay of Quinte.

There are days when the bay resembles a mirror. And there are days when it looks like an angry sea. That is because it is choppy, becoming disturbed more readily than deep water.

People who live on the Canadian prairies or on the African deserts are settled where giant lakes once existed. Now they are left high and dry. We in the Quinte district may not have the beaches (excluding those on Lake Ontario), but we at least have a beautiful bay.

WHY THE PUBLICITY?

We have never been surprised at the high rate of divorce amongst actors and actresses.

Given similar circumstances, the possession of good looks and wealth, close association with a succession of members of the opposite sex similarly equipped and the necessity for getting through the business of pretending to be in love with them, we suspect that many of those people who raise their hands in horror at the marital mixups of thespians would find themselves acting in a similar manner.

What we could never understand, though, is the frequency with which actresses and actors rush into print with the announcement that they are divorcing their latest mates, only to have a change of heart and a reconciliation a couple of days later. Most recent example is Betty Hutton, who said on June 13 she would divorce Alan Livingston, but who had decided by June 18 that they would remain married. Reconciliations, we suspect, often occur when other less-famous couples find themselves on the steps of the divorce court, and this is a commendable situation. We would think, though, that reconciliation would be difficult enough without the whole world having been informed that the parties had been at odds. The publicity must be an added hurdle on the already difficult road to marital bliss.

ADVICE

As soon as Trouble rings the bell
Some fellows start to yelp
And put out danger signs and yell
In great distress for help.

They never learn what they can do
Nor when they can defy.
They never see a trouble through,
Because they never try.

Oh, youth, undaunted, unafraid,
When Trouble comes to you
Don't run away or call for
First, see what you can do.

Lobsters Colorful

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Grand Manan, it is understood, has seen landings of up to 36 pounds. Many fishermen hold the view that lobsters in recent years have been trending steadily lower in weight than in the good old days, when specimens 13 belly ones would fill a barrel.

Yet the Saint John retail fish catchers have at times seen catches of eight to 10 pounds are still exceptionally handled, and lobsters once had a 15% pounder on display two years ago.

Incidentally, the color of live lobsters occasionally varies as regards hue at the shell. Usually they are the greenish-black, or mottled with brown; but Bay of Fundy catchers have at times included orange-and-purple lobsters, once in a while white lobsters, and last month a fish store exhibited a live sky-blue specimen in its window.

Should Keep Film Record

Montreal Gazette

The emergence of the film as historical record has been given general recognition in most countries, but in Canada, which produces documentary films of a standard that has won a high place in international awards, it would be assumed that the value of such records has long been accepted.

The recent meeting in Montreal of the Canadian Federation of Film Societies illustrated in dramatic fashion that this is not the case. Canada has no film archives and films of Canadian interest have disappeared through lack of care or neglect.

Two examples were given; only by accident was it discovered, recently, that a color film of the Royal Tour in 1939 was about to be destroyed; a similar accidental discovery saved from destruction a film record of Dr. MacMillan's first flight in 1927.

It is definitely understood that such documents are almost impossible to replace, has already been lost to Canada and their historians, largely because there is no official agency for collecting and preserving such records. The Federation, therefore, that has its headquarters in Montreal, was told recently that Canada is the only film-producing country in the world that does not have such an agency.

Such a deficiency is very definite need. Perhaps it has been the very speed of Canadian culture's development which has caused this gap in historical preservation. But the gap is serious and must be bridged before more precious documents are lost forever.

Dr. Samuel Johnson, the noted man of letters and lexicographer, was one of the oddest creatures that ever lived. His biographer gives us the picture of a man "of huge body, unwieldy bulk, corpulence and often incredible. It annoyed his friends to have him get up from the table, walk to the pictures and arrange things in the drawing room until he would sit down and converse.

We can smile at this in the case of Dr. Johnson, first because he lived a long while ago and again because he was a man

Yachting Notes: From our file copy at this time in 1888: The yachts Norah and Iolanthe have new sets of sails. Mr. Ellis Burrell of this city arrived in this port yesterday on board new yacht the "Argo". It is probable that the yacht Norah, now holder of the Fisher Cup, may be challenged to defend the trophy by one or two Canadian yachts. A race between the Iolanthe of the city and the Maple of George, H. Y., is among the probabilities of the future.

Judging from present indications there will be a large number of people on the Argyll Band excursion to Rochester and Sodus on Wednesday.

Last evening at the Salvation Army Citadel farewell was said to Adjutant and Mrs. Boulton. Many members of the Army were present also a large representation of the Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion. Tribute was paid to the excellent work done by Adjutant and Mrs. Boulton during the eighteen months they have been here. On behalf of the Canadian Legion, Mr. D. Mitchelow presented to Adjutant Boulton and his wife, a handsome leather bound bible.

Following are the newly elected officers of the Belleville Club: Hon. president, E. Guss Porter, K. C. and Robert Tannahill; president, A. Percy Allen; vice president, Charles A. Payne; directors, A. TODAY'S TALK

INVEST YOUR BLESSINGS

I have never run out of blessings that have been mine from the good Lord. And this is what I am going to do with these blessings. I like to invest them in other people and bless them there. I know I will never run out of them, and I know that every time I give a blessing away my store number I have enriched others as well as myself.

I am certain that whatever happiness we are able to pass on to others is a permanent plan that will keep increasing in value for as long as our loved ones, or ourselves, continue to live upon this troubled earth.

Blessings, invested, keep creeping around the world, leaving living memories that grow and grow and grow! There is a song I used to hear sung in my father's church in which that line "Count your blessings" appears prominently. But instead of counting our blessings I suggest they be distributed as soon as presented, which is mostly right now!

Invest your blessings. Dividends will be declared daily, and this dividend will be paid for so long as there is a blessing received! This is one way to become a permanent owner of happiness. How much more important to receive blessings than to worry over the possession of money, or some form of wealth.

The interesting thing about investing in Blessings (sunny) is that the stock, or certificate, can be passed around, and everyone benefited from the original issuing of that certificate! Invest your benefits and blessings, and keep adding to them!

Recession Not Unique

St. Catharines Standard

According to Dr. Jules Blackman, New York University economist, there is nothing unusual about a recession in which living costs continue to climb.

The last quarterly business report for Canada showed a decline, but the one-tenth of a point dropped in the index was not noticeable to the general public. This is true of the peak during the worst period of the recession.

Many had believed that rising costs during recession were unusual, but Dr. Blackman, who has made a special study of slumps in the past 35 years, reports there is nothing unusual in the situation. He points out that his studies have shown that in most of the slumps, during the 35 years he has been studying reports, showed the cost-of-living continued to rise or remained stationary.

The New York authority reported that in 1923-34, in 1926-27, again in 1929-32, in 1948-49 and in 1953-54 there were business declines in the United States and the cost-of-living almost always came out higher than when the slump started.

A depression, on the other hand, is a horse of another colt altogether. People remember these sharp declines in prices during depressions and fail to realize the mounting prices in time of recession.

The conclusion is that the recession through which we are passing is nothing unusual at all and with prices higher than when it started.

Blueberry Farm Started

Summerside Journal Pioneer

A Summerside man is engaged in a type of agriculture in which the crop is harvested every two years by machine after planting a seed. Mr. Anthony LeBlanc, who has operated the Gulf Auto Body Shop on Heather Street West for the past seven years, has purchased a number of land in Kings County, Prince Edward Island, on which he is growing blueberries.

So convinced is he of the opportunities that exist in blueberry farming that he has put up his auto body business for sale in order that he can devote time to it.

Mr. LeBlanc describes the blueberry as a "natural" berry in that it is not grown from seed. However, when wild berries are found growing naturally, the yield can be multiplied many times by cultivating, he explains.

Mr. LeBlanc's land is in Rock Barra not far from Souris on the north side of the Island. He purchased a number of abandoned farms which had not been cultivated for the past few years and on which small trees were growing.

He burned off the trees and had himself a number of blueberry farms. In the process of burning the trees several dereliction sheds and barns were destroyed thus removing the last evidence of the work of early settlers who had cleared the land, established farms and built homes for their families.

Nightingale No Shy Girl

Hamilton Spectator

A Columbia University professor has struck a blow at the popular conception of Florence Nightingale as a shy, delicate flower of Victorian womanhood.

It was a blow worth striking, for this great woman has suffered more than her share of sickly, woolly sentimentalism that is ever ready to smother the real works of mercy. Nothing could have been more remote from Florence Nightingale's character, than sloppy attitudes. She was an utterly practical professional and there is no doubt that if she were alive today she also has the pick of nurses would be on much higher level than they are.

The legend of the lamp-bearing Florence in the wards at Scutari, Turkey, became one of the popular imagination than the long and arduous work of later years of this stern disciplinarian—who made cabinet ministers bow to her decisions—has been glad to serve her.

Great humanitarian movements have never been founded by tearful sissies.

Most nurses would no doubt appreciate more practical tributes paid to their professional skill and less of the lachrymose praise of themselves as "ministering angels" which, unfortunately, is too often regarded as adequate reward for one of the world's toughest jobs.

Florence Nightingale was a woman of few illusions, particularly where nursing was concerned. Her place in history would be enhanced if this were more widely realized than the many legends. And the profession she founded, and those who practice it, would benefit too.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"DROPPED STOMACH" IS NOT AN UNUSUAL CONDITION

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 25 years old and am very worried. It seems there is always something wrong with me. For the last few years, anyway.

"Recently my family doctor made some fluoroscopes and X-rays and told me my stomach is lower than it should be. I want to believe him but I am so worried and scared that I might have ulcers or a cancer. Could my stomach being lower cause a burning and pain all over my stomach? H. W."

You're just bound and determined to look for the worst, aren't you? Well, I was 25 once, and as I remember it, I was sure (even with, or maybe because of, my medical training) that I had several absolutely hopeless diseases. Pretty soon I became so concerned with unimportant matters that I forgot to worry. And here I still am.

The "dropped stomach" is known as visceroptosis (visser-o-tip-sis) and all that means is that the organ is somewhat lower than average. It is most likely in the tall, sometimes flat-chested individual. (Wonder if that fits you?) Or the person with small frame and thin muscles.

The fact that your stomach is low doesn't mean much — any more than if your nose, ears, fingers, or big ears or long, narrow chin.

It's true, however, that those with vis-sir-op-toe-sis are likely to have colon trouble, too. Not result: A tendency to-ward a variety of vague symptoms, chief of which is constipation and the attendant distress. The muscles of the abdomen and entire intestinal tract tend to be relaxed, lacking tone, and these people are likely to be tired — and hence avoid exercise which, as a matter of fact, is what they need to pep up and tone those muscles.

There isn't any particular tendency, however, for them to have cancer or ulcers oftener than anybody else, including me.

GET USED TO IT

The answer to the "dropped stomach" is getting used to a very simple, very sensible kind of tonic and that is system: regular eating, balanced meals, exercise, proper posture.

Occasionally (consult your family doctor on this) some abdominal muscle needs a little help, but don't just go buy a corset. Heavens, what those contraptions are — just because of this remark. Do so only if your physician thinks it will help.

Mr. LeBlanc's land is in Rock Barra not far from Souris on the north side of the Island. He purchased a number of abandoned farms which had not been cultivated for the past few years and on which small trees were growing.

He burned off the trees and had himself a number of blueberry farms. In the process of burning the trees several dereliction sheds and barns were destroyed thus removing the last evidence of the work of early settlers who had cleared the land, established farms and built homes for their families.

It was a blow worth striking, for this great woman has suffered more than her share of sickly, woolly sentimentalism that is ever ready to smother the real works of mercy. Nothing could have been more remote from Florence Nightingale's character, than sloppy attitudes. She was an utterly practical professional and there is no doubt that if she were alive today she also has the pick of nurses would be on much higher level than they are.

The legend of the lamp-bearing Florence in the wards at Scutari, Turkey, became one of the popular imagination than the long and arduous work of later years of this stern disciplinarian—who made cabinet ministers bow to her decisions—has been glad to serve her.

Most nurses would no doubt appreciate more practical tributes paid to their professional skill and less of the lachrymose praise of themselves as "ministering angels" which, unfortunately, is too often regarded as adequate reward for one of the world's toughest jobs.

Florence Nightingale was a woman of few illusions, particularly where nursing was concerned. Her place in history would be enhanced if this were more widely realized than the many legends. And the profession she founded, and those who practice it, would benefit too.

Gladstone Is His Guide

Manchester Guardian

Booksellers in the Charing Cross Road say they are pleased to know that the new biography of Gladstone recently appeared in their midst — a man identifiable by his jaunty bow tie, a passionate interest in anything to do with Gladstone, and that unmistakable interest in anything is the Premier of Newfoundland, Mr. Joseph Smallwood, a man with a Gladstonian faith. He believes that the destinies of Canada and the Conservative party are inextricably intertwined, the present Conservative party being on ground itself more carefully in liberal principles. Hence the interest in books on Gladstone. Newfoundland's entry into the Canadian confederation it ceased to be a British colony and became the tenth province. Speaking to reporters at London the other day, Mr. Smallwood jokingly assured them that he has "no further territorial ambitions." But he has given no such assurances to the politicians in Ottawa.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Two-faced people are tremendous fun if you can just prevent yourself from getting mad at them. There is more thrill in playing a two-faced person than in playing a four pound trout or a six pound bass. A game of poker, a game of chess, is not one half so amusing as the games you can enjoy with the two-faced manoeuvres of a real genuine double-dyed two-faced person, male or female.

Of course, you have to be pretty sharp. You have to size them up every evidence of your friendship, goodwill and almost love. And then you have to be pretty nimble in finding out, from other friends and acquaintances, what the two-faced one has said and done faced friend.

Scouting activities

The Belleville Boy Scouts Local Association is providing vigorous support to the move for safer water activities in the Quinte area and in all of Ontario, in fact.

A permanent water safety committee has been formed by the Local Association and a bulletin has been issued to over 70 Scouters and group committee chairmen, instructing them in the necessary precautions to be taken during the supervision of water activities.

With over 1,100 Cubs, Scouts and leaders now enrolled in Scouting locally, every effort is being made to ensure that those responsible for water activities are properly trained.

As a pre - season move many Cubs and Scouts were taught to swim at the YMCA pool during the winter months.

LIST RULES

The recent bulletin which has been issued jointly by C. F. Leggat, president of the L. A., and District Commissioner Phil Allcorn stresses some of the following points for safe handling of boats with boys aboard:

The master of the boat being responsible for the safety of all the occupants shall only permit Scouts or Scouters who can swim 50 yards, dressed in shirt, pants and stockings, and who can undress in the water, to be aboard while underway. Where it is necessary for those who cannot meet this requirement to take part in boating, they may do so at the discretion of the person in charge, provided they wear proper life preservers at all times, and are accompanied by strong swimmers capable of giving assistance, in the event of trouble.

Orthopedic boots or braces may be worn where necessary, but persons wearing them must be considered as non-swimmers.

Scouters are expected to give serious consideration to their responsibilities when considering the use of boats under circumstances not expressly provided by these rules.

Craft — When boating is undertaken as an occasional activity, it is the duty of the person in charge to see that all of the regulations mentioned in the previous paragraphs are strictly enforced. When boating forms a regular part of Scout activity, it will be necessary, in addition, to obtain a boat certificate for all boats used.

A life belt or jacket, of a type approved by the Board of Steamship Inspection of the Department of Transport, must be carried for each occupant of the boat.

Inflatable types are not to be used for Scouting purposes.

On no account is any boat to be overloaded or lumbered with stores so as to hinder its free working, either under paddles, oars, sails or motor.

AFTER DARK

Operation of boats after dark is permitted only:

1. When the occupants are wearing life preservers.

2. When necessary for cruising, provided proper lights are continuously shown.

3. For training purposes, under responsible leadership, provided lights are continuously shown.

4. For night games in restricted sheltered areas.

Cruises or water hikes — No boat shall proceed on an overnight or extended cruise unless a plan of that cruise has been registered with a member of the Local Association Water Committee, the district commissioner, or, in the case of a group proceeding from camp, with the person left in charge at the camp. This motion must state:

1. Date and duration of cruise.
2. Intended destination and point of landing.
3. Number in party.

Where it is known that boats may be used for Scout purposes as part of camping, hiking or long term or weekend, overnight etc., or any other activities outside of regular district supervised events, Scouters must first obtain permission in writing.

Portuguese Hospital Ship Cares for Health, Religion Of Over 5,600 Men in Fleet

By IAN MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Pride in the Portuguese fishing fleet, the hospital ship Gil Eannes rested in port here last week, but her peaceful appearance was deceptive. She was waiting for trouble.

Trouble for the Gil Eannes could come in many forms — a fisherman's ruptured appendix, an outbreak of fever or just a bad tooth. A brief radio message from the fishing banks off Newfoundland or Greenland would send the gleaming white craft racing to any one of 77 Portuguese fishing vessels.

Twenty - two trawlers and 55 motored dories arrived on the Grand Banks last April and fished for two months before pushing on to more prolific banks off Greenland, stopping here only long enough to take on bait and supplies.

DEVOUT CREWS

The men may not return home until September, and a lot can happen in six months. A call for medical help could come from any one of the 5,600 men in the fishing fleet—or from one of the many Newfoundland, French and Spanish vessels fishing the same waters.

Saving souls as well as lives is important to the deeply religious fishermen who are almost all Roman Catholics. The Gil Eannes carries the chaplain of the Portuguese fleet, and open-air services are held in a tiny chapel on the after deck. There is another chapel below, for bed patients.

"Because the fishermen are deeply religious, they are not afraid," a spokesman said. "They go out fishing in their little dories all alone—often 15 miles from the vessel that brought them to the Banks.

"Anything could happen. A storm could come up. Sometimes they do not come back. But they are not afraid."

No lives were lost during the first half of this year's fishing season, but there is hardly a man in the fleet who cannot remember losing a crewmate.

The Gil Eannes, mother of the "white fleet," made her first trip to the Grand Banks in 1955. Although built by the government through a tax on cod, she is owned and operated by the Portuguese Fishing Organization under supervision of the delegate of the Portuguese government, naval captain Henrique Tenreiro.

Capt. Tenreiro's many official duties include his membership in parliament; delegate to all fisheries organizations; member of the international commission for the Northwest Atlantic fisheries chairman of the fishermen's hospitals; chairman of the administration commission for sailor's homes, and chairman of the Lisbon Naval Association.

The ship's sailing master is Capt. Joao Ramalheira. She is equipped with 74 hospital beds, and in an emergency can accommodate 320 patients. Three x-ray units and a large modern operating room are designed to take care of every need.

Apart from the regular hospital wards, the ship has an isolation section for patients with communicable diseases.

COMPLETE SERVICE

The permanent medical staff consists of two surgeons and a general practitioner, who work directly with two other physicians and 40 male nurses aboard the trawlers and dory vessels. Last year, 77 operations were performed during the fishing season, from May to October.

The Gil Eannes also distributed 4,000 parcels and 25,000 letters. The radio room passed on countless messages between crew members and families in Portugal. She delivered 150 tons of provisions, 200 tons of water, 550 tons of bait and 900 barrels of diesel oil.

Gil Eannes is equipped with a small laboratory and hydrographic equipment. Biologists and two other groups of observers travel with the ship each year, and carry out experiments which are passed on to international groups.

She is named after a 15th-century navigator whose voyages from Portugal to the west coast of Africa led the way for Vasco da Gama's historic voyage to India.

The old navigator would be startled by the beauty and comfort of the ship that now bears his name. There are lounges for officers and for men, spacious dining rooms, comfortable cabins with beds. Decks are painted in bright solid colors, the walls in breezy pastels.

The walls are brightened by paintings of sailing ships, dories, a man in oilskins hauling in his cod traps, and farming scenes from home.

The officers' lounge houses a statuette given by the French government for the Gil Eannes' services to fishermen of that country. Letters and other tokens have been received from many nations, including Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moynes Happily Wed for 50 Years

Haircuts 25c, shaves 10c. Who's next?

Not exactly today's prices, but quite in vogue half a cennury ago when a well known local barber started in the business of cutting hair.

Last weekend, Elwood C. "Pomp" Moynes, Trent Road, and Mrs. Moynes observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage celebrated in the Methodist Church parsonage at Frankford back in 1908.

The anniversary took the form of an "at home" Sunday at the home of their daughter Mrs. Ralph Warren, 297 Charles Street. Guests were received during the afternoon and evening.

Still working every day at the former Sullivan barber shop on Front Street, "Pomp" Moynes has spent most of his life as a barber with time out for an overseas stint with the Canadian Army in World War 1, and a few years spent in the bakery and confection business at Brighton.

Aside from the prices charged, the biggest change in the barbering business has been the disappearance of women from the barber shops, according to Mr. Moynes.

Before the days of hairdressing shops catering specifically to women, Mr. Moynes recalls women almost taking over barber shop on some days.

"I have cut women's hair all day with never a man in the shop" he says.

BORN AT FRANKFORD

Mr. Moynes was born at Frankford, while his wife, the former Lelia Derland, was born in the Wooler area. They were married by Rev. J. S. McMullen at the Methodist parsonage and later went to Brighton where they operated a bakery and confection store. However, as health gave out and he was forced to return to barbering, this time opening a shop at Stirling.

Both lovers of music, Mr. and Mrs. Moynes have shared this love for the enjoyment of others. Mr. Moynes has acted as choir leader at Grace United Church, Trenton, at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church in Belleville and at Holloway St. United Church, where he still sings in the choir. He has been in choir work since he was 16. Mrs. Moynes is also a former choir member at Holloway Street where they both are church members.

It was Mr. Moynes' love of band music that put him in the entertainment field in the First World War. Enlisting in the 155th Battalion he went overseas with the Reg Hinsley band. As one of the 21-member band he helped to entertain troops at the front in France. The band returned to Canada intact.

Besides his barbering years here he also worked for 12 years as a barber at the Trenton Air Station.

He is a member of Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 11, at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Moynes have two children, Mrs. Ralph Warren of Belleville, and Don Moynes of Montreal. There are two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Pr. Ed.-Belleville Club Closed Until Fall

The June meeting of Prince Edward Belleville Club was held in the Y.M.C.A., with 32 present. The president, Mrs. L. Sharpe presided and read a poem.

A short business meeting was held and reports of the treasurer were given and thanks for cards and letters expressed.

Regrets were expressed that so many were absent through illness.

During July and August, no meetings will be held, but plans were made for a bus trip and picnic, — with the executive in charge of arrangements.

The program was directed by Mrs. Garbutt's group — with the convener presiding. Several good readings were given, — community singing, with music by Mrs. Wensley, Mrs. Insley contributed two favorite solos.

A friendly social time closed with refreshments served by the group. Mesdames Garbutt, Montgomery, Clegg, Bolton, Steers, Pierson, Davidson, Ackerman, Wensley and Westover.

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Mrs Ada Miller, 82, has not been late for work once during her 28 years as attendant of the women's rest room in the municipal building here.

She started the job in 1930 and was paid $20 a month, half by the town and half by the local women's institute.

Now, she works six days a week for $110 a month.

"I wouldn't want to be home all day," she said, as she swayed back and forth in her rocking chair, knitting socks.

In the years she has spent in the rest room, Mrs. Miller has noticed a change in the cosmetics habits of older women.

"Now it seems, the older they get the more paint they put on, even on their fingernails," she said.

At 82, Mrs. Miller's ambition is for renovation of the rest room. "It needs new paint, new tiles and new furniture. I hope the council will see to it," she said.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Women of the world unite for peace. These words came to mind as we read news about a new and noble scheme for women in the South Pacific islands from West New Guinea to Tahiti. T and T doesn't know whether these words have ever been used as a slogan or not and we aren't certain that they would be wise. Slogans like everything have a double-edged threat. If the idealist is purely a dreamer, then they can be as dangerous as they could be enlightening. Probably the greatest task facing the idealistic believer in peace today is the reality that he or she must be always on guard for the insidious infiltrator who uses noble slogans for ignoble purposes. However, we are watchful for the authentic, because T and T likes to pass along those practical efforts backed by sincere deeds for peace. It seems to be a beacon of hope no matter how weak, and if your comments prove anything they indicate to your reporter that every straw must be grasped in the midst of the deluge of things less promising.

Women are no more united for peace in a world-wide ideal than men, but the women of the world are stirring because of the new confidence born of acknowledgment. An international organization called the South Pacific Commission and sponsored by the U.K., France, N.Z., Australia and the U.S.A. has laid out a program to assist over 2,000,000 women in these Pacific Islands. Their living standards will be raised, it is hoped, by improving their chances through social education. Women advisers who agree to give two or more years of their lives to this work will be dispersed throughout this far-flung territory. The first step is to bring the standards of all the island women up to that already reached by the two most advanced islands, Samoa and Fiji. When this has been accomplished, the work will go forward on all fronts.

Our readers have indicated their interest in the status of women throughout the world and this is an item which we have not seen publicized but which proves that the ideal and the idea lives and strives in the midst of all the thistles.

The custom of designating days, weeks, even months, to honor something has become widespread and popular. There is much good that comes from this fairly recent development and T and T hopes that familiarity will not breed contempt. This is dairy month and if there is a single district in the whole Dominion of Canada that can take a bow it is the Bay of Quinte community. The importance of dairy products is as ancient as the designation of a month is recent. T and T devotes shopping news today to a salute to the dairy industry generally and our own district especially. It is fitting that we chose this week. Your local radio station last year won an award for the whole of Canada for an independent station's contribution to the dairy industry. Today C.J.S.O. has gone to the country to honor and praise the greatest contributor to the Bay of Quinte farmer, the farmer's housewife and the farmer's family. The countless inventions in the minds of men cannot, we will never, list the simple fact that all dairy products come from the land. From the herds of Abraham to the herds browsing on our Quinte farms, the maintenance of life derives from the pastures, the grain fields and labor of the farmer. One might be excused a little bit if he or she made an attempt to wax poetical by talking about the staff of life, cows chewing their cuds, isn't it true that throughout the ages the portrait of all this has been a delight to the imaginative artist.

Modern methods and modern merchandising may be a far cry from Abraham but, nevertheless, the eye catching packages we have to chose from in our stores depend on the primary producer. From the raw milk, to butter to the curd, the whey, the cheese, to the delectable tidbits in appealing wrappers, all go to make up the dairy industry. Surely if there is any facet of modern life that is deserving of a month, a week or a day to be designated in its honor, it is the dairy industry, from the land to the table. You do not have to be a professor of economics or a minister of trade and commerce to realize that the healthy prosperity of our farmers is a perrequisite to prosperity in the whole nation. And so T and T salutes the dairy industry in all its departments by suggesting we support the products of our farms here in the Quinte district and throughout the land.

Having Child Should Give Women Joy

MONTREAL (CP) — Obstetricians are agreed that having a child should be a joyous experience for women, involving a minimum of interference with the processes of nature.

This was brought out Monday during the second world congress of the International Federation of Gynaecology and Obstetrics under way here.

The congress emphasized psychoprophylactic preparation — or "natural" childbirth—for women. It said that prospective mothers shouldn't worry, be active and cheerful up to the last minute and forget "old wives" tales about agony and danger.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHEN MAN IS INTRODUCED TO MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know a man should always stand up when he is introduced to a woman. But should he also stand when he is introduced to another man? — George.

Yes. Not only is this the polite thing to do, but, since men shake hands when they are introduced, it's naturally more comfortable for a man to rise to shake hands as he acknowledges the introduction.

PROBLEM FOR MAN IN RESTAURANT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are dining together in a restaurant; a woman friend comes to the table; my husband rises. If or when this woman says to him, "Please don't get up," or "Please don't rise," or "Please sit down," should he take her at her word? He says he should, since she is the one who suggests it. But I think he should stand while she stands. Who's right about this? — R. and E.

You are. A polite man would feel awkward, discourteous, to sit down when a woman is standing at his table. If your husband says the woman visitor at the table shouldn't give this order, he's absolutely right. . . What she should do is (1) leave as soon as possible, so the man standing can comfortably sit down, or (2), if she really must stay longer, take a seat at the table.

SEATING ARRANGEMENTS AT REHEARSAL DINNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We, the groom's mother a n d father, will give the rehearsal dinner. Please advise me about the correct seating of the guests at the table. For example, w h o sits at my right, and who sits at my husband's right?

— Groom's mother

There are no definite rules about the seating-arrangement for this rehearsal dinner. Since at the wedding reception the bride's mother and father will be the hosts, and you and your husband the guests of honor at your pre-rehearsal dinner, assign t h e honor-place at your right to the bride's mother. Then the bride-to-be and the groom-to-be might be seated side by side at the center of one side of the table, she at his right.

"THE BRIDE CUTS THE CAKE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been told that when the bride, with the groom, cuts the slice of the wedding cake they are to share together, this is the only slice she is supposed to cut. True? If so, who cuts the rest of the cake? — Bride-to-be

At most weddings the bride (with the help of the groom) cuts only this first slice of the wedding cake which they share together. Then at large weddings the caterer or a caterer's assistant or other attendant takes charge of the cutting and serving of t h e cake. At some intimate weddings, the bride and or her mother ask a woman relative or a friend of the family to take over this pleasant task. And quite often, at more or less informal weddings, the guests cut their own pieces of cake.

Two Meals From One Dollar Tongue

by Mary Moore

My drop in the ocean to halt the recession wave and start a boom tide is to tell you about the cheap dinner we had last night.

For a pickled tongue weighing 3 pounds 14 ounces, I paid $1.00. For three small sweet potatoes, which I baked, I paid 10c; for 1 package new field spinach 19c; for 1 Cuban pineapple 25c. Cash outlay was $1.54. The tongue will serve two meals to three of us women, and the leftover shredded pineapple will be half of a fruit cup for tonight's dessert. I boiled the leftover tongue to make the menu for tonight as different as possible.

BOILED PICKLED TONGUE

Wash then barely cover the tongue with warm water. Add 1 bay leaf and 2 slices of onion and 1-8 teaspoon pepper and simmer covered 4 hours. Slit skin and peel it off and remove the little bones from base. Serve hot, sliced lengthwise at the side of tongue, with raisin sauce: Three-quarters cup water, 1-3 cup seedless raisins, juice of 1 orange, 1-3 cup brown sugar well packed, 2 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch, sprinkle of nutmeg, salt, and mace. Add raisins to water and simmer in saucepan 5 minutes. Mix dry ingredients and cornstarch, stir in orange juice until smooth. Stir into hot raisin-water until thick. Season. Serve hot with hot sliced pickled tongue. Lovely with ham too.

JELLIED TONGUE

Half of the tongue was left. So I cooled it tightly in a glass bowl and poured over this jelly liquid: Strain liquid in which tongue was boiled and measure 1-2 cup and in it soak 2 tablespoons gelatine. You need 2 more cups so boil down remainder until you have them. Pour the hot liquid over soaked gelatine and stir until dissolved. If desired, flavor with a chicken bouillon cube, 1 tablespoon vinegar and a little extra pepper. Pour over tongue in bowl turn weight down firmly with small plate. Chill overnight. The jelly part of this is so firm and flavorful it slices to perfection and adds substantially to the nourishing protein content of this dish.

Note: Years ago I wrote a column on tongue and a butcher in town and phoned the editor saying he would like to know in future when this was going to happen for all the tongues he had on hand were gone by 9:30 p.m.!

Note 2: (To church supper convenors) The Raisin Sauce above could be multiplied to make a large quantity to serve with hot sliced ham. Buy tiny 1 1-4" paper cups (used for jam etc. on trains and in restaurants) and fill with the Raisin Sauce and serve one on each plate beside the ham

Mother's Helper

EVEN after your children are past the age to need the consistency of prepared junior foods, don't overlook them as occasional treats. Keep a few jars of puddings and fruit sauces on hand for quick desserts or snacks. Also, junior soups are extra nourishing for convalescents, and so easy to serve.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edgar A. — Her place is in the home.

Marcia A. — But I love to get out of the house.

Edgar A. — My wife and I have been married nearly 11 years and have three young children. You'd think that would be about enough to keep any woman busy — but not my wife.

Marcia: belongs to two clubs and the church choir as well. She runs herself ragged doing things for the organizations and spends half her mornings on the telephone chatting with the girls. Then when I come home she tries to wrap an apron around me and tells me to help her with dinner. I read an article by a doctor that said no red-blooded male should do this.

These articles in newspapers and magazines tell how American men are becoming a race of weaklings because of dominating females, and I don't intend to let it happen to me. A woman's place is in the home — and nowhere else.

Marcia A. — Yes, I guess I'm just one of those awful modern American women they're all writing about. I love to get out of the house.

A man is allowed to say he's glad to get out of the office, but if a woman says she's dying to get away from the home and children, everyone jumps down her throat and says she's no real woman and she's ruining the race.

I love my kids, bless 'em. I'm not crazy about housework, b u t I do it and I don't complain either. Sometimes I break up the day a bit with a telephone chat. Maybe I do it too much, but then I'm the loser. I have to rush twice as hard the next day.

I'm not trying to dominate my husband or wrap him up in apron strings. Does it really make him less of a man to help get dinner twice a week when I go to meetings?

The Council: We don't go along with the currently propagandized notion that a sharp line must separate men's activities from those of women. The work allotted to each sex is a variable thing that changes with different generations and societies. Individual couples within the society often arrive at their own arrangements which are more satisfactory to each partner than the prevalent mode.

We don't believe a man loses his manliness when he puts on an apron, but if he feels he is endangering himself in any way, we would recommend slacks and a sport shirt when he gives his wife a hand in the kitchen.

We can almost guarantee that contact with a pot will not in itself endanger anyone, but weeping and wailing about one's sad plight is sure to tear down both self-respect and the respect of children.

We cannot judge whether or not Marcia is fulfilling all of her responsibilities in the home. That is something only she and her husband can decide, but we certainly think her desire to get away from the home should be satisfied — within reason. And that means without placing too great a burden on her husband.

Some co-operation on Edgar's part is necessary, and we think he should recognize that it is worth it. Despite his sweeping pronouncement, we do not think that he would like a wife whose place was in the home "and nowhere else."

As societies dominated by this idea, it was also the man's custom to seek feminine companionship outside of his home. His wife was a rather unendurable companion.

American men on the whole prefer to make companions of their wives and wouldn't be happy if the women suddenly decided to retire into a haremlike feminine world.

Albert College Conservatory Of Music Presents 3rd Recital

Third in a series of recitals by the Albert College Conservatory of Music was given on Tuesday evening in Memorial Chapel. The instructors of the piano pupils were Miss Bessie Hanley, William Conney and Egerton Boyce and of the vocal students, Egerton Boyce.

Dr. T. C. McMullen, of the Albert College teaching staff, welcomed the guests in a brief speech. Quite a number of parents and friends were present to hear the young people perform, and it was a sympathetic audience who applauded the efforts of the students.

While it is difficult to single out an individual number for special mention in a program that covered 41 selections, the ensemble presentations were especially good, particularly the vocal duets, quartets and double trios. These arrangements had a pleasing quality the voices were well-blended and the young ladies showed considerable promise. It also made a well-balanced program. The young pianists showed varied skill at the piano which was inevitable with such a long list of performers.

The program which continued without further introductions follows:

Virginny (Bland), (b) Starlight Waltz (Brainard), Lois-Lynn Sokalscul duet, Like as the Hart (Novello), Betty Else and Ellen Vincent.

Piano, Sonatina in F (Beethoven), Nora Payne; piano, (a) Sparks (Thompson), (b) Rondo (Diabelli), Karen Bateman; piano, Rondo (Clementi), Betty Hodgson; piano duet, Little Emerald (Engelmann), Corinne Dewdney and Sandra Hinchliffe; piano, Two Little Froggies (Cramm), Betty Ellen Sprague; piano, Sleigh Ride (Coutts), (b) Moira McLaughlin; ladies' quartet, My Task (Ashford), Gloria Bowler, Betty Else, Anne Mott and Ellen Vincent; piano, Waltz (Kabalevsky), Susan Robson; piano, Sonatina (Dunsek), Elizabeth Hamilton; vocal, O Saviour Hear Me (Gluck) Sheila Spencer.

Male Nurses In Majority in Some Countries

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Nurses Association confer. ence has been told that nursing is a dedicated calling but nurses have a right to a living standard "comparable to that of similar professions."

Agnes Ohlson of Hartford, Conn., Tuesday told the nurses it was important that they establish their own bargaining procedures.

Theirs was a "dedicated calling," she said. "But this does not preclude the right to expect a standard of living comparable to that of similar professions.

"And it is their responsibility to find "an orderly process by which this may be achieved for their membership," she added.

The week - long convention opened here Monday.

Lyle Creelman of Vancouver, chief of the World Health Organization's nursing section, told the all - woman association male nurses are in the majority in some countries.

This situation would probably change as more girls were educated but she hoped boys always "will be encouraged to enter nursing and that there will be opportunities to continue in the profession." Male nurses had a "real contribution" to make in various phases of nursing.

In earlier sessions, Berta MacLennan of Halifax, nursing service chairman, said research is urgently needed to determine staffing needs under the proposed hospital insurance plan.

Katherine MacLaggan of Fredericton, N.B., nursing education chairman, urged provincial nursing bodies to press for a real voice in plans for national hospital insurance.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

ISLAND THURLOW — A large number of members and visitors of Quinte W.I. met at their new W.I. hall, Front Road, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ken Vivian, president, and Mrs. E. Jeffery, sec.-treasurer, conducted the business period.

Mrs. Insley and Mrs. D. Atkins, conveners of Canadian Industry arranged the program. A planned bus tour of the Canada Cement Co. was cancelled owing to the heavy rain. A paper on "British Columbia Salmon Fishing" by Mrs. Insley; a duet by Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. C. Reid; a solo by Mrs. Insley, and a well prepared paper on the motto by Mrs. Archie Greatrix were enjoyed.

Mrs. D. Atkins conducted a quiz on "Industries in Belleville Area, What They Manufacture and Their Uses." Refreshments were served by Mesdames Parrott, Tufts, Ken Reid, Docter and M. Reid. A social time was enjoyed.

Elizabethan Party Enters Political Fray

LONDON (Reuters)— A fledgling group known as the Elizabethan Party entered the British political—arena Monday to fight against turning Britain into "a satellite of the United States."

The party named its first candidate — Frederick Guest, 44-year-old journalist and publicist —for the next general election due within two years. Party leaders say they plan to have 50 candidates in the field by election time.

Guest said the aim of the party is to fight "the defeatism and decay of the old parties who have treacherously betrayed our country, turning it into a satellite of the United States."

Most of the founders of the party are armed forces veterans.

The party chose its name "to symbolize the first Elizabethan age when the foundations of nearly four centuries of unrivalled British power and greatness were laid."

Dead American Flyer's Papers Kidnapping Clue

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times Monday published documents in the handwriting of American flier Gerald Murphy linking him to the disappearance of Dr. Jesus de Galindez.

The documents also include an apparent chronicle of events connected with Dr. Galindez' disappearance.

A timetable of a flight to the Dominican Republic that corresponds to the alleged flight of the kidnapping aircraft is included.

Galindez, a Columbia University lecturer and critic of Dominican dictator Raefael Trujillo, disappeared in New York March 11, 1956. Fears of Trujillo have charged that Galindez was kidnapped and flown to the Dominican Republic by Murphy.

Murphy himself vanished in Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican capital. Later the Dominican government announced that Murphy had been murdered by a jealous Dominican pilot, who then committed suicide in reforma.

The Times said state department consular officials found the papers in Murphy's Dominican apartment after his disappearance Dec. 3, 1956.

Town Being Sued By Former Police Officers

ORANGEVILLE (CP) — This town 25 miles northwest of Toronto, and its police chief, John Traynor, are being sued for $5,000 by Albert Cowan, a former police officer.

In a writ issued June 16, Mr. Cowan says he was wrongfully dismissed from the force and deprived of a fair hearing. He is also claiming costs and wages of $10 a day since May 19.

Reeve Walker Montgomery said Mr. Cowan's resignation was accepted at a hearing before council and the police committee last May. He said Mr. Cowan had been asked to resign after a fair hearing.

Think U.S. Yacht Adrift Near Coast of China

TOKYO (AP) — All Japanese fighting vessels in the East China Sea were ordered to look out Monday for an American yacht which may be drifting near the Communist Chinese mainland with Hollywood actor John Calvert and seven others aboard.

The Thespian of Los Angeles, owned and skippered by Calvert, left Keeling, Formosa, in bad weather last Monday. The actor expected to reach Japan Thursday or Friday.

Japanese coast guard officials said there should be no danger of the yacht being seized by the Chinese Communists as long as it remains well off the China coast.

BRITISH MISSILE

PERTH, Australia (Reuters)— A British ballistic missile capable of a 2,000-mile range and a speed of 19,000 miles an hour, will be fired during tests at a target of only 30 miles diameter, Supply Minister Athol Townley announced Sunday.

CENTENARY

Farewell Gifts Made to Pastor, Wife, Family

CENTENARY — A congregational gathering of note was held in Centenary United church hall on Friday evening, to honor the newly ordained minister, the Rev. Bob Percival, his wife and family on their departure to their new charge, July 1.

A variety program arranged by groups 1 and 2 of the Fellowship Club and assisted by the Young People's Quartet, i brought many laughs, Harold Hancock, as chairman, welcomed and interspersed the numbers with his wry wit.

Keith Johnston as "Madame" and Ross Windsor, appropriately dressed as a gentleman of distinction, sang "When You and I Were Young Maggie," also "Reuben and Rachael".

A skit "Maggie and Jiggs at the Golden Gate" was well received. Those taking part were Fred Edmondson as "St. Peter," Ruth Johnston as "Maggie," Bernard May as "Jiggs" with Vivian Windsor as the "Imp" and Keith Silliker as "Gabriel" while Dorothy Edmondson did the narrating.

The Ladies' Quartet, the Misses E. Hancock, M. Christopher, D. Ray and L. Ray thus sang two numbers, "It is no Secret", and "Standin' in the Need of Prayer".

Mrs. Fred Edmondson, in costume, led in a lively sing-song with Mrs. Harold Hancock, also in costume, at the piano.

MINSTREL SHOW

The finale was a "Minstrel Show" featuring such songs as "Ole Ole Woodin' Buckit," "Ol' Black Joe," also a solo and dance by Topsy. Those taking part were: Fred Edmondson as "Pete" the little boy; Ruth Johnston as Topsy, the little girl; Elsie Hancock as "Dinah"; Bernard May and Joan Sills as "Sambo" and "EmLine"; Ross Windsor as "Rastus"; Keith Johnston as "George Washington" Johnston; Mabel Hart and Agatha May as "Mollie and Lizy," with Elwin Hart as "Old Black Joe".

At this time Mr. Percival, Mrs. Percival and boys, Bill, Glen, Barry and Terry were asked to take seats of honor on the platform. Mr. Edgar Ray, treasurer of the board, read an address prepared by Mr. Douglas Holton, and presented on behalf of the congregation, expressing appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Percival for their gracious work among them, and wishing them a rewarding ministry in their new field of labor.

PRESENTATION MADE

Following the address, Mrs. Fred Aikens, Mrs. Byron Harder and Mrs. Reg. Edmondson, members of the W. A. and W. M. S. presented Mr. Percival with a commutation set, Mrs. Percival with a silver tea service and coach of the boys with an ballisled utility bag.

Mr. Percival thanked his many friends for their gifts, and good wishes, and Mrs. Percival later also expressed her thanks and invited everyone to their new home.

A little on the light side and humorous, depicting reminiscences and happy times for Rev. A. C. McCallum, Mrs. H. Mooney and the Percivals was a presentation to "Bob" made by Mrs. Mooney of a box of tea bags and cookies. Mr. MacCallum spoke very highly of "Bob" and wished him God's speed in his great undertaking.

Two verses of "Blest be the Tie that Binds" were sung after which everyone partook of a buffet lunch arranged by groups 3 and 4 of the Fellowship Club and assisted by members of the W. A.

Everyone had a most enjoyable evening wishing Mr. and Mrs. Percival well and prayers for success in their new field of labor and much happiness on their new home.

BOMBS START FIRE

WHITEHORSE, Y. T. (CP)— RCAF disposing of surplus bombs apparently started a forest fire about 20 miles north of here. The fire was reported burning in an area four miles long with a two-mile front. About 5,000 acres have been destroyed since Thursday. The fire apparently began when flying shrapnel hit the dry bush.

Relics of Weird Cremation Ritual 35 Centuries Ago Uncovered Near Cornwall

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORNWALL Ont. (CP)—Relics of a weird cremation ritual 35 centuries ago have been uncovered by archaeologists on a sandy island plateau overlooking the St. Lawrence River near this Seaway Valley city.

Fire - bleached bones, pottery fragments and stone tools have been found in shallow burial pits lined with red ochre a few inches under the sand of a public park on nearby Sheek Island. It is considered a major discovery of the Point Peninsula people, a primitive cult, that wandered Eastern Canada before the Indians.

An archaeological expedition led by Dr. Norman Emerson of the University of Toronto has launched a month - long "blitz dig" to collect the last clues to the fiery burial rites before a man-made flood starts July 1 to inundate the island under a new 35-mile-long lake.

BULLDOZER FOR SPEED

"Times is short," says the expedition leader, a 41-year-old anthropologist. "We're using a bulldozer, sort of a new tool for archaeologists."

For the last two summers, Dr. Emerson has led a team of professional and amateur diggers in the pre - Indian burial ground, camping in tents where the ancient people burned their dead and buried the bones. The site overlooks the Long Sault Rapids—a place of "power and mystery" that Dr. Emerson says must have gripped the earlier visitors.

On some weekends as many as 40 persons—whole families including children and dogs—joined the dig, cautiously scraping away the sand in five-foot squares with trowels and grapefruit knives, using a brush to sweep around discovered relics.

Major finds — shaped arrowheads, native copper awls, stone axes and burned bones — were photographed, sketched and mapped on a master plan of the burial site. Each piece was marked for location and level.

The pottery fragments—less than an inch in size, provide the chief clues to the Point Peninsula culture. The nomadic people shaped their pots in a special way and scored distinctive decorations on the clay in an identifying pattern.

PRESSED FOR TIME

But with the forthcoming flood facing them, the archaeologists this summer were forced to adopt unusual digging methods. A bulldozer scrapes the surface in three-inch-deep bites, followed by a trained student who scans for relics. An air hose blows away the sand piles, leaving any fragments scooped up by the bulldozer.

"We were hesitant last year about turning the park into a shambles," said Dr. Emerson in an interview on the site. "But with the flood coming it doesn't matter this year."

"We have fun. We have singsongs and parties some nights. Some go swimming. Others go into Cornwall."

They didn't have much privacy, however, with their camp smack in the centre of Ault Park, a favorite picnic spot for Cornwall people.

"Visitors would stand over our shoulders and stare, but we got used to it," said Bruce Trigger, 20, a fourth-year anthropology honor student from Stratford Ont. He and Dick Pearson, 20, of Oakville, Ont., were Dr. Emerson's chief assistants.

Before starting the 1958 dig, the trio spent four days preparing an exhibition of their Point Peninsula finds for the Cornwall museum, while two other members of the expedition set up their two-tent camp on the wind-blown plateau.

The three-year search was financed largely by a $9,000 grant from the National Museum and the University of Toronto. Most of the diggers were unpaid, working for the fun and their food. Some came as far as from New York to spend their holidays on Sheek Island.

When the Ruby flood inundates the area for a power pool, for Ontario Hydro's joint $600,000,000 hydro-electric project with New York state, the island location will be available only to fish and frogmen.

"We're thinking of placing a plaque on a big boulder by our camp in honor of the site," said Dr. Emerson. "Then skin divers may be able to find it underwater. Who knows maybe the water will wash up more graves and relics!"

CAMPBELLFORD

Principles of Hi Fi Revealed To Rotarians

CAMPBELLFORD — The principles of high fidelity sound reproduction, more commonly known as Hi-Fi, were described and demonstrated to members of Campbellford Rotary Club recently when they had as their guest, Ian Main, of Dominion Electrohome Industries, Kitchener. Mr. Main was accompanied by John Slumkoski.

"Hi-Fi is a most abused term in referring to the reproduction and amplification of sound," Mr. Main said. It is a system of recording and producing sound with all the perfection posible. It is not new, as frequency modulation (F.M.) was introduced into radio as early as 1928.

"However, as late as the last war, most radios or record machines were purchased with the eye rather than the ear. With the new vinyl record came the new concept of fidelity in sound systems. The human ear is designed to receive sound from 16 to 16,000 waves per second. The old type record player or radio could reproduce sound from 100 to 5,000 waves per second. The lowest bass notes have a frequency of about 30 and the high treble up to 20,000; consequently the inadequancy of the old type receivers. They could not pick up all the sound because of limited capacity and therefore one could not hear all the music.

"In playing a record, the needle vibrates upon contact with the record and electrical energy is transmitted to the speakers where it is amplified many times.

"In the Hi-Fi set the principle is the same. The cartridge is designed to pick up the sound without distortion and transmit to the amplifier. The turn table speed must be constant and the mechanism perfectly silent. The rate-arm should be adjustable as to pressure and able to move perfectly free. The amplifier must be capable of receiving electrical signals from frequencies of 20 to 20,000, with distortion of about 1 per cent. The 10-watt amplifier is enough for home amplification.

There are at least two tone controls, one for bass and one for treble and two volume controls, as the ear does not hear all sounds equally well. Because of the great variation in the number of cycles between bass and treble there must be more than one speaker. A large speaker which carries the bass notes at about 20 vibrations per second is not suitable for the high notes at a frequency of 20,000. Bass and treble speakers are necessary and some sets have mid-frequency speakers. Thus there must be a traffic system to sort out the sounds and direct them to the proper range amplifiers. The cabinets are constructed, necessarily of wood and their construction is most important.

Stereophonic sound, formerly available on tape only, is produced from two microphones representing a person's ears and a greater depth of sound is consequently produced. It will be available soon in L.P. records.

In conclusion, Mr. Main stated Hi-Fi is not expensive, it is now comprable in price to a good radio-record player of five to 10 years ago.

The speaker was introduced by Frank DeCarrol and thanked by Frank Linton.

Naval Chief of Staff Says Submarine Worse Threat To America Than ICBMs

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — In Canada's over - all defence strategy, the navy is receiving increasing attention.

The reason: The missile-launching submarine.

Vice - Admiral Harry DeWolf, chief of the naval staff, says he considers the missile-firing submarine a greater threat to North America than the intercontinental ballistic missile.

The submarine is a flexible and mobile weapon. Equipped with a missile of 1,500 miles range, it could hit any target in North America. Both the intercontinental missile and manned bomber required fixed land bases.

MIGHT START WAR

Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, has said that another incident might start a bomber raid but with a submarine attack on North American ports.

Officials estimate that the Russians have at least 200 submarines and that they can do at least as well as the United States in equipping them with missiles. The U.S. has launched missiles from underwater submarines.

Consequently, in the opinion of officials here, the navy will require a system to keep track of surface and undersea vessels in the same way that radar keeps track of all aircraft flying over North America.

The main method of trying to achieve this goal is to keep the Canadian fleet at sea all the time, or, at least, just as long as possible.

The great drawback to today's destroyer fleet is its brief endurance at sea. Ships must be constantly refuelled.

The solution is nuclear propulsion. A vessel with nuclear fuel can remain at sea for months at a time.

The Royal Canadian Navy may tackle the endurance problem in two ways: A small fleet of tankers to replenish warships at sea and construction of a nuclear-propelled submarine fleet.

The first would be an intermediary step until the advent of submarines. Admiral DeWolf says construction would take two years or more to get started and this estimate is based on the assumption that Canada's allies would supply technological and scientific information required.

Admiral DeWolf says it's beginning to look as if the best means to fight a submarine is with another submarine. As another officer put it, a submarine would be like an airplane dogfight in slow motion.

The navy, as anti - submarine force, has no intention of giving up its surface ships, however. Its program for 14 new destroyers laid down in 1950 will be completed next year and the navy has authority to go ahead with construction of six more destroyers.

The St. Laurent class destroyer and its successor, the Restigouche, are designed as best ships of their type in the world.

Submarine detection has improved tremendously since the Second World War—to the point, in fact, that the detection gear in the RCN has greater range than the mortars which fire the depth charges.

This is why the navy wants a new anti-sub weapon and it is eying the U.S. Navy Rat, a device which fires a missile carrier and then lowers the missile into the water by parachute.

Young Adults Should Have Polio Vaccine

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians old enough to know better are the ones who neglect to take advantage of polio vaccine protection.

This is the word from federal health authorities like Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, deputy minister of health, who said in an interview that "the young adult who misses this insurance is just crazy."

Dr. Cameron said most health authorities concerned with the polio vaccination program, begun in Canada in 1955, believe the most-important age groups to be reached now are pre-school children and young adults.

He figured the toughest group to reach will be adults up to about 40 years old. Many wives had been to their doctors for the vaccine, but it was harder to get husbands to take the time.

Yet, said Dr. Cameron, "some of the worst tragedies caused by polio have occurred in young adults, because they didn't die." Once during a polio epidemic in Winnipeg more than 20 young pregnant wives were in iron lungs.

Federal health experts estimate that more than 5,000,000 Canadians had received one or both of the required three inoculations up to June 1. About 75 per cent of these are estimated to have had all three shots.

Of the total, it is estimated that 30 to 90 per cent are between three months and 19 years old

Believed Demonstrations Planned Gesture of Reds

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The shattered windows of the Russian and East German embassies in Moscow offer fresh evidence of the deep and unreasoning hostility of the uneasiness among Russia's rulers.

There can be no doubt that the mobs of demonstrators outside the two buildings acted under orders in a planned gesture of retaliation for similar activities outside Russia's embassies in Bonn and Copenhagen. Moscow is not noted for spontaneous political gatherings.

For reasons of their own, the Russians chose to single out the Germans and the Danes, although similar incidents occurred at their legations in Ottawa, New York, Montevideo, Buenos Aires and other Western cities following the execution of Imre Nagy and his fellow-leaders of the Hungarian revolt.

THIN SKINNED

In their protests to the governments concerned, the Russians argued with some justice that the violence had been instigated by irresponsible elements. Most political riots are the product of a certain degree of planning.

But the Russians are equally aware that there is nothing artificial in the revulsion and anger that greeted their announcement of the executions. It cannot have come as a surprise to them that their bloody suppression of the Hungarian rebels remained fresh in the world's memory.

Where Stalin would have calmly murdered his victims and ignored the resulting outcry, the present Soviet leaders have given the appearance of being remarkably thin-skinned.

REASONS UNCLEAR

It is possible that Nikita Khrushchev's expressions of outraged innocence are going down well at home. But the reaction abroad, even from uncommitted nations and among the Communist parties of the West, makes it clear that he is pleading an indefensible case.

Few convincing explanations have been offered for Khrushchev's conduct. The suggestion that he was aiming a blow at the deviationism of Yugoslavia's President Tito and similar Communist heretics ignores the predictable stiffening of their hostility as a result of Nagy's death.

The move has been interpreted as a warning to Poland's Premier Gomulka and other satellite leaders against efforts to slacken the bonds of Russian control. But they already were aware of their precarious position, while the Hungarians themselves needed no fresh reminder of Russia's capacity for ruthlessness.

The possibility remains that Khrushchev's troubles arise at home, with the same class of students, intellectuals and minor officials who formed the core of the Hungarian uprising. Their activities, if any, would be well reported by Russian censorship from getting abroad.

Ever since he attained power, Khrushchev has demonstrated a shrewd ability to capitalize on every opportunity to strengthen Russia's international position. Only the existence of an unknown domestic factor could account for what would otherwise appear to amount to a senseless squandering of his gains.

Under these circumstances, the unleashing of crowds of demonstrators in Moscow could set a precedent that will not easily be forgotten.

Mob demonstrations, as the Manchester Guardian observes, can be habit-forming. Khrushchev might do well to consider putting shatter-proof glass in his own office windows.

Child Falls Across Basket, Bleeds to Death

GRAND VALLEY, Ont. (CP)—Sharon Lee Hillis, four, bled to death Tuesday after falling across an egg basket which cut her throat. She was knocked over by a toppling bag of grain in her father's barn.

Sharon was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hillis who have a farm near this village, 23 miles north of Guelph.

Police said she was playing in a grain storage room while her father gathered eggs. Six bags of grain were piled in the room, one on top of each other. Grain pouring from a hole in the bottom bag threw the pile off balance and the top bag fell on the little girl, throwing her across tre egg basket.

B.C. Heat Wave Ends Abruptly

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia's heat wave ended abruptly Tuesday night as cool, cloudy weather moved into the west coast, tumbling temperatures nearly 30 degrees.

The Pacific province joined the rest of Canada with 70-degree temperatures today. Monday the mercury topped 100 in several B.C. areas.

There was no summer heat in prospect for any part of the country, the Dominion weather bureau reported today. Manitoba and Ontario are expected to have showers for the next 24 hours. Sunny skies are forecast over the western Prairies and the Maritimes.

Gas Association Delegates Warn Against too Many Demands on Government

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—Col. Maurice Forget, president of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, says too many persons demand too much from government—"an extremely dangerous trend for the individual as well as for the state."

In an address today to the annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association, he warned that the more people expect from the state, the more they have to give up in rights at individuals.

"It is the state's right and duty to act as watch-dog and controller. But this privilege and prerogative can and must prevail within the framework of a system safeguarding and improving private possessions of every person.

"In this respect, our regime is one of mutual understanding. Our various governments, irrespective of their political affiliations, have always highly respected the individual, the human being: At the same time they have upheld the principles of private initiative and private enterprise."

WELCOMES DELEGATES

Colonel Forget welcomed the 250 representatives of the gas producers, pipeline companies, utilities and appliance and equipment manufacturers as the association's business session opened.

The text of his remarks was released to the press before delivery.

Retiring association President H. C. Darroch of Toronto told the opening session there has been an inclination to interpret the upsurge of national spirit in Canada as "a show of anti-American ism."

"Speaking for the vast majority of Canadians, and as a fourth generation Canadian, I want to say that this is not so. It is obviously untrue, and any expressions of animosity can only be from a non-thinking few who do not know the difference between a willing partner and an unwilling satellite."

INVESTIGATION HELD UP

PRESTON (CP) — Police Chief Thomas Livingstone said Tuesday investigation into the slaying of Mrs. Helen Rahman, 44-year-old widowed storekeeper, is at a standstill pending a report from the provincial police criminal investigation branch. The body of Mrs. Rahman, who had a small store and gasoline station south of Hespeler, was found beside her car in the garage Friday. Her skull was fractured and crushed by several blows.

RAPID BAGGING

First bag of cement is filled by operators at Canada's newest cement plant at Picton, Ontario, which has machinery to fill up to 1,500 bags an hour. Owned by Lake Ontario Portland Cement Company Limited, the plant services the greater parts of southern Ontario and northern New York State. Plant has designed capacity of 5,000 U.S. barrels of cement a day or about 1,650,000 barrels a year. Also is capable of producing 30,000 tons of commercial aggregate (crushed stone for construction purposes) a week.

At Picton

$16 Million Cement Plant Going Into Full Production Is Canada's Newest Type

PICTON — Canada's newest cement plant, a $16 million operation on a ridge just outside of this picturesque resort town was put into full production today.

The mammoth white plant, which looks like a streamline fortress rearing Lake Ontario, has a designed capacity of 5,000 U.S. barrels of cement a day, or about 1,650,000 barrels a year. In addition, its commercial aggregate, or crushed stone, section is capable of turning out up to 750 tons an hour, or from 20,000 to 30,000 tons of product a week.

Owned by Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd., with headquarters in Picton and sales offices, storage silos and packing facilities in Toronto and Rochester, the plant services the greater parts of southern Ontario and northern New York State.

Portland cement, named after the Island of Portland off the coast of England, is made by burning carefully limited materials (limestone and argillaceous materials (usually clay or shale) until they fuse as a clinker.

Gypsum is added and the materials are ground to a fine powder which, when mixed with sand, stone or other aggregates and water, produce concrete or mortar.

The commercial aggregate or crushed stone division provides its product for construction purposes, such as in the building of roads and airport runways, and as ballast for railroad beds. It is also used for making building blocks.

COVER 700 ACRES

The company's plant and quarries, which cover approximately 700 acres, are situated on what is believed to be a practically limitless supply of high-grade limestone and have within a short distance sufficient quantities of sand and clay to take care of the plant's needs for many years to come. One quarry alone has sufficient reserves of limestone for 43 years.

Although the plant gives employment to approximately 200 persons, excluding those engaged at the offices in Toronto and Rochester, it is virtually a model of automation, having been equipped with the most up-to-date units for producing cement by means of the dry process.

Coal is used as fuel, while limestone, silicia sand, iron ore, clay and gypsum are needed as raw materials.

Ships can be loaded with cement at the company's docks at the rate of between 2,000 and 3,000 barrels an hour, while coal, used for the kiln firing, can be unloaded at the rate of 2,000 barrels an hour.

The private dock can handle ships up to 15,000 net weight tons without difficulty, allowing these products to be shipped in huge quantities to Toronto and Rochester by the cheapest method of transportation. However, the company also ships its products by rail and road.

LAB UNIT

The plant's laboratory, employing a staff of 16, including the plant chemist, his assistant, four other professional chemists and an engineer, is one of the most important units on the site.

It is fully equipped with the latest instruments, such as the flame-photometer, used to determine the alkali content of a substance, which cuts the working time of one specific job from two days to one hour.

Equipment at the plant includes two rotary type kilns with internal recuperators, each kiln 11 feet in diameter and 375 feet in length. The cement bagging machinery can fill up to 1,500 bags an hour. Dust collectors are used throughout the operation, providing unusually good working conditions.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY:

VETERAN DOCTORS

PICTOU, N.S. (CP) — Honored by the annual meeting of the Pictou county medical society on the 50th anniversary of their medical school graduation, were Dr. John C. Ballem, McGill, and Dr. W. A. MacLeod, Dalhousie. Both have practised in this area for most of their careers.

H. J. McFarland is Key Man At Picton Cement Company, Is Chairman of the Board

Although no one could get him to move away from Picton, Harvey J. McFarland is a member of that select group of men every village, town and city needs.

At 91, he is a completely self-made man who goes out of his way to help people in need — but preferably those who don't know who he is.

Mr. McFarland (everyone calls him Harvey) is the chairman of the board of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd., which has just opened a $16 million plant at Picton.

He also is president of the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. Ltd., of Robindale Quarries Ltd., and of the Royal Hotel, all of Picton. In addition, he is the mayor of the town of Picton.

Mr. McFarland was born at Roblin and attended the public school in that village, which is just north of Napanee.

He started to work for his father at the age of 12, firing the steam engines for the family's threshing machines.

"Dad paid me from 25 to 50 cents a week," he recalls. "But never more than 50 cents. So one day I told my mother that I wanted more money, I didn't speak to Dad because both of us were quick-tempered and I knew it would result in a fight. But mother was not able to raise my salary. Dad told her that if I wanted more money I had better go out and make it."

His Worship H. J. McFarland, mayor of Picton and chairman of the board of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd.

LEAVES HOME

And Harvey McFarland did just that, leaving the family homestead with nothing but overalls, a shirt and a pair of winter boots.

He was befriended by a 50-year-old farmer who gave him lodging in return for work performed on he could make to buy a team of horses and a set of sleighs which he finally acquired at age of 16 and headed into the brush to cut and haul wood.

Little did Mr. McFarland know at that time that within a few years he would own the farm of his 50-year-old friend. Today the quarries on it supply some of the CPR tacks between Toronto and Montreal.

"I well remember," says Mr. McFarland, "my first job on that farm, crawling down a 35-foot well to clean out the dead frogs."

Mr. McFarland got along well in the bush, and the bush treated Mr. McFarland well. Before long he had built his own saw mill and threshing machines.

He realized, however, that it was no good having steam engines if they were not kept busy. From the time, no he hired out to the counties and townships in the area to crush stone for new roads.

Meantime, Mr. McFarland took up boxing, becoming the heavyweight champion of all the camps in the Roblin area. "I wrote a letter to Jack Dempsey", he muses, "saying I wanted to bring the heavy-weight champion of the world to Canada. He was willing to fight but I didn't have the money to put up, don't think, his interest in the sport began to diminish."

Soon Mr. McFarland was supplying counties and townships with rock he had crushed himself with his own machines, at the same time getting experience from old-timers about "how roads really should be built."

FIRST TENDER

By 1937 he had amassed enough equipment and capital to put up his first tender deposit on a highway construction job — the highway between Picton and the Glenora ferry — which he subsequently was awarded.

He had previously been a subcontractor.

"This road still stands", says Mr. McFarland, "and it has not had $30,000 spent on it since 1937. I think it's the best piece of highway in Canada."

It was this highway job that brought Mr. McFarland to Picton.

"The people were so nice to me" he says, "that I decided to make their home my home. They adopted me and I have tried to adopt them."

The Lake Ontario Portland Cement project was one of Mr. McFarland's visions, a sort of pet hobby which he planned and brought to fruition.

Today his construction company alone employs between 200 and 2,000 men, depending on the season and on the number of contracts in hand.

"We're not afraid to go anywhere", he says, "Nothing is too small for us, nothing too big."

What is Mr. McFarland's business philosophy?

Says he: "First, you've got to have friends. Then you've got to build up their confidence. Once you've done this, you start to build up your organization. Then you have to prove to governments that you can do a good job. You also have to prove to the bank that you're a good risk. Most important of all, however, you have to set an example at all times. You must always be capable of doing the things you say you can do. And you must always keep your promises. Remember, however,

G. D. deS. Wotherspoon, Q.C., partner in the Toronto law firm of Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt and president of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd.

EARLY RISER

Mr. McFarland usually rises at 6:30 a.m. and retires about 10:30 p.m. An average day could see him at his Picton office first thing, then en route by his private plane to Montreal for a conference.

He then might fly back to Toronto for lunch and keep a business appointment in Fort William the same afternoon, flying to Ottawa to spend the night. He has been a major contractor for 20 Canadian airports and is currently working on Uplands at Ottawa, which when completed will be one of the biggest in the world.

Quite apart from all this activity, Mr. McFarland finds time to fulfill impressively his duties as mayor of Picton, an office to which he was "appointed" nine years ago and one to which he has been elected by acclamation ever since.

Mr. McFarland is married and has two children — Harvey, Jr., 25, and Malcolm James, 12.

Champion Will Defend Title Against Harris In Aug. Says Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager says the heavyweight champion will defend his title against Tony Harris here Aug. 12—despite the denial of a promoter's license to Al Weill. But a Los Angeles matchmaker has other ideas.

George Parnassus of the Olympic Auditorium Club promptly challenged the Aug. 12 date. The Olympic's matchmaker Felix Pollet and Pete Rademacher to fight July 25 and Carmen Basilio and Art Aragon for Aug. 26. Any date in between Parnassus argued, would hurt either fight.

The California athletic commission Tuesday denied a licence to veteran fight figure Weill to promote the Patterson-Harris bout. A spokesman said the commission wasn't satisfied with Weill's explanation of his acquaintanceship with Frankie Carbo of New York, long a shadowy figure in U.S. boxing.

Weill, who managed Rocky Marciano to the heavyweight championship, called it "the worst deal I've had in 45 years in the game."

D'AMATO'S COMMENT

Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, in Houston, Tex., to watch Harris in a three-round exhibition, said:

"Every effort has been made to prevent this match. We are going to hold it in the very place they didn't want it." Without identifying the "they," he added:

"It feel it's the promoter's privilege to pick the site. After all, he puts up the money. We have the promoter, with the money, and he wants it in Los Angeles."

D'Amato said there is a distinct possibility the promoter might be Jack Hurley of Seattle. He didn't say whether Hurley has a California licence.

Eskys, Lions Want Their Cut

VANCOUVER (CP) — A judgment was entered in Supreme Court of British Columbia Tuesday by Mr. Justice F. K. Collins for $38,000 for British Columbia Lions and Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The judgment was against A. Forbes Crawford of Vancouver and the General Casualty and the General Insurance Companies of America.

It represents Crawford's guarantee of $21,000 to the Eskimos and $17,000 to the Lions for their exhibition games in San Francisco and Portland Ore., last August.

DROPO MOVES AGAIN

CINCINNATI (AP) — Veteran first baseman Walt Dropo, American League rookie of the year in 1950, was sold by Chicago White Sox to Cincinnati Redlegs in a waiver deal Tuesday. Although the price paid was not disclosed it was believed to be approximately $20,000. Dropo, 34, previously played with Boston and Detroit.

Tennis Pros Tour Russia

WIMBLEDON England (AP)—Jack Kramer said Tuesday he and three of his professional tennis players will make a three-week tour of Russia, probably in September.

Kramer said his troupe will include Pancho Gonzales and Frank Sedgman with Don Budge and Rex Hartwig as other possibilities.

"We not only will give exhibitions all around but we will do some coaching and help young players," Kramer said. "One of our jobs will be to help improve talent over there."

Kramer said he will make final arrangements with the Russian hosts.

Carkner 4-Hits Trenton Juniors As Pointers Rack up Nine in Row

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Point Anne Cementmen ran their unbeaten string to nine games at the Point last night when they blanked Trenton Legion Juniors 6-0 behind the four-hit hurling of big Al Carkner.

Carkner became the loop's leading pitcher with victory number nine last night while his mates did most of their hitting in one inning to salt the game away. They scored four times in the second frame and added single tallies in the fifth and seventh.

Meanwhile Carkner buried his usual steady game, scattering just enough hits to make things interesting. He toyed with a one-hitter for the first five frames and was in trouble only in the eighth when Trenton loaded the sacks on a walk to Long, Kennedy's pinch-hit infield single and an error. Carkner got cleanup batter Guy Austin on a popup to second base to leave three men stranded. He fanned four over the route and walked three. Seven Trenton runners were left on base over the distance.

Ron Wannamaker worked seven frames to suffer the loss. He gave up all Point Anne's runs on seven hits, whiffing one and walking one. He tossed baseless ball in every inning except when the Pointers scored. Howard Cole tossed the last inning, also walking and fanning one man.

Point Anne threatened to reach double figures as they pounded Wannamaker's offerings all over the lot in the big second stanza. The league's leading hitter, Johnny Batchelor started it with a sharp single to left and Kingston sacrificed successfully, Pat Gilmour capped a 3-game batting slump by lining a home run, his second of the campaign, to left field for a 2-0 score. Carkner drove home the next two runs with a single to centre field following base hits by Garry Gayer and Doug Soule.

Wannamaker got through the next two frames without difficulty but catcher Claude Carr added one run in the fifth with a solo homer to centre field. Carr also drove in the winner's last tally in the seventh. Soule walked, Carkner sacrificed and Carr's base knock to centre made it 5-0.

Carr was the only Cementman with more than one safety, his homer and single the only two hits gathered by his club after the second-frame uprising. Gilmour also homered for two RBI's while Carkner drove in a pair with a single and helped with a sacrifice. John Batchelor, Gary Gayer and Doug Soule shared the other hits.

Trenton coach Charlie Drake announced that his club's home games against the Bobcats, scheduled for Thursday night, has been shifted to a Friday night fixture, starting at 8:15 p.m.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A rough, tough husky, who exchanged a tattered $1,000 bill for the belt of a world wrestling champion, will be seen in ring action here Friday night.

He is Dick Hutton, fully accredited member of wrestling's Hate Inc., as far as fans hereabouts are concerned, who won the world handle from Lou Thesz and will place it on the line come fisheday evening against young, handsome Wilbur Snyder.

Snyder is a newcomer to these parts but no stranger to rassle fans who take their wrestling fare via the living room route. Mr. Snyder has been on television no end of times and his fast, agile style has caught the popular fancy hereabouts. He need not worry about fan support. Already the Snyder Booster Club is in action.

King Richard of the Hutton clan who waved a one-thousand dollar bill around so often a year ago it almost died a wind-whipped death, will find that he has his hands full when he tangles with the pride of the Snyders.

The handsome young challenger (he is 26 years of age) is a battler from Empire Bowling Building, has no fear of any rassler extant, especially Hutton, and has every intention of buckling that championship belt around his slim midriff before the mob curfew on Friday night.

He tips the scales at 240 pounds and is a product of Santa Monica, California. Born with an athletic mind he took to football like a half-starved fox to a plump hen at an early age and was a gridiron star in high school. He was so good he was rewarded a football scholarship, and attended the University of Utah on it.

He took the advice of his line coach and turned to wrestling during the off-season. He was an immediate success but the lure of the pigskin was too great and after leaving college he turned in the lucrative job of a professional football player. He joined the Los Angeles Rams and became a star with the well-known western pro squad.

Then he turned to Canada and Canadian football. He became associated with the Edmonton Eskimos with whom he played two years under the coaching of Frank Filchock. He helped the Eskies win the coveted Grey Cup in 1955.

Came the time when he decided to hang up the football cleats and call it a day with gridiron activities. He immediately turned to professional wrestling and was an instant success. He surged to the top rapidly and before you could count ten he was crowned with the Pacific Coast championship—a title he still holds.

He did not stop there. He went afield and took on all-comers. Rated one of the world's top grapplers, his towering achievement came when he met and defeated the classy Vern Gagne for the United States title.

Snyder is the clean-cut, rugged type, one who fights to win at all times. When he is not wrestling you will find him in a boat with his trusty fishing rod in his hands. He is an ardent boatman and fisherman.

Friday night he seeks the world championship. But he has a job of work on his hands. Hutton is a rough, tough customer, who will stop at nothing to keep the world crown atop his noggin. So it looks like top wrestling fare.

Then there are the Baillargeon brothers, Toni and Adrian, who tangle with Wee Willie Davis and Abe Zvonkin, in a tag-team semi-final with Pat Flanagan and Karl Steiff opening the show.

Blanks Orioles 5-0 As Yankees Nip Sox; Homer Kills Pirates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those St. Louis Cardinals, finding a key here for each series, have slam-banged into second place in the National League race on a month-long ride from the depths.

It was Joe Cunningham's lasting belts that gave the Cards a split in four games at Cincinnati last week. Then it was Ken Boyer's bat that beat the first-place Braves in two of three at Milwaukee over the weekend. And now it's Curt Flood doing the job against Pittsburgh.

The 20-year-old centre fielder, with four hits in Monday's success, killed the Pirates again Tuesday night, breaking up Rookie Kline's shutout bid with a two-run homer in the ninth for a 3-1 victory that extended St. Louis' winning string to four.

The Cards, who were in seventh place, eight games behind, a month ago, have been winning at a .643 clip (18-10) since and now are .002 percentage points ahead of the San Francisco Giants, who dropped to third with a 2-1 defeat at Milwaukee.

WINS HIS FIRST

In the other NL games, rookie John Briggs got his first win in the majors with an eight-hit shutout as Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 3-0. And the last-place Los Angeles Dodgers swept a tough twi-night twin bill with Cincinnati, winning 13-10 in 10 innings and 7-2 in 11.

Flood, batting 6-for-9 with three RBI in the two games at Pittsburgh, slugged his fourth homer after a walk to Junk Kline' afternoon shutout. Curt Flood drove in fourth in relief—and now is 9-8 in the majors since coming up with the Redbirds in 1956.

Warren Spahn, who had lost three in a row, stopped that nonsense with a three-hitter against the Giants, getting the runs he needed on a pair of homers, Ed Mathews' 13th and Joe Adcock's 14th.

Briggs, 24, a right-hander with a flock of bone chips in his elbow, struck out six and walked four—blanking the Phils on two hits over the last five innings. Al Dark's single, a sacrifice and an error gave the Cubs the big run in the ninth off Jack Sanford, now 5-6, and rookie Sammy Taylor hit his fourth homer, with one on, in the seventh.

BLEW LEADS

The Dodgers, who have won four of their last five, blew leads in both games. They nailed the opener with three in the 10th on homers by Gil Hodges and Joe Pignatano off old pal Don Newcombe, the latter in relief for a 1-7 record.

Duke Snider and Hodges homered for an early lead in the nightcap and then drove in three runs between them in a five-run 11th as Bob Purkey (2-4) lost his third straight. Sandy Koufax (5-3) won the opener in relief and saved the second game for rookie Dick Williams (3-1).

Walt Dropo, purchased from Chicago White Sox earlier in the day, got the Reds started in the nightcap with his first National League homer, off rookie Bob Giallombardo in the sixth inning.

Snider was 5-for-9 and drove in six runs in the doubleheader, Hodges was 5-for-9 with five RBI.

BYERLY TO MINORS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Washington Senators traded veteran pitcher Bod Byerly and an unspecified amount of money to Boston's Minneapolis farm Tuesday for left-hander Jack Dittmer. Byerly, 37-year-old reliever, had a 2-0 record with the Senators this season. Spring, 35, went to Minneapolis this year after spending most of 1957 at San Francisco.

Righthander Paul Foytack is finally in step with the Tigers' new winning spirit that has produced a contender in Detroit.

The Tigers have won 11 of 14 games under new manager Bill Norman, climbing from last place to within sight of second in the American League standings. Foytack was charged with two of the three defeats.

He got hot Tuesday night with a five-hit shutout that beat Baltimore Orioles 5-0.

While the Tigers moved within a half-game of second place, they remained 9½ games back of first-place New York as the Yankees beat Chicago White Sox 6-2.

Kansas City Athletics and Washington Senators played to a 3-3 tie held to eight innings by rain at Kansas City. Boston Red Sox beat Cleveland Indians 4-3.

FANNED FIVE

Foytack, now 6-7, struck out five men and walked two. The former Baltimore flrie up with a four-run fifth inning.

Rookie Milt Pappas (4-2) was the loser, giving up a single by Tito Francona and four singles in the fifth inning.

The White Sox, who had gained six shutouts in nine games, got only seven singles. Francona, Ron Early Wynn—then the Yankees hoped him for five runs in the fourth, all on homers. Mickey Mantle hit his 13th, Jerry Lumpe picked a two-run spot for his first in the majors, and Norm Siebern drove in his 30th with his third of the year, handing Wynn a 7-6 record.

STARTED FIRST TO WIN 11

Bob Turley, who had lost two in a row, became the first pitcher to win 11, giving up solos homers to Earl Torgeson and Jim Landis and getting superb relief from Ryne Duren. The rookie right-hander struck out six men in a hitless 3⅔-inning chore.

Vic Power, who was 4-for-4 and drove in all three Cleveland runs with a home run and a single, wound up as a goat for the Tribe, booting in Harvey Kuenn's 10th grounder as the winning run scored in a two-run Boston ninth. Leo Kiely (2-1) won it, with Hoyt Wilhelm (2-3) the loser, both in relief.

The Senators, blanked on five hits for six innings, caught up with Ralph Terry of the Athletics after an hour-long interruption by rain and scored twice in the seventh. Neil Chrisley's pinch-single tied the game.

Top Professional Officials Hail Immunity Vote For All Team Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top professional sports officials today hailed the House of Representatives' vote to grant sweeping immunity to baseball and other team sports from United States' anti-trust laws.

The bill would enable professional teams to continue long established practices such as player drafts and baseball's reserve clause. It also would give clubs more authority over television and radio broadcasts of games.

The same standards would cover the big four team sports—baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

The House passed the bill by voice vote Tuesday. The Senate still must act if the measure is to become law.

The bill, if passed, is one that all sports can live with, but it is in no sense a license," said baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

The House has expressed its confidence in American sports. It is now up to its democratic way that the confidence is not misplaced."

Similar praise of the legislation was voiced by national football commissioner Bert Bell and by major league commissioner George Trautman and Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League.

In passing the measure it did, the House turned down a bill sponsored by Emanuel Celler, (Dem-N.Y.) and approved by the judiciary committee. That bill would have singled out their professional sports from the anti-trust laws only to the extent that their practices were found "reasonably necessary" for the sport to function. Critics said the legislation would create a chaotic condition and deluge teams with law suits.

The bill that gained passage, says its effect, "shall only strictly business activities — things like stadium and concession operations—are subject to anti-trust prohibitions against monopoly and business restraint.

The substitute proposal, offered by Rep. Francis E. Walter (Dem-Pa), says the anti - trust laws cannot apply to contracts, agreements or other practices in the big four sports as they relate to:

1. Equalization of competitive playing strength.

2. The employment, selection or eligibility of players, or the reservation, selection or assignment of player contracts.

3. The right of teams and clubs to operate within specified geographic areas.

4. Regulation of rights to broadcast and telecast reports and pictures of games.

5. The preservation of public confidence in the honesty in sport contests (through commissioners' offices).

The bill preserves the right of players to bargain collectively and have their own player organization.

Celler attacked the House-passed proposal as a device to "richard owners whose promises, he said, "aren't worth a Tinker's dam."

Baseball has declared immune from anti-trust laws under a Supreme Court ruling in 1922. However, the court ruled last year that professional football was subject to the anti-trust laws, and suggested that Congress might want to legislate uniform treatment for all professional sports.

The House, before approving the Walter bill, rejected a much more stringent proposal by Rep. Albert W. Cretella (Rep-Conn). Among other things, Cretella's bill would have abolished baseball's farm system and have forbidden major league clubs from televising their games into any league territory without permission.

Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, said he was "much gratified" at the House passage. "If it passes the Senate, it will save pro football," Bell added.

"I couldn't be more delighted," Campbell said at Montreal. "The bill is precisely the thing we have been trying for since we were asked to make representations to the congressional committee on professional sports last August."

Brazil Favored Over Sweden For Soccer Title

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Hard-headed common sense overruled sentiment today as Brazil's entry in the World Soccer Cup championship was made a solid favorite to defeat the home-town Swedes in the final game Sunday.

The South Americans, rated one of the most brilliant teams of modern soccer history by many observers, more than lived up to advance billing Tuesday as they whipped the powerful French entry before dropping them 5-3 in one of the championship's semi-finals.

Sweden, winning loud applause and whistles every time they took the offensive, defeated defending champions West Germany 3-1 in the other. But they showed none of the authority that Brazil displayed in their match.

The hard-running German team stayed with Sweden up to the 33rd minute, when, with the score tied 1-1, fullback Erich Juskowiak was ordered off the field for a foul. Juskowiak tried to attack the referee, but was pulled off by his teammates.

The main advantage this incident gave Sweden proved enough to decide the game. Gunnar Gren, 39-year-old veteran interfinancial star, put Sweden ahead 2-1 at the 81st minute and right winger Kurt Hamrin put away for keeps seven minutes later with the insurance counter.

More than 50,000 fans watched Brazil uncork a brilliant display of passing, shooting and speed.

France stayed in the game, scorewise—for the first 28 minutes, but Brazil's skill soon dominated.

Vava put Brazil in front in the second minute, but France fought back to tie it in the ninth. Didi made it 2-1 for Brazil in the 39th minute after a sustained attack, and Mazzola put it well in on France in the form of a 17-year-old dynamo.

Pele, the most outstanding player on the field despite his youthful years, made it 4-2 in the 51st minute, scored again 13 minutes later and completed the first hat trick of the championship 11 minutes after that.

Roger Piantoni got France's final counter in the 63rd minute as Brazil eased the pressure.

Softball Results

Mead Johnson defeated Stephens Adamson 8-3 last night in a City Commercial softball league game at Prince Charles school ground.

"Bunk" Young pitched four-hit ball for Meads, striking out six and walking a pair. Nickle and Haslip shared Stephen Adamson pitching chore, tagged for ten hits, whiffing four and walking four between them.

PHILLIES SIGN TWINS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies said Tuesday they have signed twins Richard and Robert Haines, 18-year-old Montclair, N.J., high school athletes for a huge but undisclosed bonus. The twins, both six-foot, 200-pound outfielders, will be sent to the Johnson City, Tenn., club in the Class D Appalachian League.

Royals Edge Richmond in 12; Wings Nip Miami

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The French - Canadian holiday of St. Jean Baptiste Day was celebrated in Montreal last night as Montreal Royals of the International League won a 12-inning thriller from Richmond Virginians 8-7.

There was a big fireworks display before the game. The Royals also supplied their own fireworks.

The win pushed the league-leading Royals a full game in front of Toronto Maple Leafs, idle, and left Richmond in fifth place Richmond 8½ games off the pace.

Jackie Collum, last of three Montreal pitchers, picked up his fourth victory in relief. Jim Lonborg and big Jim Koranda each had two-bagger for the Royals.

Lynn Lovenguth struck out 11 men in going the route for the Red Wings. He allowed eight hits. Ralph Terry, Yankees' farm hand, was the loser.

Miami's Marlins scored in the first inning but the winning runs came in the fifth when Woody Smith and Frank Herrera homered for the losers.

Make Sunday Sport Legal in Vancouver For Next Few Months

VANCOUVER (CP) — After years of controversy and litigation, commercial Sunday sport was made legal in Vancouver Tuesday at least for a few months.

Twelve days after the British Columbia Court of Appeal approved provincial legislation making the decision in the hands of the city, council passed a by-law making it permissible to conduct 14 specified sports on Sunday for gain. Three judges approved the legislation. Two were against it.

The contentious issue, which was divided public, clergy, council, police commission, legislature and beach, may still not be settled.

APPEAL URGED

Rev. Harold T. Allen, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance for B.C. and Alberta, said Tuesday night he has recommended to the organization's national executive that the case be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada. Mr. Allen said the executive will make a decision on the matter shortly in Toronto.

The legal issue has been narrowed down to a matter of provincial rights—whether the B.C. legislature has power to amend the Vancouver city charter in a legislative area which the attorney-general holds to be a function solely under the Lord's Day Act and the English law.

Despite the controversy, Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League have played Sunday baseball here for three seasons—and last year paid a fine for doing so.

Actor Robert Alda Hopes To Be Found for Third Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Alda, who has already been discovered twice, hopes to be found for a third time Friday night.

Dark, good-looking Alda, who started in show business as a night-club singer, was discovered by the movies when he played George Gershwin in Rhapsody in Blue.

"Then," he says sadly, "all producers wanted me for was to play piano players."

In an effort to break out of type, Alda quit Hollywood and returned to night clubs and vaudeville. He was singing in Detroit when the producers of Guys and Dolls saw him and cast him as gambler Sky Masterson in that popular musical show.

"Then Broadway discovered me," he continues. "And while Sky was the hero, he was a gambler. Gambler and racketeers are sort of the same. So Broadway producers started thinking of me as a heavy."

GOOD BUT ROLE

Friday Alda appears on a Playhouse of Stars film show, Curfew at Midnight (CBS, 9:30 p.m. EDT) playing a parole officer deeply concerned with the rehabilitation of adult offenders under his supervision—a good role.

"I'm due to be discovered by television," says Alda half-jokingly. "Seriously, if this one gets a good reception it might be a starting point for a series. The parole officer character is one you could build a good show around."

For the last three years Alda has spent most of his time in Europe.

Truman, Gibson Win Easily

WIMBLEDON England (CP)—Christine Truman of England, Althea Gibson of United States and Ashley Bond of Britain — ranked as the great powers — seemed to have breezed past their opponents Tuesday on the second day of the Wimbledon championships.

Most of the favorites advanced as another showery day.

In the men's competition, the only important result was a victory for Mervyn Rose, the scowling Australian.

Rose, seeded third, ousted Wladyslaw Skonecki, a Pole who fled to Britain and then back to Poland, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1. This match was postponed Monday because of rain.

Bonus Baby Sues Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former major league pitcher Paul Martin of Fayette City, Pa., filed a $20,000 suit in U.S. district court here Tuesday against Pittsburgh Pirates, charging non-payment of bonus money.

Martin claimed he signed for a $20,000 bonus in 1953 and was paid $10,000 at that time. He said additional $10,000 payments called in 1956 and 1957 were not made.

A Pirate spokesman said that during 1956 spring training Martin's performance was disappointing and he retired. The spokesman added Martin voluntarily signed a waiver freeing the ball club of any further obligations as far as paying the rest of the bonus.

Winners of Beauty Contests Seem to be Doing All Right

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As the season for beauty contests approaches, we are asked to shed a tear for the plight of the poor winners.

Don't do it. Judging from a local survey, the contest winners are doing all right.

It is often claimed that nothing remains for beauty queens after their victory except oblivion. True, few of them have set the world afire as actresses. But they can still make good livings on the basis of their prize-winning assets.

BRIGHT PROSPECT

This is the conclusion reached after surveying a team of lovelies assembled as moon maidens in Missile to the Moon. That's not bad surveying—not when the girls include Reneta Hoy (Miss Germany), Sandra Wirth (Miss Florida), Tania Velia (Miss Yugoslavia), Mary Ford (Miss Minnesota), Marianne Gaba (Miss Illinois), Lisa Simone (Miss France) and Sanita Pelkey (Miss New York).

None of the girls has exactly hit it big in Hollywood—but they claim they are able to support themselves on earnings from movies, TV, modelling and night clubs.

Do beauty titles help their acting careers?

No, says Miss Germany, they are labelled as beauties without talent.

Yet, says Miss Minnesota, "beauty contests can be stepping stones to a career if a girl keeps her head."

But all agree that beauty must be accompanied by talent. If a girl has both, she can have a chance in Hollywood, the beauties declared, but they recommended that she come here with no less than $500 in her kit to die her over.

Among the other results of the survey:

Beauty winners do not rival Jayne Mansfield in the chest department. The girls' bosoms averaged 35½ inches.

Most of them don't think the Hollywood wolves are more virulent than those elsewhere.

They must keep strict discipline to maintain their beauty. Regular hours, careful diet, exercise.

TODAY

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons pulled a surprise Tuesday when he entered Bold Ruler in the $25,000-added Stymie Handicap today at Belmont Park.

The veteran Wheatley Stable trainer previously indicated the four-year-old colt would start in the Roseben Handicap Saturday, in preparation for the 75,000-added Suburban Handicap at Belmont July 4.

"The weights made me change my mind," said Sunny Jim, who noted that Bold Ruler will carry only 112 pounds in the mile-and-one-eighth Stymie. He was assigned 126 pounds for the seven-furlong Roseben.

Others entered in the Stymie were Oh Johnny, Admiral Vee, Third Brother, Inside Tact, Ben Lomond, Pop Corn and Sky Boy.

TORONTO (CP) — Nirdar, consistent sprinter owned by J. E. Fowle Seagram of Waterloo, scored his third win of the season Tuesday as he won the feature race at New Woodbine Park. Nirdar ran the seven furlongs in 1:23 3-5.

In seven starts this year Nirdar has won three races, been second three times and third in his other race. On the three occasions when he finished second, he was beaten by Nearctic, Canadian sprint champion.

Jockey Don Hale sent Nirdar out of the gate in high gear and he led throughout the seven furlongs. He finished more than four lengths in front of Babe H., while Nearctic, a big 2-1 favorite, finished third.

Nirdar paid $6.90, $3.60 and $3.10.

BIG PAYOFF

BOSTON (AP) — Alpha surged from fifth place in the stretch and won the fourth race by a nose to return his backers a whopping $287 at Suffolk Downs Tuesday. The longest shot in the 12-horse field, Alpha returned the biggest payoff of the 1958 New England season.

"That'll cost you a $500 fine. Did you have to use our best hitter's favorite bat?"

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Three doctors have been relieved with this hemorrhoid ointment right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very satisfactory results" were reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem." And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of surgery, cauterization or astringents of any kind. The secret is in a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in use in thousands of hospitals and clinics all parts of the body.

This same healing substance is offered in Preparation H. suppositories and rectal ointment. Ask for Preparation H. for individual needs. Convenient Preparation H. Suppositories or Preparation H. ointment with special applicator. Preparation H. is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

THOUSAND

Earlier the ground floors of the 10-storey building had been evacuated in anticipation of trouble and Minister Richard Davis called on the Russians for extra police protection.

Another 25 Soviet police sped to the scene as the demonstration progressed.

Placards carried by the crowd bore such slogans as "Yanks go home," "down with war," and "hands off the Lebanon."

NO STONES HURLED

In the first half hour no one in the crowd hurled stones or other missiles.

In a similar demonstration outside the West German Embassy on Monday, Russians shattered ink bottles against the German building and stoned every window.

Several demonstrators shouted for the U.S. ambassador, Lewellyn Thompson, to come out. He was not in the building.

Tre first group of demonstrators to reach the embassy were led by several men standing in two big trucks. These men shouted occasional orders.

The groups of people marching from different directions reached the front of the Embassy building almost at the same time.

CANADA EMBASSY GUARDED

Two extra guards, bringing the total to four, were posted Tuesday outside the Canadian Embassy.

A report on the New York demonstrations distributed to newspapers by the official news agency Tass said U.S. authorities "bear direct responsibility. . . ."

Spokesmen for this outrage were known to the American authorities in advance. But they took no measures to prevent them."

Tass claimed "roulgans and provocateurs" attacked the Russian UN Embassy and that the American police even "encouraged the provocative action."

Eleven policemen were injured in the New York demonstrations by about 350 Hungarian refugees. Nine demonstrators were arrested. Three windows were broken and red ink was splashed on the building.)

The West Germans had asked for extra police protection two days before the attack but got only four guards who had little effect on the crowd of 1,500.

There are more than 150 U.S. diplomats, wives and children in Moscow. Some live on the second to seventh floors of the Embassy building. The rest live in government-provided quarters elsewhere.

CORONER'S JURY

Const. John McDougall also testified Tuesday that Const. Farough had been out in the boat at night before and understood the skipper of the ill-fated boat had. "The ship training he received was from me—to be careful and safe at all times," Cpl. Waldie replied.

Mr. Silk asked him whether he was instructor.

"I would not say I was competent," he replied, "but I was supposed to."

When asked whether Const. Farough had any experience on night patrols, he said: "No sir, it was his first night patrol."

The corporal said that Const. Farough had spent 225 hours on the water last year. He said he did not know whether the skipper had any knowledge of compass use.

WINDS HIT LAKE

Weather forecaster John Knox testified Monday that on the night of the patrol winds of 30 to 45 miles an hour had shipped across the lake, causing waves probably four feet high. These were not unusual conditions for Lake Simcoe.

The inquest was told Tuesday that Cpl. Smart once had to turn back on a similar patrol when a boatload of Boy Scouts and elders, pains, sour stomach, with Chelsea Compound. At all druggists.

CRUSADE PROFIT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham's headquarters announced Monday that his seven-week San Francisco crusade realized a profit of between $75,000 and $80,000. This was the amount left after expenses of the $245,000 donated by about 700,000 people who attended.

SHELLED

NO COMPROMISE SEEN

Chamoun indicated there was little chance for compromise with the rebels, mostly from the Moslem half of the population, who have been trying to overthrow him for more than six weeks. They want a regime more friendly to President Nasser of the UAR.

Chamoun said there were between 10,000 and 12,000 rebels armed against government security forces. Rebel forces have crippled since the outbreak of the revolt, he said.

The government forces — army and police — are largely led by Christians. They have been estimated at about 5,000.

Chamoun said 25 to 30 per cent of the rebel forces were Egyptians or Syrians who have slipped across the frontier.

He said next move he expects a concerted rebel attack soon.

Chamoun warned against an international police force or any other foreign intervention from the West. The official Soviet news agency Tass accused Britain and the United States of planning to send troops into Lebanon "under the guise of the United Nations or without any cover at all."

The Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the preparation of foreign intervention in Lebanon, however it is disguised,"Tion with its own forces.

Tass said.

The United States and Britain were reported hoping that Cromoun's government would recall on them for direct aid but it would be able to quote the rebel-lanon, however it is disguised."lion with its own forces.

NEW YORK

A photographer for the New York Journal-American, William Finn, 52, collapsed and died of a heart attack while covering the collision.

The leaping flames singed the bridge and set it afire briefly, burning high-tension wires underneath it. Thick smoke blacked out the span, closing it to both automobile and subway traffic for some time. It was reopened before dawn and apparently was not seriously damaged.

Patrolman Richard Gazzola and a 16-year-old passer-by, Candido Santiago, dived into the river when they saw two seamen clambering 200 feet out. They held the seamen what until a tug pulled them all aboard and landed them at a pier. All four were taken to hospital.

The fireboat William J. Gaynor, first on the scene, rescued many of those aboard the Nebraska, including three women. One of the three was a woman 27-year-old operator, and the others were the wives of the first and second engineers of the Swedish ship.

Dozens of crew members leaped from the Nebraska onto the fireboat. Eleven of the crew stayed aboard and manned the ship after flames were brought under control.

Fighting Rages In Tripoli, Six Killed, 20 Hurt

Security Forces Shell Strong Rebel Positions

BEIRUT (AP)—Hard fighting raged for more than four hours in Tripoli in the Lebanese port of Tripoli. At least six persons were killed and 20 injured.

Rebel Colonel Kamal, rebel leader, told The Associated Press by telephone that the fighting broke out at noon and quickly spread to the central section of the city.

Kamal is a brother of Tripoli rebel leader, Raschid Karami.

"The fighting reached a climax about 2 p.m.," Karami said. "Then it slacked off, but shooting still going on at 4 p.m. He said security forces shelled rebel positions and destroyed one building.

Karami denied Cairo Radio reports that strong rebel reinforcements are marching on Tripoli.

"We know of no reinforcements coming this way," he said.

Tripoli is the city where the Lebanese rebellion started 60 days ago.

SOME KILLED DAILY

"Four or five people are killed here almost every day. Some are 15 injured," the rebel leader said.

Fighting went on in the city all Wednesday night. An army communique said it started when rebels attacked army positions and civilians. The rebels said the government forces employed armored cars to blast rebel roadblocks in the city.

The communique said there was no report from the Bekaa Valley in central Lebanon. Rebel mines blew up a United Nations patrol jeep in south Lebanon today, slightly injuring an Indian observer.

The rebellion-torn country meanwhile tensely awaited the start of an all-out attempt to reconstitute the pro-Western government of President Camille Chamoun. Parliament predicted the attack would begin today.

Rebel attacks in the province west of Beirut increased Wednesday as soon after UN Secretary-General Dag Hammerskjold left by plane for New York with Premier Sami Solh's request for UN emergency action to stem the flow between Lebanon and Syria to stop what Chamoun says is aid to the rebels from the United Arab Republic.

Heavy firing broke out in three sections of Beirut, and there were attacks on the north Lebanese port of Tripoli and in the Bekaa Valley of central Lebanon.

The Bekaa Valley is a trouble spot near the Lebanese-Syrian border and it is here the four other Americans with him were reported in good condition.

The Finnish guard spokesman said the yacht, the Thespian, had entered Hakodate and was being towed into Fukuoka, on the southern Japanese island of Kyushu. The Thespian left Keelung, Formosa, June 16 en route to Japan, where it planned to entertain American troops.

Le Devoir Names More Ministers Holding Stock

MONTREAL (CP) — Le Devoir today names two additional cabinet ministers as well as a former cabinet minister now Quebec lieutenant-governor and one additional legislative councillor as the present or former shareholders of Quebec Natural Gas Corporation which last year took over the household gas-distribution system of Quebec Gas.

Earlier in a series of articles started June 13 about formation of the privately-owned company the newspaper named five other members of the Union Nationale cabinet, four party supporters in the legislative council and Premier Duplessis' executive secretary as present or former corporation shareholders.

Le Devoir says originally it checked a record of the holdings of common stocks listed from July 15, 1957. It says a check of investors who prior to that date bought stock units made up of one $100 debenture and four common shares at $10 each showed Onesime Gagnon, finance minister at the time, now lieutenant-governor, bought $2,800 worth of units May 2, 1957, and sold them later.

Paul Dozois, municipal affairs minister, bought $8,400 worth of units May 2, 1957, and sold them later.

STILL HOLDS SHARES

Arthur Leclerc, minister without portfolio, bought $3,800 worth of units July 31, 1957, and at last report still has them.

Gerard Lussier, legislative councillor, bought $5,000 worth of units April 1957, and sold them May 25, 1957.

Le Devoir reported Wednesday that Arsene Gelinas, electricity board secretary, bought $500 worth of units May 3 and $700 worth Aug. 8, 1957.

The newspaper noted that the gas corporation's application is appearing before the electricity board involves a rate revision.

Le Devoir has said that a $20,000,000 stock market coup involving shares of the company occurred but a statement by the management of Quebec Natural Gas Corporation Sunday said it had operated from the start "legally, ethically and in the open."

Discover Key To Handcuffs In Man's Mouth

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they foiled a mass escape of prisoners from a Don Jail control wagon when they found a home-made handcuff key from the mouth of a young prisoner charged with armed robbery.

The key, made from the flint barrel of a cigarette lighter, had been used to open the handcuffs of prisoners on their way from the jail on Wednesday. Police say it was a test and the mass escape was planned for today.

Police said the key was found under the tongue of Norman Powers, 19.

NORAD ACCORD AWAITS FINAL SENATE APPROVAL

Nine Jet Squadrons Will Be Allocated

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate today may give final approval to the Canada-United States air defence agreement, thus paving the way for operational status of the RCAF's nine CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons to the North American Air Defence command (NORAD).

One squadron is stationed at Comox, B.C., and two each at St. Hubert, Que., Bagotville, Que., Ottawa and North Bay.

Defence Minister Pearkes said Wednesday that the Senate external relations committee that the squadrons would be committed to NORAD at the end of Sept. Parliament ratified the agreement signed at Washington May 12.

The Commons has already approved the agreement. The Senate committee did so Wednesday, and it is expected the Senate will quick ratification is expected.

CLASHES WITH PEARKES

Senator Croll (Can.—On.) clashed with Mr. Pearkes on the question of Canadian acquisition of U.S.-controlled industry.

Mr. Pearkes said the U.S. has not made any atomic warheads available to Canada, but has been stored in this country.

He added that he could not say "for certain" whether the U.S. would make the warheads available to Canada. No decision on the matter had been reached. Canada has the equipment that it Canada and the U.S. are pooling their air defence forces, the same warheads would be used in the defensive weapons.

Senator Croll asked Mr. Pearkes said a general NORAD plan for air defence has been approved but that a "tremendous amount of detailed planning still has to be done.

Asked by Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) about the future of NORAD, Mr. Pearkes said: "That is a hope we all have but I don't know whether it will become a possibility."

Jap Coast Guard Finds Missing American Yacht

Calvert and the four other Americans with him were reported in good condition.

The Finnish guard spokesman said the yacht, the Thespian, had entered Hakodate and was being towed into Fukuoka, on the southern Japanese island of Kyushu. The Thespian left Keelung, Formosa, June 16 en route to Japan, where Calvert planned to entertain American troops.

Disperse Crowd Of 24 Youths

TORONTO (CP)—Acting on a telephone tip, police swooped down on 24 youthful partygoers early Sunday morning after midnight to disperse them with a warning.

Police found baseball bats and three-quarter-inch pipe lying on the ground. Two youths were questioned but later released. No arrests were made.

Coffee Cools Faster if Drinker Waits While to Pour in Cream

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—What's the fastest way to cool your coffee assuming you use milk or cream?

Dr. Paul Hindle, a silly pointy It might have been to start with —but not now.

At Cornell University, two coffee-loving professors fell to arguing this point. Their argument is intriguing that two seniors—Robert Seidel and Darwin Novak —who overheard, resolved to get at the truth—scientifically.

The pair, both seeking senior year, these two grappled with the poser. They came up with a 78-page paper, complete with formulae, graphs and a slew of higher mathematics.

A brief abstract of their findings reveals that coffee cools faster if the drinker waits a little while to pour in the milk or cream.

The students found, under laboratory conditions, that a cup of coffee takes 425 seconds to cool from 200 degrees to 150 degrees Centigrade, if the milk or cream is put in at once.

But if you wait 310 seconds before adding milk or cream, however, the coffee cools 15 seconds faster than it does under the I can't-wait system.

Seidel and Novak poured out their facts and feelings in the prosaically titled thesis, The Coffee Cup Problem.

And today, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, holding its convention here, gave the paper first prize in its international competition for student papers.

Find Government-Approved Life Jackets Unsatisfactory

PEFFERLAW, Ont. (CP)—The findings of an inquest into part of the death of one of the five RCMP officers drowned in the province on Lake Simcoe may affect boating throughout Canada.

Bringing down a verdict of accidental death, the jury said Wednesday the 14-foot patrol boat was overloaded at the time it turned George Gins Island the night of June 7 but a transport department approved plaque concerning loading capacity was capable of misinterpretation.

The jury also found that though transport department - approved life preservers were in the boat, they were unsatisfactory in some cases. They recommended use of vest-type, snap-fastener life preservers rather than standard life preservers or standard floating cushions.

The jury of two farmers, two retired men and a gospel hall minister heard a three-day inquest into the death of Cpl. Herbert Smart, 34, of Toronto, whose body was the only one recovered.

The jury attributed blame for Smart's death on "rough sea caused by storm, and failure of motor carried in the boat to float in swamp."

It called for better wording of planes which indicate the proper load for boats. The plaques are issued to boat manufacturers by the Canadian Boating Federation and the transport department.

It should be made clear that gross weight includes motor, passengers and all equipment. Greater care should be given to calculating gross weight, the jury said.

The plaque on the boat said:

"This boat is built to safely accommodate persons of normal seating condition, a gross load of maximum weight 875 pounds and motor of maximum motor not more than ... 35 horsepower."

Testimony was that men and equipment in the death boat weighed 980 pounds. The 35-horse power motor weighed another 120 pounds.

Two RCMP officers testified they believed the gross weight did not include the motor. Two civilian witnesses disagreed.

The jury also asked that more information be given to operators of rotating boats and that a transport department - approved life preserver "should be readily available to the boating public.

Ross Hockley, assistant attorney-general of Ontario, said he concurred with what he called a "sound verdict."

The boat was tested for the jury Wednesday. During the demonstration two policemen jumped fully clad into the water and successfully to don the type of life preservers with which the boat was equipped.

U.S. Experts to Go to Geneva Though Reds May Not Attend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today notified Moscow that U.S. experts will be in Geneva July 1 to discuss technical atomic talks.

The U.S. note was agreed at a meeting Wednesday night between President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

Western diplomats were surprised Wednesday when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow said he thought nuclear experts would not attend unless the U.S. made a position in advance that a ban on nuclear weapon tests is needed.

Russia has said the talks should be purely technical, instead of international agreement matters.

But he also has said the technical talks would not prejudice the position of either side and might prove beneficial to the negotiations on halting nuclear tests.

The new Russian position was that Dulles has laid down conditions unacceptable to the Soviet Union.

By the time Wednesday's Russian note arrived in Washington, plans already were flying to Geneva. The three-power U.S. delegates are scheduled to leave today, also to attend the talks are experts from Britain, France and Canada.

Eisenhower and Dulles agreed to send a note telling Russia to show up on schedule or stand accused of trying to improve concessions out of the West without really being interested in halting nuclear tests. Soviet adequate safeguards against cheating.

The Russian foreign office said the Geneva talks are necessary and expressed hope they will take place. There was a similar reaction from the French government.

Senate Gives Final Approval To Hospital Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate gave final approval Wednesday to a bill speeding up the federal hospital insurance plan, but not before a Liberal senator charged that the spending of public money will not solve every social problem.

Senator Thomas Crerar, Manitoba's doctors, not the federal provincial governments, who will be administered with reasonable efficiency.

The bill will permit federal cost-sharing payments to start July 1 and repeals federally-approved provincial insurance plans then in force. Ontario's plan was approved by the Commons and will receive royal assent Thursday.

DOCTORS BE CONSULTED

Senator Crerar said he is not opposed to hospital insurance but deplores the lack of consultation which we rush into expenditures of all kinds."

The essential purpose of Parliament was to protect the taxpayer's money and see that it was spent wisely.

A Senate committee had been told—and the federal government officials could not estimate the cost—that the plan would double, he said. A federal expenditure of some $215,000,000 in the fiscal year 1957-58 was not a pleasant prospect in the face of a declining revenue and increasing unemployment and lower corporation profits.

Strong pressure would be placed on doctors by patients to be sent to hospital for treatment of minor ailments.

"The only restraint on that will be the conscience of the medical men of this country. They will need courage to resist the pressure that might add they may suffer a decline of unpopularity."

Private Plane Crashes in Gale, Five Injured

MONTREAL (CP)—An amphibious aircraft smashed into a grassy field during a rainstorm late Wednesday night as it prepared to land at Montreal airport

Five persons aboard the civilian plane—described by police as an "executive aircraft"—were injured, three seriously. Cause of the mishap was believed to be the storm.

The twin-engined Grumman Goose bounced into a ditch and hit a tree, 1,300 feet from the nearest house.

STUMBLES THROUGH FIELD

First word of the smashup came from Montreal Island police who stumbled through a field to the nearest house.

Three men still were trapped in the plane when police arrived, five minutes after the call.

RCMP and airport police combined off the area. A fire truck stood by but the mangled craft didn't burn.

The injured were identified as Dr. Doriel Laval, Montreal, of nearby Laval des Rapides, and Ernest Smith, Montreal, Smith, 44, and Tom Phalen, all of Montreal.

The fifth man, believed to have been the one he made the first report, also was identified only as Feeney. He and Phalen were said to have suffered minor injuries. Feeney left the scene early after a hospital check.

The craft was owned by H. J. O'Connell, millionaire Montreal businessman and sportsman. It was flying to Montreal from Seguelles on the St. Lawrence River's north shore, 40 miles from here.

Police had to carry three of the injured one at a time from the wreckage. They carried them 1,500 feet away on the nearest road.

GOVT. STUDYING POSSIBILITIES OF CRUDE OIL LINE

Action in Light Of Cuts to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Government experts are studying the economics and the possibilities of a crude oil pipeline to Montreal reliance.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, giving the first official indication of this, said Wednesday in the Commons the question is always receiving the attention and the consideration of federal and provincial experts.

"When a decision is arrived at, the House of Commons will be made aware of it," he added in a reply to Hazen Argue, CCF House leader. However, he gave no hint of what the government's decision might be.

PLAN TO CUT IMPORTS

Mr. Argue had asked whether the government is planning action in the light of cuts in shipments of Canadian crude to the northwestern United States. Shell Canada Ltd. Wednesday announced they plan to reduce Canadian imports to Washington state refineries by fully two-thirds they can obtain crude oil at cheaper prices in Burneo and Indonesia.

The interprovincial oil pipeline now carries Alberta crude oil to Sarnia, and Toronto. Presumably, part of this oil is refined and moved to Montreal. However, there is no indication the government be-lieves oil should be moved by pipeline to Montreal.

The Commons has reached the half-way mark of the eight-day budget debate, which continues today. Tonight, the House votes on a $1,000 item for non-residence in the government civilservice pay bill—the budget for centralizing the provision for higher basic income tax exemptions.

SIGN AGREEMENT SOON

Waiter Charged With Abducting Toronto Woman

TORONTO (CP)—A 36-year-old waiter was charged with abduction Wednesday night after a pretty blonde said she and her sister was trapped in a car and threatened with guns and knives.

The woman said she was walking home from a supermarket in suburban Agincourt when a man twice stopped his car beside her and offered her a ride. She refused the second time she accepted.

Mrs. Patricia Rimilcich, 24, said the man locked the car doors and threatened to kill her sister unless she drove to his apartment. After he had struck her twice she managed to escape and run to a house for help.

Her screams were heard by another woman and policeman who ran to a taxi and told two men in it of the incident. They chased the car until it hit a curb and stopped on the sidewalk.

Police said Ronald Arnold was charged with abduction.

YMCA Officer

Sea Lion Back in Detroit River, Apparently on Way Home to London

RIVER CANARD, Ont. (CP)— Despite a nearby tornado, torrential rains and high winds, an errant seal named Cyril appears on his way back home to London, Ont.

Richard Anin of this town 13 miles southwest of Windsor said after going down to the Detroit River to help conduct possible rescue operations after a baby tornado, heavy rain and 60-mile-an-hour accompanying winds caused light damage in La Salle, five miles north of here.

Mr. Anlin said the dark brown sea lion—a type of seal—was swimming "with his nose and most of his head out of the water." He said the seal was within 30 feet of the seal in a rowboat.

The sea lion escaped eight days ago by wriggling through a hole in the wire netting at the enclosure at Storybrook Gardens in London.

It was spotted in Toledo Tuesday. He possibly was turned back by rapids in the Maumee River which runs south from Toledo. He was seen later in the Detroit River five miles away.

To get home he will have to go up the Detroit River and into Lake St. Clair, then find the Thames River and head upstream towards London.

2 Baby Tornadoes Around Windsor Cause Heavy Loss

Torrential Rain, Hail Accompany 'Twisters'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two pocket tornadoes—one seen by hundreds and the other almost unreported—caused hundreds of thousands dollars damage Wednesday but injured no one.

The first, at 4:10 p.m. EDT, at La Salle, eight miles southwest of here, uprooted trees, tossed a few roofs about and damaged greenhouses.

The second struck briefly but managed to damage one of the largest assemblies of greenhouses in Canada causing more than $50,000 damage.

No positive damage estimate was immediately available as torrential rains and 65-mile-an-hour winds that accompanied the twister were believed to have caused heavy crop damage.

ONE HOUSE SHIFTED

The twister cut across La Salle at just about rooftop level, missing most buildings. Only house in La Salle was reported by police to have been shifted slightly off its foundations.

The second tornado occurred an hour after the first at Tecumseh, 10 miles southeast of here.

It caused damage estimated by Sam Cecconi, owner of Cecconi's acre Sunnyland Farms, at more than $50,000 to his property alone. He said half of the roof of a large service building was blown off and greenhouses were torn to shreds in 21 greenhouses. Others were damaged but not destroyed.

The other half of the building's roof landed in a cemetery adjoining his property.

BARN ROOF RIPPED OFF

The Leamington tornado also struck the farm of Luca Tolicchio, ripping a roof off a barn and toppling trees. Then it tore up a 51-foot greenhouse belonging to Albert Mastronard and caused similar damage to other greenhouses in the area.

Only one witnesses to the twister's brief visit were nine workmen at Sunnyland Farms. Mr. Shostack was at his office at Leamington at the time.

Mrs. Helen Bibbey, wife of provincial Conservative Murray Bibbey at Leamington, said she saw a cloud "that stood out from the clouds in the area as it passed over the town.

She described briefly the brief tornado struck the outlying east-ern farms near the town of 8,000. Mrs. Bibbey said Sally — town of 2,800 — capsized several boats, damaged a number of cottages and uprooted trees.

BLOWN TOWARD SHORE

Three fishermen—Fred Soulis, 22, Peter Soulis, 20, and his brother Roy, 12—had their boat blown from the shore by the twister which overtook them on the Detroit River.

Fred Soulis said he never so scared in my life." Their boat was blown ashore.

The town of La Salle, despite memories of a tornado which on June 17, 1946, killed 17 persons, is an equal number and caused millions of dollars damage, had no tornado in stride.

School children were ordered to school basements, farmers brought in their hired workers and business establishments gathered in those persons on the streets.

A number of residents in streets and cars fled to ditches when they saw the three-pronged twister but civil defence authorities said the reaction mainly was a calm one.

Vanguard Fails For Fifth Time To Launch Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Another moon-bound sneed earth satellite was boosted into space by a Vanguard rocket early today. Then, like its two predecessors, it plunged back to earth.

The Vanguard 3 second-stage to ignite was blasted by the U.S. naval research laboratory for its failure to hurt the 20-inch, 21½-pound sphere into orbit.

The 72-foot navy rocket now has failed in five of its six ventures into space. Its only success was March 17 when it launched the miniature 3½-pound satellite tiniest of the man-made moons circling the earth.

WORK ON NEW ENGINE

Immediately in the wake of this latest Vanguard 3 disappointment came news from General Electric Company that it is developing a new engine capable of launching a satellite weighing as much as a ton—perhaps even seven times bigger than Russia's Sputnik III.

This engine, the company said, will generate from 500,000 to 1,000,000 pounds of thrust. It will burn with 45,000 pounds for the Vanguard.

The Vanguard blasted off at 1:01 a.m. after delays of 7½ hours in the countdown. It was the third effort to get this particular rocket off its launching pad. Twice it was cancelled precisely, carrying the entire assembly to an altitude of 35 miles before burning out at the proper moment. By then, it was out of Cape Canaveral.

Half an hour later, the navy announced that the second stage which houses the guidance system of the rocket had failed to ignite. It did not achieve the necessary 300-mile altitude and the 18,000-mile-an-hour velocity required to put its satellite into orbit.

"Records are now being examined to determine the cause of the malfunction," the navy said.

Ontario Warned Of High Winds By Forecaster

TORONTO (CP)—A warning of high winds across much of Ontario today was issued at 9 a.m. EDT by the Toronto weather forecaster for the Dominion public weather office.

Gusts reaching 55 miles an hour are expected over an area stretching from the Lakehead east to the Kirkland Lake regions. The warning said winds will gradually drop to about 25 miles an hour this evening.

Severe lightning make lake travel dangerous for small craft.

'Much Ado' Fast-Paced Comedy

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD (Special) — A complete contrast in almost every way to the rather sombre production of the night before, Much Ado about Nothing came to Stratford sparkling life Tuesday night on the Stratford stage, with members of a capacity audience on edge lest they should miss any of the humor and drama of this delightful play, as fast paced as any modern musical comedy. Played in the costumes and manners of the mid-nineteenth century, Michael Langham's production never faltered, and left the impression that the actors were enjoying themselves as much as were members of their audience. Desmond Heeley's delightful costumes bathed the stage in a glow of color, while Louis Applebaum's underscoring music, so aptly in keeping with the period, provided a witty commentary on the whole proceedings.

PLUMMER STARS

Unquestioned stars of the performance were Eileen Herlie, as the fiery Beatrice, and Christopher Plummer in the part of the equally stubborn Benedick, together creating a delightful duel of wits, then in marriage. Miss Herlie, whose reputation is very highly established in England, will assuredly win the hearts of her Stratford audience this summer, as she so convincingly melts from a confirmed man-hater into a willing, yet still wilful, bride. Chris Plummer combines the "exquisite fooling" of last year's Sir Andrew Aguecheek with the unctuous tenderness of Orsino, Twelfth Night's Duke in love to give us one of the very finest performances of his career.

In a difficult and somewhat thankless role, William Hutt as Don John succeeds in enhancing his stature as an actor, lending a grace and nobility to every scene he was in. Tony Van Bridge, on the other hand, proved that Douglas Campbell is by no means the company's only comedian, in a side-splitting portrayal of Dogberry, the almost illiterate constable. Mervyn Blake's study of old age as Leonato maintained the very high standard this Stratford has set for such roles, while Diana Maddox, as his much-maligned daughter, Hero, gave another very charming performance.

FINE TEAMWORK

But once again, in the happy Stratford tradition, it was the total ensemble, the magnificent teamwork, the high level competence of the supporting players that gave the final polish to the production. Carrying the audience with them wherever they wished at one moment into roars of delighted laughter, at another into utter and expectant silence, this company proved how very expert it has become in five short years.

Altogether, this gaiety comedy is a play that everyone should see; even if you have never been to Stratford before, even if you have never seen Shakespeare," this is a rich experience in entertainment which should not be missed, and one which will be remembered for many years to count.

Trade and Commerce Minister Officially Opens Cement Plant

PICTON — Hon. Gordon Churchill, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, officially opened the 16-million dollar Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd. plant here yesterday afternoon. Though the plant has been in operation for some time, the ceremony marked the occasion of the plant now officially assuming full production.

Rain marred the opening but did not prevent several thousand people from witnessing the brief ceremonies at the entrance to the plant and its many facilities.

Hon. Mr. Churchill, who was flown here from Ottawa in Mayor H. J. McFarland's private plane, commented on the joint capital investment and effort, which had made the plant possible. "There is not a better way in which the friendly spirit existing between the two countries could be exemplified. American capital to help develop Canada's resources and to provide employment are welcome."

Mr. Churchill paid tribute to those whose vision and enterprise had made possible the industry, and to those who had played a part in its erection. "It is a great achievement worthy of the province and of the Dominion. The material produced here will assist in the building of our great country. It is a pleasure to declare it officially open".

MAYOR WELCOMES GUESTS

Mayor McFarland, chairman of the Board and a vice-president, extended a civic welcome to the many dignitaries and others from both sides of the border who attended the ceremony. He referred to the project as not an easy one and had required capital above that for which the tender was let. He thanked those who shared in the project in any way.

Also on the platform were many officials of the company, members of Parliament and others who were content to omit their speaking due to a sudden heavy downpour.

Draped in red, white and blue and with the flags of two lands flying in the breeze, the dais was also the scene of a ribbon cutting ceremony with Hon. Mr. Churchill doing the honors. Dedicatory prayers were given by Rev. Peter B. Hall and Rev. F. J. Whiteley. As part of this ceremony, the Belleville-located Odd Fellows band played the national anthems of Canada and the United States and the plant's siren hailed the official opening.

Prior to the ceremony, five hundred persons were guests of the company at a buffet dinner served in a large tent. Later, there were refreshments for all who came for the ceremony. In the evening, Mayor McFarland was host to many company officials, and other guests at the Royal Hotel.

Boy Scouts acted as directors of traffic and two of them escorted the guests to the scene, standing at attention beside the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.

Members of St. John Ambulance were stationed about the grounds to provide first aid if needed.

DIVIDED INTO GROUPS

Visitors were divided into groups with guides for a tour of the plant and though most were packed by the light drizzle, many of them completed the tour.

Visitors watched action in the huge quarry where limestone is trucked to a primary crusher, then by conveyor belts to a secondary crusher. The dock storage cement silos nearby have a capacity of 40,000 barrels cement and are connected to the wharves by a series of air slides for automatic boat loading. After the rock passes through the crusher it is sized for specific requirements, it is passed to storage bins and is stored for shipping as aggregate. Visitors were fortunate in that a CNR freighter docked during their visit and they could watch the automatic loading.

The laboratory with a staff of 16, the material storage building with a large cement mixer used, the mill building where limestone and silica sand are ground and then pumped to a blending silo with capacity of 20,000 barrels were of interest. In the kiln firing building, visitors saw the raw material, ground sand and limestone, calcined into clinker to which gypsum is added and when final grinding takes place becomes cement. The quick action at the bagging plant where 1,200 bags an hour can be filled, amazed visitors.

Noted especially was the fact that practically all of the plant is of steel and concrete, its white buildings and silos making a striking picture.

IN MEMORIAM

CAIRNS. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Annie Cairns, who passed away June 26th, 1948.
Ten years have passed since that day,
We did not say good-bye to you;
You went so quickly and so far away.
A loving voice and "Come," a welcome and think of you,
The things you used to say.
A smile, a word, how sad we did,
Without a last farewell or any goodbye.
Though out of sight, you're ever near,
Still dear to memory dear.
You will live with us in memory,
Till we meet above.
—Ever remembered by son Gary, daughter-in-law Doris and family.

HERBERTSON. — In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Herbertson, who passed away June 26th, 1948.
Years ago today, June 26th, 1948, God took dad away,
Twelve years have passed away and gone,
But memories linger on.
We take from our home, on earth with Jesus above.
The flowers we place upon her grave,
Are those we love.
May winter and decay,
Be flowers we love, who sleeps beneath.
Shall never fade away,
Sadly missed by mother, father and sister.

COLLISION SENDS TANKER TO BOTTOM AT NEW YORK

New Yorkers had a spectacular sight when the gasoline tanker Empress Bay was struck by the Swedish freighter Nebraska in the East River and as the tanker slowly sank it sent flames hundreds of feet high. The fire had been pretty well extinguished when this photo of the sinking Empress was taken. At the height of the blaze it set fire to the Manhattan docks. Two men were missing among the tanker's crew and one from the freighter's, and 37 seamen were hospitalized.

Despite Heavy Rain Meeting Of Authority at Mill Success

A heavy afternoon rain served to erase a number of demonstrations lined up for the program, but Wednesday's summer meeting of the Moira River Conservation Authority held at O'Hara's Mill north of Madoc was nevertheless a decided success.

About 65 persons, including wives of the Authority members, turned up for the turkey dinner served by the O'Hara Community Club. The Authority meeting was held in the reconstructed mill business with a feature in the conclave being the sawing of a pine log by the 100 year-old mill.

Reports from the various committee heads took up most of the meeting time with T. C. Graham of Tweed as chairman of the reforestation committee noting that the purchase of another three tracts of farm land comprising over 600 acres would soon be finalized. Acreage now under Authority ownership is 5,412 with the addition of the three recently purchased areas bringing the acreage to 6,176.

The acreage recently purchased is in the Medoc-Elzevir township area south of No. 7 highway, 250 acres in the 6th of Thurlow and 64 acres in Elzevir.

Mr. Graham noted there was an increasing number of people now coming to the Authority wishing to sell land at the Authority's price and he urged that these offers be taken up as rapidly as possible so as to retain the goodwill.

Suitable signs are to be erected at reforestation areas listing the names of fire wardens to notify in case of fire.

AREA TO OPEN SOON

The Price Conservation Area at Actinolite will be opened to the public as soon as possible with two dozen picnic tables, three barbecues and toilets to be placed within the next three weeks or month.

Directional signs of two-inch planking with cut-in letters will be erected both for the Price area and for the O'Hara Mill area.

The O'Hara Mill area is becoming an increasingly popular spot for picnics and an additional 12 picnic tables will be placed. Last Sunday 145 persons signed the register book at the Mill.

The provincial advisory board of the Price Conservation Area and Museum, was officially approved by the Authority with Mr. T. Wrightmyer of Belleville as chairman.

The board will meet Saturday afternoon at the West Wind Motel at Actinolite to prepare a brief and submit recommendations as to the type and number of structures planned for the area and to suggest methods of financing.

Herbert Crown, representing the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, noted that a department survey crew would this summer survey the upper Skootamata River, with the view of determining the possibility of constructing low cost water storage dams.

Charles A. Mott, planning engineer for the city of Belleville, told the meeting that the city was interested in using the College Street quarry as a possible public works yard and raised the question of the proposed College Street ice control dam being constructed at some other location.

BENEFIT LOST CLAIM

Opinion of the meeting that it did not serve any real benefit as an ice storage, the best site on the river for an ice control dam to benefit Belleville would be lost.

Authority Chairman Bruce Smith noted, however, that although utilization of the quarry as a public works yard would rule out the site as a site for the ice control dam, the quarry was city property and it could do as it wished with it.

Attending the meeting from Belleville were city representatives Aldermen George Wishart and Bruce Smith, and Mr. Mott as a member of the flood control committee.

The fall meeting of the Authority will be held early in October.

Labor Lawyer Moves to Reform Hoffa's Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Court-named monitors have started a major crackdown to reform the Teamsters Union, a stanford-related Teamsters Union.

The drive is being steered by Martin F. O'Donoghue, a veteran labor lawyer who for a time last fall represented the union in a suit against it. He told a reporter: "I'm going to call 'em all by 'em. If they don't like it, let them blow their tops."

O'Donoghue and two fellow monitors issued clean-up orders Wednesday aimed at teamsters locals in New York, Philadelphia and Springfield, Mo.

Hoffa, teamsters president just acquitted in New York on wire-tapping conspiracy charges, has called a meeting of the national union's executive board here next Monday. Union leaders are expected to decide whether to go along with O'Donoghue or buck him.

Police to Keep Closer Watch On Town Park

TRENTON — The recent vandalism at the Fraser Memorial Park was discussed at the last regular meeting of the Parks Board and it was reported the town police plan to keep a closer watch on the park during the night hours.

The flowers and shrubbery, along with some of the large trees were destroyed and damaged recently by unknown persons and caused a considerable amount of work and expense for the board.

The incident was reported to the town police who investigated. They reported they felt it was done by some thoughtless children and they would keep a closer watch on the park.

Gardener Bart Boers reported he had seen some children jumping into the soft earth of other flower beds around town and that people going by on the street at the time had said nothing to them.

The board urged that town citizens, if they see children jumping in these beds, chase them away and report them to the proper authorities. There is a lot of work and expense put into these beds to beautify the town and it is a shame to have them destroyed by careless children.

Mayor Marion Baker read a report from a citizen to have trees planted in front of the applicant's home. The board described the request as this type of work is not done.

It was also reported that Jack Vanalstine has completed the work on the bank of the culvert which joins the Mountain Park and it has been cut down to prevent any injuries. Last year one should fall off. It was suggested that something be planted on the bank to prevent erosion or blowing.

It was also decided that the lawns in front of the Community Centre would be cut back in line shape by the Parks Board but the members felt it was the duty of the staff at the Centre to look after it in the future as they have the equipment for mowing the lawn, etc.

Attending the Parks Board meeting were Chairman Ted Parker, Secretary John Saylor, Miss Marion Baker, Mrs. Bert Sprague and town gardener Bart Boers.

Will Buy Mower If Finances Are Available

TRENTON — A request that the Trenton Parks Board buy a new rotary mower brought a brief summary of the board's finances when it met at their regular meeting Tuesday night in the board room of the Municipal Building.

It was decided that an accurate statement would be made at the next meeting and an estimated cost of what the new mower will cost. Three major projects are underway. The first is Meyer Park, the addition at Cottrell Park and the retaining wall at Gilmour Park.

If there is a balance, of a suitable amount left then the new mower will be purchased and it was suggested if they do get a new mower to get it as soon as possible to be of some use to the gardener this summer.

The matter will be left in abeyance until the financial report is presented at the next meeting.

It was reported that the older mower has been repaired at a local garage.

Chairman Ted Parker reported that the prints are now av-

Steps Leading To Mount Pelion To Be Installed

TRENTON — Two men who have been laid off town crews by the Trenton Public Works Department will be re-hired to install the steps on Mount Pelion it was decided at the last meeting of the Trenton Parks Board held Tuesday night.

Ted Parker, chairman of the board, reported that work can be started on this project as soon as the town gardener has finished his spraying. The needed ties have been ordered from the Canadian Creosoting Plant and will be hauled to the mountain by the Quinte Transport. It was understood that Clyde Mason has made it available to the board for this purpose. Seventy-five ties will be taken to the mountain to start with and if more needed will be supplied up later.

Claude Smith, chairman of the steps project, will get the rolling and then it will be left in the hands of the two workmen and the town gardener.

Mr. Boers reported he is ready to start spraying and expects next Monday as the best day to get it underway. The spraying of the Cenotaph see if this day was suitable to the Quinte Transport and if so the two men would be informed to report then and picks and shovels would be picked up.

FENCE DOWN

It was also reported at the meeting that the old fence between the Legion Building and the Ball Park has been torn down and this has made a great difference in the appearance of the area. Mr. Boers reported he will now be much easier to mow the grass around the trees there. The board get the bill for the job.

It was suggested that the two iron posts which were left standing after the fence was torn down also be removed. It was felt they could either be pulled out or cut off at ground level.

Chairman Ted Parker told the meeting the Canadian Legion are planning a planter of evergreens on the top side of their new building to be in line with the others already built on the other side of the hall.

Available for the "curbing" at Gilmour Hill park and they can go ahead with the job. The need for this was stated by Ted Campbell, town solicitor, who is checking it thoroughly. It was decided at the meeting that some changes may be made in the right-of-way to straighten out the small park.

The case of the missing concrete at Hanna Park was explained by the chairman and it was decided to put a sign near the pile to warn persons away.

It was also reported during the meeting that the hedge at the Gilmour Park had been trimmed and there was a brief discussion on hedges the town gardener, Bart Boers, asked if

Slippery Roads Cause of Three Traffic Mishaps

TRENTON — Three accidents were reported yesterday afternoon and evening as streets were rejected sidewalks after the heavy rains. Total damage in the three mishaps was estimated at $310.

The first happened on Dundas Street east at 5:35 p.m. when a car driven by Ronald Towns of R. R. 3 Trenton, stopped in the line of traffic to allow another car to pull into 188 Dundas Street and a truck driven by Edward J. McWade, was unable to stop due to the slippery pavement and rammed into the rear of it.

Damage to the rear of the Towns' car was estimated at $150 and to the front of the truck at $50.

The mishap was investigated by Constables George French and Garry Davis.

A total of $40 damages was estimated in a collision between a car driven by Phillip Simmons of R. R. 1 Trenton and Harold Hatcher of R. R. 3 Trenton. The accident took place at the intersection of Dundas Street West and Dufferin Street at 7.30 p.m.

At 9.10 p.m. the third accident of the day occurred on the corner of Dundas Street and Albert Street when cars driven by Jack Crawford of 12 Princess Street and Bruce Sleigh of 41 West Street bumped. Damage was estimated at $70 to both cars.

Both the minor mishaps were investigated by Constables Larry Martin and Herb Chisholm.

Carl Loveless Happiest Boy In Trenton

TRENTON — Eight-year-old Carl Loveless, when he got over the shock of it, was the happiest boy in Trenton yesterday.

A student of the College Street School, the youngster was presented with a new bicycle by the Kinsmen Club which was represented by Ted Snider. Others present were, Constable Sid Vickers, P/O. Norm Davis and Don McPherson.

The bike was fully equipped with just about everything from a licence to an insurance policy, and was given to the lad as a special prize for his tremendous effort while trying all tests at a Bicycle Roadeo sponsored recently by the Kiwanis Club in Trenton.

It was reported that Carl had entered the Roadeo and had put his heart into trying to win one of the prizes by so doing he was unable to win any of the tests, which was due, chiefly to the condition of his old bike.

When the story was told at a meeting of the Kiwanians each member of the club donated a dollar and the bike was bought.

Doug. Whitley of the Whitley Insurance Company in Trenton, donated an insurance policy insuring the bike for one year. A steer-view mirror and mud guards were donated by the Trenton office of the Ontario Intelligencer and a bell guard was donated and installed by Don McPherson of McPherson Tire Sales. The licence was donated by Sid Vickers.

Canoe Swamps, Fifteen Youths Are Rescued

TORONTO (CP) — Fifteen youths, thrown into Lake Ontario from a canoe that went down Wednesday night to stick with their swamped craft "until the end of the world."

All were rescued by an accompanying boat and a lifeboat launched from the Toronto Island rowers ran into trouble entering Ashbridge's Bay on Toronto's eastern lakefront.

Coxswain Don Dichel of the Balmy Beach Canoe Club told the struggling youths to "stick with the boat until the end of the world."

"I knew that until someone came the only smart thing to do was to stick with the boat," he said later.

BEST LAID PLAN GONE AGLEY

The best laid plans of mice and men go oft agley. We have a hunch, though, that the plans of men go more agley than those of mice, perhaps because mice generally make their plans about things concerning which they have some knowledge, while men do not always limit their planning activities in this manner. This is not a man's fault - - there are so many things about which he is required to plan. Nevertheless, he pays the penalty.

A case of a seemingly good plan gone very far agley seems to us to be the recent amendment to the Ontario Highway Traffic Act making it necessary for a police officer to stop a motorist or pedestrian who has violated the Act. That presents no great problem for police-men as far as pedestrians are concerned. As always, the poor foot-soldier bears the brunt of the battle. But it gives the motorist an "out." Reverting to his boyhood days, he can shout "You've got to catch me first" when he sees a limb of the law eying him with displeasure.

The members of the Ontario Legislature were aware of this fact when they passed the amendment but they thought, and we shared their conviction, that the move was a wise one, in keeping with the spirit of British justice, and in insistence that it is preferable that a dozen guilty persons should go unpunished rather than that one innocent person should be wrongfully convicted.

Despite what defenders of the old system may say, nobody can convince us that any policeman can go through his working years taking down the licence numbers of all speeding cars without sometime, somewhen, making a mistake. When we remember all the summonses issued in the past by this method, it is obvious that a whole lot of mistakes must have been made, and many innocent motorists charged. Having one was not in a certain place, at a certain time, at a certain hour, at that time is a difficult task - - as anybody will realize if he will attempt to answer the question exactly what he was doing at 5.43 p.m. on Tuesday of last week.

The members of the Legislature thought it would be preferable if policemen were required to stop Traffic Act violators at, or near, the scene of the infraction. Perhaps they were influenced in that decision by the fact that all, or most, of them drove cars, while few, or none, of them were policemen. Almost certainly many of them were influenced by the fact that they were lawyers. Both from the viewpoint of the lawyer and the motorist the amendment looked sound.

So far as makers in their planning had ventured into a field in which they had no practical experience. None of them were policemen on the beat in an urban centre. The result, we fear, is a plan so far agley that no mouse, contemplating it, will ever again complain about the frustration of his own best endeavors.

It now appears, according to policemen here, that the only way to stop the Highway Traffic Act violator, reasonable and feasible on the open road where police-men in patrol cars, also applies to city streets, where policemen are afoot. A patrolman at a busy intersection cannot jot down in his note book the license number of an auto that has flashed through a red light, narrowly missing a group of people walking with the green light. He cannot take the number of a car travelling fifty miles per hour in a thirty-mile zone. He must stop the car.

How does he do that? The poor foot policeman is evidently born either too soon or too late. If he were back in the days when Zeus ruled the world from Mount Olympus, he could petition for a loan of the wings from the feet of Hermes. A decade or so from now he might overtake the speeding car with the aid of the new Buck Rogers type jet belts, which are actually being developed to make locomotion easier for the Inland Revenue. Right today, though, even if he wore track shoes and had the speed afoot of Bannister and Landy combined, his would be a hopeless task.

He must feel that even the mice are laughing at him. There's one difference between mice and men, though. When a man's plans go wrong, he can alter them - - unless he is a real mouse and afraid to admit when he has made a mistake.

The best thing the legislators can do now is to admit that Burns was right and even the best plans can go agley.

OVERWORKED

"I cannot get away," he said,
"I cannot quit the city's grind
To rest where velvet green is spread
Or simply cannot spare the time.

"I'd like to take an ocean trip,
Or seek some summer beach
To play;
But still I cannot get away."

"Why not?" they asked. "The manager do.

"Why not go forth in search of rest?
Your neighbor plays, and why not you?

Get out and mingle with the best."

"I can't," said he. "I've got to work.
It's very different with me.
Though others for a time may shirk,
Upon the job I've got to be.

One day the doctor said: "Too late,"
As by the toiler's bed he stood.
"There is no cure for such a state.
He should have rested when he could."

Measurement System Poor

BBC London Letter

When Eunice Spencer tried to explain the English system of measurement to a young German friend she soon ran into difficulties. The trouble started with the word "inch." Miss Spencer explained that word was merely a corruption of the Anglo-Saxon word for stick—gyerd'. Sticks were often used in measuring and in order to prevent sticks of different length being used, Henry I had, over eight hundred years ago, fixed the standard length of the stick, or yard, as the distance from his nose to his thumb.

Miss Spencer's young pupil merely smiled indulgently and said: "Now tell me about the foot." This, Miss Spencer hastened to point out, was simply the length of a human foot, but found herself at a loss for an answer when reminded of the fact that humans' feet vary considerably in length. With inches and feet a little better for the word is a relic of the Roman occupation of British Isles (pollex, thumb, deriving from the Latin 'uncia,' meaning a twelfth part, and pupil would see no reason for the later invaders retaining this word, when they could have replaced the others with their own language.

Even many English children are a little hazy about rods, poles and perches, so it was a hopeless task trying to explain to someone brought up on the metric system that 'three terms in measurement came from the names for an ox-goad, or stick, with which Anglo-Saxon ploughmen used to prod lazy beasts; nor, for that matter, that a furlong was derived from the Anglo-Saxon field. It immediately provoked the question: "Were all fields the same length?"

The mile brought the lesson back to Rome, for the word comes from the Latin 'mille passum,' a thousand paces; but Miss Spencer begged to be excused from committing herself as to whether they were the paces of a long-legged or a short-legged man; and still less why it had been decided that he should be 5,280 paces or feet long, but 6,080 over sea. No wonder, she concluded, that academics in Britain spend about three times as long teaching arithmetic as those studying the "metric" countries spend on the same subject.

Simple Way To Get Rich

Stratford Expositor

A senator drawing $10,000 a year from life and speaking without the slightest fear of contradiction must be heard with respect on the subject of money. His title as Senator Horner considered all the angles when he told his Red Chamber colleagues, "Save your money to become wealthy is out of date. We must spend more to get rich"?

Saving for any purpose assumes a margin of income over spending. That margin for the average man, with saving his aim in saving cannot be anything more than the accumulation of a few dollars in banks, do for them the save-to-be-wealthy doctrine is not out of date, as the senator claims, because it was fever in date.

What leaves in his argument only those with incomes large enough to permit substantial savings. But even these people, with the exception of a miserly few who distrust banks, do not grow rich just by saving. Almost invariably they grow considerably invest their saved surplus at the best way to get wealthy. So, in fact, their savings have been much pure saving - to be-wealthy is to get out of date. That also disposes of the senator's claim that Henry Ford broke new ground when he taught his sons how to use their money wisely" to become rich.

The senator has also erred in calling the words "spending" and "investing" as if they were interchangeable. When he says "spend more to get rich," he really means that we must invest more. And it is obvious that before anyone can invest he must either accept a position an already existing source of wealth, such as an established business, or, more, shouts to invest.

So it all boils down to the fact that few people ever did or ever will get wealthy just by making normal deposits in banks. They must go further and place accumulated savings where they will grow faster, as in good growth stocks. All you need for that is enough income to be able to save enough to invest enough to become rich. Simple, isn't it?

DON'T TEAR DOWN

Any person can tear things down. It takes real character to build things up. Any malicious person can rake up scandal to destroy the good name of his fellow man. Christian heart to build up the courage and faith in the people with whom he comes in contact.

Reform is something quite necessary in life, yet the reformer is almost always disliked and frequently hated. But he should not be, because everyone of us stands in need of a certain amount of reform, and society as a whole needs reformation. B u t the reason why the reformer gets his reform are disliked is because reformation is often a negative matter in the point of view of the interested only in demolishing evil, not in building up good.

We make a great mistake when we take any other attitude toward life than a positive attitude. The best way to get evil out of our own lives is to crowd it out with good. The way to get rid of anxious thoughts is to place wholesome and hopeful thoughts firmly into one's consciousness. There are times when we have to tear down or tear out evil before we can start to build the truly good.

We are all likely to err on the negative side. Don't tear down; don't be a critic; criticism is false. Don't emphasize the awfulness of evil; emphasize rather the majesty, the beauty, the power of the

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When I was a child, there was a family of five boys who lived on our street, one of whom, the second, was everybody's favorite. Among the neighbors, among all us children, at school, he was outstanding.

But compared with the other four, he turned out to be the family failure. Two were quite professional life and made big names. Two were humdrum successes in business. But our favorite never rose higher than a bookkeeper, which was exactly what he wanted. For he has led a happy, healthy, quiet life, every-thing he required, and never, I suppose, a dollar in debt or a dollar richer in all his forty years.

We met the other day at a funeral, a social gathering y o u might call it; and we talked of our boyhood, his brothers, our various careers.

"No," he said, "I've had a pretty humdrum life. But I sometimes think others like me don't get enough credit for one thing. We serve to make others feel superior. To feel superior is, in nearly every living soul, almost as essential as food, shelter and clothing. After the purely material necessities rather than the spiritual need is to feel superior to somebody. It gave a man little feeling of superiority, for instance, to know that I have, by my humdrum life, allowed many people, my brothers, their families, and various acquaintances, to feel superior."

"Not me," I assured him.

For a second he looked hurt.

He is one of the rare men I know who has everything he wants.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article thirty-five in a series prepared by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

A LINEN COAT AND A BROAD BRIMMED STRAW HAT

Officially, summer is here. However, Quinte district residents are still awaiting the real summer, the kind when days are long and drinks and ice cream soar, suntan lotion sells by the carload and local fishermen get quite oppressive in the spring of 1834, for late in May the weather was "dry."

"My clothes are too warm, and I believe I must get some linen coat and a light linen cap." So a fine broad brimmed straw hat which saves me greatly. They are much cooler than hats."

He advised his wife to obtain such a hat for herself, but Elizabeth looked forward to the fall of the year, when his wife and family would join him from Ireland, and when the hot weather would give way to a more pleasant season — the "Indian Summer comes on in September, and it is the most delightful season for travelling."

broad brimmed hat for their son, but found other advice to give his wife regarding what she should wear. He advised Sarah:

"Do not encumber yourself with much. Everything can be had here reasonably. Change very frequently and delf (pottery) which is the dearest thing here can be had sometimes quite as cheap as at home. The weather since I arrived in Belleville is very low, so that you need not sacrifice anything that you have."

He strongly urged his wife to load and load fast for Kingston, and thence here. It can be done in three days, if advantage is taken promptly. Do not come by Quebec as there is much fatigue and trouble in it, privately, 600 lives lost, and it is a very tedious passage."

He remembered that in 1834 there was no railway connection between Quebec and Belleville, and that communication between the two points would be accomplished with difficulty by stage coach or by small boat up the St. Lawrence.

Furthermore, the time for crossing the Atlantic was estimated at altogether more than four weeks, a long and tedious experience in itself, and a far cry from the time necessary to cross from North America to Europe by jet plane in 1958.

I believe all of us have mysterious unseen followers ever about us — following us always, no matter where we may go. We f e e l their presence in sorrow, when in trouble, and when most in need. They say nothing but they shadow our lives and welcome their presence, for they realize there is no do. They are, perhaps, the angels of our higher selves.

Most of our lifetime is planned and charted by these unseen, unseen strangers that inhabit o u r spiritual world. Oh, how many times have we been prevented from taking the wrong step or making the wrong move, but we shall never know what we owe to that secret guard.

How many times these followers of ours have kept us from entering the wrong places, and have led us to the right ones. Time and again it has been difficult for me to realize that these followers of mine have not been real and actual, but their shadowy selves alone have been my companions.

More miracles than we h a v e any idea of have been performed without our notice, but as we grow in love and understanding more miracles take form and substance. Often they are revealed to us in dreams.

In the animal world, and in all nature, there are many strange signs that may become the alphabet of our happier days. Nature is revealing. We are a part of it, being of the same earthly substance.

How much of this nature is performed and made beautiful. How the memory of it is touches our senses and gives us guidance. Followers of ours are o u r teachers. They keep the flame of beauty and wonder forever burning bright.

Fred Doucet Spent 36 Years With Railroad

Being a Canadian National Railways passenger trainman is something like being a traveling salesman — you get to see your family only once a week.

That is the comparison given by Fred Doucet, 144 Moira St. who last week retired as brakeman after 36 years, the last 18 of them as passenger trainman on the Montreal-Toronto run.

"I hardly know what my wife will do with me around all the time. She used to see me only on weekends", comments Mr. Doucet.

A native of Lorelie — now known as Cantic—in the Montreal district, Mr. Doucet began his railroading career as a fireman with the C.T.R. at Brockville back in 1914. He fired for only a year and then went to the United States, returning to Canada in 1920 and starting with the main in Belleville as brakeman in 1922, just a year before the C.N.R. came into being.

For nearly two decades he has been passenger trainman on trains No. 15 and 6 working out of Montreal. By working out of Montreal local trainmen get their mileage in faster and as result have more days off, in Mr. Doucet's case nine days each month.

He completed his service with the railway last Thursday.

For the future he expects to catch up on some social contacts which the irregular hours of railroad life previously denied him and also intends to do a lot of fishing from his cottage at Moira Lake. He is also a gardening enthusiast.

Mr. and Mrs. Doucet have three married daughters, all living in the Belleville area.

Brighton Man Gives Diefenbaker Long-Discarded Picture of Laurier

The canvas, 18 by 24 inches, is believed the work of Canadian artist J. W. L. Forster and was used as a sketch for a finished painting of the former Liberal prime minister now in the custody of the National Liberal Federation.

The portrait was presented to Mr. Diefenbaker last week by Walter Davis of Brighton, Ont., who found it in 1934 after it had been discarded for 25 to 30 years.

From his Brighton home, Mr. Davis said he discovered the picture in a service station wash room in Prince Edward County.

"I had a terrible time getting the picture. It was attached to the wall by six nails and the management thought the privy would collapse if I removed the picture."

Mr. Davis, a retired Toronto businessman who declined to disclose his political leanings, said he put the picture away and never gave it another thought until "I thought I might as well give it sorting over his attic recently, it to somebody who would appreciate it. I knew the prime minister was an admirer of Sir Wilfrid and decided he should have it."

Mr. Davis asked R.C. Thompson, Progressive Conservative member for Northumberland, whether he thought the prime minister would be interested. Mr. Thompson offered to find out.

A few days later Mr. Davis received a letter from Mr. Diefenbaker, saying he would come to Brighton to pick up the picture.

"I wrote back and told him not to bother. I didn't want any publicity so I just wrapped it up and sent it along."

Sir Wilfrid, considered one of Canada's greatest leaders, was prime minister from 1896 to 1911.

Four local residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leak and Mr. and Mrs. Will Mills, will join an estimated 18,000 other Kiwanians, their wives and families, at the 43rd annual convention of Kiwanis International, held this year in Chicago, Ill.

The four-day meeting which commences Sunday, will be held in Chicago's famed International Amphitheatre, scene of many of the national political conventions held in the past.

Among the speakers participating in what promises to be one of the largest conventions in the organization's history, will be the Hon. Sidney Smith, Secretary of State for External Affairs; Hon. Wilbur M. Brucker, U.S. Secretary of the Army; Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., U.S. representative to the United Nations, and Brian Aherne, Star of the Chicago company of "My Fair Lady."

The keynote address, entitled "Of This We Are Proud," will be delivered Sunday evening by Kiwanis International President H. Park Arnold of Glendale, Calif.

A busy round of convention activities which will keep the Belleville Kiwanis representatives "hopping" while in the Steel City, include a cornerstone ceremony for the new Kiwanis home office building, a religious musicale, a "Pageant of Welcome," a district dinner, of which 30 will be held and the president's reception and ball, which will conclude the convention Wednesday evening.

High point of the convention proceedings will be the election of international officers for the coming year. This will be held Wednesday morning and the results will be announced at the president's reception and ball that evening. A new International president, two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees will be chosen by the delegates.

In the entertainment portion of the program, professional and amateur musical groups will perform at almost every session. Best known of the former will be the Leslie Bell Singers from Toronto, and Roger Williams, famed pianist.

Tangible History Seen At Women's SG

"Tangible History" was displayed and discussed at the June meeting of the Women's Study Guild held at the home of Mrs. George Wishart, Dufferin Ave, on Monday evening.

Mrs. J. Gandier introduced the program by a brief history of the Quinte District, touching on the Indians, the French explorers, the French missionaries and the U.E.L.

Then the members browsed among the interesting articles brought by other members. Among these was a collection of old Canadian coins, including back 140 years, an enormous scrapbook, many pioneer clothes, old household utensils, silver, dishes, woven material, bandgear and a stereoscope with views.

Not all were "Canadiana," but treasured mementoes from the Old Country. Among the latter was an inventory of apprenticeship of 1843, the details of which vividly contrasted the duties, working hours and rates of pay with those of today.

ANTIQUES

An address by Mr. T. Wrightmeyer on the subject of "Antiques" was read by Mrs. Wishart in which the writer explained that age is not the only criterion, but also the appeal of beauty and art, and, as in most matters, the law of supply and demand plays a considerable part.

This interesting program was preceded by a potluck supper in the garden of the Wishart home and a business meeting at which brief annual reports were given and the following new officers elected: President, Mrs. G. E. Maybee; vice-president, Mrs. J. Gandier; secretary, Mrs. N. Meldrum; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Murdoch.

The marriage service was conducted by Mrs. George Ashley.

Nurses Given Picture of Accident Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal-provincial committee has been given the Canadian Nurses Association a statistical picture of accidents and their cost to Canada's economy.

Dr. David Kubryk, new chief of the department's epidemiology division, spoke during a panel discussion Thursday at the association's annual conference here.

He said Canada has one of the world's highest accident death rates, second only to trailing because of death to people between two and 44 years old and the third leading cause for the total population.

ABOUT 2,000 DAILY

About 2,000 accidents occur every day and about 600 victims require hospital care. Accident victims fill one bed in 7 days in hospital a year. Annual cost in working time lost was 19,000,000 days.

One out of four accidents happens in the home, apparently we call our home. Omitting transport accidents the home accounted for 40 per cent.

Dr. Jules Gilbert of Montreal, chairman of the Canadian Public Health Association, described accident prevention as a responsibility of both voluntary agencies and government services.

GEE — BRENNAN

A lovely wedding was recently solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, by the Reverend Peter Murphy, when Elma Mary Brennan, of Corbyville, Ontario, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brennan, was united in marriage to Garry Charles Gee, of Belleville, son of Mr. Charles Gee, of Toronto, and the late Mrs. Gee. The Reverend Peter Murphy officiated in the double-ring ceremony, before an altar banked with tulips, lilies and ferns.

Lester Mary Terrine rendered the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Leo Brennan, was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of ruffled tulle and lace over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice buttoned from waistline to Peter Pan collar, and having long, three-quarter sleeves with lily-points over the wrists. She wore a finger-tip veil of silk tulle and lace, and sequin-trimmed coronet, and carried a cascade of red roses, white stephanotis, and fern.

Mrs. Donald DeGenova, of Belleville, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor, gowned in ballerina-length lace ruffled tulle in her mauve taffeta, with matching sequin studded pillbox headdress, and carried a bouquet of white and blue baby 'mums tied with blue lace and satin ribbon.

Miss Marlene Latchford, of Belleville, R.R. 7, as senior bridesmaid, was in yellow in similar styled gown and headdress with matching flowers, and Miss Brenda Rabbitaille, also of Belleville, as junior bridesmaid, was in pink made on lines to that of the other attendants, and carried flowers matching her frock.

Mr. Fred Brennan, of Corbyville, brother of the bride, was groomsman, while Mr. Donald DeGenova, and Mr. James Sheridan, both of Belleville, ushered.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Club Cedars, Cannilton, where the 45 guests were received by the bride's mother, gowned in aqua blue printed dacron with fitted bodice and bolero jacket, with bouffant flowing skirt, with corsage of red roses, and white accessories.

Mrs. John McHugh, of Belleville, aunt of the bridegroom, assisted, wearing navy printed dacron with fitted lines, with black accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the United States, the bride donned a navy blue nylon over net and taffeta with fitted bodice and full skirt, white rose, white accessories, and yellow corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Gee are residing in Frankford, on Albert Street.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, by several showers; a miscellaneous shower in the home of Miss Sandra Young, with co-hostesses Misses Hilda Thompson, and Brenda Robitaille, and Lenore Hamblin. At a community shower at the home of Mrs. Clarence Embury of Belleville, R.R. 6, with co-hostesses: Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Arthur Beesley, and Miss Irma Embury.

Gifts were received from London: St. Thomas; Stratford: Toronto, and Read, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cassidy Lynch are pictured following their recent marriage in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Dorothy Flews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flews, of Lonsdale, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lynch, of Erinsville, Ontario. (Photo by McCormick's Studio, Belleville.)

LYNCH — FLEWS

Yellow, mauve and white chry anthemums formed a pretty setting in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Ontario, for a recent wedding when Florence Teresa Flews, of Lonsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flews, became the bride of Joseph Cassidy Lynch, Erinsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lynch. The Reverend L. F. Donoghue, P.P. officiated. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Miss Maureen McAuliffe, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist who sang, "Ave Maria", "O Sacred Heart", "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white French lace, fashioned with fitted bodice, having a net yoke with sequin edged Peter Pan collar and long, molded sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The gracefully full skirt of nylon net over satin was accented by layers of net edged with French-lace. Her finger-tip, embroidered veil, fell from a coronet headdress of tulle, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and fern with white, satin streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Miss Helen McGuinness, of Lonsdale, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor; Mrs. Anne Hinch, of Newburgh, niece of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Raymond Flews, sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. All three attended were gowned alike in nylon chiffon over taffeta, with cowl necklines, draped fitted bodices, and full skirts with flying back panels, in ballerina length. The former was in mint green, are the latter in yellow. All wore matching shoes, mitts, headdresses of nylon chiffon and carried bouquets of pink and white feather-ed carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Joseph Steckley are shown signing the register following their marriage in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Pansy Marlene Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Sampson of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. Elmer L. Steckley, of Stevensville, Ontario.

STECKLEY — SAMPSON

A lovely, double-ring June wedding was solemnized on Saturday, 7th., at 3:00 p.m. in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, when the Reverend Elmer L. Steckley, father of the bridegroom, assisted by the Reverend L. K. Daniel, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Pansy Marlene Sampson, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Sampson, to Earl Joseph Steckley, son of the Reverend and Mrs. Elmer L. Steckley, of Stevensville, Ontario. Tall, white standards of all — white gladioli, Shasta 'mums, and snapdragons, interspersed with ferns, formed a pretty background for the ceremony, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. William G. O'Connor, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Jack McArthur, of Winnipeg, in the rendition of "O Perfect Love", before the ceremony, and "A Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Albert N. Sampson, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white silk peau de soie appliqued in Alencon lace, accented with seed pearls and sequins. The bodice featured a modified Sabrina neckline and long, lily-pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching bandeau of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red, Sweetheart roses, and stephanotis.

Miss Earl N. Morton, of Deseronto, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, Miss Audrey Sampson, registered nurse, of Peterborough, as senior bridesmaid, and Miss Barbara Steckley, sister of the bridegroom, as junior bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in imported waltz-length Swiss nylon dotted organdy over ribbon taffeta fitted in aquamarine shade, accented by aquamarine cummerbunds and matching ribbon bows, mitts and headdresses. They carried semi-cascades of white, pom 'mums.

Mr. John D. Steckley, of Stevensville, attended his brother, as best man. Ushers were Ken Ridgeway, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Lloyd Steckley, of Belleville, first cousin of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, centred by an all-white, wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, was flanked by silver candelabra with tall, white candles, and the bridal bouquets. White tulle was draped about the base.

The bride's mother received, wearing pale-blue nylon sheer over blue taffeta, with pink accessories, and corsage of pink sweetheart roses, and the groom's mother was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's grandmother, who was attired in midnight-blue silk shantung with black and white accessories, and deep-pink Sweetheart rose corsage.

For travelling to Washington, D.C., and Shenandoah Park, Virginia, the bride chose navy silk shantung with white accessories, and corsage of white Pinocchio 'mums and stephanotis. Mr. and Mrs. Steckley will reside at Gananoque, Ontario, where the bridegroom has been appointed accountant at the Bank of Montreal.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Alan Sprague at her home, George St., Belleville; with Mrs. J. H. Diamond as co-hostess; at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Clarence Campbell, Dufferin Avenue, with Mrs. A. Reilly and Miss Marjorie Hales as co-hostesses, and at a presentation by the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church choir, of which the young couple are members, of a telephone chair and table.

Guests attended from Belleville, Deseronto, Napanee, Peterborough, Stevensville, Ridgeway, Cornwall, Mission, Tottenville, Stayner, Barrie, South Monaghan, Toronto, Whitby, and Kansas.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

CUPS AND BOWLS FOR SERVING SOUP

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please clear up for me some questions concerning china?

1. What is the difference between the usual soup cup and a "bouillon cup?" And please tell me what sport is used with each?

2. What is a "cream soup cup"? And what would be correct to use with this?

3. I have a problem about what to buy for soup plates for informal meals. The only soup plates I own are the usual large, rimmed soup plates, a wedding present, and definitely on the formal side. I have several recipes for "hearty" soups that I have made a specialty (one somewhat of the minestrone type, another an onion soup au gratin). Have you a suggestion about what I might buy for serving these and similar soups? I have no service. We entertain quite often, always informally, so a nondescript buffet service.

— Hostess-Cook-Waitress

1. The standard-size soup cup and the bouillon cup are the same. It is the two-handled teacup and, like a teacup, has a matching saucer. It is used for serving soup at luncheon — hot soup or cold. The so-called "bouillon cup" is used with that size cup, or a teaspoon.

2. The "cream soup cup" or "cream soup bowl" is a wide bowl, two-handled, and sometimes sold with a matching saucer. It holds quite a generous amount of soup. This soup cup is practical to be used at luncheon and also at informal dinners. There is a "cream soup" specially designed for use with this bowl, or a dessert spoon is suitable, too.

3. I should say that the pottery ovenware bowls would be perfect for these uses you have in mind. They deserve the popularity they have today! They are usually made with a cover . . . and that is a wonderful convenience. The capacity of these bowls is about twice (sometimes more) that of the usual soup cup. They are very suitable, of course, for the "hearty" soups in which you specialize, and particularly for onion soup au gratin which you may run under the broiler a minute or so before you bring it to the table. They are ideal when you serve a hearty soup at buffet meals, and they are a boon to the hostess who for best convenience sets the soup containers on the table before she summons the guests to the table. You'll find several interesting types of these in your local department stores.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a wire clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by reference and counselling.

Norman T. — Why should we be railroaded by vicious gossip?

Greta A. — I am a widow in my 50's with grown and married children. About a year ago I met a man of my own age at my brother's home.

He told me he was married, but never went out with his wife as she lived in a world of her own with her family and club activities.

Norman and I hit it off just beautifully from the start. We seemed to like to do the same kind of thing and it was a joy to be able to have an escort to go out with again. Our relationship was purely one of friendship and dating, but I found that others did not see it that way.

Recently I got a couple of anonymous letters of the most vicious kind, calling me every horrible name in the language. I feel that I can't go on with our friendship if I am going to be looked at in this light. Norman thinks it's foolish.

Norman T. — We are two mature individuals and we have a right to enjoy our lives as we see fit. Why should we be railroaded by vicious gossip of this kind?

Anyone who is malicious enough to send anonymous letter deserves the worst kind of punishment. Certainly self-respecting people should not be influenced by it. Greta has suggested that it might have been my wife, but I think this is impossible as she often told me she would be happy to have me enjoy myself in my own way as long as she has her freedom. I have never been able to enjoy ourselves together. Greta and I know we are doing nothing wrong from any point of view. It is a blessing to both of us to be able to have a companion. Before we met we were both so terribly lonely and Greta told me at one time she almost thought she was on the verge of suicide.

The Council: We agree nothing can be more despicable than the kind of anonymous letters Greta describes, and that nobody should be "railroaded by vicious gossip."

There are, however, other considerations for both Norman and Greta.

Unfortunately, perhaps, it isn't possible in our society for a man and woman freely to enjoy the kind of friendship they describe. Married couples do not wish to become involved and avoid them. They own children and other relatives are perplexed and reluctant to share social activities with them.

As a result Greta and Norman are forced into a relationship which cuts them off from the rest of society. The more cut off they become, the more dependent upon one another they grow.

They may eventually become more involved with one another than they really want to be, or they may gradually become quite bored with one another and find themselves unable to escape one another's company.

Greta in particular, has much to lose by a relationship which cuts her off from the possibility of meeting men who might be interested in marriage. She must also be made uneasy by the fact that her actions are open to unfortunate interpretations.

We do not think Greta and Norman must destroy their friendship, but we do think it would be better for both of them to stop dating. They should try to find companionship activities that bring them together on a limited number of occasions.

Dreamy Styles

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The trapeze silhouette is hailed as a natural choice for comfortable summer sleeping as interpreted in this style of fine cotton with dacron. It is embellished with rows of tinted lace — pale pink with deeper rose, or white with pale aqua. The lace is used in vertical rows on the brief bodice and in a triple horizontal border at the hem. Matching satin ribbon borders the pointed yoke and forms the long-streamered bow.

Wider Horizons for Canadian Women Expected in Politics

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A national women's organization taking a look at what Canada's women are doing found among many occupations a lighthouse keeper, an auctioneer, a dog handler and an Indian chief.

Women in these jobs are among those listed in a survey compiled by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women.

The off-beat jobs are listed, by provinces, under headings titled "honors and achievements."

The list—fourth compiled by the federation—is published in the current edition of the organization's official magazine The Business and Professional Woman.

TWO IN COMMONS

"Horizons are widening for Canadian women in almost every sphere of endeavor except politics," states the CFBPW. There are only two women in the 265 seat Commons and only five of the current 96 Senators are women.

High on the list is Mrs. Ellen Fairclough of Hamilton, Ont., Canada's first federal woman cabinet minister, who handles the tough portfolio of citizenship and immigration.

The survey found six women judges, six women in legislative assemblies, 11 women mayors—five of them in Ontario — and 59 aldermen.

In the majority of the 10 provinces, the longest list of women's names is found under "school trustees." There are 250 women serving as school board members.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER

Mrs. Dedie Dobbs of Toronto keeps the light at Gibraltar Point on Toronto Island and Mrs. Elsie Knott of Peterborough, Ont., is listed as chief of the Curve Lake Indian band.

In Toronto, Mrs. Shirley deBoer a professional dog handler and Mrs. Irene Gordon is the city's only woman driving instructor. She teaches women only.

In the industrial world, Mrs. Amelia Johansen of Lethebridge, Alta., is president of an oil company and in Victoria, B.C., Mrs. Irene Hennah is president and general manager of a helicopter service.

Last fall Mrs. Edith M. Wallis of Digby, N.S., rang up a first in the newspaper world. She became the first woman president of the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association.

Club Activities

EGGLETON M.B.

MADOC JUNCTION — The June meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school on Friday afternoon.

The president, Audrey Slaney, presided over a program prepared by the leader.

Diane Frost had arranged the worship centre with a pretty summer scene at the base and a vase of blue flowers at one side, the offering plate on the other side and the open Bible in front.

The roll call was answered by 21 children, two visitors and three adults, with each telling something they wished to do during the summer vacation.

The Mission Band papers, "World Friends," were distributed by Lois Danford, Diane Frost and Kenneth Danford.

For the devotional period, "Worshipping God in the Springtime," taken from the June "World Friends," was used, with Mrs. Clancy as leader and Sharon Reide, Sammy Danford, Marilyn Staples, Vicky Phillips, Isobel Frost and Grant Reid, reading the selected verses of Scripture, and Shirley Prest giving the closing prayer.

Mona Phillips gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer read by Sheila Clarke.

Mrs. Clancy asked Beverley Stapley to come to the front of the school, where she was presented with a Mission Band birthday certificate, being given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Russell Stapley.

Marilyn Stapley handed in her paper, having completed the Scripture verse, home study.

At the may meeting, the leader had asked the senior pupils to find a verse with the word "love" in the books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and Revelations.

On the third Friday afternoon in July the Mission Band members were invited to the home of Mrs. Maurice Clancy to complete their scrap book on "Japan."

Members were reminded to put some of their pennies in their "Mite Boxes" during vacation time and then to bring their boxes to the September meeting.

Also during the holidays, to gather pictures of people, places, flowers and birds of Northern Rhodesia, the next study book will be about the people of the North American continent.

The Mission Band song, "Jesus Loves the Little Children," was practised, so the members could sing it at Sunday School on Sunday morning.

Mrs. M. Clancy presented in Miss Slaney, the leader from the study book, "At Grandfather's Farm," telling how Hana, her mother, sister and two brothers had enjoyed the summer holidays there.

A period of recreation was enjoyed, then refreshments of Rice Krispie squares and marshmallows brought by Mrs. Reide and strawberry fondant candy brought by Mrs. Clancy were served on the school lawn by Sharon Reide and Lloyd Clancy.

Woman at 89 Not Longing for Good Old Days

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Mrs. John Dorricott, who celebrates her 70th wedding anniversary Friday, doesn't long for the return of "those good old days."

"They can say what they like about the good old days," she says, "They have them . . . carrying the water and the cistern freeing and all that handwringing. Give me the hot and cold water and the automatic (washers) any day."

Mrs. Dorricott, 89, and her husband were born in England, came here with their parents and became childhood sweethearts.

Illness of her husband, now in hospital, has forced cancellation of an anniversary celebration but the couple are expected to be together for the anniversary.

Mr. Dorricott joined the Canadian Pacific Railway shortly after his marriage and completed 40 years of service. An only son, Frank of Great Falls, Mont., carried on the tradition and a few years ago retired as superintendent of the Great Northern Railway.

Mrs. Dorricott was one of seven children, one of whom died. The others, ranging in age from 73 to 82, are still alive.

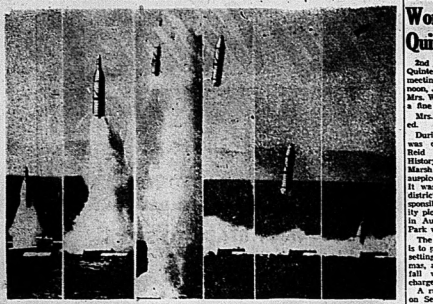
U.S. NAVY DISPLAYS UNDER WATER POLARIS MISSILE SHOT



The U.S. navy fires a Polaris ballistic missile from ocean depth off the coast of California. From the left, the slight yellow Polaris is seen as it roars out of the sea, trailing water and smoke as first stage engine burns out. The missile then drops back into the water as the dummy warhead (arrow), lacking the propellants of the operational model, broke away in a higher arc before it came down. Polaris is expected to be ready for use in 1960.

4-H Club Work Topic at Quinte W.I.

2nd SIDNEY — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its June meeting on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th, at the home of Mrs. W. Jeffrey at Bayside, with a fine attendance.

Mrs. Don Sandercock presided.

During the business session it was decided that Mrs. John Reid attend the Tweedsmuir History Workshop to be held at Marsh Hill church under the auspices of the Pine Grove W.I. It was also arranged that the district directors would be responsible to arrange a community picnic on the second Sunday in August in Bain Memorial Park with dinner at one o'clock.

The Bay of Quinte Institute is to put on a display of a table setting for a party or Christmas, at the Belleville Fair this fall with Mrs. John Reid in charge.

A rummage sale will be held on September 6th in Trenton town hall. Donations of winter clothing will be acceptable. Please get in touch with the president, Mrs. Don Sandercock.

The meeting was turned over to the convener of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, who opened with a poem called "The Foolish Pig." Mrs. Ketcheson also introduced the speaker, Mr. Sidney McDonald, Agriculture Representative at Stirling, who gave a talk on 4-H Club work. Mr. McDonald reminded that farming had changed considerably in the last four years as well as the way of life.

The 4-H Club work is based on their motto, "Learn to Do by Doing," and their pledge, "I pledge my head to clearer thinking, my hands to greater loyalty, my heart to greater health, my health to better living, for my club, my community and my country." This all started with local clubs, but enlarging each year. The Canadian council was organized. The national council was organized by different industries in Canada, such as Dupont, Ford, Eaton's, and different banks, who were interested in the development of girls and boys. A large percentage of these firms' help is drawn from rural areas. They found that young folks who had been in the 4-H Club made good as workers, for they had been taught self reliance and had to learn to work on their own.

The girls learned to prepare various means, how to cook, the proper method of dressing and how to make their clothes and proper care of the health. The boys learned care of livestock, growing grain, forestry conservation and all there was to learn about farming.

Mr. McDonald reminded that people were fortunate in Ontario to have their 4-H Clubs, for when others are talking of their clubs they say, "Next to Ontario we have the best." Hastings agriculture is noted for its 4-H programs.

The reason the club is called 4-H is that it is known throughout the world and the flag is pure white silk with a four leaf clover and on each leaf is an "H", meaning head, heart, hands and health.

Many awards are given during the year and on Achievement Day it is simply wonderful to see the young people showing their work. One has to be real good to win a prize, as just one is picked from each district to compete for these.

Mrs. Donald Sandercock thanked Mr. McDonald for his interesting talk. Mrs. John Reid gave a fine report of the district annual.

Mrs. Alva Meyers agreed to be Public Relations representative for the Bay of Quinte Institute for 1958-59.

It was moved to apply for a "Salad Short Course" through the Extension Service.

Mrs. Alva Meyers moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and all who had helped to make the meeting a success.

Refreshments were served, ending an interesting afternoon.

WASH-BOARD RIDGE TO WAKEN MOTORISTS

Though it looks a little like a washboard gone wrong, this corrugated shoulder is the latest in highway safety measures. The new safety device was installed on a road near Frankfort, Germany, to help cut down accidents. It is hoped that sleeping drivers will be awakened by the pounding before their cars go off the road. And the raised surfaces of the concrete offer better traction in a case of a skid.

HEN LAYS BOWLING-PIN EGGS

Samanthy, a hen owned by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jackson of Lodi, Calif., examines the bowling pin-shaped egg she laid recently. It's never happened to Samanthy before, but she figures she'll get rich selling her product to bowling alleys. The way she figures it, the ball hits the pin, the egg breaks and presto, a omelet, all ready for the frying pan. The bowling alleys, of course, would go into the restaurant business as a sideline.

BOMB BLAST

ORAN, Algeria (Reuters) — About 10 persons were injured, two severely, when a bomb exploded at Relizane, east of here, on Tuesday night. The bomb had been placed in a parked car just outside the market.

Crabgrass Can Be Controlled

TORONTO — Crabgrass, or Finger Grass, is one of the most persistent weeds that invade lawns, appearing in late June or July and becoming more troublesome as the season advances, states the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The leaves of Crabgrass are short, broad and hairy. The smooth branching stems and seed heads, a group of 4 to 6 spikes arranged in whorl around the top of stem like the fingers on a hand are the most noticeable evidence of the weed, and as it nears maturity the whole plant turns a reddish-purple color. The stems are frequently prostrate and root at the joints, which together with prolific yields of seed, account for its rapid increase and difficult control.

Crabgrass is an annual and if seeding can be prevented the problem is greatly reduced as only dormant seeds or new introductions can perpetuate it. When cutting the seed heads off with a mower, the area should be raked first to make the heads stand erect. Clippings should be caught behind the mower and destroyed, preferably by composting. Wild white clover which forms a dense mat on the ground helps to retard the development of Crabgrass as do spring and fall fertilization and the seeding of thin and bare spots.

One practice to avoid is frequent light watering. The shallow-rooted Crabgrass benefits most by this treatment; the deeper-rooted lawn grasses get little if any benefit from it. Water only about once a week in dry weather and then do a thorough job so that the ground is wet down at least two inches.

A number of chemical products, when properly applied, give very effective control. P. M. A. (Phenyl Mercuric Acetate) is one of these and should be applied according to the instructions on the label; the first application just as Crabgrass is emerging, followed by second and third treatments at ten-day intervals.

Calasan Cyanate is also very effective and should be used in preference to P. M. A. if the Crabgrass has headed out. A second treatment about two weeks later will be required. Potassium Cyanate should be used at the rate of 1 oz. in 3 gallons of water to treat 400 sq. feet. This treatment will cause some browning of lawn grasses, but will do no permanent harm.

STIRLING

Successful Flower Show Held By Horticultural Society

STIRLING — Stirling Horticultural Society held a successful Flower Show in the Community hall, Thursday, with afternoon and evening showings.

Due to the lateness of the season and cool weather, the roses and dahlias were in the minority. There was, however, a large showing of peonies of all colors, and the judge, Mrs. Howard Countryman, of Tweed, found it hard to place some of the entries. Pansies were plentiful in a large assortment of lovely shades. The African violets were also in profusion, both single and double.

The miniature arrangement of flowers not more than four inches high were cleverly displayed in a variety of containers.

GRAND PRIZE WINNER

Mrs. J. B. Belshaw won the T. Eaton Co. silver flower bowl as the Grand Sweepstakes winner. She also won the Rose Rose in the show class, selected from all entries, and the prize was a set of gold cuff links and tie clip. Over 100 people attended the two showings and at the close of each session refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Mr. J. B. Belshaw was master of ceremonies and introduced Miss Violet Moyer, of Ottawa, who delighted with a travelogue of her tour of Europe. The scenes showed glimpses of various countries, among them the British Isles. She spent a year travelling, following her retirement as a school teacher. Miss Moyer is well known in Stirling as she taught school here. She is now an English instructor at Ottawa University.

Mr. Belshaw spoke on behalf of Mrs. J. Sheppardson, director of Horticulture District No. 3, who was unable to attend, and asked past president Fred Houchin to have a seat of honor. Mr. Belshaw then outlined to the audience the efforts of Mr. Houchin who had been instrumental in giving the Stirling Horticultural Society a new lease of life.

He said in 1956 the aim of the society was 100 members, and now, two years later, there is a membership of over 200 in the Stirling area.

President, Mrs. Jack Hansen, presented a large framed certificate to Mr. Houchin for his meritorious service to this organization.

Mr. Houchin expressed gratefull thanks for the certificate, and paid special tribute to all committee members who had co-operated to make this flower show a success.

The chairman paid tribute to those people who organized the first Horticultural Society in 1937 with Mrs. James Boldrick as president and a membership of 31. This society, soon after its inception, purchased the present Victoria Park.

An old fashioned long shanty depicting those of 100 years ago, was on display in the hall. The lumber used to build the floor, table, benches, and such, is 110 years old and was recently taken out of an old partition in the Belshaw house. This shanty was built specially for Stirling centennial year.

There were numerous donations from various donors which were gratefully acknowledged.

POISON IVY IS ITS OWN ANTIDOTE

One woman's meat is another woman's poison ivy as in the case of Margaret Strauss, director of the allergy laboratory at New York's Bellevue medical centre, who's using a meat grinder to grind poison ivy leaves. This is the first step in making aqua ivy, a new salt-water base preparation perfected by Miss Strauss that gives 93 per cent immunity against poison ivy. It is used also to treat ivy poisoning and to build future immunity. Aqua ivy has been tested for 10 years on more than 1,000 patients. Highly satisfactory results have been reported.

Woman's First Home Soon To Be Drowned When River Floods After Mighty Blast

LONG SAULT, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Verna Warner gazes dally at the St. Lawrence River from her kitchen, counting the last hours before 180,000,000,000 gallons of water engulf the site of her first home.

For three days and three nights she will be able to watch the water snake over the countryside on a rising flood crest that will create a lake 35 miles long and 90 feet deep in Seaway Valley for a power project near Cornwall, Ont.

Mrs. Warner has lived with the flood threat for the last four years. And now the flood really is to happen, starting before dawn Tuesday, July 1. Her whole life has been altered, her home moved, the countryside cleaned.

"Sure our lives are changed," she said the 41-year-old housewife. "But changed for the better, not for the worse."

Her story is typical of the greatest mass move in Canada's history. Seven villages, 6,500 people, 531 houses, scores of cattle barns, garages and sheds were shifted from low, riverside sites to sparkling new ones on higher ground in 33 months of feverish activity.

They called this rehabilitation. Ontario Hydro, partner in the $600,000,000 power project with New York state, did the planning and paid for the moving. It was progress and few complained.

Three new towns were created, Ingleside, Iroquois and Morrisdale, with paved roads, sewers, water and a big new highway. Schools were built. New churches replaced historic houses of worship, too fragile to move safely.

"It's funny, you know," said Mrs. Warner, a jolly mother of a 14-year - old daughter, Doris. "The old hall at Moulinette where I first met my husband, Douglas, at a dance is just across the street now. And a friend who used to live on the west side of our house at Mille Roche is on the east side of our house here in Long Sault."

Giant house - moving trucks shifted the buildings, taking some as far as nine miles from their original sites.

"I remember when Hydro told us to get ready to move," recalled Mrs. Warner. She chained a new home at Mille Roche and I'd got the garden plants. We had lots of warning, but the move happened so quickly.

"We left the house just as it was. I put some of my best plates flat in a shelf, but we just walked out and they drove us to a store-front house. We lived there that night and the next day we were back in our old home, but the garden plants from the last."

The Warner family sold the house to Ontario Hydro and built another, larger home in Long Sault a few streets away.

"We're very satisfied," said Mrs. Warner. Her daughter, Doris is happy, too. Her new school—one of the most modern in Ontario—has a gymnasium she loves sports.

"At Mille Roche," said young Doris, "it was a mile to school. Now it's just down the street."

The Warners have a barbecue in the backyard and 50 chickenlas in the garage.

The job so far unnamed —will flood 38,000 acres, covering 11 miles of highway, and former route of the railway which has been moved back from the river. It will create a new playside for river residents and visitors, with beaches and picnic spots for all.

"It'll be a new country altogether," said Verna Warner.

PONY LEARNS TO LIKE THE LIFE OF PAMPERED HOUSE PET

A pampered puny is Spunky, adopted by Suzanne and Mr. O. Pellett of Stouffville, Ont., after he had been disowned by his mother seven hours after he was born. Spunky now is a regular resident of the Pellett home, being admitted through the door, left; like a pet poodle. Spunky's life was saved by the nursing of Suzanne and, above left, he shows how accustomed to the life of luxury he has become. He can often be seen curled up on the Pellett chesterfield or sleeping in bed with the Pellett cat. On other occasions he sits behind the wheel of the Pellett car, right, and looks for all the world as if he knew what it is all about.

CMHC Head Causes Stir By Cutting Staff of Govt. Agency From 2,300 to 1,800

In an appearance last week before the Senate finance committee, he said he cut the staff of the Crown-owned company from 2,300 to 1,800 in two years.

This was done in the interest of "efficiency and economy."

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said Wednesday in the Commons Mr. Bates' statements have raised "serious implications of feather-bedding" in the civil service.

He said Mr. Bates made the implications in growing why the government's housing agency, which operates outside the civil service, was able to reduce its staff.

The housing agency's staff cuts will be the subject of a three-day meeting of the Civil Service Federation's annual convention council here July 3-5.

Jean W. Edmonds, liaison officer of the 80,000-member group, yesterday said the reductions would top a list of complaints for discussion then. He added that federation is also worried about defence department staff cuts but the main worry is the CMHC reductions.

The work of federal civil servants also came in for criticism Tuesday at a meeting of the Commons public accounts committee.

SAW A LOT...IDLE

Jack Wratten (PC—Brantford) said he has watched civil servants in their offices and "a lot of them are not working."

He drew support from Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper Edson) who said he is a little "alarmed" at the number of administrators who have "crept" into the civil service.

Outride the committee, William Bennett, Minister Res said he is a hard-working, energetic group of employees.

Trevor Gough, executive secretary treasurer of the 26,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada, said most civil servants are doing a "full day's work," particularly in these busy times.

At the committee meeting, Transport Minister Res said he has not aware of any slacking. He had found his own department generally operating efficiently.

Mr. Wratten made his observation during study of transport department estimates. Since 1953 the main staff had been increased to 13,373 employees from 12,568 last year.

Mr. Fisher asked State Secretary Courtemanche Wednesday whether he would call senior officials of the civil service association to the head of the civil service commission, A. D. P. Heeney, before a Commons committee "to present the civil service side of the matter."

Mr. Courtemanche said he would consider the question for a reply later.

Bell Telephone Tries New Bid For Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — After one rate-raise rejection from the federal government, the Bell Telephone Company is trying for new Ontario-Quebec phone rate increases from a different angle.

The company lost out before the cabinet on $10,000,000-a-year boosts in April, and now seeks increases of about $1,000,000 an month.

"The proposed new increases were filed Wednesday under the board of transport commission rules, which will open hearings on them here Sept. 9.

Generally, Bell spokesmen said suggested new increases would be about 4% per cent on the average of the company's $326,000,000-a-year gross revenue in the two central provinces.

They would run to about six per cent on residential and eight per cent on business phones for local service, and an average of four per cent for long-distance bills.

ONLY WITHIN PROVINCES

The long - distance increases would apply only to calls within Ontario and Quebec.

From the increases, Bell spokesmen said, the company would expect to gross about $10,000,000 on local services, some $4,000,000 on business phones and the remainder on miscellaneous charges.

In its earlier application, the company won the first round with the board of transport commissioners, which January granted it increases of approximately three per cent expected to be worth $10,200,000 a year.

But the cabinet suspended these and later disallowed them completely, at the request of the government that had authorized for the railways.

It was the first such step ever taken by the cabinet on a phone rate boost.

NOT VALID REASON

In that case, Bell sought the increase largely on the ground that it needed around $13,500,000 a year to pay dividends expected to put into a fund to meet possible future tax increases. The cabinet held that not a valid reason for charging higher rates to phone users.

In the new application, the company says the net income of some $8,000,000 to get a level of earnings of $2.43 a share, which has been approved by the transport commissioners.

Because of taxes that take about 50 per cent, this means a gross income of about $16,000,000.

At present rates, the company's application says, net income for 1958 is estimated at $1.98 a share.

SOUND EXAMPLE

Following are present tolls on some exchanges for two-party residence and one-party business rates, with proposed rates in brackets:

Belleville (including adjoining extended area service points): 4.50 (5.00), 6.50 (7.25).

Ottawa (including extended area service points): 3.90 (4.10), 12.90 (13.75).

Brantford, Kingston, St. Catharines, Sudbury-Copper Cliff, Welland: 2.50 (3.65), 9.70 (10.40).

Belleville, Chatham, Cornwall, Guelph, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Oshawa, Peterborough, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie: 2.30 (3.45), 8.40 (9.00).

Barrie, Galt, Orillia, Owen Sound, Port Arthur, Stratford, Woodstock: 3.10 (3.25), 7.40 (7.90).

Collingwood, Goderich, Huntsville, Hawkesbury, Midland, Pictou: 2.95 (3.05), 6.50 (6.95).

Ontario Mayors, Reeves Discuss Money Problems, Municipal Grant Systems

STRATFORD (CP) — Financial limitations and the source of new funds, the main bugbears of private business, appear also to be a common problem in running the affairs of a municipality.

Lack of money and where to get it held the spotlight of discussion and speeches at Wednesday's opening session of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves annual meeting.

Delegates were told greater understanding is needed in working out the federal-provincial municipal grants system.

Mayor Merle Dickerson of North Bay, in his presidential address, said he is grateful to ask the Ontario highways minister to explain why Toronto is receiving a 95-per-cent subsidy for roads projects while other municipalities are getting only 50 per cent.

Sealy W. Eakins, deputy city clerk of Toronto and association secretary-treasurer, said both the federal and provincial governments should co-operate in a search for readjusting the financial structure of the grants system.

And Mayor Frederick Armour of Armour told delegates that by 1967 municipal taxes will average $110 a person unless the present rate of increase is checked.

He said that since 1947 local taxes had increased 115 per cent to $74.50.

"We must give active support to the efforts of the province to obtain a greater share of the tax revenue or additional avenues of taxation, or get these things for ourselves."

He suggested education, health and welfare costs be removed from the municipality's responsibility as long as they are dependent on property taxes for their revenue.

"Property taxes should pay for the services benefiting it. The senior government, with its broader taxation basis, should pay for the services benefitting people."

Municipalities since Confederation had faced a diminishing field of revenue sources but their responsibilities had increased.

Premier Frost listed possible loss of taxes and credit problems municipalities face because of possible loss of taxes, credit, competition with municipally-owned hydro electric power, competition with taxpayers selling coal, wood, oil and propane.

"I leave this question with you," Mr. Frost said. "Whether or not that is a municipality which is having difficulty with credit is to do things it should do, would want to spread its credit out into the retail distribution? I guess it was with its incidental problems!"

Gas Expert Sees Seaway As Incentive to Industry

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—An American gas expert says the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway can boost Canadian industrial development and foster the growth of natural gas as a fuel for industry.

C. S. Sackpole, managing director of the American Gas Association, today told the annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association that power politics within the dustry growth will be one of the major assets to Canada's natural gas industry.

There will obviously be major use made of natural gas in such industries as refining, pulp and paper, ore reduction and smelting and chemicals industries which are either regional in their distribution patterns or which are economically dependent upon some of the natural resources upon which their operations are based.

"I am sure that over the long term, the availability of large volumes of natural gas through the trans - Canada pipeline will greatly stimulate industrial development of the areas north of the Great Lakes."

NOT ENOUGH DEMAND

But a Canadian oil industry executive said at present the future demand for natural gas in Canada is not great enough to reserves now available and to be discovered, does not provide an adequate incentive for continued exploration and development.

R. D. Jamieson, chairman, senior vice-president of the British American Oil Company, said Wednesday that unless substantial export markets for gas "are developed soon the survival of many Canadian oil companies will be at stake.

Mr. Jamieson, who played a key role in the hunt for oil and gas on the prairies in the last decade, said the oil industry has reached a critical point. Expenditures by the industry have exceeded income every year since, 1947, a fact necessitating a contraction of large amounts of new capital each year.

URGES EXPORT POLICY

He called for a policy which would permit the "profitable export of gas not needed to meet Canada's present and foreseeable needs — a step which he said would provide the solution to the crisis confronting the country's oil and gas operators.

Production would not be expected to carry out exploration and then be denied the additional markets necessary to return the millions of dollars expended to develop reserves substantially in excess of all Canada's estimated requirements for the next 25 years.

"Unnecessary delays in obtaining such markets will only tend to drive prices upwards."

Liberal Leader To State Policy On Gas Industry

BIG INN INN (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer says he will have a policy within two months concerning nationalization of Ontario's natural gas industry.

"When we disclose it will be a matter of timing," he told a press conference Wednesday night. He said nationalization of Ontario's natural gas industry has been proposed by several Southern Ontario municipalities. They have suggested a government commission to handle the industry as is done with electric power. Premier Frost has said this would use up credit needed for other government projects.

PART OF NEW PLATFORM

Mr. Wintermeyer said he and his five-man policy committee will make a decision on the basis of conference discussions. It would be part of a new platform preparing for the next election, education and labor.

"What we will do here is give everyone a chance to talk out loud."

In an earlier interview William Henderson of Kingston, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, told reporters Premier Frost will call an early provincial election because he knows the federal government isn't going to give Ontario the requested additional $78,000,000 in tax revenues.

BECAUSE OF DEFICIT

Mr. Henderson predicted the provincial government will refuse the request because of the large deficit in the federal budget.

"If the premier thinks he's not going to get it he will have to call an election fast before the people realize it. We're working on that assumption and working for a fall election."

Conference sessions were scheduled to open today with consideration of resolutions forwarded from the party's leadership convention at Toronto in February. Heading the list is a resolution calling for a national health plan including all medical expenses.

Slum Clearance Plans Approved At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A $16,750,000 project to rip down slum tenements in the heart of this island metropolis and replace them with modern, low - rental apartments has cleared another hurdle in its stormy path to reality.

City council Wednesday night approved plans and specifications for the reconstruction phase of the project. It also approved financing arrangements for the rebuilding program—most of the money is to come from the federal government—and voted credits to continue expropriations and demolition.

Bitter feuding among rival factions in the council has marked passage of the slum clearance and low-rental housing plan since it was introduced six years ago.

ABOUT 800 FAMILIES

The project was devised to provide decent apartments for some 800 families living in old, rickety buildings in the downtown area bounded by St. Dominique, Ontario and Sanguinet Streets and the rear of lots fronting on St. Catherine Street.

The fighting came over where and how to relocate the displaced people.

One side—the Civic Action League whose chief spokesman, former mayor Jean Drapeau, was defeated in the last city election —wanted to move the families en masse to a new project erected on the downtown property for industrial development.

This proposal was defeated by the council Wednesday night.

The other side—the greater Montreal Rally, headed by Mayor Sarto Fournier—approved a plan to relocate the people in the demolished area.

Also approved, the project calls for construction of a 14-storey apartment block, surrounded by four 15-storey buildings, 15 three-storey blocks and eight two-storey structures.

Also planned are four acres of park and public playgrounds, 8 miles of new and new streets and lighting.

The federal government will contribute about $2,450,000 toward the net cost of expropriation and clearance of the entire site, the provincial government is to add another $1,000,000 with the city paying the remainder.

The reconstruction cost will be split with the federal government paying 75 per cent, the city the remainder.

WANT BACK IN

LONDON (Reuters) — Five extreme right-wing Conservatives were bolted from their party last year in protest against "Middle Eastern policy announced Tuesday they will apply for readmission. The five are Viscount Hinchingbrooke and Wilfrid Wilson, John Biggs-Davidson, Lawrence Turner and Anthony Fell.

West Indies Federation Adds To Culture of Festival, Little Carib Dancers in Debut

TORONTO (CP) — The new West Indies federation, already rich with a distinctive culture of its own, will make a contribution to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival this year.

Dance performances at the Avon Theatre July 16-19 the Little Carib Theatre group from Trinidad will tell in song and dance the history of the West Indian Islands.

The 31-member mixed group imported from Fraternos, founder and planning consultant of the Shakespearean Festival, when he was in Trinidad during a three-month stay in the West Indies. It was the first visit by the West Indies government on the Festival of West Indian Arts, held to mark the birth of the federation.

DANCING OF ARTS

The Little Carib Theatre in its presentations blends the arts of many races. They are drawn from the customs of the aboriginal Carib and Arawak Indians, and from the songs and dances of Africans, Chinese, English, French, Indians, Portuguese and Spaniards.

Indigenous song and dance combinations resulted in the unique mixture of these multi - racial backgrounds. The many dances the group may perform during the Ontario visit are the shango and the limbo.

The shango, or spirit dance, is performed as a celebration to the gods and for souls of the dead. The Limbo, a dance of skill and endurance, was brought to Trinidad by African slaves. During the dance two men hold a stick while a third shuffles under it with the lower the stick gradually until it is constantly lowered until it becomes impossible to get under.

These dances were moulded to form a West Indian cultural expression by Beryl McBurnie, a former teacher in a Methodist elementary school who applied her teaching job and went to Columbia University in New York to study eurhythmics, drama and the modern dance.

FOUNDED THEATRE

She returned to Trinidad and founded the Little Caribb Theatre —a group of civil servants, teachers, commercial clerks and others.

The group had to overcome tremendous difficulties, Fraternos, who worked closely with the company in Trinidad, said.

"When she (Miss McBurnie) had the idea for the group about 10 years ago, the West Indians were very touchy about their African background. They wanted to forget it, and Miss McBurnie's efforts to preserve the African dances led to a great deal of friction. She overcame it and now people go to a history of the islands through the dance and it is enormously popular."

The dances will give Canadians an insight into the cultural heritage of the many races that make up the West Indies.

Largest of Canadian spruce trees, the Sitka spruce of British Columbia may reach 250 feet in height.

Quebec City, Canadian Museum, Is 350 Years Old

QUEBEC (CP) — A walk through Quebec City is a short excursion through a museum of Canadian history.

But the outpost that Samuel de Champlain established 350 years ago is also a living museum of great port and commercial centre of a rapidly expanding industrial region.

It is still a city where one can walk over the paths of famous battles of Canadian history, step through a street lined with gable-roofed houses built during French colonial times, look at and touch objects that evoke the excitement and conflicts of Canada's first years.

It is also celebrating, with two weeks of festivities, the 350th anniversary of the founding of Quebec on the actual date—July 3—that Champlain arrived with his little fleet at the site.

CHANGING SKYLINE

The old city effigy is sinking behind the tall, modern facades of new buildings, and Quebec's skyline is changing as it never has since the 1600's.

But federal, provincial and municipal governments are attempting to preserve its most revered sights, its most historic architectures.

The federal government recently designated as a national park the spot where explorer Jacques Cartier wintered in 1535-36. The federal government already has restored the fateful battle on the plains of Abraham that gave Canada to Britain in 1759.

The provincial government has purchased the oldest house in the city, on Rue St. Louis, and has paid the cost of rehabilitating a row of houses in outlying areas.

Municipal authorities, not always able to avoid demolition of houses built 200 years ago or more, nevertheless have preserved block any work that might disgrace or spoil the general appearance of a well-known historic site.

There was a public storm for days when school authorities announced plans for a new school on one of the city's oldest squares. The school was built, with a thoroughly modern interior — but with the city and 201,000 in Greater Quebec.

Quebec is the Lake St. John area as an industrial region spells out a bright future.

DE MILLE BETTER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cecil B. de Mille's condition is "definitely improved," his physician reports. Dr. Harold Druxman said he was taken to hospital last week suffering from a circulatory disorder in the right leg. De Mille will remain in hospital another week.

HANDS OFF

ROME (Reuters)—Coins tossed by tourists into a city fountain belong to the municipality and it is an offence for anyone else to fish them out, Italy's Supreme Court ruled. The court upheld an appeal by the public prosecutor against two lower court decisions which acquitted an Italian who took coins from a fountain in Genoa.

"The beach gets uncomfortably crowded at this time of year, what with all those girls looking for husbands and husbands looking for young girls."

NORAD ACCORD

Senator Lambert asked whether the supersonic Arrow interceptor, now being developed by Avro Aircraft Limited, might be adopted by NORAD.

Mr. Pearkes said he would "like to see" some U.S. squadrons use the Arrow. NORAD might recommend a certain aircraft but the decision on adoption would be up to the respective governments.

NO DROP IN SPENDING

Mr. Pearkes made these other points during committe questioning:

1. Defence expenditures will remain "very high for a number of years yet."

2. If Canada didn't spend money for its share of North American defence, the U.S. would have to take on the entire job. In such a case, Canada would loee its sovereignty and become "no more than a servant" of the U.S.

3. Not a week goes by but that some unidentified plane flies over Canada. No hostile plane had ever actually been found, however.

4. There are only 17 Canadians serving at NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., in contrast to "many hundreds" of American personnel.

GOVT. STUDYING

1. Agriculture Minister Harkness said he expects an agreement will be signed in the "very near future" with Saskatchewan for construction of the $180,000,000 South Saskatchewan River power and irrigation project. Mr. Diefenbaker said the reply to a Saskatchewan request for a $20,000,000 federal loan to help finance the power phase will be sent to Premier Douglas in a few days.

2. Justice Minister Fulton introduced a bill tightening up the law on the humane slaughter of food animals by requiring that animals must be made unconscious by a humane method and then killed instantaneously.

ASKS TAX CONCESSIONS

Robert S. MacLellan (PC—Inverness - Richmond) proposed special tax concessions to Maritimes industries to equalize profit prospects of Atlantic companies with those of richer central provinces.

C. H. Phillips (PC — Prince) called for greater parliamentary control over the CNR, which the government regarded as independent. If a company that is independent of Parliament runs up a deficit of over $2,000,000 a month, it should look elsewhere for money to make up the deficit, he said.

A 25-per-cent increase in gold mining assistance announced in the budget also drew some attention.

Armand Dumas (L — Villeneuve) said the increase should be 50 per cent. Even that would be short of the $16,225,000, in aid paid in 1955.

"MIXED-UP SONG"

Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins) said the budget was like a "crazy, mixed-up song" and a fine example of a "political step dance." He wanted to see the gold mining allowance spelled out before issuing any praise to Finance Minister Fleming.

Unless it applied to the whole community, it was worthless. When the price of gold had been raised to $35 an ounce from $20, the miner's share had been a mere five-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Margaret Aitken (PC — York Humber) said many injustices in income tax laws were corrected in the budget. But she asked for an increase in the $950 ceiling on student earnings—a limit beyond which the father loses the right to claim the student as a dependent.

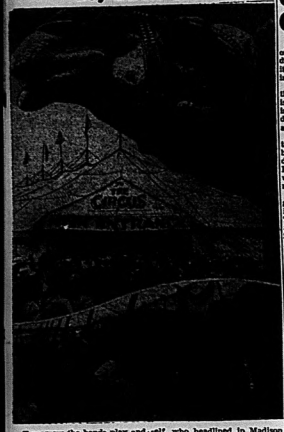
Day Before Show



Tomorrow the bands play and the red wagons roll Tomorrow is Circus Day — and America's largest big top will loom before noon against the skyline at Zwick's Island, Baybridge Rd., Belleville for performances at 2 and 8 p.m.

Its companion tents, housing the largest travelling menagerie, the side shows, dressing rooms, horse tugs and cookhouse complete the canvas spread of nostalgic American tradition.

For, since the Ringling show last year took to exhibiting indoors, the Clyde Beatty Circus has moved largely onto the Ringling coast-to-coast, "under canvas" route.

The two huge motor cavalcades transporting the big show, supervised by route marshals in regal panel cars, will arrive in Belleville before dawn, coming from Kingston, Thursday's stand.

The Clyde Beatty Circus plays on Zwick's Island tomorrow under the auspices of the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Doors open at 1 and 7 p.m.

The six hundred people with the circus will be at breakfast in the dining tarpet from about 6 to 10 a.m., tomorrow, the men who lay out the hot tent pile and the drivers heading the surge to the tables

"The big show stars, performers and staff folk breakfast at their convenience, but the animal men feed and water their menagerie and performing charges before they themselves attack the eggs and hot cakes.

Meanwhile, the largest menagerie and big top in the land — and that really means the world — will have been raised, "hallooned" from centre, quarter and side poles, and guyed out as taut bulgy skin under the supervision of George Werner, famed maestro of the Ringling big top through its last 13 years. George's department heads and bosses, as well as his 180 canvasmen, are ex-Ringling. "The big spread" is their life. To them, a civic auditorium or coliseum is not circus. It's for politicians or industrial shows. When the Ringling show went indoors they stayed out, but under canvas with the Clyde Beatty Circus.

Many stars and featured performers — Clyde Beatty himself, who headlined in Madison Square Garden, N.Y., and Boston Garden for several years; Alexander Konyot, internationally acclaimed horseman; Jose Bercelal, the world renowned empress of the high wire; La Nella Attilana, Spanish comersaulting madcap of tight wire; the Victors, high flying plawheels of the aerial concert bary; Hugo Zacchini, the original "human cannonball," who is fired across the Clyde Beatty big top twice daily as an unforgettable grand finale of an unforgettable circus day program treat; Asta's Ming Toy, the tent top hair slide-for-lifer; Eddie Dullum, Frankie Saluto, Timmy Armstrong and others — these are all Ringling celebrities who preferred not to go under roofs.

Reserved and general admission tickets will be on sale tomorrow at the Geen Drug Store, as well as at the show grounds.

Celebrity in the Service Is Just Another Soldier

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Whatwore off. After a week or so, happens to a celebrity in the service?

Some insight on this matter is given by Pvt. Russ Tamblyn, one of Hollywood's famous draftees. He was in town after completing his basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif. His next assignment: Fort Sill, Okla.

Russ expected a rough time when he entered the army. But he had only one serious run-in, and that was with a corporal. Russ was told suddenly one weekend that he would have to stay on the post to act as company runner.

"But I've got a girl coming to visit me," Russ protested.

"That's tough luck, movie star," said the corporal.

Russ excused himself and said he'd be right back. He wasn't. He kept the date with the girl. His reward: Two weeks of extra duty.

NO OTHER TROUBLE

"Otherwise, I didn't have any trouble," he said. "I was generally treated just like any other soldier, "which was the way I wanted it.

"The other fellows in my platoon were a little bit in awe for a while. Some of them asked for autographs, mostly to send in their folks back home. But that the novelty, the people will be just as interested in the next celebrity who comes along."

Consider Plight Of Nova Scotia's Coal Industry

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The fate of Nova Scotia's tottering coal industry and the thousands of men it employs may be decided today in Ottawa.

A. V. Roe (Canada) Limited, through two of its top executives, is expected to present Prime Minister Diefenbaker with a formula designed to return the industry to a sound footing.

Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia left Halifax Wednesday night by plane for Ottawa with President Tom McLachlan of United Mine Workers District 26 (Ind.), which represents about 9,500 coal miners in the Maritimes.

Also summoned to the emergency meeting by the prime minister were Crawford Gordon of Toronto, president of A. V. Roe and third party Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, and Allan C. MacDonald of Montreal, chief of the Devco management committee.

The meeting comes a week after Donco announced a series of staggered summer shutdowns in Nova Scotia mainland mines which will cut coal production by about 300,000 tons.

Nearly 7,200 Cape Breton miners are idle this week and at least another 2,000 in mainland Nova Scotia will be jobless at various times through the summer. Hanging over their heads are reports that Donco will propose further shutdowns and closure of three collieries unless the company gets government help in financing a 1,600,000-ton coal stockpile, biggest in company history.

Mr. Gordon and Mr. MacDonald are believed ready to present a detailed forecast of future prospects and request an additional injection of $1 a ton to help the company capture a share of the 4,000,000-ton Ontario thermal power market.

This is the meeting where the cards will be laid on the table," a source in close touch with the Halifax-Ottawa coal industry has reached the crossroads. The future will be charted in Ottawa today.

He predicted Roe would present a plan which could guarantee the future of the industry for at least the next 10 years.

TANKER BASES IN CANADA

OTTAWA (CP)—Bases for refuelling tankers of the United States Strategic Air Command will be built at Frobisher on Baffin Island, Fort Churchill, Man., Cold Lake, Alta., and Namao, near Edmonton, it was learned Wednesday. The tankers are used to refuel bombers in flight. Their operations from Canada will require new hangars, storage facilities and extended runways, expected to cost $50,000,000.

WILL VISIT CANADA

BELFAST (AP) — Lord Mayor Cecil McKee announced Wednesday he will visit the United States and Canada on a goodwill tour next autumn. He said he had invitations from the New York Chamber of Commerce and Prime Nathan Phillips of Toronto.

Brown, Lane Will Fight In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown and Kenny Lane of Detroit, colored, from Saginaw, Mich., Wednesday signed contracts for a 15-round title fight in Houston Sept. 23. Brown, 32, was not present for the official announcement, but the 26-year-old Lane was displayed as his manager, Jack Keane, signed the contract with Lane's consul, the champion's manager.

Viscuit said the contract calls for Brown to receive 40 per cent of the gate, including television license, and Lane to receive 30 per cent.

When Brown successfully defended his title here May 7, under a similar contract with Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, Brown received $40,000 and Dupas $20,000.

The long-planned about match will be the fifth time Brown has placed his title on the line since winning the championship May 24, 1956, from Wallace (Bud) Smith in 15 rounds at New Orleans.

Brown's professional record of 64 victories against 72 victories, five draws and 15 defeats. He has had 28 knockouts.

Lane's record of 58 matches includes 53 victories, no draws and five defeats. He has scored 15 knockouts.

On the Tracks

THE CURRAGH, Ireland (AP) Sladon, a colt who never had won a race, Wednesday captured the Irish Derby by a head over favored Paddy's Point.

Sladon, owned by Ann Bullitt Biddle of Philadelphia, barely fought off Paddy Point's challenge in the stretch.

Royal Highway finished third, another four lengths back, in the mile and a half classic.

TORONTO (CP) — Spinney, which won purses of $180,720 last season, is being shipped to Toronto from New York for Tuesday's $25,000 Dominion Day Handicap at New Woodbine.

Spinney won the $50,000 Canadian Championship Stakes over the New Woodbine course last October.

The $25,000 Dominion Day Handicap will be run at a distance of one mile and one eighth. Thirty-seven horses were nominated for the race and each nomination was accompanied by a payment of $50. Each starter must pay an additional fee of $300.

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land, a 6-to-5 favorite, drove through in the stretch Wednesday to win the $50,700 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Promised Land, given a fine ride by jockey Peter Anderson, covered the 1¼ mile route in 2:01 4-5, just four-fifths of a second off the track record set by Holmecroft three years ago.

Promised Land took the lead an eighth of a mile from the finish and scored by 1¼ lengths over One-Eyed King. Clem faltered in the late stages and finished third, another length back.

NEW YORK (AP)—Bold Ruler and Eddie Arcaro toyed with six rivals in the $28,000 Stymie Handicap at Belmont Park Wednesday, winding by five lengths and easing up at the finish of the 1⅛-mile route.

The four-year-old colt, owned by the Wheatley Stables, conceded ing from 10 to 25 pounds to his badly beaten opponents. It was the third victory in four starts this season for the 1957 horse of the year.

Admiral Vee, with 112 pounds, finished second, three-quarters of a length ahead of Pop Corn.

The time was 1:48 3-5 on a fast track and compares with Gallant Man's track record of 1:47 1-5 made last Sept. 18 with 121 pounds.

The victory was worth $17,900, boosting Bold Ruler's total earnings to $640,077. He is the 1957 leading all-time money winning horse.

Wings Defeat Sugar Kings; Nudge Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain and Rochester Red Wings combined to draw the string a little tighter around the leaders in the International League Wednesday night.

The Red Wings defeated Havana Sugar Kings 7-1 in a rain-shortened game and are only a game back of the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs and two away from the leading Montreal Royals.

The three games were rained out—Richmond at Montreal, Miami at Buffalo and Columbus at Toronto.

Cal Browning fanned seven Cubans and ran his total strikeouts to 96 as he checked the Sugar Kings on three hits in the eight innings. The only damaging blow was Rogelio Alvarez's seventh-inning homer.

The Wings jumped on starter John Smith for four runs in the opening inning. Three came across on Don Lasseter's 12th homer. Lasseter was forced to leave the game in the third when he was hit on the head by a batted ball. He was not severely injured.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The lot of the angler's wife this spring has not been a happy one. The old man has returned from his piscatorial jaunts empty-handed, generally speaking, and he's been acting like a grizzly with a dose of buckshot in the south side of his lap.

Reports from all parts of the district have it that Joe Pickerel has been acting up-stage with an unusual degree of smoothness; disdaining man-made lures in an unprecedented manner and in general refusing to have little if anything to do with humans.

The usual hauls of pickerel from the well-known haunts and hideouts have been rarer than twenty-dollar bills in a newsman's wallet. The most consistent yielders of trout and pickerel have been deep-freeze jockeys of chain stores where you can haul out mouth-watering rainbows at a price the pair just a third of that of a Michael of Mountain Dew.

"The pickerel jest aint bitin'," a veteran angler informed this corner. "They tell me hundreds of 'em have been dyin' in the lower parts of the Trent River. Say Eny ain't what she used to be. Hastings and Peterborough districts state the pickerel are sho' nr'verfed. They ain't talkin' what fisherman have to offer."

Be that as it may. Here is news for the harassed fishing "widows" and their grouchy Waltons.

The bass and muskie season opens Saturday, June 28. And you can forget the pickerel situation. Let Old Joe walk in his haunts if he likes. Who cares, now? The fightenest fish of them all, for his weight, and his scavenger cannibalistic pal will be out in force.

It seems the ill winds that have blown spring back to Florida; giving oil salesmen a break and heavy underwear a longer lease of life, also have given Joe Angler a break as far as the fighting smallmouth is concerned.

The experts predict "excellent conditions" when the curtain rises on the bass season in most parts of Ontario on Saturday morning. They believe the fighting smallmouths will be out in platoons, and all because of the cool weather that has shoved sor'ng back a couple of months.

For the cool weather has produced cold water in river, lake and stream and cold water has meant a lengthy delay of the bass spawning season.

Usually the bass complete their spawning habits in late May or early June. This year the season is almost a month late in many sections of Ontario because of the abnormal cold.

However Dr. W. J. Harkness, fish and wildlife chief of the lands and forests department says the late spawning is not expected to have serious effects on the fish population. He says there has been no suggestion of delaying the season because of it.

Parental habits of the male smallmouth and largemouth should make them easy prey for anglers who hit for the shallows which form the spawning grounds. Remember the limit is six a day with no size limit.

Old Joe Bass and his brothers are extremely jealous of their young. The old lady figures she has done her bit by bringing the school into the watery world and after they are comfortably tucked on the rocky bed of the spawning shallows she turns over the family job to the old man.

He stands guard over the nested eggs until they are able to find their own way, and Lord help anything up to the size of a whale that ventures near the nest. He will strike at or hit anything that threatens, even manmade lures that snooty pickerel have passed up.

He will be on the job bright and early Saturday morning, hackles up and ready for a fight. So opening day, Isaak Waltons should not encounter much trouble in bringing home the limit.

But it won't be so easy for the musky seekers. In fact the cool weather may have the reverse effect on the tiger-toothed cannibal. He spawns his young much earlier than the bass and the big story doesn't like cold water. He prefers the warm, lazy days of July and August with their tepid water.

So the province's biggest game fish is not expected to be as readily available as the more prolific bass. But if you run into a school of the sabre-toothe, remember, all you're entitled to is a pair. Take two and you've got a full house as far as the law is concerned. And brave buckaroo muskie you hook that measures under 28 inches.

A haughty world wrestlery wrestling champion lays his title and crown on the line here tomorrow night when toughie Dick Hutton, conqueror of Lou Thesz, accepts the challenge of handsome Wilbur Snyder, hailed by many as the next champion. Hutton is well known here through his many "$1,000" bill confusions, also his rough, unorthodoxz tactics when things are not going so well for him. It should be a thriller. The Baillargeon Brothers tangle with Wee Willie Davis and Abe Zvonkin in a tag-team brawl with Pat Flanagan and Karl Seiff opening the show.

Seek Sixth Straight Victory; Frisco Kids Wallop Leaders As Phillies Nudge Chicubs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Bill Rigney of San Francisco Giants says the National League race is so tough this year "my guy could win it."

The Giants haven't won two in a row in a month. They haven't had an extra-base hit or a run batted from Willie Mays in three weeks. And they've played only .333 ball since June 1. For all the trouble in that span, they've lost only 1½ games to the league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

They were anything but a slumping club Wednesday night, walloping the Braves 10-2 with 16 hits and pitching. It left the third-place Giants .500 percentage points behind St. Louis Cardinals, but both challengers are only 2½ games back of Milwaukee.

NO. 5 FOR CARDS

The Cardinals won their fifth straight as Pittsburgh Pirates pounded a six-dollar watch 9-4 decision over Chicago Cubs in 10 innings. Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Redlegs were rained out.

The Braves, who have lost four of their last seven games, failed to make a big thing of four San Francisco errors while making its every for the Giants with two boos in a five-run sixth inning that broke a scoreless duel.

Al Worthington, a starter-reliever in Chicago's search for pitching, gained a 6-3 record.

BOB RUSH BEATEN

A two-run single by Ray Jablonski and a double by Orlando Cepeda were the big blows in the sixth, which started by shortstop Johnny Logan and leftfielder Joe Adcock on the same play hopped the sides to Bob Rush (5-3), who had given up only three hits for five innings.

The Cardinals won with a three run sixth that backed up a three-hitter by Vinegar Bend Mizell. The big southpaw now is 5-6 and has won three of his last four games. Two Pittsburgh errors, a walk, a two-run single by Hal Smith and a single by Curt Flood snapped it up against rookie George Witt (1-1).

Chico Fernande hit two RBI triples for the Phillies, the second breaking things up in the 10th inning off Don Elston (6-5). Elston, the Cubs' relief ace, now has lost four straight. Dick Farrell won his fourth in relief for Ray Semproch, who left in the seventh as the Phils blew a 4-1 lead.

HOLD BIKE CHAMPIONSHIPS

OSHAWA (CP) — The Ontario half-mile dirt track motorcycle championships will be held here on July 1 at Alexandra Park. Entrants include Don McHugh, three time national champion, and John Sargeant, former British quarter-mile cinder track champion.

The gag about Kansas City Athletics being a New York Yankee farm club in the American League is wearing so thin there are holes in it.

Particularly since it was a former Detroit hand who drove in the winning run, a pair of former Cleveland players who batted in two others and an ex-Cleveland southpaw who was credited with the victory in a 4-3 decision over Washington Senators Wednesday night.

It was the only American League game played. Rain washed out contests between the Yankees and Chicago White Sox, Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

FIFTH STRAIGHT

The win was the fifth straight for the Athletics and moved them to within 4½ games of the leading Yankees.

Bill Tuttle delivered the payoff hit for the Athletics, ramming a single in the middle with the bases loaded in the ninth inning off Tom Morgan. Frank Baumann, who went to the Athletics from Detroit with Tuttle in the Billy Martin deal last winter, opened the rally with a double and lost-pitcher Dick Hyde then walked two men.

Dick Tomanek (3-3) won his first for Kansas City, getting the final out after the Senators tied it in the ninth on a walk and Alole Pearson's triple off Tom Gorman.

WARD HOMERS

Tuttle, House, Roger Maris and Preston Ward had five of Kansas City's eight hits. Maris singled home the Athletics' second run and scored the first of starter Pete Ramos. Ward, who travelled with Maris and Tomanek to Kansas City from Cleveland, homered for a 3-2 lead in the eighth off Vito Valentinetti, purchased Monday by the Senators from Detroit.

A pinch two-run single by Neil Chrisley brought Washington from behind in the seventh off starter Ned Garver.

Only the Orioles and Tigers got in some play among the rained out teams. The Orioles had scored four runs, with one out, on Jim Busby and Gus Triandos, off Jim Bunning before the storm hit at Detroit.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Wilmer Mizell, St. Louis Cardinals—Gave up only two hits in 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates, whose run Mizell scored.

Hitting: Chico Fernandez, Philadelphia Phillies—Rapped a pair of triples driving in two runs, second defeating Chicago Cubs 5-4 in the 10th inning.

Rain, Casualties Affect Play At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Now the casualties begin to come.

From far reaches of Wimbledon's green acre come reports of tennis players with pulled muscles, blistered hands and few suspected cases of frostbite.

Big news in the vine-covered headquarters is either medical or meteorological and both types are somewhat depressing.

The big United States hope, Barry Mackay, is nursing a blister on his racquet hand. But the wound is healing and he has safely advanced through two rounds.

PANS IN LEGS

Britain's first ranking player, Mike Davies, fell heavily in his match with Jackie Brichant of Belgium Wednesday and limped to defeat in a rough five-setter.

Cold winds and heavy showers of rain fell off and on all day Wednesday. Play finally was called with little more than half the day's program completed.

Just before the postponement, the tournament finally saw an upset.

Christine Mercelis of Belgium eliminated Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of New York, 6-4, 7-5.

Mrs. Knode, ranked third among the women, is the only seeded player to tumble thus far.

Senior Baseball

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — First baseman Grant Redshaw of Oakville Oaks collected five hits in nine at bats last week to move into third place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, batting race.

Redshaw hiked his average to .472 from .414, it was shown in figures released Wednesday by league statistician Bob Ferguson. They include games to Monday.

Third-baseman Wray Upper of Galt Terriers went hitless in his only game, dropping .438 from .500, but held on to first place. Arlie Parker of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchman was second with .479.

Oakville's Ian Shepherd continued as the best pitcher with an earned-run average of 1.08. He has allowed four earned runs in 41 innings while compiling a 3-0 mark.

London's Roy McKay, 4-2, has the most strikeouts, 33.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Russ Palmer drove Frank Brook, a 10-year-old horse from Perth, Ont., to the mile track Wednesday night to win the $2,600 featured B pace at Blue Bonnets.

Barney Diplomat from Pembroke, with Keith Waples at the reins, was second and True Jack was third.

Waples had a winner in a $600 D pace with Gratian Diplomat from Victoria Harbor, Ont. Time for the mile was 2:14 3-5.

Other Ontario winners included Keeper's King from Columbus. With John Hayes driving, Keeper's King stepped the mile in 2:13 to win a $1,200 C trot.

Youth Makes Determined Bid For Ont. Amateur Golf Title

DUNDAS (CP)—Youth, in the persons of Hugh Paterson and Gary Cowan, today began a full-scale onslaught on the Ontario Amateur golf championship.

Paterson, 21, of Toronto St. George's and Cowan, 20, of Kitchener Beaver, were the only two sub-par shooters in Wednesday's 18-hole medal qualifying round.

Paterson toured the par-71 Dundas Valley Golf Club in 68 and Cowan in 69. The five rounds over a rain-soaked course also put the two at the top of the list for the Ontario team in the Willingdon Cup interprovincial matches at Toronto Scarborough Golf Club July 19.

HALL TENTATIVELY IN

The other two positions were filled by Canadian amateur champion Dick Heard of Windsor Essex, who had a 71, and Gordon Hall of Toronto Weston, who came in with a 72.

Winner of the Ontario amateur, if he is not one of the four named to the team as a result of 54 holes in the Ontario amateur and 18 holes in the qualifying round, will take Hall's place.

The 64 qualifiers, scheduled to start two 18-hole match rounds a day this morning, included several able young golfers.

Bob Panasuik, 16, of Windsor Roseland, who caused trouble in last year's Ontario amateur at the Canadian open, nipped in with a 77. Phil Brownlee, 17, Ontario junior champion from Toronto Scarboro, had a 74.

1957 WINNER QUALIFIES

Defending champion Ray Coole, 27, of Toronto Scarboro qualified with a 76 while Bill Morland of North Bay, Ont., aided by Coole for the crown, had a 72.

Veteran Charlie Pavanel of Kitchener Rockway matched Weslock's 71 to tie for third.

Cowan led Joe Willingdon Cup team with a 72-hole total of 288. Paterson had 289, Weslock 290 and Hall 293. Bruce Cartlidge of Toronto Weston, previously tied with Cowan and Weslock at 218, blew to a 79 and didn't qualify for match play.

TROUBLE ON GREENS

Cowan made his 69 despite trouble on the greens, rimming the cup with three putts.

He was aided by an eagle on the par-five, 500-yard 18th which was almost a double eagle. His second shot, a two-iron, missed the hole by about an inch and stopped a foot away. Cowan quickly tapped it home.

Weslock, who said the rain made the course four strokes longer, took a putted the ninth green from four feet.

Ten golfers qualified at 72, six at 73, nine each at 74, 75 and 76, 12 at 77 and five of 10 at 78.

Other scores included:

T. A. Carruthers, Bay of Quinte 39-36—75

Earl McMaster, Oshawa 41-39—80

Jack Germond, Oshawa 36-40—76

Bill Wylie, Waterloo 39-37—73

L. McCord, Guelph 41-42—83

Ross Pollard, Brantford 38-39—77

Calhoun Gets Verdict Over Bobby Boyd

CHICAGO (AP) — Rory Calhoun of New York, after a rousing victory over Bobby Boyd in a bruising 10-rounder, said today he is looking forward to a rematch with the rugged Chicago middleweight.

Calhoun, No. 7 middleweight contender, scored two knockdowns Wednesday night and then stood off a tremendous finish by Boyd to score a unanimous decision.

Calhoun said he played it safe after knocking Boyd down in the second and ninth rounds.

"All I'm interested in," said Calhoun, "is moving up in the middleweight ratings for a shot at Sugar Ray Robinson's title."

After Calhoun apparently had an easy decision in the bag, Boyd, the No. 8 middleweight contender, fought back gamely. In the closing round Boyd had Rory staggering under a furious two-fisted attack.

Frank Gifford Swaps Gridiron For TV Screen

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Gifford, one of the National Football League's backfield stars, made his big decision Wednesday. He is ending a brilliant six-year career with the New York Giants for a new career in television and the movies.

The 27-year-old former golden boy of the University of Southern California, who four months ago signed a long term contract with a Hollywood studio, has been engaged to play the featured role in a weekly TV show, Public Enemy.

"The series is due to start in the fall," Gifford said. "It's an hour-long show based on federal crime cases. I'm the hero. I catch 'em."

Gifford said he had hoped to be able to play one more year with the Giants but he admitted the studio frowned upon the idea.

The 6-1, 198-pound halfback star said he has been studying dramatics while playing with the Giants. He has also done sports broadcasting for a radio station in Bakersfield, Calif., his home town.

Ernestine, Coach Will Go To Moscow

WINDSOR (CP)—The fund to send Ernestine Rusdell, 20-year-old gymnast, to the world gymnastic championships in Moscow next month, went over the top Wednesday.

Her coach, Bernard Newman, said $2,200 has been collected and he and Ernestine will leave Saturday for the July 6-11 competition.

He said any money left over from the trip will be used to take a Windsor team to Vancouver later in the month for the Canadian gymnastic championships.

SUSPEND DRIVER

MONTREAL (CP) — Harold McKinley, a driver for the Armstrong Brothers stable of Brampton, Ont., Wednesday was suspended for five days by the Canadian Trotting Association. McKinley allegedly displayed improper conduct toward an official of the CTA at Blue Bonnets Raceway here last Thursday. The suspension dates are June 23-27 inclusive.

FIGHTING

Hammarskjold, due in New York today, was expected to refer the request to the Security Council, which established the observer regiment in the area after the Lebanese charges of UAR intervention. Some rebels haven't let the observers see the area near the border.

The probability of a Soviet veto in the Security Council of any police force proposal caused Western diplomats at UN headquarters to predict an emergency session of the General Assembly would be called.

The assembly could act without a veto to send an international troops. But whether is could act in time to do Chamoun's government any good was another matter.

MAY ASK DIRECT AID

Chamoun said Wednesday that if the UN fails to help him, he may call on the United States and certain Arab powers to assist and under the UN charter provision for collective defense.

Russia has warned against either a UN emergency force for Lebanon or direct U.S.-British intervention.

Thus a direct request from Chamoun to Washington and London would present the two nations with a choice of either failure to run unknown risks from Russia, or by refusing to act to take the chance of losing Middle East allies.

Had Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas - - - After Every Meal

Delighted With Results

Many thousands of men and women have used Syntona Herbal Compound and found it to be just what they needed to get relief from Faulty Digestion, Minor Kidney Irregularities, Constipation, Nervousness, or Rheumatic Aches and Pains. Recently Mrs. Trigs Meier, 51 Paddington Avenue, London, Ontario, said:

"I suffered with indigestion, gas, heartburn and sour acid rising for a number of years and I am delighted with the way Syntona has put me right. Before I took Syntona I felt run down and I felt irritable, fatigued and rundown. But now I can take a different person and enjoy my meals without all that distress and suffering afterwards.

"I have taken a lot of medicines in the past few years, but nothing ever helped me like Syntona."

Syntona is sold and recommended by Dolan the Druggist.

Hammarskjold Opposes Sending Force To Lebanon

Noisy Battles Raging But No Major Clashes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold has returned from strife-torn Lebanon apparently convinced that no United Nations police force is needed there now.

His views were reflected Thursday in an airport statement by him and in a statement issued by the UN watchdog team in Lebanon, which he undoubtedly approved before his departure.

He began a flurry of private talks immediately after returning to headquarters from his nine-day visit to the Middle East. He is expected to submit a formal report of the observation group and perhaps his own views—to the Security Council before the end of the week.

PITCHED BATTLES RAGED

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Pitched battles raged into the morning hours in Beirut and Tripoli today.

Furious noisy battles between government forces and rebels in the capital shattered the dark silence. For the first time, it appeared the expected all-out rebel offensive had begun.

Later in the morning rifle fire was heard in the Musaitbi Moslem district, in nearby Ain Rummaneh.

For the moment, however, there were no major clashes.

In the northern port of Tripoli, where the rebel attempt to overthrow President Camille Chamoun's government began May 18, security forces claimed the rebel fighters in a blazing renewal of Thursday's battle.

ISLAND FOCAL CAPITAL

The fighting in both cities was marked by heavy explosions and the steady beat of mortar, machine-gun and rifle fire. The Beirut battle was preceded by one of the most concentrated series of bomb and dynamite explosions of the rebellion, which rocked the capital in less than one hour.

Rebel forces in the Moslem quarter estimated they had 12 battalions, including a detachment of a rebel leader and former premier, Saeb Salam.

A score fire estimates were available from Tripoli but rebel sources said seven persons were injured in the midnight clash.

Firing also was heavy around the presidential palace in Beirut and the Capital Square in the heart of the city.

WON'T GIVE WARNING

The rebel leaders claim they have not gone all-out yet and say they will give the government warning when they do.

Chamoun had predicted the big rebel push would begin Thursday. But the only heavy fighting Thursday was in Tripoli. At least 19 persons were killed and 20 wounded.

The nation remained tense and the U.S. Embassy warned American in Beirut to stay indoors. This is the Moslem Sabbath and the Moslem celebration of Mecca pilgrimage feast of Aid el Adha. The occasion might lead to emotional outbursts and violence.

Christian clashes, the embassy said.

Hungary Refuses To Answer UN Query on Nagy

BUDAPEST (AP)—Communist Hungary refused today to answer a United Nations request for information on the recent executions of former premier Imre Nagy and three other leaders of the Hungarian revolt.

Government spokesman Lazslo Gyaros said no information would be provided to the five-power committee which appealed last Saturday for any information UN members might have on the executions.

Gyaros pooled out that Hungary had not co-operated with the committee's spiritual investigation of the revolt. The committee condemned Russia for suppressing what it called a "counterrevolutional uprising."

The government of the Hungarian people's republic has never submitted and will never submit to those resolutions passed in the (General) Assembly on the so-called Hungarian question, which are an interference in its domestic affairs and thus in conflict with the UN charter," Gyaros said.

MAYORS DEBATE OWNERSHIP OF GAS INDUSTRY

New Demand Made For Tri-Level Parley

STRATFORD (CP) — Ontario's municipal leaders are going to ask the provincial government whether it favors public ownership of the natural gas industry is in the best interests of the public.

The Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves passed a resolution Thursday to this effect after debating the problem of private vs. public ownership of utilities, particularly natural gas.

The resolution was lauched off by Alderman Vincent Barrie of St. Thomas, who said government meetings are realizing that certain amount of socialism is all right. Hydro was cited as example. Trans-Canada Air Lines, Ontario Hydro Power Commission and the CNR.

He asked whether in the light of recent events in the financing of natural gas companies it might not be advisable to remove from the natural gas industry the possible stigma of undesirable dealings.

NEED KNOW MORE

Mayor Armou McCrae of Wellland said:

"I want to know more about this very controversial matter. We know little but we know the lieness—what we don't know is whether it is worth our while."

Mayor Ray Hall of Fort William approved the resolution.

Reeve Ernest Bell of Thorold Mayor Thillips of Toronto called for a "bold new demand for a federal-provincial - municipal conference to sort out tax responsibilities."

He said:

"The fathers of Confederation were deliberately vague about the role of municipal government, so that it would not inhibit future evolvement of the municipalities' places in the scheme of Things Canadian."

MUTUAL PROBLEMS

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker had suggested a tri-level conference to deal with mutual problems and he warned delegates they must be careful not to state their cases wisely, succinctly and honestly.

Another resolution called for a Dominion - provincial conference on education to achieve establishment of advanced technical institutes in all major industrial centres.

The proposed conference would also consider a steppedup program of teacher training, raising the minimum beginning salary of teachers to $4,000, a program that would ensure not more than 20 per cent of the economy, greater financial assistance to the CBC and National Film Board for more adult education and equal educational facilities for handicapped children.

The woman's 49-year-old husband was released on parole pending a coroner's inquiry. After questioning by provincial police.

Mr. Gill is the father of the late Charles Gill, French - Canadian poet and patriot.

Police said he was demonstrating how the gun worked when it fired.

30 Russian Seamen Chase Estonian Across Moor on Isle in Shetlands

A home office spokesman said the Estonian was to be transferred to Edinburgh for questioning.

Teayn fled from one of three Soviet trawlers anchored in the Shetland bay near the village of Walls.

Thirty Russian seamen chased him over the wild island moor but he hid in a shepherd's hut later was taken to Lerwick by police. There he asked political asylum.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler said Thursday by saying he would give every consideration to a request for political asylum. Butler said the Russians chasing Teayn were illegally. A protest to Moscow will depend on results of an investigation, he added.

"The idea that Russians should land on British soil and pursue their quarry over British territory is monstrous," said Liberal party leader Jo Grimond.

Axe Handles, Rubber Boots Get Attention for Princess

TORONTO (CP) — Axe handles and rubber boots are getting official attention as Southern Ontario prepares for a two-day visit by Princess Margaret.

The axe handles substitute for swords as officers of the Highland Light Infantry Regiment train for a 76-minute ceremony at Hamilton Aug. 1, in which the princess is to present colors to the regiment of which she is colonel-in-chief. Regimental officials say the axe handles will accustom officers to carrying heavy swords without wavering.

The rubber boots—size 6AA—are to be provided for Princess Margaret when she dons yellow oilskins to view Niagara Falls.

Preparations for the prince's visit, Thursday, July 31 and Friday, Aug. 1, are gathering momentum as some last - minute changes in plans emerge.

Two have been announced, for instance, that the Princess now is to fly into Toronto's Malton airport from Prince Albert, Sask. at 6:30 p.m. EDT July 30, three hours earlier than originally planned.

She is to be met by Lieutenant-Governor Mackay of Ontario, Premier Frost and other dignitaries and, following a seven-minute welcoming ceremony, to be driven to a nearby railway siding to board a 17-car private train drawn by three diesel engines.

The princess and the 14 members of her party are to move directly to a secluded section of the Don Valley for the night.

At noon the following day the princess is to emerge from the train in east-end Riverdale Park for a drive through the city to City Hall. Here the princess is to receive addresses of city council and the RCAF guard of honor and then drive by a circuitous route to the Royal York Hotel for a private luncheon tendered by the province.

Shell Alberta Oil Imports Sliced 40,000 Barrels a Day

CALGARY (CP)—Still smarting from United States oil import restrictions of the last year, Canada's crude oil producers have been dealt another blow that will mean a market loss of at least 40,000 barrels a day.

Starting next month, Shell Oil Company of Canada Ltd. cancelled contracts for Canadian crude at its refinery at Anacortes, Wash. Cheaper crude shipped across the Pacific by tanker (from Borneo) is expected to be used instead.

Whether land - locked Alberta oil will ever find markets in the near future is uncertain. But the Shell action will likely have wide repercussions.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has already promised the House of Commons that federal experts are considering a possible oil pipeline from Montreal to Sarnia, the huge Montreal market, currently supplied by imports from Venezuela and the Middle East.

Late last year exports of crude from Canada dropped to less than half the level of the preceding potential in the field. The decline was mainly the result of U.S. import curbs designed to help American producers get rid of inventories caused by the Suez crisis.

President W. M. V. Ash of Shell, speaking before the Borden royal commission, termed the export decline a temporary measure. The U.S. would again take large quantities of Canadian crude, he suggested, and a pipeline to Montreal was not economically justified at present.

He gave his personal assurance the Shell's Pacific Northwest refineries would double their take of Alberta crude in June to eliminate the existing inventory. Earlier this week he said that was the

Cyril, Fugitive Sea Lion, Caught With Net and Noose

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A noose and a net today finally ended the roaming of a fugitive sea lion who had escaped with ture since escaping last week from the Cedar Point Park.

The sea lion was captured in a boathouse in East Sandusky Bay off Lake Erie.

Apparently dozy from two hits from a tranquilizer gun Thursday night, the mammal was spotted in the boathouse this morning by two fishermen.

The fishermen and other men kept it cornered there until help arrived from the Toledo zoo.

Dan Dandrod, zoo curator of mammals, dropped a net and a noose over its head; steer it to a raft and then into a cage.

It will be taken to Toledo zoo and put in a secluded tank while arrangements are made with the London zoo for its return.

Police did not try to capture the sea lion this morning when it was first discovered. Instead they waited in case other authorities to take it into custody.

A few hundred yards away in the bay, the sea lion—dubbed Cyril by the London zoo—without doubt the most famous animal since Thursday night when he spotted Cyril resting on a mimosa raft.

Patsch called police, who summoned Skeldon. The zoo director went to the raft in an outboard motorboat and fired a shot of sedative salicylate into the mammal's back with a carbon dioxide dart gun.

Cyril slid into the water and proceeded to play his own brand of underwater hide-and-seek with Skeldon and other men in other boats.

Skeldon managed to hit the seal with another dose of tranquilizer with just about the same effect.

The pursuers finally gave up and headed for shore, with the seal splashing along behind them out of reach.

FLEMING HEARS FRESH PROPOSALS FOR NEW LENDING

Municipalities and Farmers Need Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming, who already plans a record $3,400,000,000 in federal borrowing this year, has been asked to stretch the federal credit even further.

Fresh proposals for new lending to farmers and municipalities were dumped in his lap Thursday during the Commons budget debate.

James M. Forgie (L—Renfrew North) called the consolidation of federal farm lending—except to veterans—under a farm development bank a step in the right direction but said longer repayment terms are necessary for the young man settling himself up on a farm.

The loans to municipalities ides was made by John Kucherepa (PC—Toronto High Park), who urged the government to dig up a new source of money from which federal loans at two-per-cent interest could be made to ward municipal projects as an unemployment measure.

Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) echoed the municipal loans idea and added his own demand for the abolition of old age pensions and family allowances to offset inflation.

MOTION DEFEATED

The day ended with a formal vote in which the Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Liberals joined to defeat, 166 to 43 a CCF non-confidence motion. The CCF criticism in the motion was directed at Fleming's tax proposals.

The budget debate continues today, in the sixth of a maximum eight days, with a Liberal non-confidence motion. It charges that despite a forecast record peacetime deficit of $641,000,000 there is no effective action against recession and that "grave trade restrictions" by Canada are being enforced on workers working to free trade.

The budget debate brought these contributions from other members:

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) called on the government to use the United States to boost the world price of gold. It is pegged at $35 an ounce in U.S. funds. It should rightly be valued higher.

David Pugh (PC—Okanagan Boundary) urged Customs Act amendments to protect Canadian fruit growers from American dumping.

PC REPLIES

After Mr. Forgie made his proposal for a federal farm development bank, John Charlton (PC—Perth—Middlesex) replied that Progressive Conservatives while in opposition made the farm credit plan a party policy and administration but got nowhere with it.

Mr. Forgie also suggested immediate cuts in personal and corporation income tax to stimulate the economy before turning his attention to the unemployment problems.

He said there also has been too much concentration of federal housing aid on cities and towns. There is a need for more help for more rural and small-town housing.

More government funds should be provided for agricultural research, and there should be development of a soybean variety that would produce good yields of beans on the prairies. This would provide an alternative to grain crops currently in surplus.

"The government," Mr. Forgie said, "could do all in its power to prevent a further decline in farm population."

Explorer III Due to Expire Today After Providing Yeoman Service

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Explorer III is due to expire today in its 1,642nd orbit around the earth after it has performed above and beyond expectations.

Some time late today the 31-pound, 80-inch tube will descend into the earth's atmosphere, disintegrate and burn in the intense heat caused by the friction. Where the destruction will come is not known.

The army's third satellite, launched March 26 at Cape Canaveral, Fla., transmitted more complete information on cosmic rays than was expected, the army said.

One reason was because of its highly elliptical orbit. Its farthest point from earth was 1,700 miles. Its closest point was 117 miles above the earth. It actually travelled more than 22,000,000 miles.

All 15 Aboard U.S. Jet Tanker Blown To Bits

Two Planes in Flight Set Atlantic Records

WESTOVER BASE, Mass. (AP)—A jet tanker plane attempting a transatlantic speed record crashed and exploded seconds after takeoff early today, killing all its 15 occupants.

Observers said the huge KC-135 jet tanker apparently hit high tension wires about 1½ miles from the runway and plunged into a garden in a blinding burst of flames.

The explosion disintegrated the plane into hundreds of pieces, the largest of which was described by witnesses as a chunk.

Among the victims were six reporters who were to cover the flight of four U.S. Air Force planes attempting to break records for aircraft speed in crossing the Atlantic in both directions.

Also on board was Brig.-Gen. Donald W. Saunders of Athens, N.Y., airborne communications officer in charge of the operation.

The ill-fated plane was the third of four jet tankers to take off. The first two got off on schedule and headed directly for London.

The fourth plane was on the runway ready to take off at the time of the crash. That flight was cancelled.

HEARD TAKE-OFF

Kazimierz Machowski, 45, on whose property the plane crashed, said:

"I heard the plane taking off and was lying in bed. It was very little while, I heard a terrific explosion. I ran outside and it was brighter than daylight from the burning plane. The heat from the wreckage was so terrific it wasn't possible to get near it. Wreckage was all over the countryside. Nobody could have lived in that crash."

Westover air force officials said the plane made a normal takeoff. They added that it left the ground at the exact point of prediction on the runway and appeared to climb normally.

It skidded across the Massachusetts Turnpike — one of the plane's landing gears was found blowing up on the Machowski property.

Wreckage was strewn for an estimated three-quarters of a mile.

Patrolman Richard Haslam, 34, one of the first to reach the scene, said:

"I radioed headquarters," he said, "that there was no need for the ambulances. Nobody aboard had a chance."

Bloodstained Clothes Seized At Preston Farm

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Clothing heavily stained with blood was seized by police at a farm house near the spot where Mrs. Helen Sherman, 41, was beaten to death last Friday, it was learned Thursday.

The clothing has been sent to a Toronto laboratory for tests to determine if the blood is of the same type as that of Mrs. Rahman, found with her head beaten in and her body stabbed.

Police also said hair was found on the clothing the dead woman's hand. It also has been sent to Toronto for laboratory tests.

$15,000 Taken

NORMANDALE, Ont. (CP) — Four armed bandits today escaped with $15,000 from a Banque Canadienne Nationale branch.

Police said a getaway car was found abandoned because a third tanker, the flight crashed early today. It was the fourth plane to crash in air base in Massachusetts, killing 15 persons.

A fourth tanker scheduled make the flight was cancelled.

The first record - breaking tanker took five hours, 22 minutes and 29.60 seconds to complete the 3,459-mile flight from New York to London, the defence department announced.

The flight time figured to a average speed of about 644 miles an hour.

The previous New York to London record was set by an RAF Canberra bomber in August, 1957.

Indonesia Govt. Declares 'Silly' Rebellion Ended

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — The Indonesian government said Thursday night the capture of the North Celebes capital of Menado "marked the end of the ill-advised, silly and unnecessary rebellion."

The statement came soon after the capture of the rebel - held town, virtually ending the four-month revolt against central government rule.

Jakarta radio said the stronghold fell after a mass attack launched five days ago. Five hundred rebels, with little chance of escaping the town's capture, fled around Menado, surrendered or were captured.

Lt.-Col. Rukminto, commander of the government forces, issued an order calling for cessation of fire by army "glorious achievements." He added: "Everywhere we were welcomed gladly."

Throughout June the rebel territory in the northern Celebes islands shrunk under government land, sea and air blows. The fall of Menado cuts off rebels in central Celebes from their supply base.

Government troops have yet to capture the rebel commander, a mountain lake south of Menado, whose troops are harrying the rebels.

Unveil Plaque To Commemorate First Gold Mine

A plaque commemorating Ontario's first gold mine will be unveiled Monday at Eldorado by the provincial departments of travel and publicity. The unveiling will be part of the three day program in addition with the Madoc Old Boys' Reunion being held this weekend.

The gold vein was discovered at Eldorado, 30 miles north of Belleville in 1866 but commercial operations commenced in 1896 following years of unsuccessful. However, it drew swarms of prospectors and was responsible for the village name.

The old mine is now deserted and covered with old pitheads and crumbling stone buildings.

The Madoc Old Boys' Reunion will get underway Sunday with a church service followed on Monday morning, followed by a Legion Zone drumhead service in the afternoon at which Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs, and M.P. for Peterborough Frontenac, will be the speaker.

Monday former pupils will gather at the Madoc public school and in the afternoon there will be a motor pilgrimage tour to Eldorado for the unveiling of the plaqid commemorating Ontario's first gold rush.

Tuesday will see a callithumpian parade, a Park program including ball games and a street carnival, dance and variety show in the evening.

Capt. and Mrs. C. J. Ivany Leave for Ottawa Thursday

Funds collected from the local Red Shield campaign held last month reached an all-time high, Capt. Cal Ivany of the Belleville Citadel Corps, announced today.

A total of $10,500 was collected during the approximately six weeks campaign, $1,000 more than the original objective set for Belleville and district.

Capt. Ivany commended local chairman, Frank Doncaster, and members of the Advisory Board who worked so tirelessly to put the campaign over the top.

"They did a tremendous job," he stated.

The regular Salvation Army captain, who leaves Belleville July 1 for Ottawa, where he has been appointed to the Parkdale Citadel Corps, expressed his regret at leaving this city.

"I regret leaving Belleville—we've been here such a short time—because of the kindness shown to me and my family during the two years we've been here," he said. "I've travelled from coast to coast, but Belleville has been one of my happiest and most fruitful commands," he added.

Capt. Ivany commended those with whom he has worked closely while carrying out Salvation Army activities and welfare work in this city.

"I would like to express my appreciation particularly to the city aldermen, the fire and police departments, Radio Station CJBQ, and The Ontario Intelligencer for the courtesy and cooperation given me," he stated.

Active in community life, Capt. Ivany was a member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, leader of the Canadian Legion Branch 99, and a member of the Ministerial Association.

Capt. Ivany will conduct farewell services in the Citadel on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The Ivanys leave Belleville next Thursday.

Andrew Howell, 81, Killed, Wife in Serious Condition After Car Hit by Transport

A Marysville district man is dead and his wife is in serious condition in the Belleville General Hospital following their car being struck by a highway transport east of Belleville on No. 2 highway Thursday evening.

Fatally injured was Andrew Howell, 81, while his wife Rose Howell, 78, suffered fractures of all her ribs on one side, and other injuries. Mr. Howell was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell had been visiting at the farm of Eric Howell, two-and-a-half miles east of the city and were returning to the four-lane highway by way of a tree reclothed sideroad. Mr. Howell apparently failed to see the westbound transport as he drove onto the north lane of the dual road.

The empty transport, driven by Herbert Richard Hall, 38, of R. R. 3 Harrow, struck the Howell auto broadside and carried the wreckage into the centre boulevard. The transport driver escaped injury. Mrs. Howell's injuries were described as serious but not critical.

Mr. Howell, who celebrated his 81st birthday on Father's Day, is survived by his wife, five daughters and two sons. The victim and his wife were taken to hospital in the Thomas A. Thomson ambulance.

Both sons, James and Joseph Howell, live in Toronto, as do three daughters, Mrs. Frank Hunter, Mrs. Veronica Brodrick and Mrs. Anne Fleming. Two daughters are Roman Catholic nuns, one Sister Mary Florence at Batawa, and Sister Mary Jevitis at Prescott.

Also surviving is an adopted son Donald Howell, 15, who was living with them in Belleville and did not know of the accident until he returned home at 11 o'clock.

The accident was investigated by Constable Earl Greaves and Cpl. Harry—Barker of the OPP.

Antique Cars Chug, Wheeze Across Line

Of the 43 that set out for this village 16 miles west of Belleville on the Canadian equivalent of the British London-to-Brighton run, only three are believed casualties of old age and failing engines.

The drivers were met by a cheering crowd and three bands. They leave today on the trip home.

The tour was staged by the Ontario region of the Antique Automobile Club of America. The oldest car that set out was a vintage 1902 Highwheel roadster.

Mrs. W. Waite New President White Cane Club

The regular monthly meeting of the White Cane Club held Thursday evening at the YMCA was climaxed by the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The election of officers was conducted by Mr. P. I. Timmins, of Kingston, Field Secretary for the Blind. The new slate of officers is: past president, Mr. Clarence Morris; president, Mrs. W. Waite; vice - president, Mrs. C. Atkins; secretary, Mr. Arlie Scott; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Burrows, and treasurer, Mr. Clarence Morris.

One minute of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Mcisaac, who passed away recently.

During the business portion of the meeting, Mrs. Edith Burrows, who attended the Convention of the Canadian Council of the Blind, held in London, Ont., in May, as a local delegate, gave a detailed account of this convention.

She informed the C. C. of B. were the originators of White Cane Week which is observed annually, usually in February. The Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan was also explained to the members.

Retiring president, Clarence Morris, announced a picnic for the blind will be held at Tweed Park on July 28.

The club unanimously voted Mr. Jim Brennan an associate member of the White Cane Club.

The Flower Fund was collected and the president informed members a floral White Cane was sent the McIsaac family on behalf of the club.

A lucky draw was held and the winner was Howard Pat.

Members celebrating their birthdays in June were: Mrs. C. Aikins, and Mrs. E. Burrows. And "Happy Birthday" was sung to them.

The remainder of the evening was spent in table bowling. First prize winner was Mr. Howard Taft, and second prize winner was Mr. Harvey St. Onge.

Refreshments were served by members of the Kinette Club, and appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Burrows.

Police Blotter

Only minor complaints were received at the city police station during the past 24 hours. Occurrences included the checking of a couple of cars, the same number of stop street violations and a couple of comparatively minor accidents.

One three vehicle rear-end crash at the approach to the Bridge on Bridge Street resulted in a total of $225 damage. Cars involved were driven by Don Belnap, 333 Bridge St. East; Raymond Chaulk, Trenton, and Robert Street and Dr. Jeno Mohacsy, Belleville General Hospital.

Holstein Breeders, Calf Club Members Meet at Madoc

The twilight meeting of the Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Association held at the home of James Stiles, two miles east of Madoc last night was a grand success. The members of the association were augmented by the 4-H calf clubs from Marmora, Madoc and Tweed. At the conclusion of the judging of one class of mature cows by the members of the society and the calf clubs, the assembly was entertained by an interesting account of his trip around the world by Jack Fraser of Spring Farm, Brampton. The details being accompanied by still slides of the interesting places visited. The evening was concluded with refreshments being served.

Despite the blustery weather a large crowd was on hand, when Jerry Nelson, Area Fieldman, called the meeting together in the pasture field, where a number of cows had been brought from the stables for judging. The animals were terribly frightened by the large crowd and were quite fractious but finally quieted down. Mr. Nelson outlined the characteristics of the Holstein breed stating 20 per cent was to be given for general appearance, 20 per cent for dairy type, 40 per cent for capacity and 30 per cent for udder. Slips were then distributed and after the judging was completed Arnold Empey, Donald Neal and Gordon Thompson won the prizes donated by Norman Whytock, the Madoc Dairy, William Woods and Jack Thompson. The women winners were Pauline McMorrow of Queensborough and Percy Broadworth of Madoc. These presentations were made by Sid Mumford, agricultural representative for the county.

OFFICIAL INTRODUCED

The new assistant representative, Clinton Nesbitt was introduced to the audience and he presented the judges, Garry Hunt, Elmer Sager and Joanne Bertrand of the calf club and the owners in judging. Carl Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the Association chaired the meeting and Harold McCaul, National Director, James Reynolds, president and Hubert Ketcheson, vice-president were called on for a few words. Mr. Reynolds thanked Mr. Fraser for his excellent address and slides and presented him with a piece of County Cheddar Cheese. He also thanked Mr. Pitts for the use of his property for the meeting and the women for the delicious refreshments, that were served.

Mr. Fraser is one of the noted breeders of Holsteins in Canada and runs a large herd on his farm at Brampton. He also finds time to be a director in the instant shows across Canada and throughout the world. He has judged Holsteins in South America and he and his charming wife have recently returned from Australia where he was judge at the International Show. Instead of returning home they continued their journey around the world. During the trip they visited 21 countries and two islands in the Pacific, were blessed by different planes by longing to 14 airlines and logged just under 28,000 miles on the journey.

FINE SCENES SHOWN

The pictures that were shown of the different countries were simply wonderful and showed that Mr. Fraser and his wife were real discerning persons. The pictures started with scenes in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hollywood, Honolulu and Pearl Harbor. The ones from Pearl Harbor were especially interesting for they showed the boats that were sunk by the Japanese, one being the Arizona, not yet raised and in which 1,102 bodies are still entombed in the hull. Pictures were shown of the Hirohito show at Kyoto and from there to Darwin, Bangkok, with its elaborate temples; Calcutta, where the largest Banyan tree in the world grows and then to New Delhi with its many water buffaloes.

Pictures of the Cedars of Lebanon and Jerusalem, the birthplace of Christ, and Jericho were most interesting and then on to Egypt and the Nile valley. Scenes from Turkey, Greece and Madrid followed in order and then the long hike from Lisbon non-stop to New York.

As Mr. Fraser stated, it was a wonderful trip, but it was mighty good to get home. "There is no place like Canada," said the speaker.

PEMBROKE PREPARES FOR 100TH BIRTHDAY

Final touches on 45-foot totem poles are added by Abe Patterson as he and his fellow-townsmen work around the clock to complete plans for the big centennial celebrations in Pembroke, Ont. The totem pole will grace the court house lawn when festivities open for a week on July 6. Besides beauty and beard judging contests, the 100th birthday party celebrations will feature a pageant recalling pioneer days when Pembroke was a lumbering town.

Believe Russia Plans to Attend Geneva Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Choice of a Romanian delegate raised speculation today that the cott-threatened Geneva scientific parley on polling for tests may go on after all.

But state department officials said they were not sure what significance to attach to Moscow radio's announce m e n t Thursday night that Rumanian professor Horia Hulubei had been named to take part in the talks due to start Tuesday.

Only 16 hours earlier, Russia had said there was no purpose in sending delegates to the conference without some assurance the talks would lead to an actual suspension of tests. That had been widely interpreted as indicating Russia was going to boycott the talks.

GO AHEAD WITH PLANS

The Western powers went ahead with plans for the conference. President Eisenhower sent American delegates on their way Thursday with a message that in the words of officials with the visits "I and all the American people continue to hope that the door to understanding is still open."

Russia has been proposing an outright ban on nuclear tests, but is talking in the kind of inspection system the Western powers say is needed to assure compliance. The present Geneva talks are to seek agreement on the methods, techniques and instruments needed adequately to police any test ban agreement.

Russia had agreed to the talks and scientists were named from the U.S., Poland and Czechoslovakia to participate along with the Rumanian named Thursday. For the West, scientists were picked from the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

Kiwanis Club Holds Regular Weekly Meeting

TRENTON — Committee reports featured last night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club held in the dining room of the Hotel Gilbert.

Forty-three members, sat in on the meeting with one guest from Belleville and one new member joining the club. A perfect attendance pin for two years was presented to Dick Burnet.

The various committee chairmen reported on the activities of their groups during the past month and previous to the reports President Grant Gooding announced that a meeting of the planning board was being held the same evening at Queen Elizabeth school and urged as many of the members as possible to attend.

Attendance during the past month was reported at 92.5 per cent for the club. A report was heard on the summer camp plans. It is expected that 65 children will be given a chance to go to the camp and the boys and girls will all be given a medical examination on the Saturday before the date of camp opening. The Kiwanis members will supply the transportation to the camp for the children.

During the meeting Gerry Ireland was thanked for making the new name cards for the members' guns. It was announced that an executive meeting will be held during the evening next week and Thursday the regular meeting will note, "All Kiwanis Week." The following Thursday a tour of the Experimental Farm will be held.

Reporting on the presentation of a bike to eight-year-old Carl Loveless, Kiwanian Ted Snider said, "It was nice to see the money in the world just to see the look on the boy's face."

No One Shows Up at Planning Board Meeting

TRENTON — A public meeting in Queen Elizabeth school sponsored by the planning board to explain the purpose of the proposed zoning by-law fizzled out last night when no one arrived.

The only persons there were other members of the planning board or other boards of the town.

Two of the town planning consultants had made a special trip from Toronto for the meeting.

It is not known if the planning board will plan another public meeting of this type in the near future.

During the afternoon yesterday, a joint meeting of the town planning board, the parks board and the recreation commission was held in the board room of the municipal building to study the long-range plan for the bay shore area around the recreation centre, as well as the park area near the Canadian Legion hall.

A large map of the area has been drawn up by the town's planning consultants, showing what the areas could be developed into over many years.

They realize it could not possibly be done in a few years but felt the plan would give the town an objective to work for.

The entire plan would enlist the help of the service clubs and other organizations in town who could take over some of the various items to build as a club project.

Councillor Jim McDonald acted as chairman of the meeting, which included six representatives from the various town groups.

BPW Group Holds Picnic At Stoco Lake

TRENTON — The June meeting of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club was marked by a picnic held at the cottage of member Ellen Whitehouse at Stoco Lake.

Leaving the bus terminal at 5.30 Wednesday evening by chartered bus, approximately 28 members and guest; sang their way to Tweed, much to the amusement of Rathbun's bus driver, Alfred Barr.

On arrival, the group was met at the gate and trooped down the long lane to the skirl of bagpipes in the capable hands of Cecil Merchand.

A lunch had been prepared by Ellen and her cohorts to which the members and their guests did justice.

No business was conducted at this meeting with the exception of instructions from the ever active ways and means committee.

The members were very pleased to have as special guests of the club Miss Valerie Hunter and Miss Irene Cooper, nurses at Trenton Memorial Hospital. Miss Hunter and Miss Cooper have recently come to Trenton from England.

No meetings are held during the summer months and the regular monthly meeting will be resumed again in September.

Robert Singleton Of Long Branch New Assessor

TRENTON — Robert Singleton, 39th Street, Long Branch, was named assessor for Trenton by Mayor Ross Burtt following a special meeting of town council held this morning. The meeting, which was called to transact business in two weeks' time or as soon as possible. The post was declared vacant through the recent resignation of former Assessor K. K. Kenney.

Two Married Couples Called To Ontario Bar

TORONTO (CP) — Two married couples were called to the Ontario bar at Osgoode Hall Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Bielski of St. Catharines and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Angelo Catalano of Toronto were among 201 graduates who received the degree of barrister-at-law from John J. Robinette, treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

Mr. Bielski plans to practise in Toronto but his wife intends to work "until after we have a family." They now have an 11-month-old daughter.

The award winners included David Anthony Ward of Peterborough and Kjeld Ernest Hansen of Chatham.

PUC Asks Better Trent Water Control

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford Public Utilities Commission will forward a letter this week to the Department of Transport, asking the department to look more closely into the proper control of water in the Trent system during the high water period in the spring of the year.

Water levels in the Trent are now low and members of the commission believe that if the department were to hold back more water in the upper reaches of the system during high water periods, more water would be available during the summer months.

At present, the town power plant can operate at only part of its capacity due to lack of water, making it necessary to purchase power from the HEPC at rates much higher than it could be produced locally.

The decision to protest to DOT was reached at a meeting of the PUC in the council chambers this week.

Lions Buy Swimming, Park Site

CAMPBELLFORD — Two local playground supervisors, Herb Grills and Anne Pomeroy, are this week attending a Playground Supervisors' Leadership Training Course at Qui-Mo-Lac on Moira Lake. Brock Greene, chairman of the Recreation Committee announced this on Wednesday.

The committee said that two local playgrounds will operate in town during the summer. One will be in operation on the west side of the river during July and on the east side during August.

Registration forms have been distributed through the local schools with regard to parents' consent for children who wish to take swimming lessons during the summer. The previous beach at which classes were held has now been closed to the public and it is not certain when classes will start.

The Campbellford Lions Club has purchased a block of property on the west side of the river near the town limits with the hope that it may develop into a combined park and swimming beach. A great deal of work will have to be done on the property before it can be opened to the public but the Lions Club said they would rush the job to completion as quickly as feasible, so that the children of the town will have a place where they can swim under supervision during the hot summer months.

PAYING THE PRICE FOR HOT-HEADS

The U.S. has officially accused the Soviet Government of stage-managing the demonstration Wednesday at the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

The charge is likely to be flotly denied, as are so many other cold war allegations, but this time there does not appear any reasonable doubt as to its accuracy.

The record shows that Russia, unlike many other European countries, has known few demonstrations. In the main, this is almost certainly due to the iron control which a totalitarian state exercises over its citizens. An additional factor may be that the Russian temperament is more akin to that of Canadians, than to the hot-blooded Latins and volatile Central Europeans.

When this record of freedom from demonstrations was suddenly broken by three demonstrations within a week, in front of the Danish, West German and U.S. embassies, even the most obtuse observer could hardly miss the point. These demonstrations were not merely permitted but word must have gone out that the authorities desired them to be staged.

The Russians can reply, with accuracy, that the Russian crowds are only duplicating the type of mob violence to which Russians had already been exposed in stone-throwing assaults before the Russian embassies in Copenhagen and Bonn and the Soviet UN embassy in New York.

That, though, does not alter the fact that the Russian Government has descended to a very low level in arranging these crude retaliatory actions.

The Canadian turn may be next, as the result of the demonstration in front of the Russian embassy in Ottawa.

It may be that the Kremlin just cannot believe that these demonstrations in Denmark, West Germany, the U.S. and Canada occurred in spite of, rather than because of, official policy.

Although the provocation was admittedly strong, Hungarians and other refugees from European countries to their new homelands no good service when they bring to these shores the custom of violent demonstrations. In their own lands conditions may be such that there exists no other avenue for expression of public opinion. But that is not true in Canada or the U.S., nor we think in West Germany and Denmark. Such demonstrations as that which was staged at Ottawa by Hungarian refugees can do no good -- and they may do much harm for they provide the Communists with a ready-made excuse for stirring up hatred against Canada, if they so desire.

TREATMENT FOR ELECTRIC SHOCK

Occasionally, in the literature of all ages and nations, one runs across a reference to a fear which must have been widespread, that of being buried alive. Here in Canada and in similar lands, at least, this fear has been removed by modern methods employed by undertakers. Paradoxically enough, though, a new and somewhat similar danger has arisen, the product of modern technical developments. It is the danger of being given up for dead when one is still alive although the usual tests for death indicate there is life.

The Canadian Medical Association Accidents Prevention Associations, in a bulletin just issued, calls attention to this danger as the result of the electrocution, within six weeks, of seven Ontario workmen. It is believed, says the bulletin, that the lives of some of these workmen could have been saved if other workmen on the spot had been prepared to apply prompt artificial respiration. But not only prompt commencement of this treatment, but persistency in applying it over long periods is required if every possible life is to be saved.

Dr. R. W. I. Urquhart, medical officer of the HEPC is quoted as the authority for the statement that artificial respiration should be continued until the patient recovers, or until rigor mortis sets in. In cases of electric shock, the mere appearance of death is no guarantee that death has occurred. Records of the HEPC show that more than 170 employees who received prompt, manual artificial respiration after electric shock were saved and in many of these cases, we suspect, those applying respiration did so almost without hope, only to be rewarded by the recovery of an apparently dead fellow-worker.

Soviet statistics point with pride to the fact that life expectancy in Russia today is 67 years as compared to 32 at the beginning of the century — not counting we presume, purges, mass deportations to Siberia and executions. (Ottawa Journal.)

Said she, "I'm told

Such things occur.
I'm sorry, though,
Poor thing, for her."

She said goodby

Swing Day In Korea

By Lara McLane Smith
In Korean News

Once upon a time there lived a handsome Prince who saw a young lady in a garden near his palace and was captivated by her beauty. She, too, fell in love with the prince, but as she belonged to the common class the commencement of their marriage.

However, the maiden cleverly conceived the idea of erecting a tall swing high above the palace garden walls, so she could be seen. The outcome was that the prince eventually broke through the royal custom and married the girl of his choice.

In commemoration of this folk tale, on the fifth day of the fifth month of the Lunar Calendar swings are suspended from the branches of tall trees or on poles erected on a hillside and here the girls assemble in all their pretty multi-colored dresses to enjoy a day of swinging.

In former years this was the only day of the year a young girl could appear in public and could, without compromising her maidenly modesty, cast off her glamour veil to those who gathered at a distance to select a bride.

Korean girls always stand to swing, as their long skirts make a beautiful flash of color against the green and gray of the hillsides.

Chile Women Win Acclaim

Montreal Star

It's a subject of the highest delicacy of course, but it's news to us that Chile has the most beautiful women in the world. A Danish writer now visiting Canada says so. And apparently he has not set foot outside a radius of tourist observers. He has been touring Chile for a quarter of a century and written two dozen travel books, but dandrerous of a commit oneself on feminine beauty in these times of dollar-wavering inflation. There's a girl in Mr. Mielche's own Copenhagen, for instance — but that's another story.

The old saw that beauty lies in the eye of the beholder is the safest and easiest way out of any argument on this theme, whether you like varnished faces or the soap-and-water variety. But Mr. Mielche is spending several months in Canada to work on another book. Maybe he'll change his mind about those Chileans.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

BASIC CREED

There is the story of a young Frenchman some decades ago who became a confirmed atheist and made a continuous display of impiety. He especially had it in for the evangelist and he scoffed at their repeated assertions that Christ had died for man's sin. Even his companions, quite as unbelieving as he was, winced as he would say, sneeringly, "Christ died for my sins and I don't care."

Maybe it was listening to his own voice that finally brought realization. Or perhaps it was a word spoken by a godly person or a statement out of the Bible. But somehow or other, the impious chap was converted and became a clergyman. He still continued his boasting after that, but it was boasting about what God had done for him. There never ceased to tire of relating how he had once hated religion and all that pertained to it and how God in His mercy had reached down and made him a true and loyal believer.

There are many people w h o would class themselves as orthodox in matters of faith, but who, in the bottom of their hearts, are not at all for the fact that Christ died for them. It is a sound sacrifice at the basis of all Christian happiness. Without it there is no foundation for real belief.

Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON EATING ALONE

I don't see very many unhappy people in a dining room. In the first place, people go to a dining room to eat, and the pleasanter it is, the happier they will be. Healthiest, by far, one's health depends a great deal on how we eat, what we eat, and how happy we are when we do eat! People should be in their happiest mood when they eat, for if they are sour they are almost sure to pay penalties. However, when you are angry, or disturbed, or when you are unhappy. Eating alone is not pleasant, but if you eat in a place where many dine you will lose much of your loneliness.

I like a well-filled dining room in which to eat. I like to study the faces of the diners. You can easily pick out the happy ones. The single diners do not long linger after their appetite has been appeased. I always think

Mr. Charles R. He will assume his duties here at the end of September. Mr. John Hodgins, who has filled most acceptably the position of organist and choir director at St. Andrew's Church for the past two years, has been awarded a piano scholarship at the Toronto Conservatory of music and will continue his studies there and will be organist and director of music at Grace United Church in that city.

Business is very slow at the city tourist camp. It may be a little early and will pick up later.

A feature of the proceedings at Holloway Street Methodist Church Sunday School was a vote cast by the teachers and pupils on the question, "should the cigaret be little use stopping." One hundred and ninety eight ballots were cast and the result was one hundred and ninety seven ballots in favor of abolishing the cigaret and one lone voter in favor of the cigaret.

What Makes Human Tasty?

Windsor Star

What makes a human being so tasty to mosquitoes? While others are planning space stations on the moon our National Defence Research Board is grappling with the more immediate problem of human mosquitoes. Nothing specific is promised. "It's too early," observes an official, "to say we'll have any luck."

This incidentally, is a new approach to the mosquito problem, and there may be a note of optimism in it. Formerly the emphasis was on sprays that would kill the insects — sprays like D.D.T. At one point science seemed to have mosquitoes at a disadvantage. Then they learned to build up immunities. Now the emphasis is turned around for another opening.

Making people unpalatable would be a logical enough way to turn mosquitoes aside. But how are people made unpalatable? Would they want it or, more important, could they survive it? It would be much too natural if people came out of this deal with another enemy — some pest with a spray can full of allergy-causing unpalatability.

Computers Ban Bunts

Watertown Times

Any baseball manager who has been "second-guessing" himself, wondering whether he called for a bunt at the right time, signaled a steal at the most opportune moment, or decided on a squeeze play under the proper conditions, can quit worrying about it now. He was wrong.

This conclusion has been arrived at by no less a baseball "authority" than the International Business Machine's 704 machine, a giant scientific computer which deals in analysis of operations research. The mechanical manager feels that it is far better to instruct players to "hit away" instead of fooling around with bunts and stolen bases.

The baseball problem which was "fed" into the machine posed a series of decisions to be made by the manager in 25 different situations. The analysis showed that it is better to try for a hit and not resort to bunting or stealing. The computer suggestions were said to be similar to those followed by many baseball managers.

But, in the interest of simplicity, all team members were considered of equal athletic ability.

This is where the machine went wrong. Anyone who knows all his players do not possess equal abilities. Some are good power hitters; others good bunters. Some are fast on the bases; others are not. Some had a piano on their back. As a result strategy has been devised to fit individual players and individual situations.

Let us hope computers do not follow the computing machine suggestions. It would take the fun and uncertainty out of baseball if every man stepped to the plate, and on hitting the ball out of the park. Gone would be the thrill of seeing a runling in to field a bunt; or the spectacular play for an error with the pitch. Let's leave it to the managers to make the decisions and the mechanical devices to concession stands and dispensing services.

How Newsmen Got Story

Associated Press Log

On Thursday, June 5, Prof. Clement Attlee Rogers, tried to register for Summer study at the University of Mississippi at Oxford. He was rebuffed, then state highway patrolmen whisked him off the campus and no official would say where he was. Finally the Associated Press and the Jackson Daily News broke through the silence and found that Rogers had been arrested in terror to the doctor's office, convinced that the "lump" was the sternum, or breast bone, and they'd never happened to notice it before. Still, I suppose the visit to the doctor was well worth the effort because it set their minds at ease.

To Your Good Health

HOW TO EXAMINE THE BREAST FOR CANCER

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you give me some information concerning self-examination of the breast for tumors? — J. T."

Many breast tumors (or masses, or lumps) are discovered by the patient herself, perhaps during a shower or bath. In view of this, self-examination is being encouraged by doctors, and by the American Cancer Society, which is trying worthwhile and excellently to encourage the right attitudes. Don't be afraid to ask your doctor about a lump or other suspicious symptom. If it is cancer, it usually can be cured. I'm not exaggerating when I say "usually". There are internal cancers which, by any method, often will be found too late. But of the ones that show signs, the cure rate is quite good now, and could be doubled if people would act at once instead of hanging back and worrying. And as a matter of statistics, the large majority of suspicious signs aren't cancer. They are something simpler — yet still need treatment.

Anyway, for breast cancer, lie on the back, turn one arm above the head (to flatten the breast) and with the other hand press gently against the breast tissue. A tumor will be felt as a small, distinct lump.

Other indications may be an unusual distortion of the nipple, not previously noted (these are "inverted nipples" which are not uncommon but are no cancer) or any discharge from the nipple. This last does not necessarily indicate cancer, but is always worthy of investigation.

CYSTS MAY DEVELOP

The breast, being dynamic glandular tissue, which undergoes changes dependent on the menstrual cycle, may develop cysts, that is, small fluid-filled sacs of lumpiness at times, with some tenderness. Neither of these is new, nor in any way related to it. I want most heartily to warn you, in the interest of business of the public, there is a tendency to jump to wrong conclusions. If in doubt — ask your doctor! If he says no, it isn't cancer, and if he says yes and imagine that he is "hiding the truth from you."

As to pain, cancer rarely is painful. Many harmless, or usually-curable conditions can be painless, too. But if, in the earlier stages, there is pain, it usually means mastitis or inflammation — not cancer.

As to the false alarms that worry people—well, I've known of women, especially those on the lean side, who, suddenly getting interested in self-examination, decided that they had cancer in terror to the doctor, and announced that the "lump" was the sternum, or breast bone, and they'd never happened to notice it before. Still, I suppose the visit to the doctor was well worth the effort because it set their minds at ease.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The warden of one of our Canadian prisons with an hour's drive of the big city was showing me around his bailiwick to show me how remarkably the new Canadians who have moved in during the past ten years have snuggled down.

Most of the farms they picked up are a little on the small side, by Canadian hundred and sixty or two hundred acre standards.

"To operate a farm properly by modern mechanical means," explained the warden, "it has to be a good bit larger. These new Canadians have a different slant on mechanization. They use it, all right, but only when old-fashioned muscle-type farming is not possible. Mechanization to them is an aid, not a method. Most of these new Canadian farmers are inveterate farmers, closer to market gardeners than farmers in our sense of the word. They're the most curious notion about their muscles. They still think their muscles are the seed!"

He pointed out farm after farm that had been taken over by new Canadians since the war.

We passed a tumbledown, unpainted, rickety cluster of barns and sheds around a beat-up looking farm house.

"Old Canadians in there," remarked the warden, casually. He is very optimistic about the county's prospects.

Substitute For Snob Car

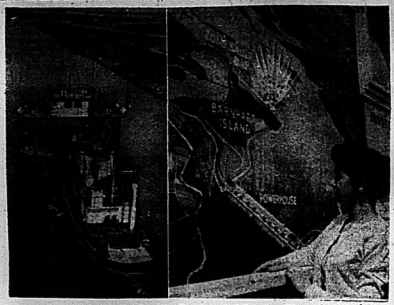
Montgomery Advertiser

This may not come as a surprise to people who know about automobiles, but the British Rolls-Royce, we have just learned, is really an incognito Rolls-Royce.

Except for the radiator, the cars are identical. The Bentley costs slightly less and looks sumptuous than the Rolls-Royce, the consumer has a bit smaller.

We learned this from a Rolls-Royce ad in The Wall Street Journal which states 19 reasons why the Rolls-Royce is "the best car in the world." Frankly snobbish, the ad boasted in italics that the price of the model shown, a Silver Cloud—$13,500. But down at the bottom of the page, the manufacturers assure you that if you don't like the car, you needn't be.

The Bentley is made by Rolls-Royce. Except for the radiator, they are identical motor cars, manufactured by the same engineers in the same works. The Bentley costs $300 less, because its radiator is simpler to make. People who feel diffident about driving a Rolls-Royce can buy a Bentley.



Explosion of a cofferdam on Dominion Day signals the last major step towards completion of the $1,200,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and power project. When 30 tons of explosives are touched off, water will roar down the new lake bed forming a lake 35 miles long and five miles wide, which will provide electricity to power parched Ontario. Thousands of people are expected to stream into the area and Ontario Hydro is providing temporary parking for about 5,000 cars on fields and lots near the dam. All access from the town of Long Sault to the new dam will be cut off before the explosion.

Fleet of Vans and Trailers Brings Clyde Beatty Circus To Town Early This Morning

The Clyde Beatty Circus came to town today. A fleet of vans and trailers arrived at Zwick's Island at about one o'clock this morning. The star of the show — Clyde Beatty — did not arrive until close to noon. He is the feature attraction in the big top tent this afternoon and tonight.

This circus is the only one still in existence that operates on the road and under canvas. It came to Belleville after a one day stand at Kingston, Saturday the circus will be in Oshawa.

Dozens of local men were hired to help put up the big show. They were on hand looking for work before dawn arrived.

But it took Anna Mae to do most of the hell work in raising the big top tent. She is one of a herd of elephants with the circus. The tent was erected after about a hour's work.

The circus grounds were thick with workers and spectators this morning, long before most of Belleville was awake.

Caged lions, picketed elephants and camels voiced disapproval about the cold, threatening weather.

"Once we get the big top up, let it rain," said one worker. "We got pretty good crowds at the other places we played along the St. Lawrence River. In Kingston, though, something happened to the truck carying the big top, so we never did get it up. We just put up canvas walls. The crowd didn't seem to care. We packed them in anyway."

Another worker said the circus has been plagued with poor weather ever since it started out on the road in April.

"Say," said another, "when do you people get summer up here?"

"Hey, Bud, want to work!" That was a familiar sentence heard over and over again this morning.

What's it like to hook up with a circus, full-time?

"It's not bad," said a man leaning against an elephant. "It gets kind of rough when we have to make long hauls overnight. Last night, though, we did good — we got about three hours of sleep. But we only came up from Kingston. We get, maybe, an hour's sleep or less when we have to drive 150 or more miles while most other folks are sleeping."

BACON RIND FOR CATS

"Throw that cat some bacon rind," came a bored cry from a truck cab as a lion vented his rage against his captors. And a few minutes later that lion was getting the cages themselves, spectators would be hard put to find more exciting entertainment. The funny part of it all is that the big cats are said to be untamed.

The circus has a number of clowns who are skilled at making folks laugh with their dizzy antics.

Aerialists are sure to keep the audience spell-bound.

One thing that struck the spectators as being very interesting was the scientific way in which the workmen went about their various jobs. Of course, after years of doing the same thing practically day after day, men are almost sure to develop a knack of getting their work done in the fastest time possible and with the least expenditure of physical energy. But it's a tough grind, just the same. There are going to be some aching backs and blistered hands among local citizens working at the circus before the day is done.

Peterborough Club to Give Swim Exhibition

If you're on time to find a place you will have the chance of seeing clockwork in a swimming pool in Belleville, Saturday.

The event is the official 1958 opening of the Belleville Community Pool by the Kinsmen Club and city officials Saturday evening.

To highlight the opening, the authorities have booked the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club — which for some years past have been scooping synchronized swimming championships on a continent - wide basis.

The club pools the agility of some 16 young ladies for a combined exhibition of aquatic agility that's drawn plaudits from Peterborough to Mexico City.

From a fledgling organization in 1944, the Peterborough Club has developed into a team that has made the title of champion synonymous with its name. They count among their awards such laurels as the 1953 North American Championship, the Canadian - American meet title, and citations at the British Empire games and the Pan-American Games in Mexico.

Their Belleville presentation strokes off at 7.30 p.m. Saturday. For the occasion, children with adults will be admitted free, while the fee for parents is 50 cents.

848,000 Trees Now Planted In Townships

TWEED — Tree planting has been finished for over two weeks now and from the checks made since then it appears that it had a successful planting season.

At the Sandbanks where 95,000 trees were planted on blow sand, 90-100 percent survival seems likely. This we feel is a result of the mulching of the area prior to planting. Cat straw was used for mulch on a portion of the area and oat seed remaining in the straw has started growing in the sand. There are some extensive patches of "oats" coming through and it is planned to do some experimental planting of perennial grasses and clover on next year's planting area prior to mulching. This may be the answer to the problem of dune control.

The following is a summary of the number of trees planted by townships this spring: — McClure, 350,000; Hallowell, 95,500; Denbigh, 15,000; Lyndoch-Griffith, 285,000; Cören, 3,000; Elzevir, 65,000; Kaladar, 34,500. Total 848,000.

Berries Size Of Golf Balls In 2-Acre Plot

Strawberries, anyone?

Just go and see Mrs. Cecil Kleinsteuber at R.R. 1, Picton, and take your own crocus.

Mrs. Kleinsteuber has two acres of real beauties, almost the size of golf balls. She said yesterday her strawberries are a new variety called "Sparkle."

She started out two years ago with 100 plants and now she has two acres of strawberries. And the amazing thing about the monsters is that they are equally as juicy and delicious as the standard - sized ones folks usually encounter.

"We picked about 2,000 boxes on Wednesday and Thursday," Mrs. Kleinsteuber said. "We planted them on sandy loam, have them plenty of water and were rewarded with two acres of lovely-sized strawberries."

What fertilizer did Mrs. Kleinsteuber use? It was 10-10-10, plus plenty of Vitamin D from the sun.

Incidentally, there were 16 berries in a quart box that Mrs. Kleinsteuber brought to The Ontario Intelligencer on Thursday afternoon. And the box was full, too.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. H. Bray introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. M. Davis of Belleville, who gave an interesting talk on "Stewardship." Christian stewardship should be a dynamic force in our lives, the home, by placing God first, giving Him of our time, our talents, our means, and our money.

Stewardship has too often been thought of as merely gifts of money. It is much more than that, it is working in partnership with God for the good of our fellowman. Stewardship in Christianity in action in our home, our community, and in the church. We are called on to worship, witness and work in God's service.

Mrs. H. G. Coulter of Belleville, gave a reading "The Ideal Presbyterial," also a talk to the Girls' Auxiliary and younger leaders on the importance of their work.

Chatterton W.I. Hears Talk On 'Hydro'

The June meeting of the Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Bleecker with the president, Mrs. Gardner, presiding.

The business of the meeting was conducted as quickly as possible to make way for the guest speaker, Mr. Service, superintendent of the hydro district from Trenton. Mr. Service pointed out in his talk that although the cost of rural power is slightly higher than in urban areas, because of the fewer users to pay the cost, the overall picture is that Canada's electricity is about the cheapest in the world to the consumer, thanks to the foresight of Sir Adam Beck.

The hydro is a non profit organization which has nearly completed its size in the past ten years. Another interesting feature of the hydro is also worth to point out the safety rules for the home. He pointed out that with the increase of electrically powered spliances in the average home in the past ten years the home that has been wired more than 15 years ago has remained than likely inadequate wiring.

Mrs. Bloor thanked the speaker for his most informative talk.

Articles made from a yard of material were auctioned off after the meeting. The articles included aprons, children's clothing, a delightful child's pillow in the shape of a duck, tea towels, a skirt and several novelties. Mrs. Bleecker acted as auctioneer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Bleecker aided by Ler assistants, Mrs. R. Reid and Mrs. Charles Prest.

Art Lessons in Schools Not Intended to Create Artists

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Art lessons in school are not intended to create artists—the end product will be an educated person, says Charles D. Gaitskell, art director for the Ontario education department.

"Art education today is based on three things: The artistic tradition, the democratic ideal and contemporary trends in psychology," said Dr. Gaitskell, who is author of several books on the teaching of art.

"We have had art education in schools for only 50 years, but in the last 25 years the way art is taught has changed entirely.

NEW APPROACH

"At first, art teaching consisted of training hand and eye. Children were taught to copy drawings and to paint according to the same in the invitations. It should be spelled out. But why isn't this same thing and would have done less harm," he said.

"Accuracy of technical skill was the sole purpose of the lessons."

This attitude to teaching art was superseded by neo - impressionism. "This is a scientific approach to art, in which effects are achieved by intellectual tricks. Children are taught how to draw an ellipse, for instance, how to reproduce objects photographically, and are given rules and regulations to memorize."

But for the last quarter-century, "expressionism" has replaced neo-impressionism, and art teaching in schools has changed with it.

EVORE REACTIONS

Expressionism, said Dr. Gaitskell, is "when one takes sensations and ideas and reaction to experience and says something about it personally."

This means that if a child takes a trip to the bush, for instance, he may want to record the emotions and ideas these activities produce.

"In kindergarten, children are introduced to various art forms," said Dr. Gaitskell. "They are given paint, paper, brushes, modelling clay, and other equipment.

"When they have ideas they wish to express they can choose any of these forms, and the teacher will offer guidance only when the child is ready for it.

"The democratic ideal in art is that a child will select an aspect of a theme which moves him, and will evolve the design himself. We do not give him a pattern to copy," said Dr. Gaitskell.

"Art lessons today develop taste, and we produce people who can express themselves in art.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

NOT CORRECT TO USE INITIALS IN WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance has a middle name he detests, never uses it. Quite often (but not always) he uses an initial instead of this name. We are to be married in September, and I'm planning the invitations. What's correct to do about this middle name of his? Would it be permissible to use the initial?

E. V.

No. If the middle name is included in your bridegroom's invitations, it should be spelled out. But why isn't this a good time for him to begin to omit this middle name, he detests? Surely there is definite trend not to use middle names unless the name has in some way a special importance, which apparently your fiance's middle name hasn't.

SPECIAL PROBLEMS OF HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help me with my problem about how to word a formal newspaper announcement of my engagement? I work here and share an apartment with my cousin. My mother and father are divorced, neither has married again, they live in different cities and their attitude to each other (and to me) couldn't be called at all "friendly." So I think it would be best to have the announcement as simple and impersonal as possible. Since t h e divorce my mother uses h e r maiden surname; my father my married surname; for an example, Mrs. Blake Robinson. My fiance lives here in this city with his parents.

With these facts, what form of announcement would you advise?

— Reader

I suggest the following engagement-announcement form, which I believe will meet all the circumstances you mention: "Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Robinson, of 4 Park Street, this city, daughter of Mrs. Blake Robinson, of Haven, Ontario, and of Mr. Alexander Robinson, of San Francisco, to Mr. Arthur Forbes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alan Forbes, of 539 Lincoln Avenue, this city. (To this you would probably want to add other information, such as schools you and your fiance have attended, and so forth.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Eavon's NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by multiple agencies and counsellors.

Janet R. — We should tell my brother.

Herbert R. — The less you interfere the better.

Janet R. — My brother was married six months ago to one of my friends. I had tried to promote this marriage because at that time I thought Elsa was one of the nicest girls I knew.

After she and my brother got engaged I began to see many things about her I didn't like. She is very ambitious and seems very dissatisfied with my brother's income. He happens to be happy in his job and I know he doesn't want to make a move.

A few weeks ago Elsa came to me and asked if she could borrow some money. She said s h e wanted to tell my brother it was hers so he could use it to start a business.

She said he wasn't willing to go into debt as he was afraid of the risk. I refused her the money, but I think I should also tell my brother about this. My husband disagrees.

Herbert R. — I think the less your interfer.ia anyone's marriage the better. Janet says this wouldn't be interference — that it's just a matter of giving him information he ought to have.

She said Elsa might be going around doing the same thing with other members of the family and with friends. But I doubt if she would go that far.

I feel Janet is partially to blame for this situation. S h e seems to be always trying to show off in front of Elsa — showing her all the things she h a s bought and so on — things that Elsa can't buy. My business has been fairly successful and Janet seems to think this puts her in a position to lord it over Elsa.

I think it's pretty tough on Janet's brother if he has a wife who would do this kind of thing. But why should we mix in?

The Council: We're 100 per cent behind Herbert.

A tale like the one Janet wants to pass on might wreak havoc in that marriage and some of the responsibility would certainly fall on Janet's shoulders.

It is possible that Janet's brother "ought to have" the information she wants to pass on, and it is very likely he will eventually have it in some form.

If he doesn't, perhaps Elsa will have realized the foolhardiness of what she has done and will resolve to turn over a new leaf.

In any case, Janet will not have to bear the responsibility of creating a disturbance in her brother's marriage.

Janet should recognize that her brother's wife is a grown human being and must do some things which leave her open to censure — just as Janet herself does. If she must stand as judge over somebody's conduct, she should try to stick to her own.

Place one third of mixture in bottom of buttered 2-quart casserole. Cover with a layer of chicken, then a layer of mushrooms then almonds. Repeat until the casserole is full. Finishing with a layer of almonds. Add chicken broth. Bake covered in 250 deg. F. oven for 1 hour, uncovering for last 15 minutes.

QUESTION:

. . . I am a young housewife with two small girls and find that I do not have as much time as I would like to prepare food when entertaining friends for dinners or suppers, and am hoping you can suggest some dishes that can be prepared a little ahead of time, such as Beef Stroganoff on noodles, etc. Do you have a recipe for this? I prefer the one main dish because it eliminates all the extra side dishes; and any suggestions for salads or desserts to these types of meals would be greatly appreciated. . . . Mrs. E. M. F.

Oriental Homes Influence The West

TWO JAPANESE GIRLS relax on a modern sun porch at the Tokyo home of Yosio Hashimoto, a young Japanese architect whose residence is a combination of western and Japanese architecture.

A WESTERN dressed Japanese girl pushes back a Japanese "noren" or shop curtain, which separates the hall from the living room.

THE ENTRANCE WAY of Hashimoto's house uses modern western lighting fixtures and a Japanese split bamboo mat.

THE LIVING ROOM is a mixture of Japanese and western design, and one girl is wearing a kimono, the other a western-style dress. The room is divided by Japanese style shojis (sliding paper doors). The furniture and the wood paneling are of western origin.

THIS IS THE ONE completely Japanese room in Architect Hashimoto's home. The girls enjoy a cup of tea while sitting on the tatami (straw mat flooring) at a low Japanese chow table.

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

TOKYO (AP) — The emperor leaned back in his saddle, looked at the towering red gate outside the city and said to the carpenters, "It's going to be too high — take six inches off the top."

When the 50-foot entrance was finished, so the story goes, the emperor was invited to give it imperial aproval.

"I should have said lesser. It by a foot—it's still six inches too high," he told his chief kosho (builder). The kosho fainted on the spot.

The required six inches had not been shaved from the gate. The carpenters had quietly ignored the imperial decree and followed the original plans.

Rashomon Gat was built outside Kyoto about 800 A.D. Even then the aesthetically-trained Japanese eye, disciplined by the arbitrary but delicately perfect proportion of Japanese building could be jarred by a six-inch discrepancy.

The same principle of simple, perfect proportion is the guiding factor in Japanese houses today; more than 1,000 years later.

It is this sense of proportion, some Japanese architects say, that is lacking in the modern American home, generally conceded to be derived from the Japanese.

SUPERFICIAL IMITATIONS

"American houses are beautiful and practical. But in their Japanese aspects, they are superficial imitations", says Takenobu Mori, young U.S.-trained Tokyo architect.

"They incorporate many Japanese features, but they are not properly integrated, mostly because they don't have the graceful balance given by proportion," he added.

To a Japanese, each panel — and a house is composed of panels — bears a direct relation to every other panel in the room, and the thickness of each horizontal or vertical dividing line is ultra-important.

"Many features of the Japanese house have become standard in America, and have been successfully improvised upon," said Yosio Hashimoto, another young architect whose own house is westernized Japanese.

These would include "indoor-outdoor" living, where the garden and surrounding landscape becomes an extension of the house itself through open construction; post and beam construction where the exposed supports are an integral part of the design; division of the house into "areas" through sliding panels, and the exposed use of natural materials, such as wood or brick interior walls.

However for the American family willing to make alterations in its living habits, there are many other Japanese ideas waiting to be adopted — or adapted.

BATH DESIGNED FOR RELAXING

Mori and Hashimoto, both of whom have designed houses for westerners offered a few suggestions:

1. The Japanese bath, a sunken tub filled neck-high with steaming water. The Japanese does his soaping and rinsing outside the tub on a drained floor, then uses the tub for soaking only.

"It is a wonderful institution, and it would be fine for the American family willing to take the time to relax," said Hashimoto.

2. A more extensive use of natural materials.

"Americans now use wood, brick and stone on the inside, and there is no limit to what other materials can be incorporated," said Mori, who recently finished plans for a house with a huge blue stone as the bottom step in a set of suspended teakwood stairs. "The rock against the rug is a beautiful contrast", he noted.

3. Tatami the thick-padded straw mats used as flooring. This rules out western furniture, which punches holes in the mats, and necessitates taking off shoes inside the house.

Plastic models are now available "which would be ideal for a children's room", said Mori. "You could mount tatami on wheels and use several panels in a room", Hashimoto suggested.

4. Shoji and fusuma, the sliding paper doors.

"Americans are using panel partitions now, and they could try Japanese-styled ones," said one of the architects.

Shoji, panelled with lightweight white paper, is now being made with fiberglass, giving a translucent effect, and the heavier, more door-like fusuma can be covered with plastic-finished paper for durability and easier cleaning.

5. Kyo kabe (Kyoto walls) made of textured, sand-filled clay. Instead of the painted plaster or wallpaper of American rooms, Japan's houses have rich-colored walls with a tweed-like sand finish.

"There are hundreds of mixtures, each with a character of its own," said Hashimoto. Not too durable, but beautiful.

6. Stone inset hall floors, made of small polished pebbles set in concrete, with round inserts of natural wood cut from tree trunks.

The modern trend in the United States is an almost direct outcome of Japanese architecture", acknowledged one western architect working in Tokyo. "Now the job is done. You shouldn't copy any more once you've learned the basic lesson.

"The Japanese have taught construction design, how to bring the outdoors indoors, and the coupling of landscaping with the house—or vice versa," he said. "Now Americans should be able to develop things from those more suited to the people they are working with."

Whether or not the lesson has been learned, many westerners living in Japanese houses in Japan feel there are many things yet to be learned.

"How many homes in the states have flowery in the bathroom, or bells hanging up to tinkle in the wind?" mused one.

Canadian Garden Service

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

WHY WE CULTIVATE

Regular cultivation in the garden does a great deal more than merely keeping down the weeds. Actually that end of the business is only part of the service. Cultivation keeps the soil open and fine and thus makes it capable of absorbing and retaining moisture, letting in a certain amount of air and make it first class medium for plant growth. And it is amazing what a simple job it is to run over the flower and vegetable garden once a week in the growing season and less often later in July and August with a rake or cultivator. It is not necessary to stir deeply, the shallower the better as the season advances. But regular cultivation will keep things growing and healthy and add much to the neat appearance of the garden.

KNOW YOUR ENEMY

For controlling special pests, one should provide himself with a good bulletin so that any trouble can be identified and the proper dust or spray applied. It is not a bad idea to take your troubles to the nearest seed store and let the experts there prescribe treatment. For the general run of insects and diseases, however, the modern dusts and sprays will handle them either singly or in combination. It is no trouble to check pests if we get them early before they really have a chance to multiply. In the fight with bugs, the old adage of a stitch in time surely does apply.

EASIER AND SAFER

Gardeners in the market for power tools will find machines that are improved mechanically for simple operation and upkeep. The majority of power mowers and trackers now offer semi-automatic or automatic starting, multiple speed control, revised wheel mounting and balancing for easier turning and better mufflers for quiet operation. The mowers and other cutters are safer, too.

The cutting blade, especially with rotary mowers, has been particularly hazardous. Improvements have been made in blade housing to prevent foot injury and to reduce casting of heavy stones from the discharge chute. Another important safety measure is the semi-automatic braking system that can bring the spinning blade to a quick stop.

LONG ROOTED VEGETABLES

Deep rooted vegetables like carrots and parsnips often have a tough time getting down into the soil, especially in heavy clay, and when we go to pull them we, too, may have a tough time and leave about as many roots in the ground with the tops twisted off as we actually harvest. The wise gardener prevents all this fuss and loss by planting such vegetables in a trench filled with loose, sandy soil mixed with compost. In such a mixture seed germinates far more quickly, especially if well watered after planting, the young plants are easily thinned, and when we go to harvest there is little trouble in pulling, as a mere shake will loosen them from the soil.

FREE ADVICE

There isn't a do-it-yourself project on earth that has so much free and helpful advice available as gardening. You can learn a lot from seed catalogues, the garden columns of newspapers and magazines, radio, TV and the helpful seedsman who literally gives information along with a quarter's worth of seeds.

THESE WILL HELP

Compared with most other hobbies or recreations, equipment costs for garden-ing are trivial. If necessary we can get along with little more than a rake, and a spade. But a few other special tools won't cost much and they will make things easier and more interesting.

For stirring up the soil and thinning and killing weeds, for instance, there are several types and sizes of hand cultivators. These range from little ones or two pronged things 10 or 12 inches long to wheel hoes which we push through the larger gardens. It is well to have two or three cultivators of various sizes for working around plants and rows of different sizes. Then there are such things as dutch hoes for wholesale weeding and for cultivation under bushes and spreading plants, and single bladed affairs for making trenches for seeds and bulbs.

Except for the very small tools, it is advisable to get all these things, as well as rakes, hoes and so on, with long handles. These save stooping.

In fair sized suburban gardens one would be well advised to investigate power tools. Garden tractors and power lawn mowers are not expensive and with reasonable care they will last for years. And as for getting the tedious work done in a hurry, one can cultivate a respectable garden and cut a lawn at least five times as fast with power as by hand. Don't make the mistake of getting bigger tractors or mowers than you really need. The smaller sizes are much easier to handle on the turns.

STRAIGHT ROWS FOR VEGETABLES

Straight rows and as long as possible in the vegetable garden are not a sign of fussiness but of efficiency. For example, most it will pay a dozen times over to take a little care in planting our carrots, lettuce, beans and tomatoes straight and evenly spaced. Then we do cultivation, either by power or by hand, is simple and quick and it is safe too, even when the bare plants are just starting to peek through the soil. If we are sure the row is straight and the plants in the row evenly spaced then we can weed quickly and cultivation is only half the chore it would be if the seed was tossed anywhere. A long string and some good stakes are absolute musts in planting. Because the neat vegetable garden is so easily cared for, many gardeners also plant the flowers they will use for cutting right along side the vegetables. This is an excellent place for a row of sweet peas, for the main planting of gladiolus and for any flower seeds left over from the regular beds.

HEDGE CARE

Pruning is a most important step in the maintenance of an evergreen hedge, says John Walker of the Dominion Forestry Station at Indian Head. Pruning is seldom required more than once a year and only light pruning rather than shearing is needed to keep the hedge compact. This will encourage new growth from lateral buds.

Evergreen hedges are best pruned in late July or early August. If pruning is carried out then there is still time for fresh buds to mature and be conditioned for the production of new shoots the following spring.

In pruning, the hedge should be kept narrow at the top so that sunlight may reach needles at the bottom and keep them green and healthy. By careful and timely pruning as described, a very compact and attractive evergreen hedge can be developed and maintained at low cost. Such a hedge can be a valuable asset where winters are relatively long.

Slums Are Not Born, But Made

Slums, like heroes, are not born . . . they're made. Aware that many of to-day's "grey" areas were once the well - kept homes of prosperous citizens, authorities are keenly interested in the destinies of our "middle-age" homes; that is, houses that were built in two or three decades ago.

To a very large extent, however, the maintenance of property at a high real estate value is still the job of the individual home owner. But, the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating points out, home owners are today in a much better position to keep their property in tip top shape than ever before. The reason is the recently instituted Home Improvement Loan plan by which people who want to renovate or modernize their home may borrow money to do so from the chartered banks, at reasonable interest rates and pay back over a period which, in some cases, may be up to ten years.

With financial assistance of this kind, the owner of a "middle-aged" home need no longer content himself with giving it a bi-annual coat of paint. The Home Improvement Loan opens the door to much more far - reaching renovations, which will bring his house in line with those currently being built, perhaps not in design, but certainly in amenities.

Top priority in home renovation, particularly in a northern climate such as ours, is a new heating system. Innovations in heating in recent years mean not only more heat for less fuel, but well - regulated heat, draught - free heat, humidified heat and similar adjuncts to comfortable living.

Furthermore, design in new heating plants has virtually done away with the necessity for a dull, often dirty basement. In its place is the basement party - or rumpus room, either with the compact, self-servicing heating plant tucked away in its own small enclosure, or perhaps in the rumpus room itself, where its modern design and attractive appearance make it an acceptable piece of the room's furniture.

Probably second on the list of priorities are modernized kitchens and bathrooms. These are the two rooms which most quickly "date" a house. A modern bathroom with its recessed tub, built-in shower, counter top type wash-basin, its gleaming new fittings and general appearance of cleanliness, luxury and good taste, will rejuvenate a house as almost no other type of renovation can.

And the kitchen, of course, the room where so much of the daily work is done, is the answer to a housewife's dream when the new combination sink and tub unit, with built-in cupboards and sparkling drain boards, is flanked by roomy working surfaces to form the nerve centre around which today's labor saving appliances can be put to work.

Houses renovated in this way, through the help of Home Improvement Loans, are certain to become part of a "grey" area for many a long year to come, but instead will provide for their owners both comfort, and a home to be proud of.

Plan Ahead for Built-In Conveniences

A BUILT-IN sewing center, constructed with Japanese Nu-wood plywood, is six feet high and wide, twenty-eight inches deep. Shelves, drawers and racks store sewing supplies. Plan includes a fold-out work table and an ironing board.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

MOVE into a dream house and you may discover it's heavenly, BUT . . . there aren't enough closets, you need more closets, the laundry hasn't enough places to put things.

Little Things Count

This is what happens when you don't plan ahead. Charmed by the large living room, dining room, the den you're carried away and forget to check little things. When they involve storage facilities they really count.

If you're building your own home, you'd be wise to sit down and make a list of the closets, cupboards and cases required to organize kitchen, bath, bedrooms, living and dining areas. See that they're included when the architect draws the blueprints or, if you're a handy husband, tackle this do the carpentry—it will save costs. Remember, though, to reserve space on the floor plan for the units you'll add.

Need any help in planning ahead? You'll find ideas aplenty in "How To Make Your Own Built-Ins and Space Savers," by Bill Baker. If it's going to be a do-it-yourself job, photographs of finished projects and construction steps, some of which are reproduced here, will be a big help. But the book is valuable for ideas alone.

Handy Sewing Center

The author has plans for a sewing center (with a place for every last needle), a design for a bed that folds into the wall, and he's created a place for hi-fi, TV and records. These pieces can be built separately or combined for a three-in-one unit, with folding doors that run the length of a 16-foot wall.

Mom will like his kitchen and laundry plans—they're efficient. Dad will go for the basement workshop and tool storage rack.

Other Ideas

In the way of furniture, he's designed a Lazy Susan book-and-record storage unit that takes to a corner. There's also a plan for a couch and end table combination.

In addition to step-by-step instructions, the book offers tips on lighting built-ins and suggests ways to finish them.

The book is sold at newsstands, but if you have difficulty purchasing it in your area, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the publisher from whom it may be purchased by mail.

LAZY SUSAN shelves hold records and books in a corner unit that takes a space no more than thirty inches square.

CIRCULAR SHELF for book-record unit is cut with keyhole, jig or band saw, then edges are filed completely smooth.

Child's Desk and Chair Set more pleasure in ownership than personal furniture. This sturdy desk and chair set you can make in your workshop and win the heart of any youngster.

The simple plan detailed here makes building of this chair and desk as easy as cutting straight lines and all the tools you need are a screwdriver, hammer and handsaw.

All parts can be cut from one 4x8 foot panel of fir plywood obtained from any lumber dealer. The plan here calls for ¾ inch plywood however panel thicknesses of ⅝ inch or ½ inch could be used.

The desk is a convenient size with a writting surface 2x3 feet. This top can be tilted up as shown to provide a drawing board. Under the top is space for crayons, pencils, paints, brushes and scissors and a second storage place for books, paper and other bulky items.

Cutting diagram and dimensions of part are given. For the desk, two ends (A) 1'11⅛"x1'-11⅛"; top (B) 1' 11⅛"x2'; bottom (C) 1' 11⅛"x2' 10½"; four dividers (D) 1' 10½"x4". Also needed are corner brackets for the desk obtainable at any hardware shop and about 9 feet of 1x1 inch lumber. The 1x1 strips are used to support the bottom and to support the top when raised as detailed.

Details for making the chair are given. All joints butt together with no complicated cutting. Chair corners could be reinforced with corner brackets if desired.

The set can be given a wipe-off finish so that the grain of the plywood shows through. Stain or thinned paint in colors to harmonize with other decorations of the room can be wiped down while still wet for a very attractive finish. A coat of furniture wax will help preserve the paint surface and this desk and chair will be serviceable for many years.

Drop That Paint Brush! —Grow Flowers Instead

Pick flowers for colors that will make you happiest, show your house to best advantage, expert says.

When you begin to pick colors for your flower garden this spring, be guided by the farmer who paints his barn red.

That's the advice of a man whose business is color and whose books on the subject have made him one of the world's foremost color authorities.

Louis Cheskin, whose Chicago office supplies American industry with such essential information as "what color desk will keep secretaries from having headaches," has conducted nation-wide surveys among farmers about the color of their barns. Cheskin thinks the farmers have tipped him off to a good thing for gardeners.

"The farmers I talked to didn't even know why they painted their barns red," Cheskin explains. "They tried to be practical about it and say red paint is cheaper, but when I pointed out other colors that were just as cheap, they didn't have an answer—but, they stuck to red.

"The answer is quite simple to anyone who understands color psychology and how people unconsciously react to color—those farmers live in the country and are surrounded with green. They are sick of green, so they paint their barns the one color that will fight the green—which is red."

Okay, Mr. Cheskin, but what does a red barn have to do with the colors in a flower garden?

"Simple," says Cheskin, "people who live in red houses have the same problems as the farmers, but they don't know it and they aren't doing anything about it."

The garden colors should be considered as part of a painting, Cheskin advises, and the color of your house is an essential in that painting.

"Colors," says Cheskin, "must complement—which means the flower garden can turn an otherwise dull house into a beautiful place to live."

All of this, to the color student, means that if you have a red house, reverse the farmer's solution to nature's monotonous green —and, get all of the green into your garden that you can.

"That's complementing colors," says Cheskin, "and, it doesn't stop with red houses, either—in fact, take white houses, they're a problem."

For white houses, which Cheskin thinks can snow blind their owners unless flowers are used to moderate the "glaring white," the color expert's advice is "plant seeds which will produce blues, reds and yellows."

"Then," says Cheskin, "the complementing colors of the flowers will blend with the white of the house to produce the impression of color shadings. The house will turn with the garden so that the white paint will seem to have tinges of blue, red and yellow."

By using the colors of flowers to emphasize or minimize the dominant colors of houses and other surrounding buildings, the gardener is using "garden variety psychology," according to Cheskin.

"Colors all fit into a pattern to create an optical effect," Cheskin explains, "our eyes transmit this optical reception to us in such a way that these color combinations can make us happy, sad or just indifferent.

"In picking colors for the garden, try to wind up with a combination that will make you happy. After all, you have to live with it."

Why Pitched Roof Is Popular

A majority of all home remodeling projects this year are certain to take place under pitched roofs. The bonus space provided by an attic not only gives the home owner an economical place to get more room in his house, but of course there are more sloping roofs in this country than flat tops or any other type.

The reason pitched roofs are as well-liked today as they were centuries ago is that they are more practical — which is of im. rtance to you whether you are planning an addition or a new home.

The way builders figure costs by the cubic content of space it seems hard to believe that all the space contained under a gable could be economical. But here is the way it works out.

1. Extra Space — The attic under a pitched roof provides useful space. If the pitch is steep enough, the attic provides livable space or expansion space. If the pitch is low or medium, the attic gives you an abundance of storage space and can even be used for a modern furnace or air conditioning system.

2. Comfort — Even an unused attic under a pitched roof makes for a more comfortable home. It provides permanent shade for house under the summer sun. Ventilated with adequate louvers, with or without fans, it permits air washing to dispel summer heat. In combination with air conditioning, this cuts a big slice off operating costs.

3. Appearance — With today's trend toward more color, inside a house and out, pitched roofs are being used to set a color style for the house. The wide variety of roofing colors now available both in pastel and solid hues, opens new ways to make a house distinctive.

Leaky Brick Veneer

When brick veneer develops leaks, water can seep into the small space between the house sheathing and the brick wall causing damage to plastered inside walls. To prevent this, drill the brick mortar joints at the base of the wall so the water can drain outside.

All Loose Paint Must Be Removed

Paint that is chipping or peeling must be removed before repainting. Failure to do so will cause the new paint to fail. Loose paint can be removed by using a wire brush steel wool or coarse sandpaper. Then the surface should be smoothed with finer sandpaper, especially edges of patch where loose paint had been removed. All bare wood surfaces exposed to the natural oil and grease in the air should be wiped with turpentine or mineral spirits.

Retirement Homes Need Select Designs

Special Requirements Cited By Architects and Officials

By JOY MILLER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A little dream house in Florida after retirement . . .

That's the goal of many a couple approaching 65.

Others would rather spend their later years among friends and neighbors they grew up with. For them, familiarity means security.

The place, then, is a highly individual matter. But the house itself — to make retirement as happy as it should be — ought to meet specific requirements.

These requirements grew out of study by architects and government housing officials. After facing the incontrovertible fact that more and more people are living longer and longer, these experts explored the whole housing problem of senior citizens.

And they recommend, if your retirement is just around the corner, that you take a long, sensible look at your housing needs.

Do you own your own home? More than two-thirds do by the time they reach 65.) Then decide if it's suitable for the coming years.

Often, after children grow up and leave home, a house simply becomes too big for the parents. They rattle around in it, can't take care of it properly, perhaps injure themselves on stairs made for more agile feet.

This isn't for you. The choice is: move or remodel.

A modest, one-floor ranch type house, for example, can be adapted easily. Installation of non-slip flooring and grab bars likely will take care of it. But in an old two-story house, with one bath on the second floor, conversion would mean an extensive outlay of money.

Whatever you decide to do, be sure to allow for some of your retirement years for safety, comfort, and ease of maintenance.

E. Everett Ashley III, director of the statistical reports and development branch of the housing and home finance agency, says the following are musts for any retirement house:

1. Complete dwelling facilities, including a bathroom, on one floor. That floor should be reached by few, if any steps.

2. No threshold or other tripping hazards.

3. Non-slip surfaces in hallways, bathrooms and kitchens.

4. Handrails by all steps and inclines.

5. Adequate handgrips by all bathtubs and toilets.

6. Adequate lighting for all steps and other potentially hazardous areas.

7. Fully automatic central heating where central heating is required.

Ashley also recommends easily operated and cleaned windows, doors and hallways wide enough for a wheelchair to move through and a bathroom large enough and suitably designed for use by a wheelchair patient.

In addition to the physical layout of the house, the location is important. Ashley suggests you ask these questions:

Is it near public transportation and everyday shopping facilities?

Is it away from major traffic hazards?

Is it close to your old friends and neighbors?

4. Are there facilities for passive, recreation and entertainment nearby?

5. Is the neighborhood free from threats of physical blight or decay?

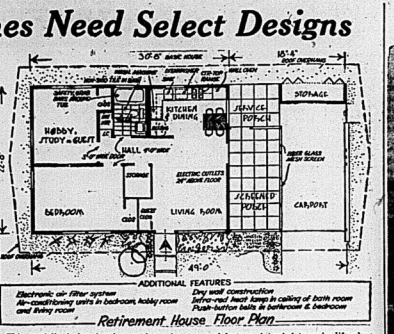
How to finance it? Ashley says the Federal Housing Administration stands ready to assist, whether it is in locating a house, trading one in for another or better suited to old age needs, or outright buying.

Special provisions written in to the Housing Act of 1956 remove the major obstacles previously in the way of older people trying to buy homes. Friends or relatives or even a corporation may make the down payment.

Some architects have become specialists in the field, blending practical considerations with smart psychology.

For example, Samuel Paul, Jamaica, N.Y., leading retirement house — at 41½ rooms plus screened porch and carport, which is enough for easy care. Yet he makes a point of an illusion of light, airy spaciousness, "it helps avoid emotional conflicts," he says.

He includes safety devices, pushbutton equipment and save-your-heart features, such as putting electric base outlets 24 inches off the floor to minimize bending.



This carefully designed retirement house by dance of features intended to make life pleas-New York Architect Samuel Paul has an abun-tant for older couples.

Learn to Dip A Brush Right For Longer Use

Proper use of a paint brush calls for a shallow dip in the paint. A third of the bristle length is deep enough. Dipping a brush too deeply fills the heel of the brush and makes it almost impossible to clean thoroughly. The heel then hardens and after several uses the firm length of the bristles is shortened drastically.

Expert painters often remove excess paint after each dip by tapping the brush gently against the inside of the can, rather than scraping the bristles against the rim.

How to Select Birthday Trees

Plant birthday trees for your children. It's an old European custom and is gaining popularity rapidly throughout North America. A good tree almost invariably adds to a home besides strengthening home ties.

Horticulturists suggest slow growing varieties of trees for this purpose because of their permanence and hardiness. Beeches, hard maples, honey locusts, oaks, American sweetgum and black tupelo are among these. Local nursery men can give you the best advice.

GALES DAMAGE CROPS

LONDON (Reuters) — Rain and gales in southern England and Wales Wednesday damaged crops, threatened floods, slowed rail services and stranded vacationers. The gales, in the western county of Devon, blew down trees which blocked roads and cut communications.

Insulation Can Be an Easy Job

Adding insulation under a roof or over a ceiling is a popular do-it-yourself project. A man and wife team can handle installation with little effort.

All you need in the way of tools are a staple gun, a sharp knife and a straight edge.

Insulation should be cut to fit snugly, leaving a flange of vapor barrier to be stapled to the studs or rafters. Wedge the batt or blanket in tightly with the vapor barrier towards the indoor side — not against the outside.

Staples should be no more than 6 inches apart.

ONTARIO TORNADO TEARS BARN OFF FOUNDATIONS

Workers on the farm of Ulysses Boody of LaSalle township, Windsor, Ont., ran for the ditches when they saw a tornado coming and cringed as glass showered about them, when a freakish twister struck. The barn also was damaged when it was lifted off the foundation. Winds in excess of 70 miles an hour tore up trees, tossed small boats through the air and moved an abandoned house 12 feet off its foundations. Nearby townships also suffered damage but no one was hurt.

Full Force of Nature Sealed in Tiniest Seed

Here's a pretty girl with some pretty plans. Television actress Rhonda Sherwood finds that those two spring and summer standbys, seed packets and seed catalogs, can be as colorful as the garden still is looking forward to.

A tiny seed, which looks like nothing much at all, is in reality a dynamic reproducing mechanism holding within its nondescript covering the regeneration powers of nature that carry down through the ages. Every seed contained within its one or two protective coats a tiny plant and food supply which, given the right conditions, will grow into the plant from which the seed came. All a seed awaits is water, air and sun to become one of the glories of this world, a beautiful growing plant.

Seeds from different plants will surprise you. They're not alike in size, color, shape or numbers. A plant which is delicate and thrives only under perfect weather and soil conditions generally has many fine seeds. This is nature's way of compensating for the fact that these seeds have a poorer chance of survival.

Other hardier plants, that don't have too great a struggle to flourish, have larger seeds and fewer of them. The average seed is about the size of a kernel of corn.

Although most seeds are of a definite color, some seeds are red, purple, blue, yellow, etc. Seeds are also of many shapes, such as oval, round, elongated and flat.

Most seeds have four things in common; they are formed in the flowers of plants; each seed has its own tiny plant which has the power to grow into a plant like the one that made it; every seed has food in it to nourish the tiny plant as it starts to grow, and nearly all seeds have a protective covering or coat.

Such is a seed as we see it. It also has a history.

For example, lotus flowers, which produce seeds that have been estimated to be over one thousand years old are growing today in the Kenilworth Aquatic Gardens in Washington, D. C. With modern day seedsmen, always at work testing the viability of seeds and growing strong, healthy vigorous plants for today's gardens, the history of these ancient seeds reads like a detective fairy tale.

Many years ago in faraway South Manchuria in a beautiful lake disappeared. No one would have known that it ever existed if it hadn't left behind some mysterious seeds buried deep in the mud of the lakebed. There, prehogs covered with dust from the Gobi Desert, the seeds rested for hundreds of years. For generations the native farmers have been digging them up and eating them. Finally, out of curiosity some of these strange seeds were sent to Ichiro Ohga, a Japanese botanist in Tokyo, for analysis.

Ichiro Ohga ran a series of tests which convinced him that the seeds were all viable, or live, and that they were hundreds of years old. He learned from these experiments that some seeds stay viable better when they are buried in soil. They need oxygen or air to 'sprout.' Ichiro Ohga sent some of these seeds to scientists in other countries—which is how they come to be growing in Washington, D. C., hundreds of miles and years from where and when they were planted.

Says Niece Put Her in Tub Of Cold Water

SOUTHEND, Eng. (Reuters) An 86-year-old woman, sitting in an easy chair, told a court Wednesday of the winter night when her niece put her in a tub of cold water and left her there until the early hours of the morning.

"I was wearing an old frock—I got back into my bed soaking wet all over," Mrs. Harriet Bowles said. "She came back to me in the morning and said 'I thought you were dead'."

Mrs. Olive Costin, 57, and her son, Raymond, 27, denied charges of assaulting Mrs. Bowles, occasioning her actual bodily harm, and stealing jewelry from her.

Mrs. Costin's eldest son, Albert, said his 250-pound brother, Raymond, used to jump up and down on top of Mrs. Bowles while she was in bed.

"They punched her on the arms, legs and body," he said. "The old girl just screamed."

The Crown alleged that police had found Mrs. Bowles in a "pitiful state." Her ankles and feet were so painful that she screamed at the slightest touch.

The hearing was adjourned until July 9.

Government Tug, Grenville, Named 'First Ship' of St. Lawrence Seaway

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP) — A tough, black - hulled tug has claimed the honor of being the "first ship" of the St. Lawrence Seaway, even before the deep waterway opens a shipping route into the Great Lakes.

The government - owned Grenville, federal mother for a 308-buoy family in the St. Lawrence River, was the first ship to navigate the seaway lock. She went through the Iroquois lock last November to officially open the mile - long canal at the seaway's western end.

As workhorse of the St. Lawrence, she braves spring floes to drop lighted marker buoys showing the channel into the Great Lakes. She has to nose through winter ice right up to Christmas to retrieve the buoys before sub-zero weather locks the river tight.

She noses into shallow shoals too dangerous for other ships to approach. She pits her strength against turbulent rapids, engines thumping, anchors dragging, just to lay buoys.

These deeds, her shy skipper, Oscar Morphet, of Prescott, Ont., claims, add merit to her seaway claim.

"She's a fine ship," he said in an interview. "But I'd like a bigger one. The kid's getting too big for her."

The Grenville, built in 1915 at Toronto, is 160 feet long, with a 30-foot beam and 13-foot draught. She's a steel vessel with ample forcible accommodation for a 26-man crew.

Capt. Morphet was first a farmer. He grew up at Little Current, then Manitoulin Island in Lake Huron, and went to sea in 1930 when the depression hit shore jobs.

During the Second World War, he sailed the Canadian run from Canada to the Caribbean, but never saw any enemy ships although other vessels were being attacked and sunk. Later he joined the Grenville as Master.

The bottleneck in the 1,800-mile Montreal and Lake Ontario, a 135-mile stretch of rapid-filled water that forced ships to lock-step since the days of fur-trading voyagers. The first canal to bypass a rapid was made in 1700 and with improvements over the centuries, the river has been mastered by a series of 21 locks, all 14 feet deep.

The billion-dollar St. Lawrence Seaway and power project will eliminate 15 of the locks, replacing them with seven locks and four canals deep enough to take ships with 27-foot draughts.

The Grenville's job—before and after the seaway—is to mark the ship channel, build and repair lighthouses and keep a watchful eye out.

Fog is our foe in spring," said Capt. Morphet. "But we haven't the time to stop."

Often in fast reaches, he manoeuvres the tug to the right spot where a buoy is to go and then, from a concrete anchor chain and buoy "on the fly." If they miss the right place, they drop the buoy in deep water.

"The worst place is at the head of the Platt Rapids. We back up into the rapids with engines running and our anchor dragging."

The Grenville is equipped with a Fathometer for depth sounder. Fully fuelled, the can operate in the river for 18 days without refuelling. Her home port is Prescott, Ont.

Capt. Morphet's wife and three children live.

The major task this summer is placing the buoys with hand-operated lights to mark the new channel through the United States locks, part of the seaway to open for limited navigation after July 1.

Seventy light buoys will mark the American section of the channel. The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Maple is placing another 30 buoys in the American side of the International Rapids.

Singing their way across the Atlantic by plane are these members of Hamilton's Mediallon Chorus, the first North American female chorus to be invited to compete against 25 countries in the Welsh International Music Festival. With 36 other choristers, Valentine Wright, left; Mrs. Joyce Willett, Mrs. Shirley Timmers and Faith Leiloot will journey on to Brussels World Fair where they will appear at the Canada pavilion. Each member is paying her own expenses as their request for a grant from the Canada Council was refused. The overseas flight marks the 21st anniversary of the founding of the chohr.

Net Operating Income for May Is $694,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Net operating income of the Canadian National Railways system for last May was $694,000, it was announced Thursday.

This was the result of operating revenues of $63,102,000 and expenses, rents and taxes of $62,408,000 and compares with a net operating income of $3,065,000 in May, 1957.

For the first five months of 1958, the railway reported a net operating deficit of $18,227,000, compared with net operating income in the corresponding period of 1957 of $10,795,000.

RCAF Encounters Problems In Electronic Armament Gear; F-86's Are Becoming Obsolete

OTTAWA (CP)—The electronic age is in defence presents the RCAF with almost as many problems as there are gadgets.

Air defence weapons do not come cheaply. They come by entire systems.

Take the present air defence network for instance. It comprises three radar warning lines, devices to determine whether a plane is friend or foe, ground control of the jet interceptors and interceptor itself, the plane's radar and armament control; bases; and communications to knit all these together.

The system is only as good as its weakest component part. And this system is becoming obsolete as the speed of bombers, rockets and missiles of various types come into use.

Consequently, the RCAF has to start all over again. It needs a new and faster interceptor plane, a armament system for it, new communications and automation to speed up the entire air defence process.

This process is becoming more and more costly. Development of the CF-100 all-weather jet fighter, now in squadron service, cost $12,000,000. Nearly $400,000,000 will have been spent by June 30 next March on development of the supersonic CF-105 Arrow and it is still three years away from production service.

Now $14,000,000 is being spent this year on tooling up for production of the U.S. Sparrow air-to-air missile, designated as the armament for the Arrow.

Altogether it will require expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for new electronic equipment to collect, assess and channel information provided by the radar warning lines.

Beyond all this will be the tremendous cost of a system of defence against intercontinental ballistic missiles—if one can be devised. However, this project is still in the hands of the Defence Research Board. It may be perhaps seven years before any actual weapons will be built.

In the recent emphasis on North American air defence, another important RCAF function has been overlooked by the general public, though not by the air force.

The RCAF maintains 12 fighter squadrons in Europe, compared to nine in Canada. Eight of these squadrons are equipped with Sabre jet fighters, the other four with CF-100s.

The Sabres, especially, are becoming obsolete because they are fitted for gunnery only and have no air-borne radar for interceptions. The RCAF now faces a decision whether to purchase a later plane, or to keep the Sabres and arm them with a missile.

The air force also is responsible for heavy duties in maritime reconnaissance and transport. It is arguing that its manpower ceiling of 51,000 is set too low to permit it to carry out all its tasks adequately.

Unless this manpower ceiling is changed, it appears likely that the army will be handed the job of anti-aircraft missile defence in Canada, a job the RCAF wants because it is armed with air defence of Canada.

Member Presses For Inquiry On 'Loafing'

OTTAWA (CP) — A boiling-hot controversy over charges of loafing in the ranks of the federal civil service boiled over in bubbles Thursday as government supporter Earl Rowe asked for an independent investigation of efficiency in the transport department.

Transport Minister Hees told Mr. Rowe (Simcoe North) he would not object to such an inquiry in his department if the government should decide to order one.

Mr. Wratten, Progressive Conservative member for Brantford, said during study of transport department estimates by the Commons railway committee that he would apologize if the study proved his charges wrong.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, asked later by a reporter for Brantford, said no such investigation has been given to it (an inquiry).

Mr. Wratten charged earlier this week that he has watched civil servants in their offices and found "a lot of them are not working."

WANTS OVERHAUL

"There should be a complete overhaul of the department," Mr. Wratten said, adding that the changes should be extended throughout the civil service, Mr. Wratten spoke in mid-morning.

A few hours later, at 3:30 p.m., three men in shirt sleeves were seen on the roof of the Hunter Building in downtown Ottawa, swinging a golf club. The Hunter Building is said to house a staff by staff of the transport and public roads department.

Spokesman for both departments told a reporter—without investigating—that the officers and their staffs were not involved.

The spokesman for the office of Deputy Transport Minister John Baldwin said transport staff do have a 15-minute coffee break. An official in the works department's personnel office said there is no general coffee break in the department, but that employees of the department are authorized to allow their subordinates a break in the morning and afternoon.

Canadian Mineral Production May Triple in Next 25 Years, Foreign Domination to Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian mineral production may more than triple in the next quarter-century but foreign domination of this vital industry will also increase, economists are predicting.

So predicts Dr. Joh. Davis, former trade department energy and mining authority, in a 400-page study outlining prospects for the industry as part of a number of surveys made for the Gordon economic commission.

In its final report issued last April, the commission referred to the industry, cautioning Canada against making "unreasonable demands for increased processing in Canada of this country's mineral resources."

Foreign customers may look elsewhere for their supplies "if we absolutely insist on what we demands," the commission said.

Dr. Davis, in his study made public today, estimates that the value of Canada's mineral production would rise to $5,500,000,000 in 1980 from $1,650,000,000 in 1955.

Dr. Davis observed that much of the industry is already under foreign control. He said in 1955 was in foreign hands in 1955. This foreign control was estimated to rise to 66 per cent by 1980.

"The principal market for Canadian minerals will be in the United States and to a much lesser extent in western Europe. Corporations now in principal operations are in those markets will, therefore, continue to dominate the Canadian mining industry . . ."

Dr. Davis estimates that many of the major importers such as the U.S., restrict imports of finished goods through tariffs and other means, drastically reduced prospects of increasing processing in Canada of Canadian minerals. What major importers favored was the abolishment of the raw materials for finishing in their own mills providing work for their own people.

Thus Canada might be limited to the production of raw materials and in this field the future was bright. Production was expected to rise for all items except gold. Unless there were an increase in its price, output would decline.

In the 25 years, Canada's production of iron ore was estimated to rise to 85,000,000 tons a year from 1,650,000 in 1955; nickel, to 325,000 tons from 175,000; copper, to 850,000 from 325,000; zinc, to 800,000 from 400,000; lead, to 320,000 from 203,000; aluminum, to 2,400,000 from 584,000.

Canada had about 40 per cent of the world's reserves of nickel and ore enough for 56 years; over 15 per cent of the world's reserves of copper, sufficient for 45 years, at 1956 production rates; 6.3 per cent of the world's iron ore, enough for 250 years; 23 per cent of the world's lead, good for 50 years; 40 per cent of the nickel, good for 35 years; 29 per cent of the zinc, enough for 54 years; and over 20 per cent of the titanium, sufficient for 400 years.

Army Has Tactics for Atomic Battlefield Minus Weapons; No Adequate Transport

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army has developed tactics for the atomic battlefield but it hasn't the weapons to carry them out.

Army officers complain mainly about the lack of armored transport at a time when more emphasis is being placed on mobility.

The trouble is—and the army recognies this as keenly as the defence department as a whole—that equipment cannot be given the weapons which will play an effective role in the air defence of Canada.

The army this year took a $60,000,000 cut in its appropriation, to $437,000,000. The purchase of tanks and armed fighting vehicles is down $80,000,000, enough to cover the cost of one centurion tank.

The army "for some years has seen its main problem clearly on the atomic battlefield. It will have to be able to concentrate or disperse rapidly to avoid being swept up by nuclear weapons.

The atomic army must function around the nuclear weapon. Defence will be defence of the weapon, and offence will be manoeuvring the enemy in favorable nuclear ground where he can be hit by the nuclear weapon.

Tactics for such manoeuvres depend on transport. The army has been conducting a great deal of research and new light transport plans, able to land and take off in short distances, and on an overland, over water, armored personnel carrier.

De Havilland Aircraft Company of Canada now is developing the aircraft, known as the Caribou, and it probably will be ready for the field early next year.

The low-slung armored personnel carrier is near the final development stage and it made go into production next year, depending on weapons priorities and other services.

The transport problem has become so acute in the army that jeeps and trucks now have to be used in place of the old Bren carriers. The Bren carriers are armored and tracked and are comparatively few left. Any that break down are "canniballed" for parts for other vehicles.

Beyond the need for transport the army is developing artillery rockets and missiles both for surface-to-surface and anti-aircraft

MISSILE TRAINING

The army has trained several hundred officers and men in missile technology, and runs a regular course at Shilo, Man., for cutaway models of American weapons.

The acquisition of the real thing will depend on several factors: availability of artillery and defence needs; development and supply by U.S. sources, and cost.

Of critical importance, stand, Canadian troops cannot obtain atomic warheads from the U.S. because of American law in this regard. However, the warheads can be kept in American custody at points where they would be readily available to Canadians in event of an emergency. This would apply not only to the army but the navy and RCAF as well.

Stephen Leacock's Home Will Be Opened Officially July 5, Old Brewery Bay Still Same

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — If the ghost of Stephen Leacock ever returns to sip buttered rum before a fireplace in a sprawling home on Old Brewery Bay it won't find much change.

The 17-room stucco house and 62-acre grounds near here were largely neglected after the famous humorist died but a memorial scribbled his last lines in 1944.

But soon a provincial government aid and the continuous efforts of his admirers in Orillia and the Muskoka area of his Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town's pre-war years will be restored, and Leacock's books and papers have been put in order.

NATIONAL SITE

On July 5, Canada's minister of northern affairs and natural resources, Alvin Hamilton, will open the Stephen Leacock Memorial Home as a national historic site.

It is to be preserved, as closely as possible, as it was when the gentle satirist lived and wrote there. His letters and papers are at Montreal's McGill University.

Placed as they were, will be the desk and chair, the personal library, along with a collection of manuscripts, mementos and letters.

Cancelled cheques and household accounts will be on display along with many original manuscripts of his books, published and unpublished, autographed first editions from many authors and personal letters from such persons as Theodore Roosevelt, Sir Edward Beatty, J. B. Priestley, Robert Benchley and Thomas Costain.

MANY FIREPLACES

The house, built to Leacock's whims and tastes, has a fireplace in the living room, the dining room, the study and all the bedrooms. The walls are panelled in oak throughout.

One entire wing — bedroom, bathroom, study and library—is cut off from the rest of the house as the "sweeping suite." Casement windows and French doors open onto balconies and lawn sweeping 100 feet down to Lake Couchiching shore.

There is a basement compartment, behind a sliding panel and, outside, the terrace where Leacock and his guests once put on elaborate stage productions.

Opening of the house climaxes a four-year campaign by Orillia citizens to buy it and have the author's papers catalogued.

The house was sold by Stephen Leacock, Junior, to Louis Ruhr, publisher of a Toronto tabloid. Mr. Ruby in turn sold it to the town of Orillia and included the library as a gift.

The Leacock Memorial Committee, formed four years ago, was led by Ralph Curry, professor of English from Kentucky University, to catalogue the papers.

Dr. Curry, who has already spent months writing a biography of Leacock, moved into the house and the entire was to be the job of sorting a dozen big packing cases of private papers, to end up with a series of surprises, including one almost complete chapter never before published.

Girl Sets Out To Find Fiance

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Marilyn Henry, 19, of nearby Merritton left Thursday night on a 1,600-mile auto trip to Fort Frances, Ont., to search for her fiance, injured in a car crash.

Miss Henry learned Wednesday night that Donald Montague, 25, of Fort Frances, was to have married here Saturday, was injured in an auto crash Tuesday near the Ontario-Manitoba border. She received word by telephone that the caller was unable to tell her to which hospital Mr. Montague was taken.

Provincial police and RCMP were asked to investigate but so far have not been able to discover any details of the mishap.

Miss Henry's father, Percy Henry and her brother-in-law, Ron Ballantyne, left by car for Fort Frances, about 200 miles west of the Lakehead. They expect to arrive there Sunday.

Miss Henry said her Fiance left Niagara Falls several months ago to seek work in his native Calgary. He had found a job, rented an apartment and was returning to St. Catharines for the wedding with his brother, Walter, believed to have suffered internal injuries in the crash.

Urges Liberals Give Full Support to Free Enterprise

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Liberals have been asked to give full allegiance to free enterprise and to back the party's plan for an extension of the welfare state.

The commitments were requested Thursday by Joseph Jetten, Q.C., president of the London Life Insurance Company and chairman of the Toronto University's School of Social Work.

He spoke at the opening of a three-day policy conference of Ontario Liberals at the lake resort, the party's first in 25 years. About 60 of an expected 200 Liberals attended. They will discuss the platform for the next provincial election.

Mr. Jeffrey told the conference free enterprise is needed to preserve the "spirit of man" and Russia. He said:

"There are two ideologies competing in the world today—freedom of enterprise and communism. You cannot support a little bit of one and a little bit of the other. You must take a stand and take a firm one.

"Far more serious than the national defence aspect is the economic and social aspect. Leader John Wintermeyer with a call for "fundamental, sound ideas." He approved three resolutions forwarded from the party's Toronto leadership convention in April.

The resolutions re-affirmed policy adopted by Liberals in the Ontario legislature — compulsory automobile insurance, penal reform and the right of citizens to sue the provincial government for compensation from the attorney-general.

Banker Urges Pushing Trade With Red China

MONTREAL (CP) — James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said Thursday he believes there is a "good and legitimate trade to be done" with Communist China.

He urged Canadian exporters to be aggressive and get their share of Communist China's markets. Other businessmen should do so.

Mr. Muir also said he believes that although freedom in the Western sense is limited, the vast majority of Chinese are satisfied with their government and there is little likelihood it will be toppled.

His views were given in a prepared statement. Mr. Muir recently returned from a 30,000-mile trip through Britain, Czechoslovakia, Russia, China and Japan.

2 Bodies Recovered

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — The bodies of RCMP constables Glen Farough, 21, of Brandon, Man., and Maurice Meinychuk, 22, of Foam Lake, Sask., two of five RCMP officers who were drowned in Lake Simcoe June 7, were found Thursday on the shores of Georgina Island.

The body of Cpl. Herbert Smart 32, of Toronto was found the day after the RCMP 16-foot outboard motorboat capsized during a night storm on the lake, 40 miles north of Toronto.

Still missing are the bodies of George Ransom, 22, of Coronach, Sask., and David Perry, 21, of Leaside.

Roberts Warns Lindsay C of C In Bullfighting

LINDSAY (CP) — In spite of a warning from Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, a bull fight will be held here this afternoon and evening. Aug. 2 and 3 are the days organizers have been told police will watch every move to see that bulls will arrive only one who teases, harasses or provokes the animals.

He said he approved the stand taken by the Lindsay crown attorney June 13, when he declared the Criminal Code would be interpreted as including "teasing, harassing or provoking" the imported Mexican bulls.

Mr. Roberts added:

"I don't think the people of Ontario and I am certain they are going to be started in the town of Lindsay.

Ed May, secretary-manager of the local chamber of commerce which is behind the fights, said Thursday night.

"We have no intention of cancelling the fights.

"There will be no cruelty involved. The event will demonstrate the art of bullfighting, the difference being that the bulls will not be killed. There will be no attempt to provoke the animals."

Britain, Canada Currently At Odds Over Some Issues

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

By one of life's little ironies, Britain and Canada are having a few headaches.

Normally a devoted couple, even in their squabbles, members of the Commonwealth, they are currently at odds over Britain's decision to begin charging tariffs and fishing limits.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government, comparatively new to office, finds to its surprise that Britain can drive a hard bargain.

Whitehall is equally chagrined that Ottawa doesn't always see eye to eye with London.

Superficially this seems perplexing, since the governments of both countries are conservative—and have similar objectives.

A year ago, when Mr. Diefenbaker flew to London for the Commonwealth talks with British prime ministers, the predominant impression created was that he portrayed him as a new Abraham Lincoln. He and Prime Minister Macmillan, the papers predicted, would have a regular love-fest.

Instead, their tactics diverged. Mr. Macmillan came to Canada-in mid-May preaching Western "economic interdependence," free trade and lower tariffs. Heads nodded sagely in Ottawa, but four days later Canada found herself a real roadblock in the path of the new British policies.

Instead of lowering tariffs, Finance Minister Fleming's 8648-million-dollar budget raised them, foreshadowing a possible return of traditional Tory protectionism. British woollen goods—described in the Canadian Commons as the finest in the world—were among the items affected.

Then, without consulting Ottawa, for economic interdependence, Mr. Macmillan is said to feel the Canadian action is unfair, but he knows as much as anyone that Commonwealth preferences are not governments must have.

He may not be unduly perturbed. Yet it seems a political miscalculation for Britain to slap new trade policies of former Liberal governments on a country that is more congenial to Mr. Macmillan than those of the Diefenbaker administration.

Another field of Anglo-Canadian friction appears to be developing in coastal waters. At the recent International Conference of the Law of the Sea, Canada's delegate vainly sought a 12-mile exclusive fishing limit, under the Maritime nations.

Britain, along with the United States, fought hard against the Canadian proposal, and the battle is not yet over.

A British official wryly commented: "It is reported that the Canadian stand seemed "tough." The reporter, caught in a crossfire of criticism from both sides, by a Canadian official that Britain employed "dirty" tactics at Geneva.

Too much should not be made of present glimmers. Anglo-Canadian understanding is deep and permanent. The lovers' tiff, a surface irritation in a Darby-and-Joan relationship, is unlikely to wind up in the divorce courts.

COMPARES RUSSIAN, CANADIAN TEXTBOOKS

Have Canadian students write examination papers given to Russian students of the same age and the Canadian students wouldn't know what the questions were all about. That's the opinion of Tony Frisch, science teacher of New Toronto, who has examined Russian text books. "We are doing an excellent job of preparing students to be good wage-earners, wives and husbands, but the Russians are away ahead of us in science and maths teaching," says Mr. Frisch, who is preparing a report to show relationship between the Canadian school curricula with that of the Russians.

500,000 British Subjects Can Make or Break Britain's New Plan for Control of Cyprus

LONDON (Reuters) — The new British plan for Cyprus is throwing the spotlight on 500,000 troubled British subjects who inhabit the Mediterranean island colony.

These 500,000 Cypriots, who can make or break the plan, for centuries have been divided into two main communities by religion, language, education, traditions and custom.

The largest community numbers about 400,000 Cypriots of Greek descent, who speak Greek, practise the Greek Orthodox religion and send their children to Greek schools in Cyprus.

About 18 per cent, or 90,000 Cypriots, are of Turkish descent. They, are Sunni Moslems. Like the Greeks, they have their own newspapers and schools.

Both communities, though they are frequently at odds, are united in opposing Britain's new plan eventually to establish a coodominium — sovereignty of two or more nations over a foreign territory — in Cyprus.

OWN LEGISLATURE

Under the British plan, Cyprus would be ruled for the next seven years by Britain with Greece and Turkey assisting the governor.

Greece and Turkey would have a representative each to advise the governor.

Two communal legislatures, one Greek Cypriot and one Turkish Cypriot, would be sovereign in all matters concerning the two communities. During the period, Britain would exercise final authority over defence, foreign affairs and internal security.

At the end of seven years, Britain would consider sharing sovereignty with Greece and Turkey.

The Greek Cypriots favor enosis — union of Cyprus with Greece. Unyieldingly opposed to this, Turkish Cypriots and Turkey demand partition of the island between Greeks and Turks.

VILLAGE PROBLEM

In the island's six big towns, there are separate quarters for Greek and Turk. In the 167 villages, almost all tend to be wholly Greek or wholly Turk.

In those villages with mixed Greek and Turkish populations, a separate commission (town council) is appointed where the minority numbers more than 30.

About 75,000 Cypriot children go to elementary schools—60,000 to Greek Cypriot schools and 15,000 to Turkish. This "segregation" continues into secondary school. For higher education, students go to Greece, Turkey or Britain.

RELIGION RULES

The Greek Cypriot community is tightly controlled by its religious leaders. The Christian Church, one of the oldest in the world, was established by St. Paul and St. Barnabas, a Cypriot from Salamis, in the first century.

The Greek Orthodox Church in Cyprus has always been in the forefront of demands for independence. Its present leader, Archbishop Makarios, who was elected in 1959, heads the enosis fight against British rule.

Most of Cyprus' Turks are descendants of those who settled on the island after the 1571 conquest, when Turkish troops drove out the Venetians.

Both Greek and Turkish Cypriots are sprinkled throughout the island's civil service—including the judiciary in roughly the same 4-to-1 ratio as the population.

But in the police, representatives of the Turkish Cypriots now are more numerous than representatives of the Greek Cypriot majority.

Two years ago, an eminent British jurist, Lord Radcliffe, was appointed to draft a constitution for internal self - government for the island. The plan, which included some of the features to be found in Britain's new proposals, was rejected by both Greece and Turkey.

Doctors Little Too Informal In Dress Habits

TORONTO (CP) — The Essex County Medical Bulletin in its current issue says some Ontario doctors are becoming a little too informal in their habits of dress.

"A few doctors are appearing in our hospitals dressed in sports shirts without ties and with the shirt-tail blowing gaily in the wake of the wearer," an article says.

It suggests property - tailored tropical clothing, suitable for Florida temperatures and equally suitable for summer weather in Canada, should grace the hospital corridors.

And if the doctors don't own a tropical suit?

They can at least tuck in their shirttails, says the bulletin.

Sunday School Lesson

Sin's Unintentional Allies

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most fascinating facts about the Bible is it complete candor and absolute honesty. It has its heroes, and it has its sinners, but it tells the truth about each of these groups, confessing the sins of the saints and reporting the virtues of the sinners.

King David, whose story forms one of the prominent tales of the Old Testament, was a lusty sort of individual, and the Bible says so quite frankly. He was also capable of some very splendid behaviour and some extremely high-minded administration.

During some of the early critical years of the nation's life before there was anything like an organized central government, the life of the people was guided in large part by those occasional strong individuals who rose to power by the sheer force of personality. One such, the Priest Eli, had proved to be a man of unselfish purpose and personal integrity, who rendered a great service to the nation as a judge and leader.

His sons, however, were of a different stripe. Seduced by their opportunity to handle funds, they had become grafters and, finally, they had sunk into depravity. For none of this was their father responsible. He was, in his own life, above reproach.

The old man's fault lay in the fact that he took no action to protect the nation against the evil of his sons. He did not rebuke or restrain them. And in the eyes of God this made him as guilty as the boys.

SIN OF INACTION

It sometimes happens that inaction is as vicious as action. In a certain great American city a churchman was elected to the office of mayor. In many ways he was a man of exemplary character, and of unquestioned conduct.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 29: "A Spokesman For God." 1 Samuel 2:12 through 3:21.

Unfortunately, however, in being elected to the office of mayor he had become obligated to certain individuals in the city who command large blocks of votes and who, at the same time, profited by certain popular immoralities.

Inside the office of the mayor this churchman faced an extremely difficult dilemma. He could break with his political allies, prosecute the evildoers, and run the risk of personal abuse and political oblivion. Or he could sit tight, do nothing, and at election time say, "I did all I could do." After a few days of floundering he chose the latter course.

The charge that was made against him, and which was his undoing, was not that he did evil, but that he did nothing. It happens many times that inaction is as sinful as sinful action. Sin has so many allies among the respectable people of the community.

STILL, SMALL VOICES

The Old Testament story of the little boy Samuel has made popular the idea that the "still, small voice" is the voice of God. There are times and occasions, of course, when it is. But there are other times when the inpratisting little voice originates with interests very sinister.

Jealousy, for example, seldom speaks in thunderous tones. More often, and quite usually, it speaks quietly and insinuatingly in the night, when the voices of reason and judgment are silent. Envy is always secretive, never explosive, seldom raucous.

Lust is very apt to make the individual boisterous, but it begins with the almost inaudible suggestion, the half-hearted remark, the quiet undertone of desire.

Greed may become brutal, but in its early stages it arrays itself in the robes of justice and reason. We assume ourselves. Just a bit timidly, that "we had it coming, didn't we?"

All of this is to say that the still, small voices need the same careful scrutiny that some of the larger and more strident voices require.

And it is also true today that all of us are, every day, hearing the calls of God and not listening to them.

Softball Results

Ontario Hydro scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh frame to shade Mead Johnson 5-4 in a thrilling City Commercial softball league fixture last night.

The game was a tight pitcher's duel all the way between Hydro's "Bruno" McCurdy and Meads' "Bunk" Young. McCurdy threw three-hit ball for the victory and tripled in the last-frame rally. Young tossed four - hit ball for Mead Johnson.

Meads' scored their lone run in the top of the first and held on until the final frame in one of the loop's best games of the season.

All boys who wish to play Juvenile baseball this summer with Belleville's OBA Juvenile "A" team are urged to attend the practice scheduled for Sunday morning at 10:30.

The club will practice at the Fairgrounds and it has been announced that the complete OBA team must be signed Sunday. All positions are wide open at the present time so if you want a spot on the team don't miss Sunday morning's practice.

A Junior team is also being formed to enter the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns and it will also practice at the Fairgrounds Sunday. Everyone of junior age is welcome with workouts getting under way at 1:30 p.m.

think there should be a rule here, as there is in New York City, that names of minors who are involved in misdemeanors should not be publicized."

Bob added that it's difficult to rear children, famous or no, in this era and in Hollywood.

"It's hard to give them values in this period of uncertainty," he commented. "The boys know that they can look forward to two or three years in the army; their future is unsettled.

"Girls can be a problem, too," Bob sighed. "Just when you've got one issue settled, they bring up another. I've got a six-year-old daughter, too, and I'm feeding her coffee every day so she won't grow."

Dorothy Collins Has Still Warm Spot for Hit Parade

By HOWARD BENEDICT

NEW YORK (AP) — Dorothy Collins has a warm spot in her heart for the Hit Parade program, but she's not so sure she wants to return to it.

"After seven years I naturally am very fond of the Hit Parade," the Windsor, Ont., native said, "but since leaving it last year, I've found so much professional satisfaction in other phases of show business that I don't know whether I could be tied down to a regular show again."

The Hit Parade management dropped Dorothy, her husband, Raymond Scott; Winnipeg - born Gisele MacKenzie; Snooky Lanson and other program regulars last year in favor of an untried team of newcomers. Now the management would—like to have Dorothy back when the program shifts from NBC to CBS in the fall.

Dorothy, who progressed from singing commercials to a starring role on the program, doesn't shut the door completely.

"Actually, I'm leaving the decision up to my manager, Hillard Elkins," she said. "If he thinks I should and will have the time, then there's a chance I will return to the show."

In the meantime, Dorothy is ready to swing back into the professional whirl after a long intentially layoff. Earlier this month she gave birth to her second daughter, Elizabeth. Her daughter Debbie will be 4 in October.

Her first stop will be on the Steve Allen television show this Sunday night.

"I'll sing a couple of songs, including a new one written by my husband called Never Love a Stranger. It will be wonderful to get back to work again."

She would like to do a Broadway play, and is considering a few scripts.

2nd Generation of Crosbys Hitting Headlines Lately

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The second generation of Crosbys has been much in the news lately, and Bob Crosby thinks he knows why.

"It's the natural urge that all kids have to compete with their fathers," said Bing's younger brother. "It's nothing new, nor is it peculiar to show business. There's many a butcher's son who is frustrated because he can't cut as thin a slice of bacon as his father.

"But when the father is famous, the urge to compete comes in the form of publicity. It's easy to get into the papers when you have a famous name. But it can be quite embarrassing to the family.

"I tell my own children and I tell Bing's that they shouldn't let the fact that their fathers are in the limelight affect them. They should be neither extroverts or introverts because of it, but just try to create their own individuality."

SON ACTED FOOLISHLY

Of course, that is easier said than done. The young Crosbys have made the headlines and gossip columns already, and will be making them more times in the future. Bob's own 15-year-old Chris made be papers last week.

"It was a stupid ything and Chris himself admits it," Bob said. "He doesn't know why he did it, except that he had just broken up with his girl and wanted to teach her a lesson or something.

"He had just gotten his own new car as a reward for getting a B average in school. He was seven days away from getting his own license, so he had to have an older boy drive for him.

"Well, he and the other boy drove by a new car and they decided to see how fast it could go. They were starting to push it away when they were caught.

"It was a senseless thing to do, but think of the senseless things that you did when you were a kid—the things you could have been arrested for.

"It's just too bad that there had to be so much publicity. I

Soccer Players Banned for Life, Teams Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Two soccer players were suspended for life and three soccer teams banned for the duration of the season by the Toronto and District Soccer Association Thursday night.

The penalties were announced in the light of growing ill-feeling by fans and players at local soccer games, officials said.

Bill Bazutta and Vito Colacicco of Puglia in the Continental League were found guilty of offences on the field against referees and players.

The teams banned were Hellas and Puglia of the Continental League and Croatia of the Metropolitan League. Hellas and Croatia were fined $200 each, which must be paid before they can regain membership next year. The suspended teams were found guilty of causing upstings in league and cup matchers.

Croatia is still to come before the board because of an incident Sunday in which referee Peter Taylor was manhandled by fans.

The two lowest scores in each age group of 16, 17, 18, -14 and under in the Ontario final will represent the province in the first annual Ontario-Quebec junior team matches at the Toronto Golf Club Aug. 6.

Yankees Laying Record Mark Of Duck Eggs

NEW YORK (CP) — This may be the easiest of all American League pennants won by the New York Yankees during Casey Stengel's reign but the club could become the most shut out team since the grizzled manager took over, in 1949.

Despite their four blankings within a nine-day period recently, the Yankees still have a ways to go to equal their 10-year high of 12 in 1953. They've been held runless in five games so far.

The least number of times a Yankee team has been blanked in Stengel's time was two in 1949 and in 1957. In all, the Yankees have been shut out 57 times since Stengel became boss.

When Detroit's Frank Lary held the Yankees scoreless for the second time this season, he became the 19th pitcher to do the trick. Mel Parnell, the Boston Red Sox southpaw, did it four times in 1952, a feat accomplished by only one other hurler, the immortal Walter Johnson in 1908.

No other hurler has been able to shut out any of Stengel's Yankee teams three times in one season.

While the opposition has been able to blank Stengel's Yankees 57 times, his hurlers have turned in 132 shutouts during the same nine and a half year period.

"Now let's see what you scored, boss. Nine and eight are 14— and seven is 19— and six is 21—"

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, winner of $26,260.83 on the pro tour, took a big step toward adding another $9,000 to his total when he shot a record 66 in the first round of the $50,000 Long Island open tournament Thursday.

The 28-year-old Masters champion from Latrobe, Pa., had a 20-foot putt hang on the lip on the 18th green. But his 34-32—66 bettered the Pine Hollow course mark by one stroke and gave him a two-stroke lead on the field of 168. Par is 71.

Deadlocked in second place with 68s were veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, playing out of St. Louis, and unsung George Bernardin, a 29-year - old from Miami Springs, Fla.

Sixteen players bettered par, among them, Sam Snead, with 69 and new national Open champion Tommy Bolt, with a 70.

Four Canadians are taking part.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto posted 72s, two over par. Jerry Magee of Toronto had 73-69—79 and Bill Eckick, now a golf pro at Stoneham, Mass., 44-36—80.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Wren Blair, the guy with the wandering forelock, the pungent pen and the sometimes vitriolic vocabulary, is now a full-time hockey executive.

The Whitby "Prince Charming" of the Icelanes, who flitted the Allan Cup glass slipper to his Dunlop Cinderellas, will quit his job with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and devote his time exclusively to the general management of two hockey clubs.

The Dunlops' management nailed the little guy to the hometown mast with a three-year contract, his first, while the Clinton Comets (Shades of Hal-Ealing Johnny Green) have signed him to manage their club for the next two seasons.

Blair will scramble his hockey eggs in one basket for training purposes. Both clubs will undergo preliminary workouts in Whitby. Clinton is a member of the United States Eastern League, which includes such clubs as Washington, Johnstown, Charlotte, N.C., Philadelphia and New Haven.

While the little gnome-like mimic would be most of his time to his beloved Dunnies, he will trek to Clinton once every two days to see that the wheels of machinery are running smoothly, and no big city-slicker sportswriters are putting the whammy on his star-spangled protegees.

Blair's meteoric rise to fame and headlines following his sensational feat of leading the Dunlops to a national and later world amateur hockey championship, had him headed at one time for there's-always-room-for-one-more front office at the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club.

Tossing Blair in with people like Stafford Smythe would have been the ultimate job of mis-casting since Bill Veeck went in the midget to bat.

However, the deal fell through, because, it was stated, the principals could not see pocket-to-pocket financially. Then, too, Blair insisted that the Dunlops remain the Whitby Dunlops and they would travel with them. That may have had something to do with the shattering of a beautiful friendship.

The double deal is a training break for both clubs. The Dunlops take the ice for their opening workout on September 29 with the Comets opening their training a week later. The clubs will likely work out together and no doubt stage exhibition tilts in the course of training.

Blair has made it no secret that he has his eyes on his second Allan Cup in three years.—While not a few of the old guard that made hockey history in Europe will be on hand, some new figures will be wearing the Dunlopian livery. Sid Smith will be back as playing coach, while Pete Babando will be one of the incoming talents.

It is stated that the guy that went along for the ride to Europe, Long John Henderson, won't be breathing Whitby air the coming season, while rumor insists that Harry Sinden will be sporting a jersey of different hue come puck-chasing time. Russ Garrow, who did not get out of his way to throw himself in Blair's arms at the recent Eastern League meeting, is the new Kingston playing coach.

But other clubs need not worry about the Dunnies not being a stiff group contender. Blair will see to that. He figure what he did once he can do again despite the fact other clubs of the Eastern League are making all efforts to cop the group honors.

Blair should do well in Clinton. — He is working with a prince of fellows, Ed Stanley, president of the club and owner of the new arena, which sponsors the team.

During the balmy days of senior "B" when the Clinton Comets played in the Eastern League, this department, as statistician, had a lot to do with Ed Stanley. He was a gentleman of the first water, a fine sportsman and a great hockey man.

Clinton, although only numbering 2,000 souls, is a great hockey town with the neighboring city of Ulica, 110,000, to draw from. The heated Clinton arena seats nearly 4,000 and there's nary an empty pew on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon when the Comets strut their stuff.

Blair will have Smith and Stan Warlett, newly appointed assistant manager, to help him in Whitby, while he will have an assistant, and will appoint a playing coach in Clinton to help steer the ship.

Wallops Three in 8-6 Win As Bombers Nudge Chisox; 'Bums' Slice Milwaukee Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here's a switch. Kansas City continues New York Yankees with a hot streak tonight, instead of the other way around, now that the As have won six straight for the first time since 1953. They've done it thanks to the unexpected slugging of Hector Lopez.

After hitting only four home runs in 66 games, Lopez walloped three Thursday night, driving in five runs and beating Washington 6-4 with a two-run shot in the 12th inning. Nobody in an Athletics' uniform had hit three in one game since Sam Chapman in 1946, when the As were Philadelphia property.

Only Boston's Ted Williams, who did it twice last year, and Washington's Jim Lemon, a pair of recognized sluggers, had done it in the American League over the past two seasons.

The Yankees, who open a three-game set at Kansas City tonight with a 7½-game lead over the second-place Bombers, defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-3 Thursday. Southpaw Jack Harshman, who had lost six straight decisions to Detroit on five hits for a 2-0 Baltimore victory. And Boston defeated Cleveland 3-1 shortly before the Indians fired manager Bobby Bragan and hired Joe Gordon.

The As, riding their longest string since winning seven in a row in 53 back in Philadelphia, also collected two big runs on a triple by Bob Cerv, Roy Sievers, playing third base, drove in four Senator runs with his 16th and 15th homers.

SCORES 2 IN SIXTH

The Yankees, held to one hit for five innings, handed Dick Donovan his eighth defeat with three runs in the sixth, cracking a 1-1 tie on a two-run single by Bill Skowron. Norm Sieben's fourth homer clinched it in the eighth for Johnny Kucks, who needed relief help for his sixth victory—third against Sox and all of those against Donovan. Jim Rivera tripled and scored the first Sox run, then drove in the other two with his fourth homer.

Williams broke up a 1-1 tie with his ninth home run in the ninth as relief ace Ike Delock, making his first start since last August, out-dueled Cal McLish (3-5) with an five-hitter. Williams was also honored for the Red Sox, who tied Detroit for third.

Harshman, now 6-6, gave up three doubles but seldom was in trouble while gaining his second 1957 shutout, both over Detroit and Billy Hoeft, who now has lost two in a row for a 6-7 record. A walk, Dick Williams' single and a sacrifice fly from Gus Triandos gave Harshman the run he needed in the first inning. Bob Boyd homered for the other run.

Los Angeles Dodgers are breathing again. They have five of their last six games in a drive to leave last place in the National League race.

Righthander Don Drysdale, the hoped-for ace who lost seven of his first eight decisions, stayed in step with the revival, winning two in a row for the first time this season as the Dodgers beat Milwaukee Braves 4-1 Thursday night and cut their first-place lead to 1½ games. The Dodgers have beaten the Braves six straight games this season.

Drysdale, walking only two men in a recovery from earlier wildness, finally bagged his second completed game and a 4-6 record.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals kept rolling, beating Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2 for a four-game sweep against the Pirates. That kept them .003 percentage points ahead of San Francisco Giants, who won two in a row for the first time in a month with a 5-1 victory at Cincinnati Redlegs.

BEAT BURDETTE

The Dodgers' got to Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette for a run in each of the first three innings. Charlie Neal's 11th homer bagged it in the second. Drysdale homered in the seventh, his first of the year.

Burdette (5-6) has lost two in a row. The Braves have lost five of their last eight engagements.

The Giants scored a run in the first inning with the help of an error, then cracked a 1-1 tie with four in the eighth, capped by Orlando Cepeda's 15th homer.

Johnny Antonelli won his eighth game. He has six runs and gave up seven hits as the Redlegs lost their third in a row. Harvey Haddix lost his fourth.

The Cards came from behind when an error by Pete Rose opened the way for three runs in the seventh. Ken Boyer tripled and Gene Green, Curt Flood and Hobie Landrith followed with singles off loser Jim Pyfrod (7-5).

Lindy McDaniel, giving up Frank Thomas' first homer, won his fourth with the help of Larry Jackson.

Bill Mazeroski had two errors in a two-run Cardinal ninth, giving the Pirates a total of 11 errors in the four-game set.

Indians Tomahawk Bob Bragan; Joe Gordon Takes Over As Manager

Succession of Little Things Reason for Sudden Firing; Pirates Did Same Last Year

CLEVELAND (APU, — Joe Gordon, former star second baseman for New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, flew here today to take over as manager of the Indians for tonight's game with Baltimore Orioles.

General manager Frank Lane announced Thursday night he had fired Bobby Bragan and hired Gordon for the rest of this season and for 1959.

"We are making this change with the hope that there will be a general improvement in the club," Lane said.

The 43-year-old Gordon, an insurance salesman in Sacramento, Calif., since he left baseball after piloting San Francisco to a Pacific Coast League pennant last year, said he was "excited and a little thrilled" to take the job.

Lane said the decision to fire Bragan was made in the last few days and resulted from a "succession of little things."

NOT PINPOINTED

He declined to pinpoint any one thing that led to the move, but he has been critical of Bragan's platooning, his constant efforts to find a place for rookie outfielder Carl Geiger in the lineup and his handling of some pitchers.

Bragan had called for a special meeting with the players prior to a game in Kansas City last month also was believed a factor. Lane was upset when he learned Bragan accused the players of being "complacent and indifferent." He felt the club's general attitude and spirit were good.

Bragan, 43, was hired as manager by Hank Greenberg, Lane's predecessor, at the end of last season in the Mexico City meeting. He was informed of his dismissal shortly after the game last 2-1 to Boston Red Sox Thursday night.

Bragan admitted the bad news hit him at first but said he harbored no bitterness. He had only words of praise for Lane as a general manager.

COACHES STAY

Gordon said he will keep the Indians' staff of coaches—Eddie Stanky, Mel Harder and Red Kress.

Still with the Indians from Gordon's playing days here are Bobby Avila, his replacement at second base, first baseman Mickey Vernon, the team's leading hitter, pitcher Bob Feller Early Doby and pitcher Bob Lemon.

Gordon played second base for the Yankees and Indians during his 1938-50 career in the American League and was a member of the Tribe's world championship team in 1948, when he set a record for Cleveland second basemen by hitting 32 home runs and driving in 124 runs.

Bragan has an off-season income and real estate business in Fort Worth, Tex. Lane said Bragan gave the best of his ability as manager, but "we should have done better with the material we have in spite of injuries to a couple of key men."

MAIN INJURIES

Chief among the Tribe's injuries has been arm trouble that has kept Herb Score, the Indians' ace southpaw, idle most of the season, and an ankle fracture that has put first baseman Vic Wertz on the sidelines since spring training.

Bragan constantly juggled his lineup in an effort to solve his infield problem—using as many as nine different players at second base and five at first—but was unable to come up with a consistation that was able to keep the Indians above the .500 mark. They are 12 games behind the leagueleading Yankees and only three percentage points ahead of seventh-place Baltimore.

Bragan piloted Pittsburgh Pirates to a seventh-place finish in the National League in 1956. He was fired as Pittsburgh manager in mid-season last year.

Royals Snatch Pair From Vees; Toronto Splits

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals of the International League seem to have that long losing streak out of their system and the opposing pitchers are finding out first hand.

Bob Lennon and George (Sheriff) Anderson pounded out 12 hits between them in leading the Royals to a 4-1 and 10-6 doubleheader triumph over Richmond Virginians Thursday night.

Lennon had two singles, a double, triple and his 16th home run. Anderson had five singles and a double.

Lennon raised his batting average 13 points to .321 and once again leads the league. The double victory gave Montreal a two-game lead. At one time in their losing streak, they trailed Toronto by a half game.

Miami Marlins defeated Buffalo Bisons 8-5 and Rochester Red Wings shut out Havana Sugar Kings 9-0 and Toronto Maple Leafs split a doubleheader with Columbus—Jets winning the nightcap 7-5 after dropping the seven inning opener 4-0.

Don Cardwell fanned 11 men in clinching up his eighth triumph for the Marlins. His mates backed him up with a 14-hit attack.

Gary Blaylock and Bob Gibson combined to hold the Sugar Kings for the Red Wings. Blaylock went the first seven innings giving up five hits but left the game after being hit in the arm by a pitched ball. Gibson finished, yielding one hit.

Archie Wilson hit a pair of home runs in the second game to give the Maple Leafs a split. Pat Scantlebury gained his 10th triumph in this one.

Wilson drove in two first-inning runs with his 10th homer and followed Charlie Thompson's three-run smash in the seventh inning with his second. Thompson, who had three hits in four trips, had batted ahead of Wilson in the first.

Marin Pepper handcuffed Toronto on three hits in the opener. Sam Jethroe who went into centre field for Leafs when Angel Scull broke his ankle in the first inning, collected two of them.

It was Jack Crimian's fourth loss against six wins.

Cincy Mohawks Won't Operate Next Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Grace, president of Cincinnati Mohawks of the International Hockey League, said Thursday he could see no possibility of the team operating here next season.

"Our directors, both here and in Canada, feel that hockey would be better served here if it would take a sabbatical year," Grace said.

The league has been on shaky ground since Troy said it would drop out and Indianapolis said it probably would have to quit.

Withdrawal of those two clubs would have left only Port Wayne, Louisville, Cincinnati and Toledo as members.

Grace said he also understood the Louisville club "has run out of financial backing, too."

Williams Misses All-Stars Pittsburgh Pirates Place 3

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Williams failed to make the starting lineup for the July 8 all-star baseball game today in the team selected for the first time by the major league players, coaches and managers.

The 39-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger, who has played 13 all-star games, undoubtedly will be named to the squad for the contest in Baltimore when the managers announce the remainder of their 25-man teams Sunday.

Pittsburgh Pirates placed three starters on the National League side where only Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals, Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee Braves are repeaters from the 1957 team.

ONLY MANTLE AND FOX

Only centre fielder Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees and Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox were named from the 1957 starters in the American League which will be missing such familiars as Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Reds, Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers and Williams.

Results of the voting were announced today by baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Musial, who will be playing his 15th all-star game, was a near unanimous choice for first base. Pittsburgh's Vern Stephens, No. 2 teammates were not permitted to vote for a man on their own team, there were few men who didn't put him on top of the ballot.

MALZONE TOP IN A.L.

Top man in the American League was Boston's Frank Malzone at third base. He polled 184 of 225 votes.

Williams' only way to Bob Cerv, left fielder with Kansas City Athletics who has been having a tremendous year. He has been leading the league in runs batted in and home runs most of the time.

Other players on the American League team: Bill Skowron, New York, first base; Luis Aparicio, Chicago, shortstop; Gus Triandos, Baltimore, catcher; Jackie Jensen, Boston, right field.

Last year Cincinnati Redlegs placed seven starters on the team by the fans' vote but Frick ruled out two men and named Mays and Aaron. No Redlegs were named this year.

The National League infield will line up this way: Musial, first base; Bill Mazeroski, Pittsburgh, second base; Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs, shortstop, and Frank Thomas, Pittsburgh, third base.

In the starting outfield will be Aaron in right, Mays in centre and Bob Skinner, Pittsburgh, in left. Del Crandall of Milwaukee will be the starting catcher.

U.S. Prepares Satellite to Photograph Earth

This drawing shows a U.S. Pied Piper satellite, now being built for the USAF as it will appear at its launching. It will be rocketted from a California base as soon as the launching pads for the Thor missile, first stage of the Pied Piper, have been built. The missile is made up of many stages to project a Sentry satellite into space from which it will be able to photograph the earth. The first camera installed in the Sentinel will probably not radio photo to earth but will be retrieved by parachute.

Next December or January may see the first launching of the Pied Piper with the Sentry satellite. The nose cone of the satellite will be put into orbit so that it will open up like a clam shell allowing photographs to be taken of the earth. The satellite will be large enough to accommodate a television camera or even a man.

Later, she is to drive through the waterfront Canadian National Exhibition grounds to west-end Parkdale station and board her train at 2:30 p.m. for Stratford.

The royal train is due in Stratford at 5:40 p.m. and the princess is to leave the CNR station immediately for Stratford bandshell and a meeting with civic officials. She is to return to the train for dinner and is to attend a performance of Shakespeare's A Winter's Tale at the Stratford Festival Theatre in the evening.

She is to meet festival officials during two intermissions and the cast after the performance.

The royal train is to leave at midnight for Niagara Falls, stopping at an undisclosed spot during the night. It is to arrive in Niagara Falls at 10:18 a.m. Friday and the princess is scheduled to go to the Oakes garden theatre, again to meet dignitaries.

There she is to sign the Mohawk Indian Bible presented to the tribe by Queen Anne. Indians in full regalia are expected from the Six Nations reserve at Brantford.

The royal party is to proceed then to Table Rock House to view the falls. The princess is to descend with a few local officials to the observation plaza at the base of the falls.

The Ontario Hydro's Sir Adam Beck No. 2 generator station, downstream, is the next scheduled stop. Here the princess is to go down by elevator 250 feet to view the station, returning to the Sheraton Brock Hotel for luncheon before leaving for Hamilton.

Higher Prices For Natural Gas Thought Likely

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP) — Canada's fledgling natural gas industry is preparing for its biggest boom in history. But the country's gas producers, pipeline operators, utilities and appliance manufacturers may find the going rough and hint at higher prices for gas.

During the annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association which ended here Thursday, the 250 delegates discussed problems to be faced in promoting the use of natural gas.

The signs point to higher consumer prices for this relatively new Canadian source of energy and possibly also for gas appliances.

A conflict between the gas producers and pipeline companies came into the open during the sessions when senior Vice-President E. D. Kingsbury of the British American Oil Company Limited said oil companies are reforced to sell gas at "bargain basement prices."

He said producers accepted the prices which barely cover the "break-even point" of company operations in an effort to develop markets thousands of miles from the Prairie gas fields.

Trans - Canada Pipe Lines Limited had negotiated prices ranging from 10 to 15¼ cents a thousand cubic feet for gas at the well.

CONFIRM PRICE TALKS

Officials of the pipeline company confirmed that talks on prices are in progress with the gas producers, but declined to give any details.

Qualified economists, however, said the company is having difficulty negotiating prices for additional supplies of gas at these prices and industrial price increases are inevitable. These increases in turn would probably be reflected in higher prices for consumers along the 2,250-mile pipeline stretching from Ignace to Montreal.

Dennis K. Yorath of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Western National Gas Corporation, told the Murray Bay meeting at a point where gas price increases to consumers have got to come if pipelines and producers are to get a fair return on investment.

BATAWA

United Church Pastor Attends Centennial

BATAWA — The Rev. H. M. Beach, minister of Batawa United Church, returned on Thursday from Oxford Mills, Ontario, where he had attended the 100th anniversary of the church there. Assisting in the services, Mr. Beach returned to the church where he had been the minister during the years from 1928 to 1932.

An interesting fact of this church is that it pre-dates the Methodist Union of 1884, being founded by a group of United Empire Loyalists who crossed the St. Lawrence at Prescott and took up land in the Oxford Mills vicinity, west of Kemptville.

Mr. Beach states the services, of a high order, and the return to his former church was one which gave him great joy.

Oath Taken Too Lightly Judge Claims

VICTORIA (CP) — Many New Canadians who take the oaths of allegiance to Canada do not mean what they say, County Court Judge J. B. Clearihue said this Thursday in administering the oath to 32 persons from 13 countries.

"They are not prepared" to renounce their countries of origin, said the oath of allegiance to Canada "is taken too lightly."

He cited incidents that occurred the recent arrival in Vancouver of a giant Russian plane.

"Russian - Canadians met this plane, clad in national costumes, and bowed to the pilot. These Canadians were expressing loyalty to Russia in no uncertain terms."

Their oath of allegiance is "worthless," the judge declared, "if with more of you" he told the group, would join Canadian societies rather than nationalistic societies which tend to preserve native customs and loyalties to native countries.

Judge Clearihue said that by taking the oath of allegiance to Canada, those present could be called upon in an emergency to fight even brothers and sisters in their native land.

Lebanese Army's Big Guns Ready; Stop 4 Attacks

Jets Help to Beat Back Gravest Challenge Yet

BEIRUT, Lebanese (AP) — The Lebanese Army said its big guns ready today after stopping four attacks in the gravest challenge so far to President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western government.

An army communique reported the attacks were put down Friday with the help of jet planes, artillery and armored cars—one of the latest army's highest strength, during the seven-week revolt.

Heavy fighting broke out in the morning and again in the afternoon and evening in the capital's East Ben quarter. Armored cars wiped out a rebel street barricade to claim one victory.

At Rashaya, in southern Lebanon, the communique said, an attack on the army garrison was driven off in a sharp exchange of gunfire. Another attack at the north Lebanese port of Tripoli was stopped, the army said. Rebel rockets advanced within 50 yards of the barracks there.

The communique also claimed that government troops outnumbered 5 to 1, turned back a heavy rebel assault on Mount Terrel in the Bekaa valley in what was very support.

The rebels claim control of three-quarters of this Middle Eastern republic and say they have 14,000 men under arms. Chamoun quits. The president, whose term of office has been extended by constitutionalism, has conceded the rebels dominate at least one-quarter of Lebanon.

The establishment of a claim was made by former premier Saeb Salam, Sunni Moslem leader Ammoun, leader of the Christian opposition in this half-Moslem, half-Christian country.

Chamoun has accused the United Arab Republic of sending in arms and men to aid the rebels. A United Nations observer group is investigating the charges said Thursday it had found some evidence to back up the UAR's neighboring Syrian province.

Taft countered this by charging that Jordan, Iraq and Turkey are helping the rebels. The UN observers have not reported seeing such indications of such aid.

Trucks Collide At Quebec City, 6 Persons Die

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)—Six persons were killed today when a gravel towing truck and a pickup truck collided near this industrial town 30 miles east of Quebec City.

Police said the victims, not immediately identified, were all riding in the pickup truck. The accident occurred shortly after 8 a.m.

The pickup truck was cut in two by the force of the collision and the towing truck was overturned. The driver of the towing truck escaped uninjured.

MANY-SIDED BUDGET DEBATE STILL CONTINUES

Tariff Proposals Bone of Contention

OTTAWA (CP)—Its getting so that expenses control governments absorb much as governments control expenses.

This, in effect, was a point made by Arnold Peters (CCF—Timmins) Friday as the Commons continued the many-sided budget debate.

Referring to the first Progressive Conservative budget presented June 17 by Finance Minister Fleming, Mr. Peters said:

"It reminds me of the fact that governing is irrespective of their political color, are faced with certain housekeeping expenses which they have to bear. So these, the Conservatives are going to find it very difficult to depart from the Grit followed by the Liberals in the past."

Mr. Peters, for government, he said, would have to carry on this type of payments.

Examples of the budget—this housekeeping budget — would be brought in matter what the government was.

DIFFERENCE LESS

"The small percentage with regard to the budget expenditures can make a difference because of its political views seems to be the greatest of all."

As far as Mr. Fleming's budget was concerned, there was noticeable difference between it and what a Liberal finance minister would have brought in was in the tariff proposals.

Mr. MacLellan, speaking toward protectionism, Canada's tariff structure should have been examined on the light of the United Kingdom's free-trade protocol.

Earlier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker engaged in some fancy verbal dancing with Opposition Leader Pearson and J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista - Twillingate) over the possibility of a federal-provincial conference this year.

The question - period wasn't ended with no further indication than that such a conference might be held. But it produced a suggestion from Mr. Pearson that the UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold be asked to act as mediator in Mayors and Municipalities . . . is being taxed out of existence."

Mr. Hogue said "One of the strongest arms in the indictment against the income tax is the tremendous drain on all efforts of tax collectors to simplify returns, many Canadians still spend hours each year filling out the complicated one properly.

Likely to Insist Canadians Be Supplied With Gas First

TORONTO (CP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited may have to prove it can supply all Canadian users of natural gas before it will get a permit to export to the United States.

The company will be questioned here next week by the Ontario energy commission on whether it can supply growing eastern markets with the gas.

The company, seeking permission to export gas to the mid-West United States, will appear before the seven-man body next Saturday. The meeting, which starts Wednesday, will also hear briefs from 12 oil companies, engineering consulting firms and the province of Ontario.

Eastern Canada's raw natural gas are reported to be bigger than at first thought, making Canada, subject of controversy since its birth in Parliament, will likely be self Canadian markets come before U.S. consumers.

The company, headed by Henry Borden, 56-year-old Toronto lawyer - industrialist. The order-in-council setting it up in Oct. 15, 1957, to draft a national energy policy, told it to consider "whether any special measures" need be taken in relation to Trans-Canada "to safeguard the interests of Canadian producers or consumers."

The commission has held 30 or 40 hearings across Canada. Trans-Canada has been a top topic, especially on the issue of export to the U.S.

The commission can't grant an export permit but its "recommendations" would be seriously considered by the government before any were granted.

Other companies to present briefs here will include British-American, Shell and Cities Service oil companies.

The Borden brief will get special attention in view of the company's decision to build demands for Canadian crude at its refinery in Anacortes, Wash. Cheaper crude is coming across the Pacific by tanker from Borneo and Venezuela, a substitute for the Canadian crude—a market loss of at least 40,000 barrels a day for Canadian producers.

Mayors Against Phone Rate Hike, Pensioners' Means Test

STRATFORD (CP) — The Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves plans to fight telephone rate increases — because they could force more — or pensioners' means tests—because they cost less.

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, said a telephone rate increase would discriminate against only cost residents more money.

Mayor Guy Edwards of Mimico said he is against both the one means test at 65 rather than 70 raised cost of living.

The resolution introduced by Mayor Phillips was passed and the association's executive awards was rejected.

Mayor Phillips opposed Bell Telephone increases when they were sought several months ago. The transport board approved the increase but was overruled by the federal cabinet.

"There is no more justification for the rate hike now than then," said Mayor Phillips.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior suggested that small urban and other municipal costs have mounted faster than telephone rates in recent years.

"I submit the telephone company is in a position to maintain financially as are the municipalities," he said.

Mayor Allan Johnston of London proposed supporting old age pensioners at a means test at the age of 65. Tests are now necessary only for those between 65 and 70. Mayor Johnston said a similar resolution had been accepted by the Union of Municipalities of Mayors and Municipalities.

Said Mayor Edwards: "Dropping the test-free limit to 65 will cost $30,000,000."

Must Lower Trade Barriers Or NATO Will Fall -- Pearson

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson says the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will crumble within the next year or two" unless determined steps are taken to develop a free trade system in the West-ern world.

The former minister of external affairs spoke at a press conference Friday on the subject of cultural conference in this Muskoka Lake resort.

Mr. Pearson told reporters: "There must be a gradual but definite lowering of tariffs between the countries of Canada, the United States and free Europe in the next few years if the NATO is will find themselves slowly but surely overwhelmed by North America with no mutual free-world agreements.

"Other countries are making great headway in this economic field to create a non-Soviet bloc of countries outside the Communist world. Unless we are willing to have free trade with the rest of the western world more inter-dependent, NATO will not last more than a few years or two."

"I know it will contain great difficulties but I am convinced the system worked out to permit free exchange of goods and services, sterling and dollar areas, between North America and Europe in such a way that prosperity can be reached in 20 to 25 years."

He sounded the same theme for his speech, declaring Liberalism stands for expansion of trade, not restriction and diversion of trade.

"It's not enough to build a strong national economic policy within the borders of Canada."

FEDERAL AND N.S. GOVTS. AGREE ON COAL MINES AID

Financial Help To Ease Layoffs

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal and Nova Scotia governments have moved in with financial help to ease layoffs affecting about 9,500 coal miners.

The assistance for the Dominion Coal Company, decided on Friday in a series of cabinet meetings won't stop 25-day mine holidays which begin in Nova Scotia.

But it is aimed at preventing unemployment after that by helping to clear some of the huge coal stockpiles accumulated in the face of declining demand.

Coal industry estimates was that total aid may be in the neighborhood of $500,000 with a federal government supplying about $400,000 and Nova Scotia $100,000.

The scheme parallels assistance given in the Blairmore Coal per Mine in British Columbia in an abortive effort to keep that province's mines in water.

COMPANY GRATIFIED

At Montreal Friday night Allan C. MacDonald, chairman of the Dominion Coal Board, said corporation's management committee was "gratified" with the plan required recently by A. V. Roe (Canada) Limited, both Dominion Coal and Steel Corp. in its completion of firms.

Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, returning to Halifax Friday night from talks here, said the province "is extremely pleased to participate." The aid would give Dominion Coal "assurance for coal subventions. These transport subsidies designed to make coal in Nova Scotia coal competitive in Ontario and Quebec have been running about $9,000,000 annually.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa said the terms of the new government decision after three days of meetings.

FORECAST SURPLUS

He said that the company had forecast a coal surplus by year's end of 1,000,000 tons over and above normal carryover.

The company planned a 25-day holiday for miners starting next few days and it had informed the government that assistance for the layoff period would be necessary.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that would result in less than 9,000 men being out of work in the coal fields, "which would have very serious hardship to them and their families and in general much economic loss to the province. . . ."

In discussions, he said, the company undertook "that at the end of the 25-day period already announced the company will continue its normal operations provided that it is compensated for additional costs to which it will be put to maintain the estimated excess over sales during that period."

The government scheme would enable "high level employment."

Rebels In Cuba Promise To Free Kidnapped Men

10 U.S. and 2 Canadian Mining Engineers Seized

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebels who kidnapped 10 U.S. and two Canadian engineers from a mining camp say the men will be treated well and released after a few days.

The Cuban government was trying to get the men back. U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith said he "expects the men will be released fairly soon and unharmed."

The men were abducted from Moa Bay, Cuba's northeast tip Thursday night by 300 rebels who left the U.S. engineers guarding what were commanded by Raoul Castro, brother of rebel chief Fidel Castro. No Cubans were killed.

The Canadians were identified as Ralph Bruce Hamilton, 37, of Winnipeg and Edward Cannon, 50, of Cornwall. Kristjanson's parents now live in Brockville, Ont.

Mrs. Canlon said in Cornwall that she had been planning to join her husband shortly in Cuba. Cannon, a native of Montreal, came to Moa in March to work on the project.

Mrs. Cannon said rebel attacks caused the engineers suffer that, but it reopened later.

MEN ARE SAFE

"I love travelling and I most certainly was looking forward to my trip to Cuba," she said. "But I'm afraid they should never have come back the second time."

Mrs. Cannon said staying since December, 1956, to overcome difficulties. She received letters by attacks from the Sierra Maestra, 100 miles southwest of Moa, although his forces have not been active since defeats in April. Castro has accused the United States of helping Batista.

Mrs. John Schissler, wife of a Kingston engineer, Hamilton said a rebel leader told her the men were safe. She was hopeful the alleged U.S. aid but they will be well cared for and released in a few days.

Officials of the Moa Bay Mining Company were reported taking to rebels, seeking the release of the engineers. The officials are in Havana. Castro's forces would turn them loose when they pointed out that the men were not bad publicity in the United States and Canada.

The rebels dramatized their cause last February by kidnapping Julio Famgio, world champion auto racing driver from Argentina, in Havana. He was released unharmed.

In Ottawa external affairs officials said a cable has been directed to the Canadian embassy in Havana asking for particulars of any Canadians involved in the kidnappings.

DID NOT SELL STOCK

DETROIT (CP)—Federal Court Judge Theodore Levin ruled today freed Robert J. Sherwood of West Palm Beach, Fla., on charges of selling worthless stock in Canadian gold mines. Mr. Sherwood, 50-year-old Toronto, was picked up in April. Investigation showed he was not connected with the fraud which caused of selling gold mine stock in Ontario in this city more than 18 years ago.

Judge Rejects Motion to Quash Bribery Charges

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson Friday threw out a motion for quashing the charges in the Sommers bribery conspiracy trial.

New defence moves aimed at dismissal will continue next Wednesday when the trial goes into its 20th day.

Six defence lawyers are prepared to argue for dismissal of the conspiracy charges and bribery counts against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, three timber executives and four companies on the ground of "lack of evidence."

Mr. Justice Wilson said the adjournment was a relief to him because "I have been having my own troubles lately and will spend the extra time on them."

His remarks apparently were an allusion to his overnight disappearance of the last two days, first to let the 25 charges stand in the crowded Crown's court room under the old Criminal Code and then allow the defence's motion to quash.

Passenger Train Often Travels Without Fares

LINDSAY (CP) — The daily CNR passenger train that leaves here to service towns in the Bellville area often travels without passengers, S. Cooke, assistant superintendent, said here Friday.

He estimated the daily loss at about $130 and stated that the deficit would amount to $47,000 a year "could be put in the trunk of a car."

CNR announced Wednesday that it may end the service because of the many losses. Last year's deficit was $58,000.

To Stand Trial On Murder Count

SARNIA (CP)—Grant Wilcox, 56, charged with murder in the death of Thomas Ross Dickinson, was Friday committed for trial at the fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario here, Oct. 14.

Mrs. Dickinson died in hospital, June 10, nearly 14 hours after she was struck through the forehead while preparing a meal in the kitchen of an apartment. Wilcox and Dickinson were roomers there at the same address.

Magistrate Jamieson, testifying at a preliminary hearing Friday, said they saw Wilcox produce a gun from a suit case, strike Mrs. Dickinson at point blank range.

They said Wilcox had been drinking but was not drunk. The shooting climaxed an argument between Wilcox and Mrs. Dickinson, during which he twice threatened to shoot her.

SILVER LINING

REMINGTON, Va. (AP)—Mrs. James Cloud's accident had a silver lining. She was hastened to a hospital when her car plowed into a front yard. When doctors found she was not much for him to do. The lady of the house already had cared for Mrs. Cloud in the birth of a girl. Both were doing fine today.

Finders Keepers Says Toledo Zoo But London Wants Its Cyril Too

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—It might not be the lapping appetite of Cyril the sea lion if someone told him today the headlines he's created in his wanderings would be the last week have made him famous.

And being famous is synonymous with being valuable in the show business world. It's in the Toledo Zoo, where he's now on display, that the dollars and the admission charge is 20 cents, or back in Springpark Park at London, Ont., where he stood June 19 and where the customers pay no cash.

If Cyril knew how officials of each park pressed claim of ownership in the 1,000-pound sea lion's stand-off, he might not even bother coming back to the shore to his hide. These blemishes are apparently after-effects of transportation. The animal was first fired into him with a dart gun from a boat near Erie, Pennsylvania.

The London Public Utilities Commission, which operates the zoo there, said Friday at its members here for a conference late Friday with director Phil Skeldon of the Toledo Zoo. Assistant chairman Earl Nichols accompanied by his 19-year-old daughter, Mary Sue, and commissioner Stewart Killingsworth returned home Friday night with their

GAGNEBIN IGNITES, CAR CATCHES AFIRE

A spark from a cigaret lighter which ignited gasoline being poured into the gas tank of an auto at 16 St. Charles Street early this morning caused a fire which caused heavy damage to the 1951 model car.

Firemen said that Mr. V. Whitmarsh was filling the gas tank at 1:30 this morning when a spark from his lighter ignited the fluid.

Firemen succeeded in quelling the blaze but not before the interior of the car was charred by the flames.

CHEESE SELLS FOR 35 CENTS F.O.B. WAREHOUSE

The price paid on the Kingston cheese exchange board was 35 cents per pound for first grade waxed cheese f.o.b. warehouse. This price is the same as the board of last year when it was 34 cents f.o.b. factory.

With this year's agreement the farmers or the factories are obliged to pay the cost of transportation to warehouse, handling, grading and other charges. These costs could amount to nearly one cent per pound, depending on the distance the plant is located from the warehouse. Last year's board of trade price was f.o.b. factory, and the buyer paid the waxing, freight and handling charges. The price of 35 cents

Here's Data for Retiring People On What They Want, Need to Know

By THOMAS COLLINS

Companies which are groping for some kind of program to teach their employees how to retire may find some useful data in what follows here.

It is data on what people of retirement age want to know, and what they need to know without knowing they need to know. It is more reliable than most data. It comes from the 3,000 or so letters that are sent to this column every month.

COMPANY PENSION

1) Details on the company pension, of course, are needed. But special efforts should be made to get to the employee's spouse and children the facts of life — what the spouse will get and what the estate will get if the employee dies, and when. Many men apparently are giving their wives a cruel run-around on what their company pension will pay in case of death.

2) Many people of retirement age simply do not understand insurance policies, or so their letters indicate. They retire w i t h only vague notions about w h a t benefits are coming, and with no information as to possible options in life and health policies. Company conversation doesn't seem to help. Neither does literature. Maybe the company should try diagrams and charts here. (In case this wounds the feelings of retirement age people, virtually nobody else understands insurance policies very well either.)

3) The third area — where employees need guidance is in drawing wills. If I write on Sunday that I know no safe way to write a will except with the help of a lawyer, I will get 200 letters by Thursday asking me if I know a safe way to write a will without a lawyer. The company should urge retiring employees to have wills because their families can be wrecked without them. Perhaps the Bar Association could h e l p work out a plan of instruction.

GEOGRAPHY

4) Then there's the matter of geography. What the normal employee doesn't know about h i s country is appalling. And it is particularly serious at retirement age because the great dream of retirement is to go somewhere. For those who can go, or can't, there should be some instruction on the heat, cold, rain, living costs, people and customs of the nation. And oddly, the instruction should give emphasis to the negative, for the simple reason that we are bombarded night and day with travel propaganda that leads us to believe everywhere is heaven. Everywhere ain't.

3) Retiring employees n e e d some ab's on investments. Every week the mail brings brochures offering 10 and 12 per cent interest on savings . . . and plaintive letters asking if the brochures are honest. Conservative investment advice is needed, if for no other reason than to let employees know they can't get rich on their $1,500 savings.

6) Jobs. I know very few retired people who get jobs. Unless the company knows of jobs, it should frankly tell the employees the facts, to avert their futile hoping.

7) This is a touchy one — and these points are not given in their order of importance. When a man retires and goes home to stay 24 hours a day, he goes home to a wife who does not retire. There are some moral issues involved here, which the company won't want to discuss. But there is a practical issue it can discuss. In retirement, a man's finest companion — and possibly the only companion he can have — is his wife. The only way he can get her as a companion is to help her find her cheers.

8) A retiring employee can be advised best in person, in private. The type known as a man's man should do the advising. A fuddy-duddy just won't do.

Fire Destroys Barn, 400 Bushels Grain

WELLINGTON — Fire completely destroyed the frame barn on the farm owned by Douglas Watt (formerly owned by the late George Roebuck) early Wednesday morning. The barn was empty except for 400 bushels of grain, which also were lost.

When Mr. Watt arose about 4:45 Wednesday morning he saw the barn ablaze. He called the Wellington firemen but it had reached such a headway that it was impossible to save it.

The cause of the fire is unknown as there was no electricity and no new hay. Mr. Watt was already to put hay in it the day it burned.

Garage Owners To Go to Ottawa On Gas Price War

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A four-man delegation from the Garage Operators' Association of Ontario will travel to Ottawa Wednesday to discuss the gasoline price war with T. D. MacDonald, director of investigation and research of the justice department's combines branch.

Rae McWilliams of Peterborough, association president, said Friday the interview was arranged at the suggestion of Justice Minister Fulton.

The object of the delegation will be Mr. McWilliams; Ted Elliott, Peterborough branch secretary and chairman of the association's service station committee • John L. Hanna, Toronto, association general manager; and Robert J. Macaulay, association solicitor and minister without portfolio in the Ontario government.

The association claims major oil companies have supplied large quantities of surplus gasoline to small independent dealers at prices lower than available to lessees.

Will Abandon Well Drilling, Extend Present Filter Plan

TRENTON — Drilling for new wells to supply the town of Trenton will be abandoned and the present town filter plan will be extended a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission decided Friday afternoon.

Meeting in the board room of the commission the session was called especially to decide on the well drilling situation. Present were, Bert Atkinson, Cliff Baker, Mayor Ross Burtt and James Page.

Mr. Page said the crews digging test holes in search for water found nothing suitable in the 45 foot test well drilled in the VanAlstine gravel pit. They have since moved their gear to the Telephone Road and have gone down about 35 feet there and have found no abundant supply as yet.

It was moved by Cliff Baker and seconded by Mayor Ross Burtt that if the well presently being drilled fails to produce they will discontinue the test drilling and spend the rest of the money set aside for this purpose on additional feet down at the present plant.

It was noted that to date about $3,000 has been spent in sinking test wells and no suitable supply of water has been found.

A letter will be sent to Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers for the town of Trenton, to draw up plans for the expansion of the filter beds and the costs, which will be invovled. It was estimated it will cost in the vicinity of $100,000 to install the new beds.

Speaking on the matter of changing over to surface water through filter beds Mr. Page said he felt it would be well for the commission to look at things with a "long-range view". He said the system of using wells has been outdated and that other communities and thought should be given to change the thinking in this line.

He said favorable reports have come his office from the Royal Canadian Air Force base since the commission has started using carbon in their present filter beds. He said the callers have told him they have noticed a change for the better, after explaining the costs of the carbon now being used, which is finer — "almost like soot" — than previously used, Mr. Page said it costs about six-tenths of a cent per gallon for treating the surface water. This would be about 17 cents per million gallons.

NO REPORTS BACK

He also reported that samples of the water which have been sent to the Department of Health to be analyzed but the results have not returned. He said the fine carbon is proving much more efficient than the coarse and the small price for it is nothing to what it was before.

Mr. Atkinson suggested they get the International Water Supply crews finish the hole they are now drilling and if nothing found they should abandon test drilling. He said the crews will be finished at the present hole on Wednesday next.

Mayor Burtt said he would go along with this as he also felt well water was a thing of the past. He suggested that Mr. Page also continue to work at drag-lining the town pond to increase its depth.

Speaking on the pond Mr. Page said the beaver were still proving a nuisance there and are continually closing up the little pond the town have their pumps in. He felt they should wait until fall before they drain the pond to get clear of the beaver.

A letter will also be written to the Ontario Water Resources on the matter of financing the extension to the filter beds.

It was also decided that Gore and Storrie study costs and situation of water storage tanks similar to the one on Mount Pelion. The commission felt these storage tanks would have to go with an addition to the filter beds as they would prove beneficial by holding a good supply of water on hand in case of fire or any other emergency need.

No Foundation For Rumors of New Armouries

TRENTON — As far as official circles go, both town and army, there is apparently no foundation to the persistent rumor that the Department of National Defence has decided to build a permanent armouries in Trenton.

Both Mayor Ross Burtt and Town Clerk O. W. Lane said that nothing official has been heard about it in their offices. Both agree it would be good if the reports were true.

A call to Col. Angus Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment stationed in Trenton brought their strength to a platoon, the government returned about half of the lot to the town.

Since then all kinds of rumors have been afloat about the land and the armouries. However, there is apparently no definite plan known of by either the town or the army officials.

There was some discussion in previous town council meetings that the armouries would be suitable for a second fire station if and when one was built on the east side of the Moira River. But nothing definite was decided by the town fathers.

ment in Belleville revealed he had nothing of it through army channels.

In 1947 the town of Trenton conveyed a lot of land, about 400 feet by 400 feet, to the department of National Defence on the corner of Sidney Street and Dixon Drive with the frontage running for a full block on Wilson Street. This lot was to be used to put up an armouries with the understanding that a permanent one would be built if the Federal Government saw fit and the money for such a building were available.

About two years ago, after the company of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment stationed in Trenton had grouped their strength to a platoon, the government returned about half of the lot to the town.

Since then all kinds of rumors have been afloat about the land and the armouries. However, there is apparently no definite plan known of by either the town or the army officials.

Work Program Will Cover Third Of Shop Workers

STRATFORD (CP) — A temporary work program to provide employment at the CNR shops here when steam locomotive operations end was announced Thursday by F. E. Carlin, CNR divisional superintendent.

He told a meeting of city council and the chamber of commerce the program would employ all those at the shops with 20 years service who have reached 45 to 46 by Dec. 31. It will cover about one-third of the 850 shop workers.

Mr. Carlin said there will not be enough steam locomotives left to keep the Stratford shops operating after late 1959 or early 1960. He said the railway will alter and re-equip the plant to handle new types of work.

Between now and Oct. 1, 1959, the railway will lay off about 358 men, he added. A consulting team will be on hand to advise the men of other work available here on the railway.

He said the CNR has also begun a campaign to attract more private industry to Stratford.

FINANCIAL SHENANIGANS

The New York Times, one of the world's great newspapers, found itself in an embarrassing position the past week when it discovered that it may have been used as a tool in some smart financial shenanigans. On Friday of last week The Times reported that Louis E. Wolfson, prominent U.S. financier, was disposing of his holdings in American Motors. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission now charges that, while the report indicated that Mr. Wolfson "deems it necessary to withdraw from his ownership in A.M.C. and is one-fourth on the way home in disposng of his shares" and that these shares are "fully priced," or as high as they should go on the basis of available information and judgment about its earnings outlook, at this time Mr. Wolfson had not only sold all he owned, but also had sold shares he had sold more, In other words they were "short" and would need to buy, rather than sell, American Motors shares. The New York Times now reports that Paul Windels, Jr., regional administrator of Securities and Exchange Commission, places this "short" position at 150,000 shares, and says that in the case the story on Mr. Wolfson appeared in the Times he and his associates had bought 50,000 shares, covering a third of their "short" position.

The Times, we gather, is somewhat miffed to discover that you can not always believe what you read in the papers, even if the paper you read is the New York Times.

Off-hand, though, we wonder at the naivete of those who would expect Mr. Wolfson to make an announcement which would depress the price of a stock at a time when he was really trying to sell many shares of it. Since January of this year he had been one of the principal stockholders of American Motors.

OH, TO BE A NEEDY NORWEGIAN HOUSEWIFE

In Canada, and indeed in many other nations in the northern hemisphere, the happiest time of the year is now approaching. Holiday time. Nothing to do for two whole weeks.

BITT - - t. That Bronx cheer, definitely not confined to the Bronx, came from the lips of several million housewives, who never did seem to regard getting three square meals a day in cottage, trailer or tent a real holiday.

If there was a small lump of silence up on the right-hand edge of that massive Bronx cheer, it may represent the feelings of 10,000 Norwegian housewives who have the good fortune to be needy. The Norwegian Government has set aside over $150,000 to provide free holiday facilities for them this year and next. Payments are to be made on recommendations from the State Holiday Fund and the State Housewife Holiday Board. So if the little woman is inspired to go about the fare to Norway you will know the reason and, if you don't want to lose her, perhaps it might be a good move to start drying the dishes every evening between now and vacation-time and volunteer to share in the cottage-keeping chores during the annual holiday.

PLENTY OF CHALLENGE HERE

A. M. Kirkpatrick, executive director of the John Howard Society of Ontario, addressed the Toronto Optimist Club the other day. Society, he said, must find ways to give young persons the challenge they are seeking so they will find their proper places in the community and not drift into a life of crime.

Hydrogen bombs, atomic failure, cold war, racial strife, high taxes, climbing living costs, unemployment, the rising toll of cancer and heart disease - - if these and a hundred other problems are not challenge enough for young persons they are really gluttons for punishment.

What Mr. Kirkpatrick meant, we suppose, was that society must find some way to get young persons to recognize the many challenges that face them and to realize that, if anything is to be done about these challenges, it will almost certainly have to be done by them, since the older generation shows no signs of coming up with acceptable solutions to any of the major problems of the age.

SONG OF THE OPTIMIST

I may not win the prize today,
The chances are I won't, I know,
But still I keep plodding on my way;
There's quite a distance yet to go.
But I'm not going to cease to smile;
I'll get there in a little while.

Perhaps I got the worst of it,
I'll try to think I didn't, though;
For I'm not ready to admit
The world's not giving me a show.
I'll set my teeth and bravely try
It isn't yet my time to win.

These burdens that I have to bear
Seem needless, but perhaps they're not;
They're lighter, too, then those I've met.
That fall to other people's lot.
And I can look about and see
Worse things that might have happened me.

I'm not the one to say: "Dear Lord,
Please hurry up today and send
Some pleasure from your bounteous hoard
And let my worries quickly end."
I am content to go my way;
I'll get my share of joy some day.

Pink Noise New Art Field

BBC London Letter

It may sound a trifle bizarre to talk about "white" noises and "pink" noise but it is not at all out of place in the BBC's new Radiophonic Workshop in London; the workshop is one of its kind in Britain to deal exclusively with the production of radiophonic effects.

For the benefit of the uninitiated it should be explained that "white" noise has all the frequencies of the audible spectrum, whereas "pink" noise is filtered to obtain a variety of different effects. Its own sales are only one of the pieces of equipment in the new Workshop, which now enables BBC to provide an aid to radio and television productions which neither music nor conventional sound effects can give.

Radiophonic sound is not just a variation on the sound used. It is a new sound — suggestive of emotion, sensation, mood — rather than actual sound like the opening of a door. What actual sound, for example, could suggest the sensation of a human being in torment from the surface to the bed of the ocean?

Then, for the businessman going to his normal day's work there is the sound of traffic, the sound of city traffic, but to the old woman forced to leave the safety of her own little home, she spends her life, in order to escape the noise of modern traffic, the clamor of sound has a note of threat and terror that no recollection of actual traffic noise could convey.

The basic technical means from basic sounds which may vary from the rustle of paper to a note from an electronic oscillator, radiophonic sound provides the writer and producer with an entirely new field in which to convey his intentions with the utmost subtlety of expression — and thus to the listener into the world of the imagination.

In the short time since this department of creating sounds has been available to the BBC, several notable productions have been realized. They include "Ai," works by James Hanley — "A Winter Journey" — and "Two Ocean"; and the first work written specifically for the medium, Frederick Bradnum's "Private Dreams and Public Nightmares," will be heard by many listeners overseas broadcast by their local radio station since it has now been issued by the BBC's Transcription Service.

Magnetic tape reproducing and recording machines must be the focal point of any studio equipped for radiophonic effects, but mainly fall into two categories — those which can be used to create natural sounds, and those derived from wave-forms generated by electronic circuits. Recordings of these sounds are put on magnetic tape. The machines are built up by editing, re-recording, mixing, filtering and changing speeds. The BBC's Radiophonic Workshop the artistic control over the sound puts from tape machines, gramophone desks and sound equipment can be blended with the output from an adjacent studio so that the two may be used as a production unit with the aid of a mass of commentary sounds.

'Fish N Eze' In Tennessee

Hamilton Spectator

Down in Tennessee, there's good crappie fishing Bass Bay, which is an inlet of Chickamauga Lake, only eighteen miles from downtown Chattanooga. "Too near the city; likely overfished out," you say.

Not at all; Bass Bay is strictly controlled. Access to it is by a built a heated, indoor fishing house measuring forty by one hundred feet, seating 100 drums. Furnishings include tables, chair and heaters, a snack bar — and a television set. The entire structure reeks comfort. A fine fishing eight hours for one dollar, twenty-four hours a day. This particular portion of Bass Bay is leased from the Tennessee Valley Authority by the promoters of the project, which is called "Fish N Eze."

If customers' fish hooks were baited by small boys — the sordid tableau of piscatorial epicurianism would be just about complete, and a man could land a crappie almost without having to shift his feet. Bait is available at the television screen.

Not quite complete, though. What's apparently missing are over-powering odors, which are the acquisition of painful sunburns, and with no black flies with electronic stingers. Then could there possibly be a more realistic way of catching crappie?

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

YOU CAN'T MISS OUT

"No man can serve two masters."

Thus said the Master of men, and among His sayings, which were without qualification true and unchangeable, this is one of the most profound. He never said a truer or more helpful word.

For division is at the bottom of all moral and spiritual chaos. Men are at odds with each other, are insecure and lacking in resolution. Likewise, if we have a divided spirit, we are out of tune with the spiritual universe of which we are a living part. Division breeds confusion, then chaos, then death.

Let us bring this all down into the everyday world in which we live. With a divided mind we can't decide whether to be absolutely honest in our spoken words or in our attitudes, or to conform to the pattern of a decadent world. If we have a divided mind, we can't decide whether complete and absolute honesty of character is necessary, or is just a practical notion, puritanical. The divided mind prevents us from taking a stand in the social group in which we live, or from daring to be pointed to in the office or classroom and perhaps laughed at a bit because some believe we are on the narrower minded side. We cannot decide, we cannot decide, we cannot decide — hence, chaos.

Life runs in a straight line. Set your foot down on the path right ahead of you and keep going. You can't miss out if you do.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LEARN TO WALK PAST FAILURE

Most of us can recall the days of youth and some of its fears. Some there were who were afraid of the dark, and some really believed in ghosts! But soon these ideas melted away and life took a natural trek ahead. Too many people are disturbed over the possibility of failure. This is foolish, however, if we each plan ahead in life should furnish its own inspiration.

We have no fear of failure. Walk right by it! That is what millions of people have done. You can conquer your fears by disciplining your mind. Look upon that mind always as in full control and always in a state of readiness. When we are in this state of readiness, there should be no fears. Courage and confidence should take full control.

Every step ahead can be listed as progress. There are always discouraging forces at work, but they can be shoved aside. Little by little life should create confidence. Fear itself is the booty. Set your eyes far ahead. Never allow yourself to have doubts. Believe and dare to dream! There is always something great and better than what is before you.

Learn to walk past failure. Note how the atmosphere of your mind and entire consciousness is immediately changed. Impediments are merely something to conquer. A little voice whispers: "You Can"!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 25th., 1938

A large number of the members of Bridge Lodge No. 183 A. F. and A. M. and sister lodges attended the morning service at St. Thomas' Church on Sunday. The sermon was delivered by the Vicar, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne.

The members of Bridge St. United Church will join in services with the members of the Tabernacle Church during the redecorating and renovations of Bridge Street Church. The Rev. Dr. Semple of Bridge Street Church will be in charge of the services during the month of July and the Rev. T. McClintock, the pastor of the Tabernacle will conduct the services during the month of August.

The first tag day held by the Humane Society of this city resulted in the sum of $116.10 being realized to assist in the carrying on of the work of the society.

Telephone subscribers are increasing here. From our file copy at this time in 1883: Telephones have been placed in the following places recently: W. J. Reid and Co. (Crystal Hall); Jacob Crothers confectionery store; Day's Ginger Beer Works; A. B. Clarke, grocer, Queen Street.

From our file copy at this time in 1888: Mr. H. Corby's free excursion yesterday from Trenton, Sidney and Belleville to Massassaga Point, the new summer resort with the new hotel which has been brought into existence by Mr. Corby was a great success about 2,000 people were conveyed to the resort by four steamers Quinte, Nellie Cuthbert, Annie Lake and Ometa. The steamer Quinte bumped. The crowd from Trenton including the Trenton band, the park and then conveyed a large number of people from Belleville. The Grand Union Provision was made to serve meals at the park, a merry-go-round was enjoyed by young and old and Fred Brousseau with his fiddle, furnished quadrille music to which the boys and girls "shoed it down" in lively fashion. A lot of fun and gathered in a generous sum of money. Races occurred and in the excursion was a great success and fully 2,000 people were present. We have Mr. Corby to thank for the grand time he afforded them. The band will be being furnished, a large part of the furnished by Campbell by C. S. Tickell and Sons of the city. Mr. Sibbett, prop. of the Queen's Hotel at Deseronto has leased the hotel for this year and the hotel will be open to receive guests in the near future.

Scandinavians Explained

Aura Avis, Sundsdalsora, Norway

A little Finnish book called—"Scandinavians — — That's Us"—has gained popularity in the Finnish language. Written by the penhagen newspaper Politiken.

The book was written by Bill-y Beinholst, who, according to the American, Temple Fielding Travel Guide, knows more about Denmark, the world's wittiest nation.

And here are some of the things that Americans now can sort us out and straighten with:

"The Scandinavians love food. This is particularly true of the Danes. They chew their food poorly and eat fast — because they're afraid they won't be finished before the next meal is served.

"Scandinavians are very curious. They won't believe that a bench has been newly painted until they are on their way to the dry cleaner's with their clothes.

"Scandinavians are unusually polite. They always let women get aboard the streetcars first — especially women with beautiful legs.

"Scandinavians are not particularly interested in strong spirits. They have always drunk beer and grain alcohol, the Danes chiefly schnapps, and the Swedes just drink.

"Scandinavians are honorable, to the utmost. Cheating is noted only in two circumstances:

"1. When riding the streetcar. Then cheating (on fares) is a necessity.

"2. When one is filling out his tax declaration. Then cheating is a necessity."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"LOW RESIDUE" IS ONE OF A NUMBER OF DIETS

"Dear Dr. Molner: As I have gastrointestinal trouble, I am advised to take a low residue diet, but I have never been told what it is. Mrs. A. C. L."

I can't help much — because there are too many variations of special diets, depending on the exact nature of the case. In general, a "low residue diet" is one which the greater part of the food is digested and used by the body — leaving little "ash" or residue. They are the opposite of things like bran, or vegetables which contain a lot of fibres which cannot be absorbed, but are merely passed on through the body. But to get down to cases, ask your doctor to prescribe in detail the sort of diet you should have.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a special vitamin, maybe Vitamin A, that can be given to a child to help the eyes grow stronger — Mrs. C. M."

Let's say the answer is no. If the eyes are weak, it usually means that there is a refraction error — that is, the front of the eyes themselves are slightly out of shape. The only answer is glasses to make proper correction to compensate for the distortion of the eye. Even in good many cases, the muscles of the eyes are not properly in balance. The eye specialists use a great many simple exercises to correct this, but no helpful Vitamin, A, is useful only in that it tends to relieve night blindness. Period.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a good friend who had a severe shock and hasn't eaten food for eight days. She just drinks coffee and smokes cigarets. I know she is in another town and would be dead, and she just laughs at me. I'm sure I'm right. She will die, won't she? She reads your column daily. Maybe your advice would wake her up. — A Faithful Reader."

Why didn't you sign your name? I never print the names, just initials, because, Anyway, that a killjoy you are. By the time your friend sees this in the paper, she'll still be laughing at you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read an article about alcoholics. My son is 27 and he's been a very heavy drinker. The article says about pills you can take every morning and then if you drank that day you would be sicky sick. Will you let me know where to get them, if that is the thing? Or whatever suggestion you have. J. M."

The drug (antabuse) must be given under medical supervision. It weakens the liver so that one who insists on drinking will also find a way to avoid taking the drug, putting it in the mouth but spitting it out instead of swallowing it. It is not that of a chronic diseases alcoholism has by far the highest cure rate — provided the patient wants to be cured. Alcoholics Anonymous is extremely successful. The one necessary element is that the victim should want to join, and stop drinking. Few alcoholics really want to keep on drinking.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My brother, 49 years old, had a heart attack and got well after 20 days in the hospital. Two months later, back at work, he has been smoking cigarets, one pack a day, ate to seven Scotches a day, and lots of coffee. I have heard this is bad for him; one man who has recovered from a heart attack. Let me know, as he refuses a checkup by his doctor. — B.S.C."

You heard correctly. I suspect your brother is frightened, and that accounts for his excesses, as well as his refusal to see his doctor He recovered quickly, therefore should not certainly not be pessimistic. If he'll stop drinking a heart attack is the end of everything, perhaps he'll start taking care of himself, having an emotional check-up, and live to be 75.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my booklet, "Reducing Can't Hurt," write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. Other readers welcomed. E-mail or mail, but regrets that, due to the increasing volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Those of general interest are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

'Show a Leg' Explained

Montreal Daily Star

More proper is the master of the S.S. Sunvictor, whose ship is a happy one because, as our reporter found out aboard it, "six of her crew are married to each other." Furthermore, the third mate and two seamen have their wives aboard as passengers. Capt. Ivan May, jobs with the old tradition of calling all hands on board, but it obviously has its compensations.

In a way, it recalls the days of yore when the Royal Navy encouraged the seamen to live aboard when a ship was in port between voyages. This meant a constant "show a leg" when he went bawling through the mess deck at the early watch to muster. Normally he could rouse a sleeping seaman, with a single kick on the naked sole, portion of the hammock that alongside. Hence the old hand of authority mistakenly whacked the nether regions of the guest. Outraged might tremble with the resulting row.

According to one tradition, this prompted the old cry that is still used: "Show a leg, there!" If the leg poked over the edge of the hammock was more fetching and less hirsute than that of the average male, it meant that particular hammock was out-of-bounds to bosun. Ah, the good old days of wooden ships and iron (?) men!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

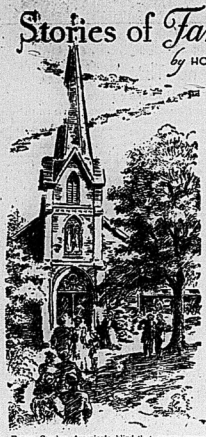
When you step on an ant, you bring to an end a social setup that has existed continuously, from ant to ant, for millions of years back to origin of life on this now crowded murderous planet.

The ant's ancestors were here in Richard the Lion Heart's time. Before that, as stepped on it, t h e ant probably looked more like its ancestors than you look like yours when both the ant and your multiple great-grandfather lived in a hole in t h e hill.

The ant and you are contemporaries. Or were, until you stepped on it. Since then you are to the profoundest mystery, time. That we should have survived the ice age at the same time is much to our credit as a species. But how did they retreat? In view of this planet's already tough history, being an ant something fairly distinguished.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



Fanny Crosby, America's blind hymnist, drew from her own spiritual experience for the comfort-giving message of one of her most precious and helpful gospel songs, "God Will Take Care Of You".

It might be chosen as the theme song of her saintly, consecrated life, exemplifying her never-failing trust in the goodness of God, her eagerness to see a blessing in every disappointment and tribulation. She spoke of the origin of her hymn of faith and trust one day while visiting at the home of a friend, S. Trevina Jackson, who passed the comment along in the book, "Fanny Crosby's Story Of Ninety-Five Years":

The blind singer remembered that, many years before, she had penned these verses:

"Never be sad or desponding,
If thou hast faith to believe;
Grace for the duties before thee,
Ask of thy God and receive.
Never be sad or desponding.

There is a morrow for thee,
Soon thou shalt dwell in the brightness,
There with the Lord thou shalt be."

"Half a lifetim.. has passed since I wrote those lines", she told the friends with whom she was chatting, "and a thousand and one experiences have been mine in the years that lie between. But nothing has happened or threatened which could have warranted my altering a single syllable or thought they contain.

"In sunshine and shadow, in sickness and in health, through every step of the journey, God has given grace and glory. For me, life has been short of many things that some people would rather dis-than be without. That is their misfortune — not mine. It is not the things I've missed, or never had, that make me sorrowful. It is the things I have had in full measure in which I rejoice daily.

"That's how I feel today, and it was in the same spirit that I wrote the lines which have proved abundantly true in my own life and work:

"God will take care of you, be not afraid
He is your safeguard through sunshine and shade;
Tenderly watching and keeping
His own,
He will not leave you to wander alone."

GOD WILL TAKE CARE OF YOU

God will take care of you, be not afraid,
He is your safeguard thru sunshine and shade;
Tenderly watching and keeping
His own,
He will not leave you to wander alone.

God will take care of you thro all the day;
Shielding your footsteps, directing your way;
He is your Shepherd, Protector and Guide,
Leading His children where still waters glide.

God will take care of you long as you live,
Granting you blessings no other can give;
He will take care of you when time is past;
Safe to His kingdom will bring you at last.

CO-OPERATION AT HOME

"And why don't we bomy help us to pull ourselves together after the competitive pursuits of the day have dissipated our energies? Because the home is run by the law of co-operation rather than of competition.

In business we believe in free enterprise. Competition is the life of trade. But competition without certain areas of co-operation would mean spiritual death. Therefore, the world must learn true satisfaction comes only when they also help to get all the world ahead.

When we live on the principle that the full life is found by giving rather than ourselves, we get fed up. As a boy I thought I could never eat enough peanuts to satisfy me. I painfully discovered that there was a limit to my capacity for peanuts.

But when we seek fullness of life by putting ourselves into things greater than ourselves, the sky is the limit.

We are concerned today because the Russians have recently been going ahead of us in space travel and also in education. We want no dictators regimenting our factories to make sputniks and our youth to make robots. But unless we are to allow the Soviets to run ahead of us and perhaps run over us, we had better wake up and with our own free will give more service to the public and less time to our private interests.

TOO SMALL A CONTAINERS

But he is narrow in his friendships, prejudiced in his political views, biased in his religious convictions. He certainly is not living a whole life as his Creator intended. He is merely self-contained in too small a container.

Abundant living is more than mere adding to pleasurable experiences. When some people go to our large cities for a brief vacation they try to crowd all possible thrills into their stay. They go out to dinner, then to the theater, then to one or two night clubs and end up at dawn having had what they call a large evening. Well, a succession of large evenings does not make the abundant life any more than the volume of sound makes the value of music.

A person cannot fulfill his whole self around himself. Let me illustrate this by a parable. In one of the amusement pavilions at Coney Island there used to be a device called the human roulette wheel. (Perhaps it is there yet.)

On that device the fun-seeker would slide down an incline on-to a polished floor made up of swiftly revolving discs contiguous to each other. The merrymaker would land on one disc and be spun around until centrifugal force would whisk him on to the next disc, and that would spin him around until he was whirled onto the next disc, and so on until in a moment or two he landed in the runway at the side, having had what he called his fun.

That experience strikes me as very suggestive of our daily living. We start out in the morning for our place of business with our minds revolving around our work. The persons we meet are also revolving their thoughts around their own concerns, with a centrifugal force of self-interest that whisks us off. The result is that after a day of bruising and competing contacts we come back at night to our homes to "pull ourselves together again," as we commonly say.

A Lift for Living

Working for a Better World

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

June, the month of commencements, is over, and from our schools and colleges another crop of graduates has gone out into the world. They are fired with ambition to get ahead in the world. But are they fired with zeal to get the world ahead?

On my frequent visits to college campuses I usually ask what the students are thinking. Teachers almost invariably reply that youth are confused. And no wonder!

The political upheavals in so many countries, the uncertainty of business, the interruption of plans by military service, all tend to bewilder our young people. They feel insecure. They are living on short-term contracts with life.

Every normal person wants to live as full a life as possible. He does not want to miss anything worthwhile. And even the most self-centered person should be aware that his own welfare is tied up with the well-being of the world. And every devout person — Jewish or Christian — yes, even every decent citizen, is vitally concerned with making the world better.

What is it to live a whole life? I think of a fellow who is about the most perfect physical specimen one could imagine. He is never sick. He eats what he likes, goes where he pleases, does what he wishes.

TOO SMALL A CONTAINERS

But he is narrow in his friendships, prejudiced in his political views, biased in his religious convictions. He certainly is not living a whole life as his Creator intended. He is merely self-contained in too small a container.

Bathrooms in German Hotels Are Works of Art and Science

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Frankfurt-am-Main, West Germany reserved at home for auto-suggestion. There is the familiar European gossamer spray for showering while you bathe and a hand-shocked hot water-heated rack for warming your bath towel. There is a rubber bath-mat and thick as a rug. The bathtub plugs with a rubber ball as entirely simple as it is scientifically leakproof.

The finishing touch each day the maid leaves a tube of bubbling bath salts according to custom in French, English, Spanish, Italian and German, everything from chlorophyll to Vitamins A and H. You are warned not to use more than a few cakes at a setting lest you risk the penalty of reducing its exhilarating effect.

RATES START AT $6

The rooms here begin at $6 a day. The bathroom is a familiar continental breakfast served in your room with a flair worthy of the main dining room. Coffee in a silver pot and carefully assorted rolls and jams. Tea water is sent up with magnificent German crystal stemware, which is used just a few times and then is the most modest roadside inns around the country. Continental breakfast (always) is cheap here, but one still gets the impression that no expense or effort is spared for the guest under any circumstances. Indeed, dining is a proud art here, as in all of Europe.

For your $6 a day you are thoughtfully provided with two pillows on your bed, a large bath towel, one face cloth (also) and a small, light one. Mattresses are ingeniously covered at the top, level and again at the waist, providing a contour effect that is based on long years of hotel beds by cranking them up.

Alongside the bed, in addition to the telephone, is a bank of three push buttons, one each to summon the maid, room service waiter and bellhop. The speed of response is almost alarming.

German hotel men even have solved the problem of guests inadvertently walking off with room keys by making them almost impossible to carry around. Our key was a huge hunk of brass made more cumbersome by a weighty and awkward fob. If I left neither purse nor pocket, so there was no choice but to drop it at the desk when leaving the room.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: DON'T "CONGRATULATE"

Too often these days you hear it as a wedding reception a guest in the receiving line greeting the bride with, "Marie . . . congratulations to you!" This is entirely wrong . . . don't ever "congratulate" the bride or offer your "congratulations." To the bride you offer your best wishes: for example, "Best wishes for your happiness, Mary dear"; or with you every happiness, always." It's the groom whom you "congratulate"; for example, "Congratulations, Bob!"

MOTHER WANTS HOUSEHOLD GIFTS BROUGHT TO PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My daughter is to be 26 years old soon, and I would like to give her a surprise birthday party. Would it be proper for me to tell the guests not to bring personal birthday gifts? I'd like something like a miscellaneous-gifts party; that is, household gifts for her new home (she was recently married), rather than the usual personal birthday gifts, which she doesn't need as much as she needs (very much) articles for her home. Please advise me how to make this suggestion in my invitations. — R. T.

I wouldn't know how to advise you to make this strange and entirely improper suggestion in your invitations. Obviously what you have in mind is to get not so much a birthday party, where gifts are supposed to be optional (at least in this birthday instance), as a shower where guests are expected to bring gifts of the kind you indicate in the invitation. Since your daughter has been married recently, I imagine her relatives and friends have already given her pre-wedding shower gifts, and wedding presents, and if so they may think if you try to get them into bringing more household gifts.

Also, this is important: As a mother, you may give a birthday party for your daughter; but as a mother. It is not correct for you to give her a shower, to which gifts are brought as usual. If you wish, invite the guests to a birthday party for your daughter, but don't the invitations absolutely no mention of any kind about gifts.

"CHAIRMAN" OR "CHAIR-WOMAN"?

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

To settle a question we are having, please tell us: Is the woman who is head of a committee or an organization correctly referred to as "chairman" or "chairwoman"? — Y. and H.

Today "chairman" is generally used.

Lady Historian Says Present Day Gal Tough

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be fooled by the delicate look and the soft life of today's city girl, warns Mari Sandoz, historian and the Old West and author of The Cattlemen.

"If the need arose, they'd be just as tough as their pioneer ancestors, who bled across the plains by covered wagon," says the lean and forthright Miss Sandoz. "Remember that many of the women who helped their husbands open up the West, who cooked over campfires and fired their own guns, were city girls, too. They learned to survive the hardships and dangers of the overland trail and to fight side by side with their men.

"Don't tell me a modern woman couldn't take it. As a matter of fact, she might do better than her great-grandmother, being by training more self-reliant, more athletic and certainly healthier.

"The female of the species always has had to be tough, and I don't think the pattern has changed today."

LOST IN BLIZZARD

She told of her niece, 23-year-old country teacher, who was stranded in a school bus with 18 children during the worst snow storm to hit Nebraska in many years. The bus turned over, and they were lost.

"But she tied the children together—the left sleeve of each tied to the right wrist of the next —and led them downhill until she came to a fence, which took her to a feeding shack. There she took care of the children, fed them and kept them warm for 23 days, until the holdovers could get through. All the children were safe when they finally were returned to their families, who had almost given up hope of seeing them again."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Twelve or Thirteen Apostles?

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, June 30 — Yesterday was St. Peter's and St. Paul's Day, although in many churches St. Paul has to a large extent dropped out of the picture. In the Eastern Orthodox churches, however, they make a whole week of it, and call it the Week of the Apostles. Today is known as Apostles' Day. The celebration will continue throughout the week.

Instead of taking second place, St. Paul is given more prominence by the Greek churches than any of the other Apostles. This is because he is regarded as their founder, just as St. Peter is considered to be the founder of the Roman church.

The arithmetic of this observance is a little puzzling. St. Paul was not one of the Twelve. When Judas turned traitor and was counted out, Matthias was elected to replace him and restore the number to 12.

But it was sometime later that Saul of Tarsus had his famous experience on the road to Damascus and became the Apostle Paul, "as one born out of due season."

By the Greek churches he also is acknowledged, that would make the number in the total to 13.

Nevertheless, the day is called Twelve Apostles' Day, and a 13-week-long celebration honors St. Paul and the other Twelve.

A DAY OF PREPARATION

Saturday, July 5 — Today, in the 70th year of the Christian era, was the day on which the Roman army broke through the defenses of Jerusalem and sealed the fate of the Jewish holy city and its Temple. It was the beginning of the end.

When Jerusalem finally fell the Jewish nation was dispersed and left homeless to wander the face of the earth. In the Jewish calendar this day is the 17th of the month of Tammuz. Of course, it is a fast day and a day of deep, sad mourning.

More than a single day of sorrow, it is the beginning of a three-week period of mourning for all that has happened since it all first have suffered. The sad season ends on the 9th of the next month, which is called Ab.

During these three weeks Jews are to refrain from the opportunities that has followed them wherever they have gone.

The rules of mourning during these three weeks are the same as those for the death of a near relative. There must be no marriages, no playing of musical instruments, no purchase or wearing of new clothes, no haircuts.

A PLEA TO READERS

Readers often write in with a suggestion or a disagreement and say: "I will expect to see this in your column next Sunday." If the suggestion fits in with what I am trying to do, I usually try to work it into a column. But I am not always sure that I will be able to do so. Sometimes a letter is being forwarded.

Also, I am close to the other three and it means the quickest possible response. Any correspondent should get through the column would be a matter of four or may be five weeks.

Please give your name and address when you write. All signed mail is answered immediately.

Perseverance, Hard Work And Understanding Parents Made Her Radio Cinderella

By ED SMITH

Canadian Press Staff Writer

AMHERST, N.S. (CP) — For Mrs. Joan Watson the kilocycle came long before the kitchen. The tall, winsome daughter of a British ballerina and a Canadian banker, discovering somehow that 30 years ago she could spiel off the daily program listings on the radio station (CHNS) "backwards and forward."

Today, at 36, Joan Watson is like Cinderella after the fitting of the slipper. Through part - time telephone operating, selling cars and newspaper reporting this effervescent manager and girl-about-town has become a radio station CKDH has become one of a dozen women with leading positions in Canada's private radio picture.

LIKES COOKING

But this is the drive towards the pinnacle of a "fascinating" business; the kitchen duties don't suffer. Husband Bill Watson, whom she met and married two years ago while both were working with a Moncton television station (CKCW-TV) concurs on the excellence of beef stroganoff. Joan herself admits cooking is the hobby she likes to follow to the elements of her success in radio —patience, perseverance, understanding parents and plain hard work.

"I wanted to be a radio announcer at six," says Joan. "Nobody tried to shake the idea loose. Mom and dad did everything to encourage me. Without them I'd never be where I am."

"Mom" for years conducted a dance school in Halifax. Her father Willard R. Nelson, was the wartime civilian transport officer for the North Atlantic Command based at St. John's, Nfld. He now is general manager of a company at Fredericton.

"I think I inherited some of mother's artistic sense and dad's good business background—qualities necessary for radio work," she said.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

As a telephone operator with the Moncton radio station during her high school days Joan got the chance to do microphone work in a series of teen - age shows. From 1951 to 1954 she worked as women's editor and on the station. High point in this career was an on-the-spot broadcast of Queen Elizabeth's coronation, and a couple of fashion shows in Paris.

In 1954 Joan was transferred to the Moncton television station where Bill Watson, whom she was with the station's sales department, was since transferred to CKDH here.

Radio Amherst first raised its 250-watt voice in November, 1957, not without some apprehension. Amherst, population 10,000, was well within range of stations at Moncton and Charlottetown. But the appeal to farm, fishing and industrial complex that is Amherst was quickly realized with local programming.

"We lean heavily to western-style music and have some unique local talent to provide most of it," said Joan. "We're still experimenting with the proper balance so minority audiences won't suffer."

Joan appeared on the managerial scene last January. The company has acknowledged a "spectacular, financial rise."

PERSONAL TOUCH

Her personal contribution to the 118 hours weekly of station broadcasts is between 10 and 15 hours. She devotes an hour each morning to the popular Ladies Listen, which features interviews, remotes, ladies' topics, public service messages and plain chatter between master of ceremonies Watson and her personal secretary and lady-Friday" Gisele Hebert.

The girls have been responsible for finding stolen cars just by asking housewives to "take a peek out of side windows for the latest on the police list of missing vehicles. The latest success: full sleuthing job was for a lost monkey.

Other members of the station staff have had their moments on this station, too. When three feet of snow covered the Tantramar Marshes, engineer Gerald MacPherson, a former commercial airline operator, and assistant engineer Lewis took to snowshoes to reach the transmitter site. When the floods came in spring they went by canoe.

Bill and Joan live in a farm bungalow built on a hill outside Amherst, overlooking the CKDH transmitter.

"When we're puttering in our garden," says Joan, "we can see all our wonderful world."

Mrs. Laura Lyall, artist who died at Toronto in 1930, was noted for her portraits of her children.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a child, a clergyman, a policeman, a doctor, an editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies.

Harvey S. — One daughter-in-law has taken up with a wild crowd.

Ethel S. — They aren't as bad as people say.

Harvey S. — My wife and I are heartbroken. Our 20-year-old daughter, a clever pretty girl, has taken up with a terrible crowd of friends. These young girls and boys are well known in our community for drinking, reckless driving and wild parties.

We can't understand why a well brought up girl should turn against everything she had been taught. If she were 16, we would say she is just a crazy kid and we'd be able to put the lid on her. But she is old enough to know better. If we try to control her, she threatens to leave home.

We are very much afraid of what influence all this will have on our younger daughter, who is at the age where she would be most impressionable. Her sister is an all. Yet we are afraid of what will happen if she stays away from.

Ethel S. — My parents say they are just worried about my welfare, yet they have said more hurtful things to me than almost if I got out of the way and didn't become a bad influence on their little darlings.

It just happens that the crowd I have been with is the first group I ever really felt happy with. I am a quiet type and didn't make friends easily, but this group took me in from the first.

It is true that this crowd has a bad reputation in our community, yet they are not as bad as people say. I haven't seen half of the awful things I have heard about from others.

For myself, I haven't done anything seriously wrong and I don't intend to, I just want to have some fun. I'm young enough to enjoy it. My parents are too strait-laced and only care about the clothes.

The Council: There is very little parents can do to control the conduct of a 20-year-old woman or man. We suspect that Ethel would like to have offer parents control her a bit, but this isn't possible and she should recognize that by the most accept the responsibility for her own actions.

Individuals like Ethel who seek out company of social outcasts or undesirables are usually plagued by a deep-seated sense of inferiority.

Ethel's statement that she is happy with this group may be true, but it is also true that she was rejected by her parents and finds acceptance by others into the home.

Such an individual often seeks acceptance by a group that represents some kind of rebellion against authority.

Ethel should try to understand her own motives a little better and perhaps this also deeply involved with this unacceptable group that she has found. Then the friends she really wants to be with.

Ethel should have high standards for herself are high and she should recognize that with such standards her path in life is going, she can never have much fun with the group she describes.

Woman Rider Has Use of Only One Arm

CALGARY (CP) — Mary Reed, 16-year-old exhibitor from Seattle, Wash., won admiration of fellow exhibitors and spectators at the Calgary horse show, proving that handicap need not be what the name implies.

The attractive young miss did a top-notch job of riding Lady Eagle — Arab horse Atallah over jumps. Jumps, however, are not that since birth she has had use of only one arm.

"It doesn't bother my riding," says Mary, explaining she has terrific power in her legs "and I really use them on her.

"If I have to I can almost drop the reins to give him a good whack with the whip."

Mary prefers to do her jumping and is so much at home in the saddle that she insists "I couldn't stand to buy a horse that was already well-trained."

When she bought Atallah in California, he could walk, trot and canter. Mary gave him his show-ring training and schooled him over jumps.

Mary's family owns a farm three miles outside Seattle and she has ridden all her life. She has been one of her own but shows only Atallah.

Feeding 2,000 Men Difficult Many Times

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Cooking for 2,000 men is a problem at the best of times, but much more difficult when food supplies do not arrive.

This problem was faced several times by Diane Raymond, 37, of Montreal, now a Montreal as a Canadian Dietetic Association. A graduate of the University of Winnipeg, Miss Raymond served as a messing officer in the RCAF during the Second World War.

Her job was to see that 2,000 RCAF men in England were properly fed.

"Though everything was rationed, feeding them was a straight-forward job until an air raid. Then we learned to use our old standby—canned pilchards."

She now resides in Montreal as supervisor of food production for a chain store.

After graduation, she worked as a dietitian at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal and began her RCAF service in 1942, serving first at Comox, B.C., and Winnipeg.

She is a former president of the Quebec Dietetic Association, and has served on various committees of the Canadian organization.

BLUEBERRY AND STRAWBERRY JAM

Store sugarless jams in refrigerator, and make only small quantities. Five well-packed cups strawberries which are packed fresh and fully ripe, 6 tablespoons glycerin (optional), 2 teaspoons crystals, 12 uncrypt tablets. Wash and drain berries, remove hulls and dry them on towel. Bite. Cut in quarters and crush with, well-floured potato masher. Put bottomed pan and simmer from 15 minutes. Add remainder ingredients and stir over medium heat 5 minutes. Turn into sterile jars and hermetically seal with new melted paraffin, adding to cool coating when first is set. Cover with clean lids.

CAUTION:

Work with extreme cleanliness as sugarless products spoil readily.

QUESTION:

Would you please give a recipe for dill pickles, Polish or Dutch style? I like them spicy, similar to the ones you can buy in the delicatessen stores. My wife would like a recipe for ravioli — both the pastry and meat filling — canned ravioli has a tiny taste . . . G.C.

ANSWER:

Another man! Hello! said we! cook.

SPICY DILLS:

Ten lbs. dill-size (4-inch) cucumbers, cloves of garlic, hot red peppers, fresh dill sprigs, about 2 cups water, 1 cup salt, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar. Wash cucumbers and pack in sterilized quart jars. Put part sprig and 1 peeled garlic clove, 1 pepper pod, 4 peppercorns, 1 sprig fresh dill. Bring to boil water, salt and vinegar and pour over cucumbers to cover. Add more cucumbers and repeat brine make more — as necessary may vary with size of cucumbers. I have mailed to you direct the complete recipe for Ravioli which appeared here about two years ago. Good luck with both.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It could be Bill Shaw's managerial ability; Johnny Batchelor's sensational prowess with the hickory; the spirit of the club or the general equality of balance, but whatever it is there doesn't appear to be a team in the Belleville District Softball League that can stop Phil Lott's Ox Polishers.

The current edition of the Point Anners seems to be the best-balanced squad to represent the village in some time. They have Al Carkner, a new rightfielder who is measuring up to par, while the ole reliable "Rubber Arm" Pat Marsde is taking his mound stint without blinking an eye and turning in his share of victories.

Consistency of hitting by batters with fair averages and good hurling seems to be the Pointers' secret of success. According to the demon statistician of the league, Gary Alexander, the Pointers only placed two batters in the top ten, in his last official release.

Johnny Batchelor was leading the pack at that time with a rollicking .438, but was being closely followed by Field of Finished. The only other Pointer in the select group is Claude Carr who was hitting .383.

The Pointers, who have racked up nine straight victories, are idle until Tuesday when they meet their closest threat, the Cobourg Merchants at the Point, starting seven o'clock. That by the way, is the day of the monster picnic at Point Anne when all kinds of sports and other fun for young and old will be on tap.

After that game the Pointers will get down to serious business, practicing for their second half of the season thus far. On Sunday, July 5, starting seven o'clock they meet the Oshawa Tonys of the Toronto Beaches Fastball League.

Featuring the starry visitors will be two of the best known names in softball, Norm Bagnall and Charlie Anstice. Both are hurlers of outstanding repute and both have pitched in international competition. They have led the Tony's to OASA senior "B" championships for the past two seasons and again are going great guns for the Oshawa club.

The unbeaten record of the Pointers will be at stake and they will have to produce their greatest potential if they want to turn back the starry aggregation from Osep Campbell town. It should be a thrilling battle, one that softball fans of the city and district should not miss.

BOXING NOTES

Nino Valdes and his manager, Bobby Gleason, were at odds recently. In defiance, the Cuban heavyweight went to Stillman's to train instead of Gleason's gym in the Bronx. Stillman's is usually the case, the quarters between manager and fighter was patched up. In the meantime, Valdes was on a winning streak and being a superstitious fellow, insists on continuing to work out at Stillman's. Thus, Gleason now has to go to competitor's gym to watch his own fighter train.

Incentive is win: Every time Joe Brown wins a lightweight title fight, his manager, Lou Viscusi, buys him an expensive suit. Small wonder that Brown, a very active champion, has one of the largest wardrobes in Texas.

What became of the combination of Henry and Harry Armstrong? Henry, as it is well known, became a preacher on the west coast — Harry was the trainer who posed as Henry's brother and from whom the little feather, welter and lightweight champion overthrew real name was Jackson—borrowed his ring moniker. Today, Harry is a merchant seaman. On his frequent visits to New York, he spends all of his time catching up on Broadway shows.

Yvonne Durelle, the hardy fighting fisherman from Bay St. Anne, Canada, has a secret — and unexpected — assistant.

Durelle follows the occupation of his forefathers—fishing the treacherous waters off the coast of Newfoundland—and his skill has earned the hard-won respect of his fishing community.

In the ring, his strength and quick hands have made him one of the top-ranking fighters in the light heavyweight division. His flying fists have earned enough money to buy a fleet of five fishing boats and maintain a crew of 40.

While he has prospered at his two violent and dangerous careers, there is another and softer, more human side to the nature of this rugged, weather-beaten man of the sea.

The French-Canadian fishermen are musical folks, and Durelle dreams of bringing their traditional tunes to the rest of world. He aspires to become a professional singer.

Many years ago, theatrical impresario William A. Brady, plunged James J. Corbett into the heavyweight sweepstakes and considered his protege's winning the championship from John L. Sullivan importantly only as a stepping stone to a dramatic career.

Just so, today Yvonne Durelle hopes his success in the ring will help him launch himself as a folk singer.

Wins 3rd Consecutive Shutout Seventh for Chisox in 12; Yanks Drub A's; Cards Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers are finally getting good returns on the $30,000 bonus they paid southpaw Sandy Koufax four years ago.

Sandy's been handy of late, winning three games and saving another in Sunday 4pan while the last-place Dodgers have won six of seven in a come-alive drive that has produced their first fourgame winning streak of the season.

Koufax, 22, scored his sixth victory of the season Friday night, a 3-1 win over Milwaukee Braves. It stretched the Dodgers' winning lines over the Braves to seven this season.

Los Angeles moved to within six games of Milwaukee. However, the Braves' National League lead remained at 1½ games despite their fifth loss in seven games.

The second - place St. Louis Cardinals, who had won 11 straight, were beaten 5-4 by Philadelphia Phillies in 11 innings. San Francisco Giants' .902 percentage points behind St. Louis, lost 4-3 to Cincinnati Redlegs. Chicago Cubs took fifth place, cracking a tie with Pittsburgh with a 5-1 victory over Reds. Brooklyn Dodgers, who have lost seven in a row, remained in the cellar.

HOMERS DID IT

Solo home runs by Dick Gray and John Roseboro nailed it up for Dodgers, who had but five hits, four off starter-loser Joey Jay (4-6).

Koufax, 9-10 for his first three seasons, was 6-3 for 1958. He walked two men, struck out eight and gave up seven hits—three by Hank Aaron, who had 1-1 with his 12th homer in the fourth inning.

Dick Farrell (5-2) won his fourth in a row with one-hit, shutout relief over 1-2/3 innings for the Phils. Singles by Wally Post and Chicago Perstate and Dave Philley's pinch-hit double broke it up against Billy Muffett (3-3), fourth Card pitcher.

The Giants, down 4-1, hustled back. Daryl Spencer's 11th homer and rookie Orlando Cepeda's 16th, both two-run shots, for the Giants in the fifth, then blew it in the ninth.

Singles by Ed Bressoud, a walk and Johnny Temple's triple packed it away for reliefer Hal Jeffcoat (4-4). Jim Brosnan (4-3) lost it in relief for the Giants.

Moe Drabowsky had a two-hit shutout until Johnny Powers' first homer in the eighth, then needed Bill Henry's relief to tie ninth to gain a 6-7 record. Drabowsky's singled home a run in the fifth and the Cubs cinched it in the eighth on Dale Long's two-run single off 9ob Friend (9-8), who has lost four straight.

On June 15, 1950, Billy Johnson of New York Yankees hit a fifth-inning single. On April 16, 1953, Bobby Young of St. Louis Brewers doubled with two out in the seventh. Friday night, Ed Fitzgerald of Washington Senators lined a pinch double with two out in the ninth.

Three isolated hits stretched over eight years—yet each man all this stood between southpaw Billy Pierce and a no-hitter. And Fitzgerald's was the one that crusher yet, puncturing a perfect pitching performance by the Chicago White Sox veteran after 8 2-3 innings.

Pierce, 32, back on the beam after a terrible start this season, had turned his back on Fitzgerald at second and struck out Albie Pearson, nailing a 3-0 one pitch with a 2-1 count. Pearson hit this third consecutive shutout and seventh of the White Sox in 12 games.

It was Pierce's 29th shutout in his 10 years.

Meanwhile, New York Yankees downed Kansas City A's, Baltimore Orioles 13-3 and padded their American League lead to 8½ games over Chicago White Sox, who lost to Boston by beating the Red Sox 7-4, and Cleveland Indians' new manager Joe Gordon a 7-4 victory over Baltimore.

STRIKES OUT NINE

Pierce, 31, walked none and struck out nine as only Pitcher Gerald Zarilla reached base, scratching 333, reached base. Pierce, 7-5, pitched a two-hitter in the third against loser Russ Kemmerer (4-6) on a single by Jim Piersall and Ted Kluszewski's eight hits. Shegn Lollar's single counted the other two runs in the eighth.

The As, who had won six straight for the first time since 1953, matched three-run second inning with the Yanks when Harry Simpson socked a two-run homer, his first since returning to Kansas City from the Yanks. But the Yankees then scored six in the seventh, capped by Gil McDougald's three-run double.

The Tigers made it with four in the seventh, scored from behind on Red Wilson's two-run single and Frank Bolling's homer. Wall. The Red Sox scored their four in the first, chasing Frank Lary, who fell to reliefer Shocker. Dan Mossie (5-6) won it in relief.

Fangio Leads Top Drivers In Speed Trial

MONZA, Italy (AP) — World auto racing champion Juan Manuel Fangio Friday set the pace for practice with the fastest trial time for Sunday's 500-mile Monza race. But the Argentine's participation in the world's fastest car race still remained in doubt.

The 46-year-old racing great drove an American Dean Van Lines Special Maserati at an average speed of 171.4 miles an hour over the 2.6-mile banked course.

He also turned in the fastest lap with a record speed of 176.9 m.p.h. The fastest car gets the post position for Indianapolis speedway-type race.

But a new dispute threatened to keep Fangio out. The Dean Van Line representatives want to pay him the cash prize to American - style per cent. Fangio's manager said his man never races for less than 30 per cent.

Of the 19 cars entered in the race, only six turned in hurried Friday as rain hampered the runnings.

Harness Racing

OTTAWA (CP)—John Dunlop of Westboro, Ont., drove his horse Fresh King to a driving finish to win the feature pace Friday night at nearby Connaught Park.

Peach King, running in second place until the turn for home, clinched a half-length ahead of Hi Ensign from Ottawa was third. Bill Madill drove two Norval, Ont., horses to victory. He won with Victoria Van in a D trot and with Rose Direct in a D pace. Ontario horses won four other D paces. They were Rob Ric from Battersea, Buddy Direct H. from Cobourg, Hi Rudy Acres from Smiths Falls and Yours Truly from Caledonia.

Leafs Beaten Drop to Third; Royals Blanked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League has found a shifting back and forth among three hitters so often you need a scorecard to see who's in front.

After Wednesday Rocky Nelson of Toronto led with .338. Thursday's action saw Bob Lennon of Montreal jump in front with .341 as Nelson went .311less. Friday night Emilio Chacon of Havana banged out four hits to take the lead with .336.

Chacon's hitting was not enough as his mates bowed to Rochester Red Wings 8-5. The Leafs' loss was their 4-0 lead, scored four runs in the seventh inning to wrap it up. The Wings moved within 1½ games of Montreal as Richmon ed Virginians banged out four hits in beating Buffalo Bisons twice defeated Miami Marlins 9-3 and 5-2 and Columbus Jets outlasted Toronto Maple Leafs 7-6. Leafs dropped into third place as a result of the Wings.

Bob Weisler scattered seven singles in shutting out the Royals for the Virginians. Dennis Dobson and Tim Davis Boyer each collected three hits for the winners.

Buffalo Bisons' Bob Hoy Noble and Luke Easter led to Miami's double defeat. Noble got four rounds of hits, two doubles and a single while Easter hit his 16th home run, a double and a single. Noble blasted his two round trippers in his first game in the Bisons' uns.

The Jets jumped off to an early lead in the Bill Tuttle 14th home run in the first inning with a man on and were in ver trouble. They scored four times in that frame. Toronto made it 4-3 in the fifth on Ed Bouchee's two runs but each of the last two frames but could not quite catch up.

Gary Cowan Meets Weslock In Ont. Amateur Semi-Final

DUNDAS (CP)—Gary Cowan of Kitchener Rockway and Nick Weslock of Windsor Walkerville won his first Ontario amateur golf championship when Cowan was five years old, meet today in a semi-final match which should well produce this year's champion.

Weslock, 39, and Cowan, 19, had identical 74 scores in their performances throughout the four rounds of this year's Ontario amateur at Dundas Valley Golf Club.

They were joined in the semi-finals by Eric Hanson of Toronto Scarboro and Emerson Creed of London Hunt.

Weslock, who was in 1944 and 1950, is the only previous winner left. The final was scheduled for 2:15 p.m. EDT.

Cowan, who has never trailed through the 18-hole match play and was second in the 18-hole qualifying round, moved into the semi-finals Friday with a 4 and 2 victory over Jim Currie of Kitchener.

Weslock, Canadian amateur champion and athletic director of the Ontario Willingdon Cup team, ousted Ron Capra of Dundas Valley 3 and 2.

Cowan and Weslock met once before in the 1957 play in the Ontario amateur. It was in Kitchener in 1955 and Cowan, then 15, lost 1 up.

Hanson and Creed are both bidding for a spot in the Willingdon Cup team, since the amateur winner automatically qualifies. Since Cowan and Weslock are both on the team now, along with Hugh Paterson of Toronto St. George's, a victory by either will not change the team.

If either Hanson or Creed win, Gordon Ball of Toronto Weston will join the team. Ball was eliminated Ball in the fourth round of 4 and 3.

Creed, financial editor of the London Free Press, ousted Jack Kenney of London Highland 2 and 1. An occasional golfer who is returning to serious play this year, Creed had his hands full with Kenney, former Canadian professional who was reinstated two years ago.

Creed was two down at the end of nine but sank a 20-foot putt at the 10th to tie. He then won the 13th, 15th and 17th.

In the morning round, Kenney tied his match against defending champion Ray Cocle of Toronto Scarboro at the 18th and won it at the 19th. Creed ousted 1941 Gillet Bruce Bradley of Oshawa on the 20th; Weslock beat Gordon MacKenzie of Toronto Lambton 1 up; Capra defeated Jim Currie of London Highland 1 up; Morland ousted Bill Bell of Aurora 3 and 2; Cowan whipped Bill Parkes of Woodstock Oxford 4 and 3; Ball defeated Robert Bradley of Oshawa 3 and 2; and Hanson ousted Charles Pavanel of Kitchener Rockway 4 and 3.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — One of Portugal's best - known sports men, a prisoner aboard the hospital ship Gil Eannes, says his fondest dream is to swim Lake Ontario.

Joaquin Batista Pedira met Canada's Marilyn Bell in 1956 when she swam the English Channel and still remembers their meeting. "She's a terrific swimmer and gave me a lot of help and encouragement, said Joaquin, who two years earlier swam the channel from Calais to Folkestone in 12 hours, 25 minutes.

AWARDED MEDAL

The Portuguese government recognized the feat by giving Joaquin the Medal of Merit—the country's highest award for sports achievement.

He is a member of the crew of Gil Eannes, the long-distance swimmer has a hand in looking after the welfare of 5,000 fishermen operating on the banquise vessels on the Grand Banks.

Joaquin, speaking through an interpreter, said he has at least 200 medals for swimming in national and international events, and has scrapbooks full of magazine clippings. One Portuguese sports magazine devoted an entire issue to the 24-year-old hero. He started his swimming career at the age of seven.

For the last five years he has been the unchallenged holder of the 10-kilometre (6.2-mile) mile) swim. He covered the distance in 8 hours, 12 minutes in unseat champion Florvantl Aldo of Italy.

Joaquin said he has never been able to compete in the Olympic Games because "they don't have distance swims."

My fondest dream is to break the record for Lake Ontario next year."

SPONSOR NEEDED

But money is a problem and unless Joaquin can find a sponsor he won't be able to realize his ambition.

He trained for the 1954 English Channel swim in Portugal. By the time he arrived in England he was living in a broken-down car and cooking his own food at the side of the road to make ends meet.

Marilyn Bell swam Lake Ontario in 1954 when she was 16. She covered the 36 miles in 20 hours, 59 minutes. Her record Joaquin would have to break was set by Dorothy Fisher of England Aug. 13, 1956—18 hours, 53 minutes.

Joaquin isn't interested in prize money—he just wants a chance at the record. The stocky sea man, stands about five feet, six and weighs about 180 pounds. He finds it no harder to swim in fresh water than the more buoyant salt water.

In 1954, he entered an international 36-mile race at Atlantic City. Fifty-seven countries were represented but Joaquin finished seventh. However, "I was not in shape and the water was too warm."

Joaquin married a swimmer and has a 10-year-old boy and two girls, 12 and 14 years old.

WINS SECOND STRAIGHT

TORONTO (CP)—The featured race, the seventh, before 5,968 Play-day fans at Peter Dal Green's Our Guest, winning his second straight race at New Woodbine. The four-year-old horse covered the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5. Blue-belle Hill III was second, Nuthatch third, with Norwin G. third.

Tommy Bolt Draws Big Fine For Using Abusive Language

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. (AP)—Tommy Bolt, 1958 United States Open golf champion, is finding the crown rests heavy on his fevered brow.

Charges of abusive language and profane utterances directed since his recent victory prompted Harold Sargent, president of the U.S. Professional Golf Association, to impose a $500 fine on the erratic titleholder.

In a statement issued Friday after Bolt picked up at the end of nine holes of the $50,000 Long Island Open tournament, Harvey Penick, PGA tournament supervisor, said Bolt's case will be reviewed further by the PGA executive committee at the annual championship at Havertown, Pa., July 17 to 20. He added:

"Mr. Bolt has been on probation since last Dece. 30 by order of the executive committee and his conduct lately has been in violation of the PGA code of ethics, especially with reference to actions detrimental to sponsors, members of the PGA field staff and other PGA members."

Meanwhile, Masters champion Arnold Palmer held a three-stroke lead after two rounds. He had a 72 this morning to go with his first-round 66 for 138.

Jimmy Demaret was second with a 70 this morning to add to his 142. He had four birdies Friday and went one over par on four bogeys.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver had 70-72—145.

Jerry Magee of Toronto improved his showing with 79-71—150.

Bolt, three over par for the first nine holes, had a second-round shot about four feet from the pin on the ninth. He missed the putt, then proceeded to jab at the ball four times to wind up with a seven on the hole. He then quit.

Raynor said the incident was nothing to do with the fine, as Bolt already had started to play a consolation of unsavory incidents the last few days was responsible for the fine, Raynor said.

Busso Hands Carlos Ortiz First Defeat

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Busso, a former Canadian lightweight champion, handed Carlos Ortiz the first defeat of his 38-bout career Friday night by a split decision in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden. Ortiz weighed 137, Busso, 137¼.

Many boos greeted the verdict for the 24-year-old Busso.

Both referee Barney Felix and Judge Bill Recht scored it in favor of Busso. Judge Artie Schwartz scored it for Ortiz 6-4. The Associated Press had Busso on top 6-4.

Busso closed with a rush just when it seemed that Ortiz had taken charge. In fact, it was so close in the final stages that a vote for Busso in the 10th round was the decisive factor on the cards of referee Felix and judge Recht.

It was one of the best fights seen in the Garden this year, an interesting test of a free-swinging puncher (Busso) and a speedy boxer with the ability of stopping a solid body barrage (Ortiz). While referee Felix let them fight with one hand tied behind him, he commanded of the infighting. When he broke clinches it was Busso pounding. Busso charged to the front.

Just before the bell ended the eighth, Busso caught Ortiz with a right to the side of the head. Ortiz's legs went too afraid of the ring ropes for support.

It turned out later that Busso had injured his right hand as early as the fourth round. He will have to have it taped. It doesn't clear up in a day or so.

Senate Gets Exemption Bill For Pro Sport

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (Dem. Mo.) Friday introduced a duplicate of the bill passed by the House of Representatives to grant professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey broad exemption from the anti-trust laws.

"I feel such exemptions are necessary if we are to preserve for our present generation of professional sports on a nationwide basis," Hennings told the Senate.

An aide said Hennings introduced the bill in an effort to get it boosted to Senate prospects for the measure.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.), chairman of the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, said after the bill passed the House Tuesday that he regarded it with "great scepticism as too sweeping."

No decision has yet been made by the subcommittee on whether to hold hearings on the legislation.

Sets Record But Fails To Take Lead

DETROIT (AP)—Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay established a record for U.S. Women's Open Golf Friday but her five-under-par 68 failed to dislodge young Mickey Wright from the lead.

Miss Crocker, 43-year-old wife of the 1955 U.S. Open, burned up the Forest Lake Country Club with a 35-33 display in faltering start in which she went over par on two of the first five holes.

The best previous single-round score in the womens open was 71.

Miss Wright, protecting a one-stroke lead after the first 18 holes, fired a steady 72 in the second round and her 146 total at the halfway point was a stroke better than Miss Crocker's.

The trimmed down field of 40 will play 18 holes today to decide the championship.

Willie Mays Asks for Help To Find Out 'What's Wrong'

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, disturbed because his batting average has shrunk 70 points from .428 last year, despite a generally pleasant Friday for an ailing star, turned to tell him what he's doing wrong.

In a Cincinnati interview with Harry Grayson, New York Sun columnist, the star centre fielder of San Francisco Giants asked his baseball fellow to watch him. I mean some one who knows the ball knows all about it, and what I done when I started and how I been I guess to go."

Mays said that outside of Hank Bauer, the Giants' veteran outfielder, he is a man he is not "afraid" to tell him what they think he is doing wrong.

An offer to help was not long in coming.

In San Francisco, Letty O'Doul, a spring training batting coach for the San Francisco Giants, said he'd be "tickled to death" to work with Willie "if he feels I can help him."

O'Doul, twice a National League batting champion, said he'd "go to the Willie I'm doing wrong. He did not elaborate.

O'Doul worked with Giant hitters this spring, but didn't work with Mays. Mays asked for help then, O'Doul said.

Despite his slump, which has handcuffed him without an extra base hit or a run batted in during the last 18 games, Mays is batting .372. That's still good enough to lead the league.

"Some guys hit .350 but they don't care," Willie said. "But here this game, if I get to do something and I don't do it, I feel terrible. I get very much keen about it. That's why I want some older fellow to tell me then I'm doing wrong."

Bobby Green was the loser in seven innings of pitching for seven runs on eight hits. He whiffed ten. Mervin Bell and Carson gave up four hits, fanning one and walking none.

Bobcats got their one run in the fourth when Crawford was hit by a pitch and scored on Pinkney Bell's infield single. Their second came in the sixth to tie the game at 2-2. Pinkney Bell, Barclay, Faulkner's double and an error producing the run.

The winners scored the only goal of the game near the twenty minute mark of the first half. Bowling a corner from close in on a hard drive. Northern dominated play in the second half but the fine work by Batawa fullbacks Ted Andrews and Ken Bell, and Eveden missed a heart breaker when his drive hit the far post and bounced out.

Bob Crosby Escapes Day TV By Subbing for Perry Como

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Crosby has managed to escape the daytime-TV stigma by slipping into Perry Como's easy shoes.

But it wasn't easy.

Baritone Bob thrived for 4½ years on a CBS afternoon show, and he considers it the greatest experience in the world. But it also put a dent on his career.

"I can't understand the network thinking," he sighed. "They believe because a guy his been on daytime television that he can't do anything else.

"I think that's ridiculous, just as I think the networks have underestimated the daytime viewers. I have found that people who watch TV during the day are just as sharp and demanding as those who watch at night. Yet the standard of daytime programming gets progressively worse."

Bob had done nothing on TV since going off his daytime show last October, and he blamed the attitude of the TV Moguls for his inactivity. The break came when NBC was searching for a singer to sub for Como.

Now, with vacation and long weekend driving coming up, a safety check of your headlights is more important than ever. Head-lights may become misaimed in any direction — up, down, left or right.

When they do go off, they're definitely unsafe. They cut down the power you need — and the low beams may send a glare directly into the eyes of on-coming drivers and a blinding reflection in the rear view mirror of the motorist you are following.

And, when low beams are misdirected, it also means that the bright or upper beams are both inefficient and unsafe.

You can't check the condition of your headlights simply by looking at them . . . but a quick and simple service station test will tell you if they are on the beam.

W. M. writes: "Could a clogged exhaust line bring about burned exhaust valves? What else might be the cause?"

(A) Yes — by preventing t h e full escape of heat. There are several other possible causes: engine hot spots, late timing, very lean fuel mixture, unusually high speeds or trouble in the valves themselves.

• • •

From J. E.: "Despite a new battery, my car is hard to start and the lights are very weak if the engine is off. When the engine is running, the lights brighten up quite a bit if you race the motor."

(A) Look for loose battery terminals and corroded, split or frayed cables.

R. S. asks: "My car's low oil mileage has been blamed on a rusted thermostat which interfered with water flow. How does this affect the oil system?"

(A) Increased engine temperature causes oil to thin out, vaporize and burn away more readily. Extreme heat also causes cylinder expansion or distortion permitting more oil to escape past piston rings.

L. O. writes: "You have advised against changing brands of oil. Does this mean that I should only use the brand I now have in the engine . . . or what does it mean?"

(A) If you want to switch o i l brands, wait until your next oil change . . . or, in other words, never mix in one brand with another. Oil formulas differ and the brands you intermix may be incompatible.

You Can't Tame Fully Grown Lions and Tigers Says Beatty

Clyde Beatty, one of the few lion trainers left in the business, is a different sort of person from the usual type newspapermen encounter in their daily "beats".

Mr. Beatty was the star attraction at Clyde Beatty Circus, which played in Belleville all day Saturday. It is in Oshawa today, Hamilton tomorrow.

Mr. Circus, as he is called by many people in show business, is no novice at the game of training lions. He has been at it for almost 30 years.

Two years ago he bought his first life insurance!

In an interview last night with The Ontario Intelligencer, Mr. Beatty said that the lions he trains are wild.

"There is nothing tame about them," he said. "I prefer to get my lions from Africa when they are a year old because they would become old enough to respect me. Besides, what would the crowds say if they saw me go into a cage full of kittens?"

How long does he keep the average big cat?

"I don't keep him until he dies of old age. Just the minute I think a lion or a tiger is losing its respect for me, I unload it. For instance, that lion down in the States which tore a little girl apart a few weeks ago was formerly with this circus. I knew it had lost its respect for me, so I gave it to a zoo. My oldest lion here is about 10 years of age."

Is he a tamer or a trainer?

"Good gracious!" he said. "I'm a trainer. You can't tame fully grown lions and tigers."

MAULED FEW TIMES

Is his work dangerous?

He looked as he said: "Well, I've been mauled quite a few times. Once a lion broke away from me to the hospital, too. And at least twice I came close to having a limb amputated. The big danger is not so much from their sharp claws as it is from infection. Big cats have filthy claws."

Mr. Beatty showed this reporter some of the scars he has acquired from 30 years of training jungle cats. To say he had a dozen would be an understatement. He's got plenty of scars, big ones and small ones.

Had he always wanted to be a lion trainer?

"No, I ran away from home when I was a boy and hooked up with a circus. I became a cage boy and the trainer's assistant. He got mauled, so I took his place. And I haven't been out of the cat cage since."

Is he afraid of his lions and tigers?

"I wouldn't say I am afraid of them now. After all, I've been working with them for more than a score of years. What I do have, though, is a healthy respect for them. I wouldn't trust any of my cats as far as I could throw them. But the dangers in the cage are not as great as they might seem —provided I work lions and tigers together. You see, for some reason, lions and tigers hate each other. I remember once a tiger jumped me and had me sprawl-eagled on the floor. I thought I was a goner, when suddenly a big lion attacked the tiger. I think that's the only thing that saved me from meeting my Waterloo."

NO LOADED PISTOL

Does he carry a loaded pistol into the cage?

At that question, Mr. Beatty threw back his head and broke into peals of laughter.

"No, I carry a pistol loaded with blanks. Every so often my gun handler reloads for me. The gun is to keep the attention of the cats on me. That's the only way I can control them. At a circus there are plenty of things that can distract a cat from business. The pistol I carry in a holster on my hip is my son's cap pistol. It looks impressive. I like to think that because the audience thinks I carry a loaded pistol, that if trouble should start in the big cage, the people would be less likely to become hysterical. Of course, I don't know whether or not my cats know the gun is phony."

LOVES ALL ANIMALS

Does he have any pets?

"No, just my big cats. But I love all animals."

Can he tell when a big cat is going to be trouble?

"Sometimes. After working with them for a while I become able to tell from their facial appearances just what is going on in their minds. That doesn't work all the time, though. Just as soon as I think I'm in for trouble, I try to get out of the cage, fast. There have been a few times when I didn't move fast enough. Big cats are temperamental, and therefore, unpredictable, too."

What was his most ghastly experience as a trainer?

"A few years ago I was playing at a big U.S. city. I forget which city it was. Anyway, I had staked a tiger in the basement of a seven-storey building. Word came to me that the tiger had disappeared. When I finally found it, the animal was on the seventh floor. And was he mad! He made a time getting him to walk down seven flights of stairs. I can tell you that was one time when my heart was in my mouth"

Given 15 Years For Rock Beating Of Recluse of 64

CHATHAM (CP)—Described as a menace to the community, Lyle Wallace, 23, formerly of Dresden, was sentenced Friday to 15 years in penitentiary, for the rock beating of a 64-year-old Dresden recluse.

Victim of the robbery with violence, Hugh Logan, 64, is still in hospital, recuperating from the fractured skull and other head injuries inflicted by Wallace in the May 4 attack.

An accomplice, John E. Countryman, 22, also of Dresden, was sentenced to two years less a day.

Brought into court from hospital to testify last week, Logan said the two men entered his home, demanded his money and liquor, and one of them beat him with a four-inch rock used as a door stop.

Protest Barring Of Reporter

MONTREAL (CP)—Union Canadienne des Journalistes de Langue Francaise, a professional association of French-language journalists, Friday night issued a statement of protest against the exclusion of reporter Guy Lamarche, of Montreal La Presse, from Premier Duplessis' press conference in Quebec City.

When reporters filed into the premier's office, Mr. Duplessis noticed Mr. Lamarche, reporter for the Montreal newspaper which since June 24 has run a series of stories critical of a transaction by which Quebec Natural Gas Corporation took over the gas distribution system of Quebec Hydro.

Mr. Duplessis refused to shake hands with Mr. Lamarche and told him to leave.

"I find this inadmissible and I protest!" Mr. Lamarche said as he was led out.

"You are impudent," said the premier.

Town Engineer Figures Quickly, Gets off Hook

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A town engineer, accustomed to slide rules and calculus, tried old-fashioned arithmetic Thursday when he faced a charge of driving through a red light.

William Colgan was accused of running through the intersection "four car lengths behind a woman driver who paused on the caution light."

Colgan figured quickly.

He was going 30 miles an hour, he said. Four car lengths equal 64 feet. Thirty miles an hour equals 44 feet a second. Four car lengths—1.4 seconds.

Most caution lights stay lit more than 1.4 seconds, he said.

"Reasonable doubt," said the judge, finding Colgan not guilty.

Garden Notes

Now Is the Time to Move Tulips

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

If you have planned to replant, replace or to thin your tulips this is the time to do it, before the foliage has completely disappeared. If you want to move the bulbs to a new bed prepare the soil to a depth of 15 to 18 inches before planting, or 10 inches for shallow planting. Tulips should have at least five inches of soil over the top of the bulb.

Where soil conditions are good and a long range program is desired plant the bulbs 13 inches deep.

Some gardeners dry and store the bulbs but this usually results in considerable loss. They keep better underground. If you want to store the bulbs until fall dig a trench six inches deep and arrange the bulbs close together along this. Preserve all the foliage possible. It feeds the bulbs until it dries up. Fill in and firm the soil over them. Mark the ends of the trench, as the leaves will disappear. The bulbs will keep perfectly until early fall frosts have killed off the annuals and you can prepare a new bed for them.

If you are planting for permanence loosen the soil thoroughly. Mix in some humus and sand if your soil is heavy clay. Clay packs solid and excludes air and affords poor drainage. Bulbs will rot if allowed to remain in a cold water too long. Mix some bone meal in the soil before placing in the bulbs.

There are several advantages to deep planting. It discourages the formation of bulblets. The bulb increases in size and produces better bloom the following year.

English growers report that deep planted tulips are less subject to botrytis "tulips fire." American growers report good control of this with an all purpose dust which contains captan. Deep planting puts the bulbs down below mole tunnels and damage by chipmunks and mice.

Then too deep plantings are not disturbed by shallow plantings of such summer bulbs as cannas, dwarf dahlias, tuberous rooted begonias and gladiolus. Any of the annuals may be planted between the tulips to conceal the dying foliage which will eventually disappear.

If on the other hand you wish to change your beds every year or two plant them seven to nine inches deep according to the size of the bulbs. The shallow planting to increase the number of a particular variety and if you are not sure you have found the right location for a certain type of tulip,

Gen. de Gaulle And Macmillan Reach Accord

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today they had established a common attitude for close co-operation between the two nations.

In a joint communique after two days of talks, the two statesmen said they were in complete agreement on the paramount necessity of the defence of the free world.

De Gaulle and Macmillan, inserting a personal touch into usually dry diplomatic documents, said they "renewed the bonds of friendship and esteem forged 15 years ago" when they were together in Algeria during the Second World War.

The communique made no reference to any of the specific subjects that the two statesmen discussed but it is known that de Gaulle considers France's determination to become an atomic power.

BID FOR MORE SUPPORT

A diplomatic spokesman said the British listened appreciatively to France's bid for more support in gaining atomic arms for herself in exchange for the British feel, as does the United States, that these nations should possess the atomic bomb, the easier will be any future atomic disarmament agreement.

Most of the topics covered by Macmillan and de Gaulle were re-examined today by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The British sources said both Macmillan and de Gaulle had agreed on the importance of maintaining the independence of Lebanon. They thought it would be possible for the United Nations to settle Lebanese affairs without foreign intervention.

Arson Suspected

DUNNVILLE (CP) — Arson is suspected after fire broke out early Sunday in the nine-room frame home of Mrs. Alice Funk.

No one was injured. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Mrs. Funk, widowed mother of two children, was in bed when a door slam and got up to find the downstairs on fire. She woke her children and two roommates.

Police said a can was found an empty coal oil bottle and a partially-burned plastic bag filled with matches. Fred Funk's purse, with $78 missing, was found outside the house.

The Ontario fire marshal's office will investigate.

STILL UNKNOWN

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Real summer weather arrived to-stay across Ontario for the week-end and is expected to last through the Dominion Day holiday. Today and Tuesday afternoon temperatures near to 90 are expected throughout southern Ontario. Isolated afternoon or evening thunderstorms may bring local relief. Nights will be cooler over Northern Ontario and prospects for the holiday are none too good. A storm centre over South Dakota is expected to spread rain and thunderstorms into districts north of Lake Superior tonight and Tuesday. Holiday prospects in Central Ontario are far rather cloudy weather, somewhat warmer Tuesday, with scattered showers or thunder-showers tonight and Tuesday.

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's rebels held 39 kidnapped Americans and three Canadians today in a bold new attempt to draw the world's attention back to their sputtering revolt against President Fulgencio Batista.

U.S. Consul Park Wollam made contact Sunday with a rebel source deep in the mountains of eastern Cuba but there was no indication he was making any progress in negotiating for the captives' release.

Twenty-eight American service men disappeared during the weekend, 27 of them on an overnight picnic excursion from the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo. Seventeen sailors and 10 marines were captured 30 miles east of Guantanamo when the mountainous country side near Castro's Sierra Maestra hideout in Oriente Province. The other man was grabbed Saturday as he was walking just outside the base.

After Castro's war of nerves fizzled three months ago, uprisings in Havana and elsewhere in the island were quickly crushed by Batista forces. The rebels withdrew to the hills, but remained relatively quiet. The kidnappings are seen as trying to flush out the guerrillas.

Scattered incidents in the following months caused little alarm.

SEIZED ENGINEERS

But last Thursday night the rebels struck again in force and seized 10 American and two Canadian engineers at the Nicaro Moa Mining Company on the northern coast of Oriente Province.

Then two sugar mill executives were carried off in separate kidnappings in Oriente Province.

The two Canadians employed by the mining company are Hector old G. Kristjanson, 37, of Geraldton, Ont., and Edward Lewis Hanson, of Cornwall, Ont. Kristjanson's wife now lives in Santiago, Cuba's 2nd largest city, Geraldton.

Cannon's wife said in Cornwall that Kristjanson went to Cuba in March to work on the Moa Company's copper mine project.

FAIL TO RETURN

The excursion party of U.S. military personnel failed to return to Guantanamo on schedule Friday night. Their empty bus was found on the highway. Two Cubans, presumably the bus driver and a companion, also were reported missing.

Although the U.S. Embassy reported the rebels had freed from their bus and driven into the mountains, there was no official expression of fear for their safety or that of the other captives. Wollam, who has talked to a reliable rebel source that the 12 engineers were safe, said simply:

In the past, Castro's men have been studiously polite to foreign nationals and there was no harmed after the kidnapping made its desired publicity splash.

They ask only the blame for the Moscow-Begrade split on Yugoslav revisionism.

The rebels' silence on Negro and other leaders of the 1956 Hungarian uprising was tragic, he said in a broadcast Wasser 1, but was not for Poles to judge its failures.

He went on to charge that Nagy slipped from revisionism toward capitalism before condemning revolutionary pressure. This was exactly the charge levelled by the Hungarian communique announcing the executions two weeks ago.

HALF-WAY MARK IN HOLIDAY SEES DEATH TOLL HIGH

34 Die in Traffic And 19 Drowned

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's toll of accidental deaths reached 55 as the four-day Dominion Day holiday weekend passed the half-way point at 7 a.m. today.

A Canadian Press survey began at 6 p.m. local time Friday showed 34 dead in highway mishaps, with the dangerous home-ward-bound traffic rush still to come. There were 19 drownings and three dead in other accidents.

The Canadian Safety Council predicted 45 persons would be killed in traffic in the four-day period ending at midnight Wednesday. Last year 54 died during the three-day weekend.

The Ontario man was killed by a train and a Quebec child strangled in his crib harness while his parents were swimming. No fatalities have been reported in Newfoundland or Prince Edward Island.

The toll by provinces, with traffic deaths bracketed: Nova Scotia 2 (1), New Brunswick 1 (1), Quebec 19 (12), Ontario 16 (9), Manitoba 2 (1), Alberta 8 (3), Saskatchewan 1, British Columbia 6 (2).

Ontario deaths

Ambrose Conway, 57, Kingston, was killed when struck by a train near his home Friday night.

Regina Pakalka, 2, Toronto, died when she ran in front of an auto Friday night.

Arthur LeBlanc, 81, was killed Saturday when his motorcycle he had just bought collided with a car in Swansea, Toronto suburb.

A native of Sydney, N.S., he had moved to Toronto two years ago to work.

At Fort Frances, Ont., Norman Samuel Feil, 49, of Blackhawk, was killed Saturday when the car the truck in which he was a passenger collided with a car.

Passengers in the car were not severely injured.

Douglas Gordon Montgomery, 21, of Toronto was killed early Sunday when his car went out of control and turned over near Unionville 15 miles northeast of Toronto.

Police said Montgomery was thrown underneath the car.

HIT BY CAR

Five - year - old Thomas Eric Critchley was fatally injured Sunday when hit by a car on the Mud Lake road bridge about two miles southeast of Pembroke.

Police said the boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Critchley of Pembroke, suddenly darted across the bridge into the path of a car driven by Robert Lisk of Pembroke.

Two Escapees Held

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two escapees from Guelph Reformatory were captured in a Peterborough home Saturday night by two city detectives and two police constables. Captured were John Garfield Killingbeck and Donald Allan Dillon, who escaped from the reformatory June 24.

Police said the prisoners told them they had broken into two farmhouses, obtained eight cars and stolen two since their escape.

Army Delivers Water to Rebels In Comical, Cruel Lebanese War

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP) — Whatever this thing is that is going on in Lebanon today, it is cruel and shockingly cold-blooded.

It would be comical, too, but there is no comedy in the sight of people being killed and cities being strangled.

There is no comedy in the prospect of warring politicians apparently willing to see this lovely little country turn to pieces rather than surrender own selfish purposes.

Take Tripoli, for example. Rashid Karameh, a rich merchant in that northern city, is entrenched in the Sunni Moslem district in the centre of the city and the Mediterranean seaport. He is far from isolated. The former premier has regular telephone conversations with Lebanese premier Saeb Salam, another rebs' chief similarly entrenched in an eagle's nest in the heart of this capital.

And the head of the government-owned telephone system is none other than the brother of President Camille Chamoun, the man both rebel-leaders are sworn to defeat.

This trans-Atlantic flight was labelled Jump Moat IV, the last in a series in which Canadian pilots delivered some 53 CF-100's supplied under the Belgian air force under a joint Canada-U.S. mutual aid agreement. Some 17 Canucks took off in this one, 11 of them for Belgium, the remainder for Canada's No. 1 Air Division in Europe.

Lebanese Govt. Pessimistic About Getting Aid From UN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rebels drove into hills overlooking Beirut today and security forces fought back with jet planes, artillery and armored cars.

The surprise thrust brought rebel mountain fighters closer to the capital and Beirut International Airport than at any time since the revolt began May 10.

As pessimism mounted among government officials on the prospects of United Nations support in stopping the fighting security forces struck back immediately and wrested two hills from the rebels near Chemlan village. The fighting raged to midafternoon.

The rebels were followers of mountain leader Kamal Jumblatt, who holds a large area south and east of Beirut.

Other rebel forces in the northern oil city of Tripoli were trying to link up with insurgent forces near the Syrian border. Government troops ringing Tripoli were attempting to contain the revolt.

The battle Sunday centred on the U.S. Presbyterian hospital, which stands on a hill surrounded by rebel territory. Bullets ricocheted off the hospital's outer walls and it was shaken by explosions.

Inside the hospital were 25 Lebanese patients and 42 Lebanese staff members. They reported by telephone Sunday that their reinforced patrol of government guards was still there. American personnel quit the hospital two weeks ago. The rebels were trying to capture the hospital for their own use.

The government appeared convinced that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, now in New York after his Middle East visit last week, would describe the fighting in Lebanon as an internal matter despite Beirut's charges of "massive interference" by the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

Government sources said the secretary-general will be told that Hammarskjold calls a new meeting of the Security Council, which has been his observer team in Lebanon.

The secretary-general fails to call a meeting of the Security Council, the sources said Lebanon will ask the UN General Assembly to plead for a large UN emergency force to patrol the Lebanese borders to prevent infiltration of foreign troops and arms.

There was little hope that such a force could escape a Soviet veto in the Security Council.

West and Nasser Avoid Showdown Over Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western leaders and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic alike showed signs today of their weekend of backing away from a head-on collision over Lebanon.

Washington's fears that the Middle East crisis over Lebanon might lead to a general Middle East war have declined.

U.S. officials said a Western showdown with Nasser over Mediterranean may have impressed the pan - Arabic government at Cairo with the dangers Nasser 1 would be unwise for him to go too far in supporting the Lebanese rebel cause.

Some officials here thought it was encouraging that Nasser decided to go through with his plans for a visit to Yugoslavia. He set sail Saturday on a trip that will keep him away from Cairo for about three weeks.

Others said there was a danger of wishful thinking about the Egyptian leader's plans. They said his absence from his own capital would be a smart cover if he is planning some major stroke by which pro-Nasser rebels would seek to crush the present pro-Western government in Lebanon.

In London, several Western and neutral powers—Canada among them—were reported to have informally expressed misgivings to Britain and the United States about any intervention in the Lebanese crisis even under the flag of the United Nations.

Diplomatic informants said resistance to intervention—especially by the big Western powers—has mounted in the last few days and has come mainly from Canada, France, Yugoslavia and India.

Gomulka Defends Nagy Execution

WARSAW (AP)—Polish Communists has lined up with the Kremlin in lashing Titoism and defending the execution of Imre Nagy.

They add the blame for the Moscow-Begrade split on Yugoslav revisionism.

The rebels' silence on Nagy and other leaders of the 1956 Hungarian uprising was tragic, he said in a broadcast Wasser 1, but was not for Poles to judge its failures.

He went on to charge that Nagy slipped from revisionism toward capitalism before condemning revolutionary pressure. This was exactly the charge levelled by the Hungarian communique announcing the executions two weeks ago.

Russians Arrive At Geneva for Nuclear Talks

GENEVA (AP)—Western scientists planned a meeting here today to work out their strategy for the month - long conference on ways to insure compliance with a ban on test explosions of nuclear weapons.

Although the United States and Britain refused to agree that a test ban itself would be the chief aim of the conference, there was every expectation that discussion on the Soviet bloc would participate.

Meeting today to plan joint policy for the Western bloc were chief Western delegates: Dr. James R. Killian, jr., of the United States, Sir John Cockcroft of Britain, Professor Yves Andre Rocard of France and Dr. E. Solandi of Canada.

A seven-member Russian advance party arrived Sunday night. It included the delegation chief, Professor Evgeny K. Fedorov.

MORE EXPECTED

Eleven more scientists were expected from Prague today. Premiership Nikita Khrushchev has included delegates from Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania, rounding out the Communist group.

The arrival of the Russians raised Western hopes that Moscow would not carry out its threat to boycott the conference unless the United States in effect committed itself to a three-year ban on suspension of nuclear weapon tests.

Fedorov, asked whether his group would take part in the conference, would only say: "We will wait and see. Please be patient."

The Communists, even though they had sent their delegates to Geneva, might try to stall the talks at the outset. The conference could be bogged down in political problems before it could get to the technical problems that the West considers the chief business of the talks.

BOMBS PLANTED IN 2 OKANAGAN VALLEY CITIES

Kelowna B.C. Hotel Room Is Damaged

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Terrorists planted bombs in two Okanagan Valley hotels and aboard a ferry during the week-end. One exploded.

The incidents brought immediate assurances by provincial Attorney Minister Phil Gagliardi that all those responsible for the "vicious bombings" will be rounded up before Princess Margaret visits British Columbia beginning July 12.

No one was injured when a bomb exploded at the Willow Inn Hotel here. Damage of about $1,000 was caused to a hotel room.

All three bombs were planted in men's washrooms, probably Saturday, and two appeared to have been timed to go off at about the same time.

The bomb that exploded went off at 2:15 a.m. Sunday. A second was discovered in the Lake View Hotel in Vernon, 30 miles north of here, at 1:30 a.m. and the third at 2:30 a.m. The third bomb was found aboard the ferry Sequine on Lake Okanagan and was thrown overboard by a crew member.

LATEST IN SERIES

Police declined to say who was suspected of placing the bombs. They described them as the latest in a series which has resulted in railway tracks being blasted, communications disrupted and residents of the B.C. interior terrorized.

Similar incidents in past years were attributed to Doukhobors. Members of the dissident, pacifist sect have burned homes, staged nude parades and flouted authority in a bid for recognition of their grievances on education and land.

The spread of terrorism has arisen frequently in B.C. since it was announced that Princess Margaret would tour the province.

Provincial authorities denied Monday RCMP is particularly concerned about the possibility of attacks on the royal party. The RCMP is expected to have days in Kelowna.

Mr. Gagliardi, commenting on the weekend terrorism, told reporters he was "not at liberty to say what is happening or what will happen, but I am certain the RCMP is going well on top of this serious situation."

He added: "I am satisfied the security arrangements for Princess Margaret's visit are quite sufficient. We have been (on the terrorists) rounded up before Princess Margaret gets here."

Gas War on At Windsor

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor area service stations have slashed gasoline prices as much as 35.9 cents a gallon in a gas price war that began last March 4.

One dealer said he had dropped his price to 33.9 cents a gallon. Others were at 34.9. One dealer reported he was losing $10 on every tankful he sold.

At Woodstock, the prices of brands of standard gasoline dropped to 31.9 cents a gallon Monday before the board to compete with TCA on its transcontinental service, said Mr. Wheatcroft's report would be prepared for use at the ministers' meeting and the board in connection with the hearings.

Senate Committee Opens Inquiry Into Rackets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators set out today to show that a powerful underworld syndicate is fattening on helpless businesses and labor unions.

Chairman John L. McClellan, Arkansas Democrat and counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the special investigating committee pictured the inquiry as aimed at unmasking schemes in which they said:

1. Racketeers, operating behind respectable fronts, infiltrate and make collusive labor contract deals with unions that fail to gain an unfair advantage over legitimate competitors.

2. Racketeers quietly muscle in on businesses that they use as fronts, pouring into them profits from narcotics and gambling. The objectives here are to conceal unlawful sources of this income and to get a financial edge over competing firms.

Kennedy told a press conference during the day, he said:

"There is no question that there is an underworld organization that has leadership, that has authority, and that takes action against those who challenge it. Some call it the Mafia. Some call it syndicate."

MAY SHOW TIEUP

McClellan said the hearings will show a continuing tie between such a syndicate and gangster Charles (Lucky) Luciano, who was deported to Italy.

McClellan said it may take four months or more of hearings to get the facts he says are needed to deal with the syndicate. He said 60 witnesses have been subpoenaed.

The committee chose to launch the hearings in an effort to get at more facts about the meeting of the heads of racketeering syndicates and others to Apalachin, N.Y., last fall. The reasons for the gathering, he said, have ever learned them, remain secret.

Investigators say figures to be called early are Vito Genovese, New York mobster, and Russell Bufalino, a Pittston, Pa., racketeer the government is trying to deport to Italy. Both were at the Apalachin meeting.

McClellan said the inquiry will be limited to the witness stand James R. Hoffa, president of the International Teamsters Committee has accused of conniving with gangsters to enhance his union power.

Belleville Rink Wins District Title at Kingston

Local bowlers snatched the major prize at the district playdowns at Kingston on Saturday, when a rink composed of Ken Ashley, lead, Claude D. Tice, second, Garn Dobbs, vice skip and Jerry Hyde, skip, won the rink competition. A doubles pair of Austin Putnam and Wilbur Kingston of Campbellford will represent the district in the doubles when the Ontario of Trenton was first in the singles. The colts competition in trebles for those with four years or less experience in bowling was won by the Trenton Club. One of the members of that rink was stricken with a heart attack and died a few hours later in the hospital. The Belleville rink was behind in the score at the time and they forfeited their rights.

The games were payed in brilliant sunshine and at greens that were lightning fast. Austin Putnam of Campbellford, chairman of the district, was in charge of the play and was assisted by Art Armstrong of Kingston, in arranging the draws. The women of the women's section of the Kingston Club served sandwiches, pies and coffee during the play which was much appreciated by the outside bowlers. There were four rinks to a pair and doubles, and four single players from Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford and Kingston entered rinks in the 'olts contest.

In the trebles the Belleville team raced a victory over the Kingston club and then defeated the strong Trenton on the last end, while being down for practically all of the game. In the finals the Belleville entry defeated Campbellford in a close game. The Campbellford pair defeated the Kingston entry in the first draw of the doubles, while the Belleville entry was more outbowled than outbowled in losing to the Trenton combination. In the finals Campbellford had a good margin over the Trenton pair.

TOUGH SINGLE MATCHES

In the singles battle it was a ding dong struggle in every game. In the competition the bowler who reaches a count of 21 before his opponent is declared the winner. Ernie Jones lost a toughie to William VanTassel in eventual victory, while Dick Edney of Kingston won over Dwight Bennett of Campbellford. In the final it was a see-saw battle but Mr. McAdam was the winner. The lone entry from Belleville, which included Robert Carter, William VanTassel and George McGee were hurried-ly got together on Friday night for competition in their first attempt at district play, This competition was on a par with about the three - quarter mark, James Rice of the Kingston team was stricken with a heart ailment ure. He was taken to hospital, but died before the games were completed.

The second stage of the playdowns will take place in Belleville on Wednesday, July 23rd, and in this stage the winners of four districts, rinks, doubles, singles, will play a round robin series and the unusual winners will move on to Brampton for the Provincial finals on Saturday, August 2nd. The winners on Saturday last will receive district medals and the clubs from which they originate will be given pennants to hang in the clubhouse. In all it was a grand day of bowling under delightful weather conditions.

Four mixed rinks entered by "Davey" Davison, Wally Laverne, Percy Graham and Gordon Watkin will take part in the mixed rink tourney arranged by the Kingston Club for Dominion Day. There are 36 rinks entered and valuable prizes will be given the winners. All three - game winners, one two-game and one one-game winners will be eligible for prizes. Walter Cable is in charge of the draw and the first game will be played shortly after one o'clock.

Another monster jitney is being staged by the local club for a week from tonight at the green on Yeomans Street. Fifty members of the Kingston club have been invited to play with the local bowlers. There will be prizes and refreshments and a real good time is promised. The members of the local club are asked to put their names in early so early that the draw can be made in plenty of time so there will be no delay in the play. It is hoped to play three eight-end games during the evening.

Next Saturday at Trenton play will be conducted for the beautiful Benedict-Proctor trophy. This trophy at one time was played for by rinks and a Belleville rink of Claude D. Tice, Gordon Vince, Percy Graham and "Davey" Davison won it for the first time in competition but a few years ago it was changed to a trebles tournament. A number of Belleville rinks have entered to play in this tournament and anyone wishing to play should get in touch with George Green, who is in charge of the tournament. It is expected only one draw will be conducted.

The rinks and scores at Kingston were:

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed to easier today in dull, moderately morning trading.

Index changes in most cases were small, less than a quarter of a point. An exception, however, were base metals, which lost a bit more than a point on index. Industrials and golds eased slightly while western oils had a small index gain.

The trading pace was slightly faster than Friday with an 11 a.m. volume of 2,000,000 shares compared with 870,000 at the same time Friday.

All industrial price changes were fractional with losses holding a slim numerical edge over gains.

Hudson Bay, Falconbridge, International Nickel, Noranda, Quemont and Sherritt were easier among senior base metals. Falconbridge was a 15-cent loser at $6.25 among index golds.

SHOOTS BANDIT

NORTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— "Don't say anything," patrolman Ralph Rex cautioned his companions at a crowded restaurant. "I'll wait until he gets his hands on the trays." A masked gunman scooped up cash register trays containing $800 and shouldered through the doors. Rex fired three shots into his back. The bandit fell dead. Police Chief Karl Engle promoted Rex to sergeant on the spot.

Winds Hamper City Bandsmen At Concert

The first half of the summer season of band concerts to be staged on Victoria Park is now history but before the August and early September series commences local bandsmen have a big job.

That is either that the wind stops blowing, or that the city can arrange some sort of a wind screen to protect bandsmen and keep their band concert in one place.

Sunday's concert by the Belleville Municipal and Kinsmen Band attracted the customary good crowd at the park, but again the bandsmen were hampered by the strong wind blowing in off the bay.

Bandmaster Alf Cooper noted that a canvas screen at back-stop to protect the bandmen from the wind would be greatly appreciated.

The summer series of band concerts is being staged by the Belleville Municipal and Kinsmen Band, the Salvation Army Band, and the Quinte Highland Pipe Band.

The month of July will be holiday time for bandmen with the second half of the series to get underway in August.

Child Thrown From Car as Door Unlatches

Thrown out of her father's car onto the highway when the rear door came unlatched, two-year-old Barbara Ann Finkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Finkle, 72 Dundas St. West, suffered minor head lacerations, brush burns and bruises to her body on Sunday afternoon.

The accident occurred as the family was on their way to the Outlet Beach in Prince Edward county for an afternoon picnic.

The father had stopped on the East Lake store to make some purchases and the car was again gaining momentum when the door flew open, catapulting the little girl out of the car. The girl landed on her head on the roadway.

The injured girl was brought part way back to Belleville by car and was taken the rest of the way by Bush's Ambulance.

Mrs. Finkle said that although it was feared "Marny" had suffered a broken neck, examination at the hospital revealed no bones were broken.

She quoted the doctor as saying that an older person would have suffered a broken neck in the fall.

Museum Bldg. To Be Built On Price Area

Definite decision to proceed with the construction of a museum building at the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite was reached Saturday as members of the museum provisional advisory board met at the West Wind Motel.

The meeting, attended by approximately 20 members of the provisional board, named a committee of three, Pearl Wiegand, Michael Chubb and Hastings County Warden Lloyd Price to map out the area for the first museum structure.

Plans for the structure to be of an especially attractive design, will be drawn by Mr. Wiegand of the firm Watson and Wiegand of Belleville. Native stone will be used freely in the design of the exterior which will be located so as to be readily seen by motorists from No. 7 Highway.

No action was taken on the election of a permanent chairman but it was decided to have a brochure prepared on plans and aims of the museum board for presentation to the County Conservation Authority in October.

Among those in attendance at Saturday's meeting at Actinolite were: C. W. Foster, Toronto; T. J. Thomson, Gerald Boyce, Eric Denyes, T. G. Wrightmeyer and Michael Chubb of Belleville and Mrs. Ellen Elliott of Tweed.

Next meeting of the board will be held at Actinolite on July 26.

Swedes Rescue Fleeing Pole

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A Polish seaman, Jerzy Trenton, 30, escaped to freedom from a Communist ship in Karlskrona harbor last night and swam ashore before being rescued by a party of Swedish sailors.

The seaman, from the Polish tourist ship Mazowsze, was discovered taken in the water by another man from his ship who seized his lifebelt and struck him repeatedly on the head with it.

As the crewman struggled in the water, officers on the Polish ship used ropes with hooks on the end in an attempt to catch the man.

The escape attempt was seen by men on a nearby Swedish ship who put out in a rowboat and rescued the Pole from the water.

He asked for political asylum in Sweden.

Cyprus Curfew Renewed After Turk Shot Down

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Fresh bloodshed in the town of Limassol today brought renewed curfew restrictions. British authorities on Cyprus.

A Cypriot butcher, Ahmet Ibrahim, 46, was shot down in the street as he rode a bicycle in the Greek quarter of the town. He died later in a hospital, the third victim of shooting in Limassol in the last 10 days.

His death brings the death toll to 37 since the present wave of violence broke out June 8. Of the dead, 16 are Greek - Cypriots and the rest Turks.

Friction between Greek and Turk—Cypriots is threatening to put over the political future of this British Crown colony. Meetings today in Nicosia where the leader of the Turkish community, Rauf Denktash, pressed against the lifting of the curfew in the Greek quarter while it remained in force in the Turkish sector.

Further communal clashes broke out in various parts of the island Sunday. In Paphos, a Greek Cypriot died in hospital and another was seriously wounded. A Turkish butcher was shot dead in another village and four British soldiers were injured by bomb explosions.

Meanwhile, leaflets issued by the Greek terrorist organization EOKA gave rise to hopes of a lull in terrorist activities if Archbishop Makarios were allowed back in Cyprus for talks on the island's future. Makarios, now in exile in Greece, is the leader of the island's union - with - Greece movement.

ARMY DELIVERS

That's not all. When I went to see Karami in Tripoli, I stopped first at army headquarters in the city. A smiling colonel asked if I had been harassed for the visit to the rebel lair. He talks frequently to Karami by telephone. Indeed, correspondents when leaving get too intense, one will call the other and protest that things are getting too dangerous.

Karami is a member of the colonel as his friend. For example, the rebels might easily be flushed out of the hills if their water supply was cut off. But the water is delivered—by the army.

The army does not move with any destruction against the rebels. It does not even make any more than half-hearted attempts to interfere with rebel communications.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been lost. People are running out of money. Shopkeepers are going bankrupt. Beirut's thriving trade with Arab countries and the West has suffered severely, perhaps irreparably. And through little fighting many hundreds have been killed or maimed.

Where neither side wins, the Lebanese people have suffered a tragic defeat.

U.S. Asks Reds To Free Airmen Held in Armenia

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. today asked the Soviet foreign ministry to arrange for release of nine American airmen forced down inside Soviet Armenia.

Thompson was ordered to transmit the government's denial of Russian charges that the plane, an unarmed DC-4A air transport, had deliberately trespassed into Soviet air space.

The Russians reported that the plane, forced down Friday by two Russian jets, landed safely and that the six officers and three airmen aboard were unharmed and are being well cared for. Presumably the Americans set the plane aside for repairs before ever getting its classified equipment.

There are the second group of nine American military personnel held by the Communists. The East German Reds have been holding nine U.S. army men since their helicopter got lost in a thunderstorm June 7 and ran out of gas over East Germany.

The plane downed in Armenia was en route from Weisbaden, Germany, to Pakistan, with a load of spare parts for U.S. military and diplomatic missions in Iran and Pakistan.

The U.S. defence department said the plane strayed off course while travelling the regular international civil air route which crosses within about 50 miles of the Soviet border.

Fire Damage To Body Shop Said $6,000

TRENTON — A flash fire, with an unofficial damage estimate of $6,000 gutted the cement-block structure of Trenton Body Shop Sunday morning at around 11:30 a.m.

It was the second serious fire in the building since it was built with the first one also damaging the interior severely. The business is owned by Art LeClair and is near the Fox Transfer and Storage garages on Bycon Street.

Although the cause of the fire is not known it started at one end of the garage — over the work bench — while two men were working on their car at the other end of the shop.

Merle Stephens and Bob Rochon, who were in the shop at the time, said they were just starting to paint Sheppard's car when the fire suddenly shot from around the workbench and towards the ceiling.

They said they tried to put the flames out with a couple of blankets but found it too much for them. They then called the fire department and got the cars out of the shop.

When the firemen arrived on the scene the flames had burnt a hole through the roof of the building and were beginning to spread over the rest of the roof.

The firemen used the booster lines off the two trucks, which they had to call, and soon had the fire under control and out.

Damage to the interior of the building was heavy. It is expected a new roof will have to be put on as well as the inside of the sheathing. One of the big doors on the front of the shop was ruined and the other badly damaged. Some tools may be lost and several cars of paint were destroyed.

Hundreds of people turned out to see the fire.

Firemen also received a second call yesterday when a grass fire on Bay Street got out of hand at 1:45 p.m. It was however, more smoke than flames and firemen used their booster line to put a quick end to it. No property was damaged.

Heavy Traffic, Mishaps Kept At Minimum

TRENTON — Despite the heavy traffic on town streets Saturday and Sunday only two accidents were reported to the police, up until this morning at 8 a.m.

Both accidents caused only slight damage to the vehicles concerned with the estimated damage to all set at $75.

The mishap on Saturday was on Dundas Street West when a car stopped at the corner of Dufferin and Dundas and a scooter coming along behind slammed into the rear of it. There was no known damage to the car but the scooter was damaged to the extent of $25.

Sunday's only accident caused $35 damage to the truck and car involved. The driver of a pick-up truck from Smithfield was visiting a friend playing on the street, in case one should run out and bumped into the rear of a car driven by Ralph Parent, 169 Dundas St. East.

Damage to the car was estimated at $50 and $3 to the truck.

There was no one injured.

Police report traffic was extremely heavy on Sunday with the hot weather and many of the summer bringing hundreds of motorists out for a drive. Many more were making for the beaches, and with the closing of schools others were moving to their cottages for the rest of the summer months.

THEY ARE ENTITLED TO TWO LOVES

County Court Judge J. B. Clearihue of Victoria, B.C., says that many new Canadians take the oath of allegiance to Canada too lightly.

Almost certainly he is right. But that places New Canadians in no different category from Old Canadians, many of whom also take their responsibilities as citizens far too lightly.

Judge Clearihue cites two recent incidents to support his assertion that New Canadians do not mean what they say when they pledge allegiance to their new homeland. Russian-Canadians, clad in native costumes, met Russia's giant jet plane when it landed in Vancouver and bowed to the pilot. Dutch-Canadians gave Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands a right royal reception when he visited Ottawa.

Apparently Judge Clearihue thinks that it is as impossible to love two countries as it is to be true to two sweethearts. In this we think he is in error - - and there are many Old Canadians who, through their actions down through the years, have demonstrated that they share our opinion. When the bagpipes play in Cape Breton, is that not a tribute to Auld Scotia as well as to Nova Scotia? When the United Empire Loyalists came to these Quinte shores because of their love for Old England, did they have to foreswear this love before they could love their new home?

Among the things which we hold self-evident are that all lands, and all peoples, have some attributes which are worthy of being loved, and that the immigrant who has no love for his native land and those of his own flesh and blood will never be able to fan a flame of love and loyalty for his adopted country or for its people.

Judge Clearihue said that he would like to see more New Canadians would join Canadian societies, rather than nationalistic societies which tend to preserve native customs and loyalties to native countries. There he had a point, for any tendency for newcomers to shut themselves off from the main stream of Canadian life is to be deplored. If they do so, the fault may be just as much that of Old Canadians as of the New, just as much the result of a failure of native Canadians and long-time residents to welcome the newcomers as of the newcomers' refusal to fuse their interests with those of native Canadians.

There are some native customs which these New Canadians bring to our shores which deserve not merely to be preserved among themselves but to be woven into the fabric of Canadian life to make it more colorful and more cultured. Properly conducted, nationalistic societies can aid this process and speed the day when the New Canadians are able to feel that they are in fact, as well as in law, Canadians. If these societies fail to do this, it is the fault of their members and if their members are at fault it is just possible that this fault is but a reflection of faults on the part of Old Canadians. One of the most grievous faults, we suggest, is to expect that it is possible for an immigrant to strip from his mind and heart every memory and all affection for his native land, that he can become a man with heart so dead that he is ashamed, rather than proud, of the country of his birth.

BUILD YOUR OWN CAR

Are you a "do-it-yourself" enthusiast? If so, why not build your own car?

No, this is no day dream. A "build-it-yourself" small car kit has gone on sale in England. The original idea was apparently imported from Germany. The car is made of polyester glass fibre, instead of the conventional metal.

Assembled, the car, the Nobel 200, costs the equivalent of $1,022. Bought in parts and assembled by the purchaser the cost is only $498, a saving of $524. The report from London does not make clear whether all this saving is the result of the elimination of labor costs for the assembling of the car. It is stated that about one-third of the price for an assembled car, or roughly $341, represents Britain's stiff purchase tax. Perhaps this tax does not apply to the purchase of parts, in which case the elimination of labor costs would account for only $183 of the total saving of $524. No matter what the reason, though, it looks as if Britons will find a short course in motor mechanics which would fit them for the task of putting their own car together a paying proposition.

Over here, the higher cost of an assembled car should make possible even greater savings if it ever becomes possible to buy any of the "low-priced three" in "do-it-yourself" kits.

THEIR SUMMER ARGUMENT

She wants to go unto the shore,
And pack her trunk
With gowns no one has seen before,
And all such junk.

But he would seek some far off place
Where he's unknown,
And let his whiskers deck his face.
And be alone.

She sighs for parties and for teas;

She wants to lead a life that's grand,

Mosquitoes Don't Fly High

Winnipeg Tribune

"The mosquitoes of the New Jersey marshes are brawny fellows, famous for their size and ferocity in the region. They are the heavy bombers of the mosquito world. Powerful, heavy, destructive.

But it seems they have a weakness: they are afraid of heights. At least this is the claim of Dr. Anthony Lanzaro. Authclaim on a survey which is said to prove that Jersey mosquitoes will fly above the seventh level.

The Authority is so confident that the Jersey mosquito is addicted to low flying that specifications for some of its housing projects are being changed. It is now engaged in a project with apartment buildings 14 storeys high. The windows up to the seventh floor will have screens. Those above the seventh floor will not.

It is to be hoped that the mosquitoes know about the survey and are abiding by the results of its findings. But to be on the safe side, engineers plan of apartments on the eighth to fourteenth floors should be prepared to defend their residents' windows with insect bombs and machine guns.

Here in Winnipeg grasshoppers, millers, bumblebees, cutworms and mosquitoes come sailing through eighth-floor windows by the gratuitous dozen. Only earthworms fail to make an appearance. Perhaps the local division of Central Mortgage and Housing should make a survey here and inform all bugs that life isn't entirely fun above the seventh floor. That should work here just about as well as it does in Newark.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the cottage verandah, four old men gathered. One was an old man of 83, but very frisky. One was 55, a gloomy, thoughtful man. The other two were his sons, 28 and 25 years of age.

"My grandfather said the man of 55, "is haunted by the thought of what a mixed-up, troubled world we are leaving for our young people. What have we done, what have we failed to do, that the world should be in such a mess?"

The 28 year old slapped his father on the leg.

"Now, now! Fit up with some pretty interesting nicknacks," he said. "I'd say your generation has done more to make the world comfortable than all the generations back to Adam."

"We'll manage," agreed the 25 year old, who had just got his B.A.

The old man of 83 started to speak.

"I remember," he said, "how gloomy I felt forty years ago about the mess we were handing over to our kids. Poison gas, airplanes, indoctrination, tanks. Labor unions. Kings being kicked out. Rebellion. Income tax. Model T Fords whizzing all over the place. The whole world going crazy."

"It's not the same," protested the 55 year old.

"It's always the same," said the old man.

Strength for the Day

IDLING IS EXPENSIVE

A man at a filling station recently told me something which startled me. He said, "I'm not just running a car around town or on a trip which takes place," he said. "Sometimes I don't realize that an idling engine eats up a lot of gas. In fact, there are few things that run the gasoline bill up any higher than does idling."

We often fail to realize that when we are what might be called "idling," that we get in his worst licks. It is when our minds are idling that all sorts of unwholesome and evil thoughts creep in. The idle rich are noted for their unhappiness. Very often men who retire after an active career find it painfully hard to get themselves adjusted to a life of idleness.

As a matter of fact, none of us should ever be happily adjusted to a life of idleness. Idleness is too costly — in energy, in quiet nerves and in happiness.

The person who keeps himself busy, who keeps his mind active, too, although he is careful to observe periods of relaxation, never allows himself to indulge in idleness — such a person is sure to be happy.

Idleness is never happy. The idle man is restless and anxious. The idling engine eats up a lot of gasoline. Idling is my form is costly.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MAN'S "SOCIAL SELVES"

A thinking, alert, and sensitive man is not one with whom to engage in a superficial. Self William James, the great psychologist, as well as philosophically speaking, a man has as many social selves as there are individuals who recognize him and carry an image of him in their mind. To wound any one of these his images is to wound him."

We often find ourselves wider than we think. A man is not alone when he is attached with word or sword. His friends are to him what he is to them. If he has been a man of integrity and courage. We see these "social selves" about which James speaks. They organize us, give us confidence, and instill courage deep within us.

"Love me, love my dog" is a famous saying. Wound these many images that James speaks of and you wound the man himself.

Emergency At the Opera

Montreal Star

The forum bells rang to call the audience back from intermission after the first act of Madame Butterfly the other night. Then the opera audiences trooped back to enjoy the second act of this beautiful and delicate production of an old favorite. They waited, patiently for a while. Then as no orchestra conductor appeared after a decent interval, a curious hubbub began. Finally, after an unusually long delay, the announcement was offered, Kurt Adler came on; waved his baton; the curtains parted on the lovely cherry blossoms and the second act began.

The audience settled back. This was what they had been waiting for — the second act in which the hapless child of Cho-Cho-San and Pinkerton makes her dramatic entrance of the child. But it didn't happen that way on Monday night. Only those who knew their Butterfly intimately caught on that something had happened. The child walked on, carefully guided by Madame Butterfly and Suzuki, for the child of Cho-Cho San and Pinkerton was little more than two years old at this point in the action.

Only now has it been disclosed that the presence of the child at this point was a bit of improvisation but one quite in keeping with the delightful versatility of the child. The child cast for the role took stage fright and refused to budge an inch to go on. Forum management went into the streets to find a substitute, for it was bad thought to understudy this role with from another child who is acting but merely to be carried about in a mother's arms.

All this came to pass, with a little determined guidance here and there. Antonietta Stella somehow managed to carry this sudden-to-her role with such aplomb that some time, with a brilliant debut and Marielle Pelletier took her bow, with the rest of the company like an old trouper.

He Advocates Space Babies

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Space travel has been spiked as an escape mechanism. At a recent meeting of the Stratford Kiwanis Club, Los Angeles, Dr. Donald W. Coonver, an eminent psychologist, told his audience scientists: "There is ample evidence that man is attempting to escape his problem and isolation of space travel by having his wife alone by the fireside.

He went on even further. Such escapism, he said, would produce a new generation, particularly suited to space travel because of early environment. If we follow the reasoning correctly, he is advocating that children of the future be born in space. This would lead to new complications. For instance, if any such children were to visit earth they would be weighed by an immigration officer and the standard question: "Where were you born?" they would have to reply: "In space." Then a puzzled officer might under serious suspicion at once.

And yet the idea of birth in space is not entirely new. It was suggested many years ago by one of our poets wrote a little verse beginning: "Where do you come from, baby dear?" "Out of the everywhere into here" "Out of the dark into those eyes so blue?" "Out of the sky I am sure I've come." No. The ancient Biblical writer was correct. There is nothing new under the sun.

Seniority In Reverse

Windsor Star

When layoffs occur on this continent the usual order is "last in, first out." This is in accordance with seniority rules' which insist that those with seniority be the first to lose their jobs.

This procedure isn't universal. When 1,100 men of the Dorman, Long and Co. Middlesbrough, England, were recently laid off those with seniority were the first. Only men of more than 65 years of age were retained. Obviously most elderly men would have lengthy seniority.

arrangement. Probably all those older men could qualify for pensions.

Yet there is some sense to that decision. The families of most would be grown up and on their own. There would be less hardship involved than if younger men, with greater family responsibilities were fired.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH A HERNIA — HAVE IT REPAIRED

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is in a line of business that requires heavy lifting. About five years ago he had a bad case of laryngitis and the severe cough caused a minor rupture at the groin.

"Two different doctors said it should be taken care of, for fear of strangulation. They said more heavy lifting will make it worse and he should do only light work.

"My husband won't right ahead with his heavy work, and the rupture is getting quite worse. My question is: Do you think it is best to let it alone, or should it be taken care of for better health's sake and for fear of its getting worse? He is 50 years old. — Mrs. J. W."

"P.S.: Does a rupture operation weaken the abdominal wall?" And now that doctors have advised that it be taken care of. I'm No, 3.

So the hernia (or rupture) "is only slightly worse." But it isn't "slightly better." There's only one way a rupture to go — and that's the way a small rip in a garment goes. Also, it just don't happen to get your toe caught in it, or the rupture "only slightly worse" for a long, long time. But someday you'll bend over to pick up right up to the knee, and then you use the sheet for cleaning rags.

At 30, your husband is a young, vigorous man. His tissues are supple and strong. He may get away with this gamble for quite a long time — but that's what he is doing, gambling with this hernia.

If fervently hope, however long he postpones having it repaired, that he does so only because the hernia is becoming small, and not because it is becomes strangulated. A strangulated hernia is as different from a simple hernia as burning the toast is different from burning the house afire.

MEANING OF "STRANGULATED"

When a hernia becomes "strangulated," it means that a loop of bowel or other organ has finally worked its way through the rupture, and then been pinched there by the edges of the rupture, so it can't draw back where it belongs.

It's as critical as an intestinal obstruction, and if possible even more so, since the "strangulated" organ is shut off from its blood supply and gangrene is quick to follow. If that happens, it's an emergency, and also far more difficult to handle in the operating room, as you can readily imagine.

Perhaps your husband uses a hammer in his work. Ask him if, when the hammer head starts to come loose, he postpones driving it because "it is getting only slightly worse." Does he wait until at last it flies off and bops somebody in the head? Well, in this case he is the one taking the chance of being bopped, and not in the head.

Also, repairing a hernia weaken the abdominal wall? Let me ask you: Does mending a small hole in a sheet weakens the sheet? There's your answer.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You have written several articles about heavy fat cheese but I haven't found an answer to the question I'd like to know. My husband is very nervous and can't sleep unless he drinks also two 12 bottles of beer, every night. Doctors have given him vitamin shots and sleeping pills but they never seem to work. — Mrs. F. L."

No, and they won't do what you want to do by drinking beer drinking! This "can't sleep without it" is an old excuse. I pretty nearly guarantee that lots of drinkers believe it completely justifies their drinking! I've had them tell me the same story before: "Until I started drinking beer, I couldn't go to sleep until I had a night cap, or two, or three or more."

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is pleurisy a killing disease? I mean as compared to the heart attack. — Mrs. G. M. N."

No — but sometimes it hurts plenty. Pleurisy is the irritation or inflammation of the lining of the lung and the lining of the chest wall. It is usually secondary to another cause such as pneumonia, tuberculosis or lung cancer common ailments. It is possible that the primary cause may be missed.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Ten Ways To Stop Constipation." For a copy send a dime, in care of the newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Thinks Sack Is Real Cool

Brockville Recorder and Times

The fashion experts have won out. The long-legged look is here to stay—for a while, at least. And why? Simply because a lot of feminine legs, "long" men, in spite of how they may contort their figures for the sake of fashion, like to be as comfortable as possible. And the "sack" fashion comes along in the form of the sack and chemise, that is all the excuse that the public needed.

True, in many cases, women who have adopted the sack for the sake of comfort around the middle, have had to sacrifice a bit of freedom around the knees. In order to relax at the waistline, they have had to settle for a bobbing gait. The new styles are built that way—and to gain the full benefit of comfort, a quick, bold stride must be forfeited.

Actually, this business of relaxing at the waist could have a disastrous effect. For years women have been schooling themselves to suck in their tummies and stand up straight. Now they can relax and feel much will know the difference. One of these days, when women learn to become accustomed to the rather weird shaped outfits, some fashion designer in Paris will decide it was time for a reverse in styles and the relaxed women will be no more!

Ah well, it all just proves that if the public is subjected to a certain style long enough — and the advertisements of fashion models in leading magazines — to say nothing of a few style dictators' persuasive adoption of the latest fashions immediately, a fad, even as ridiculous as the sack, can go its innings. One thing, at least, these loose fitting garments have had a great deal cooler for hot days in the summer — if anyone is looking for a reason for falling in love.

France Solidly Behind de Gaulle In New Govt.

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — The bloodless revolution brought to France by Gen. Charles de Gaulle's assumption of power on June 1 has radically changed in four weeks the political atmosphere and the effectiveness of the existing machinery of government.

De Gaulle now has the country solidly behind him, if more than a mood of hopeful expectation can be called a mood of enthusiasm.

Even the left-wing newspaper L'Express, resolutely hostile to de Gaulle, admitted: "The great majority of Frenchmen are relieved to see Gen. de Gaulle in power and wish him to succeed." De Gaulle has two overriding aims. First, to lay the foundations for lasting peace in an Algeria linked to France. Second, to provide the country with a new constitution that will take away executive power from the lower house of parliament and put it partly in the hands of the president.

ACHIEVEMENTS

To date he has these concrete achievements to his credit:

1. Restoration of law and orderlous settlers in Algeria and a widespread reconciliation between former enemies and European populations.

2. Settlement of the vexing question of French troops in Tunisia to the satisfaction of the Tunisian government.

3. Floating of the most successful loan France has had in a generation.

4. Improved relations with Morocco.

5. Reinvigoration of France's foreign policy as exemplified by the weekend visit here of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, the coming trip of John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state.

6. A general atmosphere of confidence and calm, both in metropolitan France and among the laboring population. There have been no strikes and no aggressive demands for higher wages since de Gaulle took office.

7. Substantial progress in the preparation of the new constitution.

CLEAR SAILING

On the home front, the coming two months are expected to be relatively plain sailing for the general.

With regard to labor problems, the outstanding issue is the present impotence of the Communist party. Its power to call out on strike "in defence of the republic" a few days before de Gaulle took over was a complete fiasco.

De Gaulle's main problem still lies in Algeria, where he will make a second visit before the referendum and Dulles trips.

This is expected to provide him with the opportunity to reinforce his authority over any elements among the settlers who may be tempted to lend themselves to a rebellion against the central government in Paris.

Gone are late-night sessions of ministers' councils, endless indiscreet leaks to the press, constant harassment of ministers by parliamentary questions.

Instead, cabinet meetings have become rare, business affairs rarely lasting more than 90 minutes. His ministers and officials have been impressed by de Gaulle's authority and methodical way of working.

People Get Sick Of Long-Drawn Lebanese Crisis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP)—In this normally little city of northern Lebanon, people are getting sick of their country's drawn out crisis.

"Call it a fight, call it a national sickness if you like," one young officer said sadly, "but we don't like it. We are all brothers up there in the hills and we don't make war on our brothers."

Christian fights against Christians, Moslem against Moslem and Christians and Moslems fight together against the government. This area is one of the main sources of Christian opposition which is inciting President Camille Chamoun, himself a Christian, really under fire. Tripoli is predominantly a Moslem town with many people akin to the neighboring Syrians, but the dominating factor has always been a sort of Christian aristocracy.

It is here, if anywhere, that the fighting will be hardest if it is to have any hopes of success.

NO FIRE DOWN

Entrenched rebels are able to fire down from the city's hillsides into the streets and positions in the streets.

Ten to the north of Tripoli the army is holding a long line against determined-to-break-through rebels who are many number in the thousands. There is no way of estimating the strength of these forces since they wear civilian clothing and take guerrilla tactics.

Spokesmen for the security forces say they have ample supplied since they control the routes from Syria.

Independent artisans here insist there is an uninterrupted flow of supplies from Syria, part of President Nasser's United Arab Republic, but they also suspect the ardor for the rebellion has passed its peak and is beginning to decline.

CANADA NOT

The board's hearings likely will be held this fall and on the basis of Mr. Wheatcroft's report it may take many years before TCA's transcontinental monopoly is broken.

The 6-year-old British expert, a wartime pilot, said that because of the international system of regulating fares and rates, competition tends to increase the quality of the service rather than to increase operating costs. There is no general presumption that competition would reduce Canadian fares.

Competition would stimulate more rapid technical progress but this may not prove to the public's best interest. Because of competition, airlines were being forced into using speedier and costly jet aircraft on routes where other planes could provide lower-cost service.

GRIEVANCES MAGNIFIED

Currently dissatisfied with TCA's position, Mr. Wheatcroft criticized the line for not being fully competitive in the early 1950s. This was the period when it had its controversial North Stars in full operation. He also criticized TCA's "magnification" of its complaints because they do not have the normal redress of taste and its customer elsewhere."

Its general standard of service is as high as any in the world. Competition operations "might make the public a more sophisticated critic of the service provided by TCA."

Mr. Wheatcroft found on closer examination that there currently are only two effects of TCA's transcontinental route that stand competition — Toronto-Montreal; Vancouver - Victoria; Toronto-Winnipeg.

PROFIT MARGIN

At present TCA was operating on a small profit margin. It declared a profit of $1,000,000 after substantial service to stay on the black side of the ledger.

"Any significant reduction the profit on the transcontinental routes would substantially reduce the future ficit."

The so-called "social" routes, such as Montreal-Gaspe, are a loss and perhaps had no hope of being profitable. Flying boats in the Prairies and foothills, the Great Lakes area, Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec involved an annual loss of some $1,000,000.

The government should seriously consider turning over these "social" routes to some other line, Mr. Wheatcroft suggested, them with subsidies to keep the routes open. Other regional operators might have lower costs than TCA and the subsidies might therefore be fewer.

CYRIL AND CAPTOR

Phil Skeldon, director of the Toledo, Ohio, zoo poses with Cyril, the sea lion, captured Friday at Sunduksy Bay on Lake Erie after escaping from a zoo in London, Ont., June 19. Mr. Skeldon holds a rifle and ope of the tranquilizing pellets he shot into Cyril, leading to the mammal's capture. The Toledo zoo director caused concern in London by refusing to return Cyril to his Canadian owners. He argued that Cyril was captured in American waters and now is the property of the Toledo zoo. The lumps on Cyril's neck were caused by a reaction to the tranquilizing drugs. (CP Photo).

Alpha Lambda Installs Officers

Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi brought the year's activities to a delightful close last Saturday evening with a most enjoyable barbeque held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McLean, Redneersville Road. Each girl had as her guest her husband, who in turn displayed his skill at the glowing barbeques. It was not long before the aroma of "smoked" foods had everyone in a jovial moods. The members were delighted to see again Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kuntze, of Oshawa. Mrs. Kuntze is a past president of Alpha Lambda.

Mrs. William Simpson won this much coveted title and was presented with a sterling silver bracelet to mark the event. The award is made each year by the chapter to one of its members who is selected by secret ballot by the members as being outstanding as a leader of fellowship and goodwill. LONDON (CP) — The Princess Royal has been ordered to rest from official engagements for two months. The 61-year-old Princess Mary, daughter Countess of Harewood and gust of Queen Elizabeth, is suffering from over-strain following an attack of influenza last winter.

Turner School Presents Farewell Gifts

Turner's school was the location of a farewell to Mrs. Violet Rose, principal and teacher. The Chatterton W.I. were all in the quilting with ice cream, cookies and drinks for all.

The program put on by the pupils was centred around Dominion Day with the school-girls giving short talks on Confederation and the singing of "Land Of a Hundred Peoples". The juniors sang a Dominion Day song.

The Chatterton W.I. gave prizes for quilting, reading and writing to those children who had shown the greatest improvement in the year. Those receiving prizes were Gordon Abraham and Stephen Hough-ending, Rosaleen Golden and Wayne Cummings — spelling, Linda Boorman and Linda Hord — writing.

Mrs. Rose gave prizes to Douglas Irvine and Leslie Gardner for proficiency; to Ann Boorman for the best pink dress and best note books.

Mrs. Rose herself received the prize for attendance.

Mrs. Wilson, teacher of the lower grades, presented the pupils eating grade 4 with ball point pens, and Mrs. Rose, who is leaving the district, was presented a desktete from Mrs. Wilson and pupils.

FAREWELL GIFTS

Following the program, Leslie Gardner presented Mrs. Rose, on behalf of the seniors, with a corsage of carnations and roses and a rose and a leaded crystal bowl. Barbara Smith presented her with a desk set, on behalf of the junior pupils, and Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Ben Bleeker spoke for the W.I. expressing their appreciation for the co-operation Mrs. Rose has always given them and presented her with a lovely necklace and earrings. Other personal gifts included an oil painting, a bracelet, a pair of nylons and a pair of doilies.

Mrs. Rose said she found herself at a loss for words. She was deeply touched, as all were, by the sincere affection of her pupils.

Stampede Queen Has Never Seen Full Performance

CALGARY (CP) — The queen of the 1958 Calgary Stampede is just what the job requires.

She was born in Calgary, can ride a horse and is extremely friendly.

Jennie Chow also is the first Chinese Canadian stampede queen.

Miss Chow, winner of the Miss Calgary Stampede contest over 11 others, is 22 years old and has vital statistics of 34-22-35.

Oddly enough, she has never actually seen the Stampede.

From the chuckwagon races and bronc riding performance.

Wildly - plunging broncs and bulls with cowboys fighting to stay aboard, calf roping and steer decorating events will have as much appeal this year for the stampede queen as for any wide-eyed tourist.

Miss Chow was sponsored in the contest by the Calgary fire department toy campaign organization, which approached the Chinese community here to select a "Chinese girl—a tall one."

Jennie was chosen, and while her five feet, seven inches apparently satisfied the firemen, it has been a recurring problem for her because she has trouble finding clothes that are long enough.

Jennie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chow of Calgary, came to Canada from China more than 50 years ago and Jennie never spoke English until she started school. She speaks it well now.

Miss Chow now is employed as an IBM operator with an oil company.

She says she likes dancing, is fond of jazz, swims, plays golf a little and enjoys horseback riding. She is an avid skier despite the fact she suffered a broken leg two years ago.

Jennie receives $300 plus a wardrobe for the official stampede functions that keep her in a whirl during the week - long stampede, July 7-12.

WEDDINGS

LAZARSKI — SCANLIN

St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel, Newman Club, University of Toronto, was the setting for a wedding of interest last Saturday, when Miss Mary Jane Scanlin became the bride of Mr. Henry J. Lazarski. Standards of white flowers, candles decorated the altar, and sprays of white flowers and fern marked the pews in the church. The Rev. C. J. Lavery, registrar of St. Michael's College, officiated at the all-white wedding. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Scanlin, of Tamworth. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lazarski of Kingston.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore an original gown of frost white silk Swiss organza, fashioned with short, softly shirred sleeves, portrait neckline delicately outlined with appliques of Guipure lace, and similar appliques forming panels on the billowing skirt which swept into a chapel train. Her veil was caught up by a cluster of lilies of the valley appliques, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Demure rose, and lily-of-the-valley.

The bridal attendants were Miss Evelyn Scanlin, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Misses Helen and Mary Lazarski, as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of imported orchid silk. Swiss organdy, fashioned with pink necklines, fitted bodices and very bouffant skirts, ashed with mint green tulle beneath bows. Their picture hats were of matching organdy material, and they carried crescent bouquets of spring flowers in rose and mauve shades.

The flower girl, Miss Maureen Scanlin, wore the same style costume and carried a basket of flowers.

Master Paul Featherstone of Toronto, was ring bearer.

Mr. Joseph Lazarski was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Robert A. Scanlin, of Oakville, Mr. Dominic Fallon of Kingston and Mr. Peter Featherstone of Toronto.

A garden reception at the home of friends of the bride, was held following the ceremony. Mrs. Scanlin wore a blue dress with dusty rose accessories and a corsage of pink camellias. Mrs. Lazarski wore a two-piece dress of pale green with beige accessories and a corsage of pink flowers.

The couple left for a wedding trip down the Atlantic coast to Myrtle Beach. For travelling the bride wore a blue ensemble dress, with matching accessories and a purse corsage of blue gardenias. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Lazarski will reside in Belleville.

The bride is a graduate of Notre Dame High School, Kingston, and is on the teaching staff of Loretto Abbey, Toronto. The groom is a graduate in Science, of Queen's University.

Guests attended from Kingston, Peterborough, Montreal, Kitchener, Toronto and Tamworth.

LEVECK — CLEMENT

TWEED — The Rev. C. E. Baker officiated at the marriage, recently, in St. Edmund's Roman Catholic Church, Tweed, when Margaret Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clement, of Stoco, became the bride of Kenneth Vincent Leveck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leveck, of Tweed.

Baskets of white snow balls, red peonies and spires decorated the altar for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, designed with Peter Pan collar, fitted bodice and long-pointed sleeves. The bracketed nylon net shoulder-length veil fell from a crown headress of simulated pearls, and she carried a pearl prayer book, with white streamers entwined with red rosebuds.

Her sister, Mrs. John Gerald, of Tweed, was matron-of-honor, wearing mauve nylon net over taffeta, while Mrs. Leon Clement sister-in-law of the bride, the bridesmaid, chose yellow nylon net over taffeta. Both gowns were similar-ly designed with fitted bodices and large draped bow at the back. They wore white, feathered headresses and carried nosegays of yellow mums matching their gowns.

Little Miss Maureen Moore, niece of the bridegroom, was a pretty, frilly-frocked flower girl, while Master Paul J. Clement, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Joseph Leveck was his brother's groomsman, while Mr. Leon Clement, brother of the bride, ushered.

Miss Clara Mulrooney presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ronald Cassidy, who sang, "On This Day, I'll Build You a Home".

The private dining-hall of Stoco Public School was chosen for the reception, attended by 40 guests and was beautifully decorated in pink and white with streamers and wedding bells. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a turquoise blue suit with white accessories and corsage of red roses.

The living room and dining rooms were decorated with pink, white and blue streamers, while the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake and bouquets of assorted spring flowers.

For the wedding trip to Peterborough and points west, the bride donned a powder blue linen dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses. They will make their future home in Tweed, where the bridegroom is employed by The Ontario Hydro.

Estelle Amaron Helps Put YMCA on Firm Footing In Ghana; 700 Members

By RUSSELL ELMAN

ACCRA, Ghana (CP) — Pecking away at a typewriter in her small office near Accra's new community centre, Estelle Amaron completed a report on Ghana's budding YWCA.

A grey-haired woman with a deep tan acquired in 38 years in the tropics with only brief spells at home in Montreal, Miss Amaron is helping put the YWCA branches here on their feet. She arrived 18 months ago after doing a similar job in the British West African colony of Sierra Leone.

"My work now is aimed at consolidating the YWCA here and eventually finding someone to take over from me when I leave," she said.

"In some ways my work here is harder than in Sierra Leone. For more than 40 years, there had been a YWCA in Sierra Leone. It was a small group, built on solid foundations. When I left, I was able to hand over to an African.

This week Miss Amaron is leaving for three months' leave in Canada and will return here in the fall.

SMALL MEMBERSHIP

Miss Amaron the development of the YWCA on a number of levels dates back only to 1952, when Canada and Denmark agreed to sponsor its organization. The first president, from 1953 to 1954, was Mrs. son of Gall, Ont. This year the 10 branches in the country held their first conference. Membership totals about 700.

Miss Amaron graduated from McGill in physical education in 1936 and went to Burma to lay the foundations of a physical education program for the YWCA there. From 1938 to 1944, she was in Ceylon and after the war returned to Burma, where she had to start almost from scratch following the Japanese occupation. She was posted to Sierra Leone in 1951.

In Ghana, she leads a strenuous life, made more difficult because she cannot walk far as a result of a motor accident in Sierra Leone in which she fractured a knee cap. She lives in a flat near the airport about 10 miles from the centre of Accra. Her office day runs from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Most of the work is in Accra, but occasionally she makes three-week treks visiting the different branches.

ACTIVITIES VARY

Miss Amaron has organized the YWCA activities into age and interest groups. One day a week a group of teen-agers meet and arrange their own program; on Tuesdays, young business girls gather, perhaps to rehearse a simple, one-act play; a market girls' group has a literacy program. Other groups study cooking, handicraft, games, singing, dancing and home nursing.

Miss Amaron said she may have difficulty in her search for a successor. Market women, she finds, are extremely intelligent and can carry huge sums in their heads, but they are illiterate. Girls with the necessary educational qualifications are usually snapped up by concerns paying far higher salaries.

She has no immediate worry, however, for she still has almost two years to go. Smiling, she said:

"I always say my job is to work my way out of a job."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

"HORRIFIED" AT ENCLOSED REPLY-CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My husband and I have just received a formal invitation to a church wedding and hotel reception. We were really horrified to find enclosed a card which apparently we're supposed to fill o u t and check whether or not we will be able to attend the wedding and reception; this small card was enclosed in an envelope, stamped and addressed to the bride's parents at their home-address. Is this ever correct, Mrs. Beekman?

My husband insists that I disregard this "enclosed-card business," whereas the kind of reply I always write, the customary third-person reply. But I don't want to do anything to offend these people who I'm s u r e thought they were doing it the proper thing. So what should I do? — Reader

This practice of enclosing a card for the guest to return, indicating whether or not he will be able to attend the wedding and reception, is definitely not correct. Besides, anyone receiving this kind of card enclosed in the invitation should feel insulted as much he or she resents being sent the card; use the card to reply.

GIFTS APPROPRIATE FOR BATHROOM SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be maid of honor and two very close friends of mine are to be the two bridesmaids at the wedding soon of a dear friend of all three of us. We are planning to combine to give her a bathroom shower, but we are having a discussion as to whether this just means gifts of towels, bathmats, and so forth, or if fas the bridesmaids insist) the other gifts may be included. We are inviting many guests, relatives and friends. — A. S.

A bathroom shower may include not only towels (bath towels, face towels, guest towels, for example), but also bathmats, bathroom rugs, shower curtains, shower caps and shower slippers, scales, rubber mat for tub, bath stool, very narrow and shallow chest of drawers (to fit in corner), hanging shelves, box for facial tissues, plastic container for cotton, box o plastic container for cotton, box of good-looking paper guest-towels (perhaps initialed or monogrammed), compartmented plastic tray for various accessories. It may also include: containers of bath salts, soap of various sizes, dusting-powder, and so forth.

REPLIES TO FORMAL WEDDING RECEPTION INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several times lately I've had to write formal replies to formal invitations to wedding receptions and it so happened that two of them were to people whose last name ended with s, one Davis, the other Jones. For example:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith
accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis' kind invitation for etc.

Is the above correct (Davis'), or should I, as my husband says is correct, write Davis's? This may seem a small question, but in the future I'd like to write what's correct. Thank you for your help. — Reader

Today's correct form for replying to formal receptions is the perfect answer to your apostrophe-problem! No longer need you write "Mr. and Mrs. Davis'". For now the accepted (and most terrible) form is:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith
accept with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Davis
for etc.

And for the regret:

regret that they are unable to accept the very kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Davis

Note 1: No apostrophe needed.
Note 2: Obviously not necessary to include first name of those extending the invitation.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sharon S. — I want to get married.

Mrs. L. S. — I always wanted her to go to college.

Sharon S. — My mother and I are having a terrific feud over me. I am 19 and a college sophomore. The big question is: Will I be marriage or college next year?

A perfectly swell guy of 25 wants to marry me and I feel I am mature enough. I want a big family and I feel the sooner I get started the better.

I just dread going back to that horrible women's college where I am enrolled. The girls and t h e teachers are really for the birds. Supposedly I am majoring in history, which I detest and which I chose because my mother likes it.

How much nicer it would be to have my own home and husband each year instead of sweating in a hot library and freezing in a cold dormitory, constantly yakking about nothing with girls I hate.

* * *

Mrs. L. S. — Like most mothers I guess I have wanted to give Sharon the advantages I couldn't have. I was my most cherished dream from the time she was born to have her go to college.

But that isn't the only reason I want her to go back to school next year. Her father and I really feel she isn't mature enough yet to make a choice.

The young man she wants to marry doesn't seem to us the right type for her. The last thing that recommends him to Sharon, as far as we can see, is that he wants to marry her — and fast.

Sharon is the kind of girl who completely lacks discipline and I think college is a good place to develop it. I'm afraid when she finds that what married life really like she'll get-as sick of it as she is of school.

* * *

THE Council: Sharon's picture of her college life is evidence enough of her immaturity - and t a c k of preparedness for marriage.

Mrs. L. S. is, however, making a mistake by forcing the college issue. It is fine for parents to have cherished dreams for their children, but the dreams shouldn't be nightmares. There should be some flexibility to allow expression of the child's individuality.

Sharon could benefit from her college experience merely by sweating in libraries and freezing in dormitories for another three years. Mrs. L. S. should face the fact that what she really wanted for her daughter was not a mere piece of paper inscribed with the Bachelor of Arts degree, but knowledge, capability, poise and refinement.

It is possible to get these things outside of college — and it is possible to miss them completely at college.

As long as the issue is college in its present form or marriage, Sharon will naturally choose marriage. But Mrs. L. S. is right that Sharon is liable to get as fed up in her present frame of m i n d with marriage as she is with school. Sharon undoubtedly needs to develop discipline, the ability to get along with others and a knowledge of how to make t h e most of her life in any given situation.

A job may do the trick for her. Possibly a change of college or of her major would help. Since she is so determined to have a big family, a domestic science course might be the right thing for her. A business course, followed by working experience, is another possibility.

There are any number of ways in which Sharon can spend t h e next two or three years profitably, at the same time gaining the necessary maturity and judgment to choose her mate.

Mother's Helper

BEFORE you start to feed your tiny baby, do a quick bit of checking to make sure of your own comfort. Perhaps you need a pillow under your arm, or possibly a stool for your feet would help you relax. Feeding time is one of the few moments when a mother has to sit down, so take advantage of it!

Meat cakes in "sweet-'n-sour" sauce served with new beets and new spinach were the main course at dinner in our house last night.

SCHOOL IS OUT!!

Children Should Be Seen . . Not HURT!

WATCH FOR OUR CHILDREN WHEN YOU DRIVE... YOU MUST ACCEPT THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEIR SAFETY! Even though we teach our children the ways of safety, they sometimes forget! They dart into the street to retrieve a ball or ride their bicycle without a thought of cars. When there's the slightest doubt about a child's intention to cross a street or run into it... hesitate or stop. Practise extreme caution near playgrounds and on residential streets. We love our children... let them live.

● Be certain your car is mechanically safe: Your driving skill and attitude are helpful . . . but not enough if your brakes fail, your tail lights don't work, or your car stalls in heavy traffic. Have your car safety-checked now!

● Be sure you are alert and your emotions under control: Driving safely requires your full attention. If you're emotionally upset, ask someone to take the wheel for you. That's the only safe thing to do.

● Practise courtesy at all times: Many of our traffic laws could be considered simply as common courtesy! . . . yield the right of way, give adequate hand signals, watch for pedestrians and many others. Drive with courtesy and you'll automatically be a better driver.

● Understand and obey local traffic laws: Although the laws governing drivers are essentially the same everywhere, there are variations that cover existing conditions in each area. Whether you're a resident or a visitor, it's important to know and adhere to the local laws — for safety's sake.

● Adopt caution as your constant companion: There is no such thing as being too careful when you drive. Always exercise extreme care . . . don't be too sure the child on the side-walk will not suddenly dart across the street. You may be obeying the laws, but someone else may be careless.

● Don't speed: One of the major causes of accidents today is speeding in excess of existing laws and road conditions. Speed limits, like all other laws of traffic, are to protect you! Be prepared when danger appears . . . take it easy!

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If you can believe what you read in the district press a crew of hockey players ranging from the National League down to OHA Intermediate "C" have grouped themselves together and are playing baseball under the name of "Picton McFarlands" in the Kingston senior baseball league.

Charges are being tossed around willy-nilly that the puckbunnies-turned pitchsters are now leading the league by virtue of skullduggery, clowning and the consequent winning of four-point games.

Down in Napanee, where fans are bemoaning the fact their Loglomaniacs' entry in the loop is gazing upwards from the cellar the rest of the pack, tempers are frayed and allegations being hurled following a recent double defeat by the Picton "Paggliacl's."

Some of the charges include that team the Man Mailman, leading out of Picton harbors, slipped in a junior-steel ball which had the Nap sluggers befogged, while another has it that "Wiener" St. Denis used a softball bat when he socked a four-bagger that helped his club to victory.

All of which raised the hackles of Bill Moore, Napanee Post Express sports writer and caused the following sparks from his trusty Underwood.

"In the Wednesday game against the Legionaires, Sam Mulholland on the mound for Picton, slipped in a junior league ball and had the Napanee batsmen baffled as why they could not hit it. This is a cheap trick but apparently the McFarlands are a bunch of schoolboys and not men as on Sunday last against the Kingston Razers. Lee St. Denis used a metal bat to clout a homer.

"The McFarlands are a good hitting team but the clowns on the club will make them very unpopular wherever they go. The big shot hockey players have put heads too big for their hats and they know everything or so their count is think."

"The big shot hockey players" Moore refers to must be Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, and Gerry Goyer, "Wiener" Brown and Keith MacDonald of the Belleville McFarlands, all of whom are members of the Picton Clowns. Then there is Sammy the Man and others who played intermediate hockey.

We are not disputing the truth of the Napanee charges. It is probably factual that Chris Lockyer's "pagliacl" pulled a couple of "fast ones" were fast Napanee footmen, but they should have been caught at it and nipped in the bud.

There is nothing in the baseball book of words to stop a batter from using a softball bat, a bamboo fishing pole or a tomahawk if he so wishes. What was wrong with the Napanee catcher when St. Denis stepped in the plate, and stood there long enough for a widewaske backstop to make a mark behind at a safe batting distance? Incidentally "Wiener" pounded that ball 337 feet to the top of the Community Centre with his alleged softball shillalagh. Napanee should have forgiven him on the strength of the wallop alone.

As for Sammy using a junior baseball to stymie the opposing batsmen Michael J. Rodden hits it on the head with his comment on the matter:

"We wouldn't know whether or not Sam Mulholland used a non-regulation ball ago a pitcher can often be in his lucky form the pellet he fires with speed could look as small as that employed in golf. On a bright afternoon it is a flash and under such circumstances batters have labored under the conviction they were jabbing at a sunbeam.

"Those 'Fighting Words' authored by Bill Moore might appeal to Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings, and on occasions long ago a player himself, but the average fan of such pro-ism continues and the fans rally around their favorites the financial returns might justify this war of words. The Naps are down — in the cellar — and they could be excused for inquiring why a squad composed of hockey players is leading the parade.

Strong Amateur In Canada's Golf Team

TORONTO (CP) — A strong amateur team is Canada's hope for a second straight victory in the second annual international pro-amateur golf match at Toronto St. George's Tuesday.

Dick Westlock of Windsor Essex, who won the Ontario amateur Saturday and is Canadian amateur champion, leads the four-man group. Others are Eric Hansson of Toronto Scarboro, who lost to Weslock in the final; Garry Cowan of Kitchener Rockway, who was ousted by Weslock in the semi-final; and Hugh Patterson of Toronto St. George's, who shot a 68 to lead the qualifying round.

Canada's pros are Stan Leonard of Vancouver, captain of the team, Al Balding of Brantford, Jack Ray of Montreal and John Henrick of Ojiwa.

PROVIDE MARGIN

Last year, when Canada won 71% points to 4% at Flint, Mich., the Canadian pros held their American counterparts even the amateurs provided the margin.

This year's American pros are Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., Doug Ford of Paradise, Pa., Dow Finsterwald of Temple, Fla., Paul Harney of Wollaston, Mass., and Julius Boros of Pinehurst, N.C.

The Canadian pros and even with each capable of cracking through St. George's par 72 course. They competitive record is 66 set by Dutch Harrison, Balding once hit 64 in a practice round while Paterson holds the amateur mark of 69.

The American amateurs are relatively unknown: Ward Wetlaufer of Buffalo, Bud Sharp of Pittsburgh and Ed Meister and Fred Paine of Cleveland. In a best - ball match of this type, where one member of the team tees off and a par and the other at a birdie, the Canadian amateurs are apt to be more consistent. One point is given for each nine and one for the match.

156 Blasts Produce 94 Runs In 6-Game Sunday Program; Hanks' Bat Humbles Dodgers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a great day Sunday for baseball fans who like plenty of hitting.

No fewer than 156 hits producing 94 runs were rattled off the offerings of 43 pitchers in a six-game American League program that ended under the lights at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

There were 35 runs and 54 hits in Chicago, where the White Sox went 11 innings and three hours and 50 minutes to nip Washington Senators 12-11 after the Senators had won the opener 13-0.

There were 34 runs and 40 hits at Cleveland, where the "weak hitting" Baltimore Orioles swept a doubleheader 11-6 and 5-2 from the Indians.

Kansas City Athletics beat New York Yankees 12-6, with the Athletics getting 15 hits and the Yankees 11. Boston Red Sox collected 14 safeties in taking both ends of a 10-7 Red Sox win over the Tigers.

It averaged out to 15 runs, 20 hits and seven battered pitchers for each game.

In Saturday's games, the Yankees shut out the Athletics 8-0, the Indians edged the Orioles 6-5, the White Sox whipped the Senators 8-4 and the Red Sox beat the Tigers 6-5 in 12 innings.

BIG BATTING DAY

Roger Maris had a home run and three singles, scored three runs and drove in two as Kansas City oversame a 6-run deficit to cut the Yankees' league lead to 6½ games.

Dick Tomanek, the Athletics' new relief ace with two victories and one save to his credit, was obtained from Cleveland two weeks ago, was over Art Ditmar, third of six New York pitchers.

Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams hit three-run homers. Williams' blow capped a clinching four-run eighth inning for the Red Sox. They took over first place from the Tigers. Frank Sullivan won his fourth against two defeats and Bill Fischer lost for a 3-4 record.

Jim Lemon, driving in nine runs with a double, triple and two homers, led the Washington hit attack that produced only a split against Chicago's Early Wynn spite seven-run innings in each game.

GETS SECOND SHUTOUT

Pete Ramos of the Senators coasted to a five-hit shutout, his second, in the opener. Lemon drove in four runs and Rocky Bridges, Faye Throneberry and Norm Zauchin drove in runs.

Lemon, Throneberry and Roy Sievers also hit home runs in the second game. Chuck Stobbs was overbalanced them with a 31-hit performance. Homers on Jim Piersall's one-out double in the eleventh, Ray Moore, beaten starter in the opener, came in relief in the nightcap with three hitless relief innings.

Bob Boyd went 7-for-9, including 5-for-5 in the opener, in Baltimore's sweep at the Indians but their first games under new manager Joe Gordon. Mike Fornieles won his fifth in the opener with George Zuverink's relief and Arnie Portocarrero scattered five Cleveland hits in the second.

World Record Marks New Era In Car Racing

MONZA, Italy (AP) — A record 105 m.p.h. victory in the Monza 500-miler gave the racing world a target to shoot at today as it entered a new era of high speed.

Jim Rathman of Miami, Fla., took the Monaco race Sunday, becoming the first man to drive a 500-mile auto race in less than three hours.

But the race could prove even more significant.

For Monza marked the start of a new era of high speed competition between the best from the United States tracks and the best from the European-South American circuits.

In the past, the European-South American field generally kept to local and sports car races. The United States aces preferred the speed battles of Indianapolis.

But this year the first Monza 500-miler was held but most drivers from the European-South American circuits boycotted the race, saying it was dangerous and rigged in favor the Americans.

But this year they decided to try Monza. And they did well, with an Italian Ferrari taking third place ahead of 10 other American cars.

Mickey Wright Wins American Women's Open

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey Wright won the 13th annual women's open golf championship Saturday with a 72-hole total of 290 that broke the U.S. open record held by the late Babe Zaharias.

Miss Wright, a 23-year - old southpaw from Chula Vista, Calif., took the lead at the outset. Despite Saturday's rugged 36-hole windup, however, Miss Wright's lass fired a 70 in the morning round to finish at the finishers for a winning 290 total. That eclipses the 291 record total that Miss Zaharias set in 1954 while winning the 1954 U.S. women's open at Salem, Mass.

This is the biggest victory of Miss Wright's young career and gives her the 1958 "slam." Recently she won the ladies' PGA championship at Dallas.

Miss Wright's winning total is two stroked under par at Forest Lake's 37-36-73 layout.

At the halfway point, Miss Wright had only a one-stroke lead over Fay Crocker, 1955 Open winner from Montevideo, Uruguay. Miss Crocker could do no better than 76-74 for a 297 total that gave her third place, and went to Miss Louise Suggs with 74-71 for a 295 total.

The victory was worth $1,800 to Miss Wright, who turned professional in 1954.

Six Braves and Nine Yankees Placed on All-Star Squads

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees will nine of his own New York Yankees including three pitchers Saturday as he completed the 25-player American League squad for the July 8 all-star game.

As expected, Boston's Ted Williams—omitted from the starting AL lineup picked in Friday's poll of players, coaches and managers—was picked by Stengel for his complete squad which has three pitchers.

The eight players, exclusive of pitchers, who received the highest vote at their respective positions in the players' poll will start and play a minimum of three innings. Remainder of the squad was named Saturday by Stengel.

Stengel's complete unit also includes five players from Chicago White Sox; three from Boston Red Sox; two each from Cleveland Indians, Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers; and one each from Kansas City and Washington.

The Yankees, who had first baseman Bill Skowron and centre fielder Mickey Mantle named as starters, also will be represented against the National Leaguers by pitchers Whitey Ford, Bob Turley and Art Ditmar, second Baseman Jerry Coleman, catcher Yogi Berra, outfielder Elston Howard, shortstop Tony Kubek—and second baseman Gil McDougald.

THREE SOUTHPAWS

Stengel will have three top lefties to shoot against the Nationals, including Ford, Billy Pierce of the White Sox and Early Wynn of the Orioles. His right - handed mound guns will be Turley, Early Wynn of the White Sox, Dures and Ray Narleski.

Baltimore's Gus Triandos, voted the starting catcher, will be backed up by Berra and Chicago's Sherm Lollar.

The player-balloted starting infield of Boston's Pete Runnels at first, Chicago's Nellie Fox at second, Kubek at shortstop and Minnesota's Rocky Bridges at short and McDougald, technically a second baseman, but handy anywhere.

Senior Baseball

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Beavers are known as a light-hitting team in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

To the Beavers it simply means they use singles where others use home runs. Saturday, for instance, Hamilton made 19 singles and scored five behind nine runs and score a 15-11 victory over Brantford Red Sox. Beavers had only one extra-base hit, Bud Felik's seventh-inning triple.

In other games, Listowel Legionaires whipped Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 12-4 and the Terriers and London Majors battled to a 7-7 11-inning tie.

Windsor Ace Nick Weslock New Amateur Golf Champion

DUNDAS, Ont. (CP) — Take Bernie Hunt, Weslock, Ont. farm amateur golf champion, the secret of good golf is often just a change in putting stance.

Mr. Hunt, who won Essex county crown in 1955, proved his point Saturday when the Dundas-Valley Club member played three strokes under bogey figures to beat Eric Hannon of Toronto Scarboro 5 and 4 and capture the title for the third time.

Weslock changed his putting style mid-way through his semi-final round with young Gary Green of Kitchener Monday, even.

"I couldn't relax with the other style," he said referring to the way he was putting in his first two ahead of the right spread about a foot apart. His putter was placed ahead of the left foot in firing position.

The new style called for having both feet parallel. The putter was held above and midway between the feet.

"I just automatically gained confidence when I played better than after his 3 and 1 victory over Green.

Hannon reached the finals with a win over Emerson Cr.ed of Hamilton first in a match that went an extra hole.

HAD TROUBLE

The Scarboro golfer was plagued with trouble all the way through the final, playing his best shots down the fairways and once. His putting became erratic — two three-put greens—at Weslock piled on the agony.

They halved the first hole after Hannon almost dropped a 30-foot putt for the win. The ball rolled to the rim of the cup and stopped.

Weslock won the second and Hannon hooked his second shot into trees at the third but made a neat recovery he two-putt. Weslock lost his par on the fourth with pars but Hannon the hole and probably the match at that point. He said afterwards he realized the hope-chance was gone when he hooked his drive.

Hannon outdrove Weslock by 40 yards and dropped his second 25 feet from the pin. Weslock was 75 yards short of the green with his second shot but wedged to within feet of the pin. Hannon missed his second shot landed on the edge of the green on the par four hole. Weslock's second landed four feet from the pin and his chip shot just cleared over the green and rolled back.

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England, (AP)—First rate golfers from four countries lead a field of more than 200 in the first of two qualifying rounds for the 1956 British open championship tournament.

An aggregate score of 130 on the Fairhaven and Lytham and St. Anne's courses is usually good enough for qualification. Only the best golf around each course once.

Only 100 will qualify to tee off in the tournament proper at Lytham and St. Anne's on Wednesday.

WILL CUT FIELD

Survivors of qualifying rounds play 18 holes at Lytham and St. Anne's courses Thursday and 18 Thursday. After these rounds, the field will be cut to 80 to play through the final 36 holes Friday at Lytham.

Fairhaven has 6,635 yards for par 71. Fairhaven, almost adjoining Royal Lytham course, is a 6,513-yard, par 72 course.

The Open looks booked for Sunday.

Gary Player, Harold Henning and Sid Brews, South Africans, his one old-timer—make a powerful national trio. Any one of them could win, but another Scot, the 22-year-old Player—a golfer who thinks deeply—is the guy they all chose. Not today. More and more people are finding the gate closed off.

Player is riding a high tide of prestige after finishing second in the U.S. Open and Canadian Open. American tournaments in 12 tries for golfer among the near record field of 360 in the British Isles right can match that performance on recent form.

Palmer Takes Third Tourney; Leonard Seventh

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. (AP)—It's getting to be old stuff for Arnold Palmer, this collecting money and tournament titles.

The $50,000 Long Island Open which he won Sunday was his third victory of the year, and the 11th since he turned pro in 1955. He finished with a 72-hole scoring at the $9,000 he picked up, it still was the biggest check he has collected.

That was for $11,200, earned at Canterbury, Ohio, last May by the young man from Latrobe, Pa., who finished fourth in the money the pro circuit with $37,564.

Three players who didn't win the Long Island Open more than ordinarily happy. They are Don Fairfield of Cary, Ill., Jay Hebert, of Sanford, Fla., and Al Mengert, of Westfield, N.J.

Fairfield, who had the third place finish, Hebert $4,600 for finishing fourth and Mengert $1,675 for tying for seventh.

They were the largest checks the three ever earned in a tournament.

AS HE PLEASED

Pictorial Palmer won practically as he pleased in the 72-hole event. He took the lead with a record-setting 66 the first day, increased it the next two days, and had it nice and easy on the Sunday to finish with 272, five strokes ahead of Hebert.

It was the biggest winning margin of the year on the pro tour and the only tournament except the national Open in which the first round leader has held his lead until the finish without even being tied at one point.

Hebert shot a 67 to finish with a 278 total. Fairfield's 70 Sunday and 279 total was good for third. Second Sheet of While Subdue Springs, W.Va., Ted Kroll of Trenton, N.J., and Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, tied at 280 for fourth.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver tied for seventh with a total of 281—three under par in an 11-player. His rounds were 73-73-67-68.

Al Balding of Toronto, closed with 73-71-75-76—287. This gave him a tie for 25th place and $500. Leonard received $1,675 as happy as he should have been. The Vancouver pro's money is a bit of a tart trouble. He has a total of $18,794.51, including Sunday's $1,675 for the year. On those earnings he has to pay both U.S. and Canadian taxes.

"I am just working for the government," he told a reporter during the tournament.

WINS TRAPS HANDICAP

VANCOUVER (CP) — A. C. (Bud) Whelan of Vancouver, shot three shot-offs, won the handicap crown Sunday at the Canadian trapshooting championships.

On Tuesday about 25 of the top Canadian shooters at the meet will try for four positions on Canada's trapshooting team which goes to Moscow for the world championships starting Au., 14.

It is regrettable that the history of the human race has always proven that hindsight is so much better than foresight. Were the reverse true, think how much grief and suffering could have been avoided, not to mention the needless expenditure of money.

Take, for instance, the situation in Africa, three-time winner Peter Thomson of Australia and Antonio Cerda of Argentina were slated to play through the first 18 holes of the 36 qualifying holes on the two courses in this English village on the Irish Sea.

An aggregate score of 130 on the Fairhaven and Lytham and St. Anne's courses is usually good enough for qualification. Only the best golf around each course once.

Only 100 will qualify to tee off in the tournament proper at Lytham and St. Anne's on Wednesday.

Brazil Defeats Sweden for Soccer Crown

STOCKHOM (AP) — The World Soccer Cup goes to Brazil and gold goes to the men who won it.

Every man on the Brazilian squad that defeated Sweden 5-2 in Sunday's World Cup final collected a bonus of $1,000.

And every man on the brilliant Brazilian team deserved every one (Swedish equivalent of a penny) of it. Display of soccer artistry that left 50,000 Swedish fans gasping in amazement.

Now the experts South America can expect some big offers from clubs in Italy and Spain.

Centre forward Vava, for instance, is reported wanted by Atletico of Madrid. He will get a signing on fee of about $30,000 plus a monthly salary of about $800. Like other Brazilians, he uses only one name.

Star inside forward Didi may go to Madrid or Barcelona for a signing on fee of $12,000.

In general, the Brazilians outplayed the Swedes in the final. But the Swedes played just as well as they did in every other match. It was simply a case of a great team defeating a good one.

The Brazilians got 1 Sweden in their magic in the first half for a 3-1 lead.

SHOTS ON GOAL

Brazil had 22 shots at goal during the match and the Swedes only seven.

The game started dramatically with Swedish inside forward Nils Liedholm scoring for Sweden in the fourth minute. It was a goal that sent the crowd wild with excitement.

But the joy of the home fans was short-lived. Within the next 55th minute, Zagallo for Brazil in the 67th minute, Agne Simonsson for Sweden in the 80th minute and Pele for Brazil in the 88th minute.

Records Set In Eastern Track Meet

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Splurges of records and a wide variety of talent from the Maritimes came out of the Eastern Canada track and field championships which closed out the two-day show Saturday.

The prized individual trophy for the outstanding competitor in the meet was awarded by special committee to 17-year-old Bruce Graham of Sydney, Nova Scotia, who competed for the Etobicoke club.

St. Lambert youngsters representing their community sports association captured the event's point-aggregate honors with 58½ points.

McKague broke the Canadian open and native record in the javelin throw at the low, step and jump. His winning distance of 45 feet, 6¼ inches, bettered the record of 43 feet, 8¼ inches.

Ergas Leppo, 18-year-old runner for the Toronto East York Club, broke the Canadian record for the junior-class half mile, winning in 1:54.5. He displaced the record of 1:56.9 and also the Canadian open record of 1:52.7.

Jim Finlay, St. Lambert boy, won the long jump, leaping down with a record-breaking 165 feet, seven inches. The old Canadian mark was 163 feet, one inch.

Royals, Leafs Good for Pair; Bisons Split

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One swing of the bat was all Johnny Bucha needed to go from zero to hero.

Bucha 33-year-old catcher for Miami Marlins of the International League, walked to the plate Sunday with Bobby Lee on first base, two outs and the memory of having booted home the winning run only a short time before in his first at doubleheader with Rochester had Wings.

There were two men out. Bucha singled home the tying and winning runs for a 4-3 Miami victory.

His nightmare started in the opener with the score tied 4-4 in the 10th inning and Gene Oliver on first base via a walk. Oliver stole second and when Bucha overthrew the bag Oliver continued to third.

Leafs pitcher Bob Gibson then walked the next two batters intentionally with the squeeze play on Red Wing Jim Bill Gowens missed the pitch. Oliver headed for the locker for the plate and was an easy out but he crashed into Bucha, making him drop the ball.

Montreal Royals swept a doubleheader from Columbus 5-3 and 4-3. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Richmond Virginians 7-5 and rapped Buffalo Bisons in the League 6-2. The Royals were leading the Eastern League by 1½ games when their game was called at the end of the eighth inning to allow Columbus to catch a train. The game will be finished during Richmond's next visit to Montreal.

Cobourg Hands Frankford Eighth Consecutive Defeat by 6-4 Score

Cobourg Merchants handed the Frankford Merchants their eighth consecutive setback in the Belleville and District softball league in Cobourg Saturday night by downing the cellar dwellers 6-4.

The victory tightened Cobourg's grip on second place as the clubs enter the last two weeks of the schedule.

Cobourg spotted Frankford a single run in the second frame and the visitors held that lead until the fifth. Three runs in the fifth put the homesters ahead to stay as they added one in the seventh and finished with a pair in the eighth. Frankford scored once in the sixth and twice in the ninth in a last ditch attempt to break their losing streak.

George Stong pitched four-hit ball over the first six frames to gain his initial victory of the year for Cobourg. He allowed two hits in each of Frankford's scoring frames, the second and sixth but was untouched otherwise. He whiffed three while walking a pair. Rolly Campbell finished up, getting the fanning four, walking one and hitting one.

Wayne Shaw was the losing pitcher, going seven and a third frames. He bowed all the runs and all eleven Cobourg hits, whiffing three and passing two more. Bob Hunter pitched to the last three batters, fanning one and walking another.

Base hits by Bill Rankin and Bob Hunter plus a Cobourg miscue gave Frankford the first run of the game. In the fifth an error and Jack Bevan's single put two on base and Dick Turpin smashed a home run to make it 3-1 in Cobourg's favor.

A pair of walks and safeties by Duff D'Eon and Mike Cosgrove produced Frankford's second marker off Stong. Their final pair came with two out in the ninth on a hit batter, an error, a wild pitch, Kemp's single and another error.

Cobourg scored once in the second on successive singles by Campbell, Turpin and Boncardo. In the eighth they chased Shaw with one-baggers by McSporran and O'Brien, an error and Campbell's double, good for two runs.

Rolly Campbell had a perfect two-for-two night to pace the Cobourg batters, a double and single. Dick Turpin homered and singled while Jack Bevan and Burke Clarey each singled twice. Pete Boncardo, Leo O'Brien and Scotty McSporran had the other base knocks.

Dean Kemp, Bill Rankin, Duff D'Eon, Bob Hunter and Mike Cosgrove shared Frankford's five base hits.

HALF-WAY WAY

George Struzynski of Chatham, 26-year-old father of two children, was killed Saturday when his car was in collision with two trucks just west of Lambeth, near London.

Both truck drivers escaped injury. Police said Struzynski was alone in the car at the time. He had driven to London from Chatham to purchase a house.

William Richard Revell, 21, of Oshawa, was killed Sunday when a car in which he was riding sideswiped a bridge and left the way 66 at Kirkfield, 30 miles east of Orillia.

Police said he was a passenger in a car driven by Donald Macleod of Toronto, who was driving in a construction area, pulled over to pass an oncoming car and hit the bridge.

Mrs. Eric Gardner, 46, of Norwood, Ont., was killed Saturday night when a car driven by her husband, was hit by a car going in the opposite direction on Highway 115 near Newcastle, 11 miles east of Oshawa.

Police said a car driven by Orville R. Danman of Sarnia attempted to pull up when a car in front stopped, but the brakes failed and it swung left into the path of the Gardner vehicle.

HITS TRAFFIC SIGN

Harry Bear, 15, of Ancaster was killed near Elora, 12 miles north of Guelph, when his car hit a checkerboard traffic sign and a tree Saturday night.

Police said Bear was driving east on county Road 51, entering Elora, when he lost control across the highway into the sign which was posted in front of a tree. He was alone in the car.

Allan Haney, 15, of Parkhill, was drowned Sunday at mouth of Ausable River at Grand Bend.

David Assis, 48, was drowned in Lake of the Woods Saturday. He was a Grassy Narrows Indian.

Nine-year-old Barry Hartley of Charing Cross was drowned in Rondeau Bay in Lake Erie Sunday when he jumped off a boat and was swept away by the current.

Other swimmers recovered his body and the Erieau fire department applied artificial respiration for an hour to no avail.

The boy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hartley of Charing Cross, 10 miles south of Chatham.

Ricky Derbyshire, 8, of Tilbury was drowned Saturday in Lake St. Clair at the mouth of the Thames River 25 miles east of Windsor.

Son of M. A. Derbyshire, principal of Tilbury Public School, he was wading into the lake with Dana Van Aman, 8, of Tilbury and Bobby Markham, 7, of Comber, when they entered deep water.

The two girls managed to swim to shore.

Clutched by a strong Lake Huron undertow, Allan Haney, 15, of Parkhill was drowned Sunday on the mouth of the Ausable River at Grand Bend, Ont. The youth, a student of North Middlesex High School, was the son of Mrs. Margaret Haney.

(The body of Charlie Coil, 62, of Detroit, was found Sunday on the south side of the Detroit River 15 miles south of Windsor.

He is believed to have fallen off the Bob-Lo Island ferry Friday night. Three passengers reported hearing a splash.

AN AIR VIEW OF ST. LAWRENCE POWER PROJECT

This is an air view of the St. Lawrence River and adjacent seaway canal, looking west, between Cornwall, Ont., and Massena, N.Y. On July 1 a 600-foot coffer dam (1) will be blown up with 30 tons of dynamite. This will create a power pool or lake 25 miles long by four miles wide above the St. Lawrence power dam (2) and the Long Sault spillway dam (3). On July 2, the Eisenhower lock (4) and Snell lock (5) at either end of the Wiley-Dondero canal (6) will be dedicated. This canal is due to start handling St. Lawrence traffic a few days after creation of the power pool, replacing marine traffic previously routed through the Cornwall canal (7). Large dikes have been built on the north side of Barnhart island (8) and along the Canadian shore (9) to protect those areas from the power pool. Cornwall is at lower right (10). The power dam is due to generate its first commercial power in September. (CP Photo from AP).

Blast Will Breach 600-Foot Dike, Start Formation of Large Lake

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Thirty tons of explosive will be exploded Tuesday in the St. Lawrence River near here to create a lake that will be a vital link in the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Canadian and U.S. dignitaries will watch the explosion to breach a 600-foot-long dike and start formation of the new lake which overflow will generate the second largest volume of hydro-electric power in the United States.

The new lake, 25 miles long and one to five miles wide, will convert the turbulent waters of the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence into a placid pool.

The $650,000,000 development, constructed jointly by the Power Authority of New York State and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, is scheduled to provide its first dependable commercial power in September. It will be completed in the fall of 1959.

The dirt and rock dike to be blasted extends from Barnhart Island to Sheek Island. It was built to divert the St. Lawrence from the site of the new Barnhart Island power dam during construction. First step in the blasting will be the detonation of 1,000 pounds of dynamite in a 100-foot-deep hole in the dike.

A new state park will be created on Barnhart Island with a public beach, recreational facilities, bath houses, picnic areas and other attractions.

The new lake, to be called Lake St. Lawrence, will be formed by the flooding waters above the two dams which stand astwart the St. Lawrence River at Massena.

The 3,300-foot-long St. Lawrence power dam, which will house 32 turbine generator units capable of producing an installed capacity of 1,880,000 kilowatts, spans the north channel between Canada and Barnhart Island in the United States.

Farther upstream, the Long sault dam, a curved structure 2,960 feet long, controls the south channel between Barnhart Island and the U.S. mainland.

RISE RIVER LEVEL

The new lake will raise the level of the waters in the old International Rapids section of the river, contain them within farflung dikes, and assure a constant, even flow into the turbines of the power plant. Engineers estimated it will take three days for the waters to reach the decreased level.

The rising waters of the pool also will provide a navigation channel of the new St. Lawrence Seaway. This means ships of 14 foot draft will shift from the old Canadian canal to the new waterway. Dredging and other construction will allow the seaway to accommodate ships of 27 foot draft next spring.

Leader Stresses Political Action for Spiritual Ends

By PETER STEPNOWICH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer has emerged from his party's first policy conference in 25 years promising political action for spiritual ends.

Non-material needs were stressed by the 41-year-old Kitchener lawyer in a speech to 150 Liberals at his Muskoka resort. It climaxed a three-day search for ideas to carry Liberals to power in Ontario after 15 years in opposition.

Mr. Wintermeyer pledged his party as a watchdog for the individual in an age of fear and bigness.

He said: "I am here tonight to tell you the Liberal party has one chief aim and that is to work for you, the people of the province, to secure the rights for a truly human life. Man has tried to find the answers to his problems outside himself, but the answer lies within him."

The speech, Mr. Wintermeyer's first major policy address since his election as leader in April, also sketched a loose party platform which included a new system of Dominion-provincial tax sharing.

The provinces could get more money by selling the rights of income and corporation taxes collected within their own borders by the federal government.

NO VOTE ON GAS

No vote was taken on a resolution submitted to the conference call for public ownership of natural gas utilities. It was forwarded to the party's policy committee.

Outspoken criticism of Ontario's education policies came from John Dunlop of Sault Ste. Marie, a high school principal as t past-president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Association.

He described the province's policy for the teaching profession as "ma l i c e in blunderland" claiming that 700 of 1,242 teachers hired last year had only 10 weeks training.

"Education Minister Dunlop says there is no teaching shortage, theoretically he's right, you can't permit a class to enrol in September unless you have a body standing in front of it. You just hope that the body is warm."

William Henderson of Kingston, president of the Ontario Liberal Federation, said a meeting will be called at Toronto in August to boil down the conference's discussions and resolutions for presentation to the five-man committee.

Mr. Wintermeyer said "government has been used to provide the physical security for individuals. With these objectives I do not quarrel. But I would like to point out that there are other needs, non-material needs.

"We must remember that man is not only a physical being. He is likewise a spiritual person. Every man has the inherent right to pursue his ultimate and primary need and government has no right to interfere.

"What I am talking about is the intellectual, and in that respect, spiritual aspect of the individual.

"We must re-examine the needs of the people, not only in terms of their physical needs, but their opportunity to develop themselves and to help themselves as human persons."

Mr. Wintermeyer said his labor policy would be neither pro-labor nor pro-management. Orderly bargaining was needed and strikes should be legal only if part of procedures laid down by legislation.

On agriculture, he said compulsory farm marketing plans must be upheld "if the farmers agree they cannot be carried out without compulsory features."

Commission government: "The decisions of these boards should not be final and binding. The individual should have the right to appeal."

Municipal affairs: "The municipal board should be curtailed in most of its activities. The responsibility to determine what is the best procedure to be taken by a municipality should be returned to elected officials."

Education: Teachers had to be better trained and university education guaranteed to all who were qualified and eager. "What is required is a real appreciation of scholarship."

Liquor: "Our liquor laws in many respects are illogical, inconsistent and devoid of all appreciation of human dignity. Let's do it in an honest and dignified way and avoid the hypocrisy that exists now."

Planning: "We need an imaginative highway program and a water resources program to decentralize some areas and industrialize other areas.

The resolution of public ownership of natural gas utilities was presented by John Fleming of Chatham, who declared "This issue could help win an election for the Liberal party in Ontario."

But only 28 Liberals were on hand when the resolution came up for consideration and no vote was taken.

What precisely is meant by that familiar phrase, "freedom of the press"?

Fundamentally it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a much larger freedom—the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy. But freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because under modern conditions the press is the principal agency by which the ordinary man receives the information he needs to judge the actions of his rulers and make up his mind on public affairs. Without newspapers, or with only gagged and blindfolded ones, he is in the dark, and helpless. An unfettered press is therefore one of the essential bulwarks of a democratic nation.

If any proof be needed, it is supplied by the record of the totalitarian dictatorships which have darkened the twentieth century. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially of newspapers, was the cornerstone on which all these regimes—Nazi, Fascist and Communist alike—were founded. Without it, they could hardly have lasted for more than a few months. With it, they could keep their peoples in blinkers and drive them on any course they chose. The calamities of our age, its fear and insecurity, stem in no small measure from the simple fact that, at critical periods, great sections of the earth's population have been prevented by their rulers from learning the real views of the world.

These examples should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard not only against direct encroachment, but also against more insidious encroachments. Nominal freedom is not enough. The only truly free press is one which can record the news faithfully and comment on it frankly, without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe with anything less than this.

As liberty, of course, involves obligations. That of a free newspaper is to be truly free it must strive to be thorough, accurate and unbiased in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials, and resistant to all outside pressures. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must, above all, be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understand it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the free peoples of the world have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.
